CANADIAN CHEESE.

THE GOVERNMENT ANALYSES DEMONSTRATE ITS PURITY.

Full Information Looked for To-Day with Regard to the Indian Troubles in British Columbia—Departmental and Personal Intelligence from the Capital.

OTTAWA, July 20.—Chief Analyst Mc-Farlane, Inland Revenue, has all but concluded the analysis of samples of Canadian cheese, and it is understood that the results will fully demonstrate the purity of the article. The analysis was originally instigated at the request of the Imperial Government who instructed their representatives to obtain evidence as to the adulteration of cheese in the United States by the abstraction of the butter and substitution of lard, the result being known as "filled cheese." It was then suggested that possibly the Canadian cheese might be adulterated and in consequence of communications between the two Governments the analysis was commenced. The satisfactory results of the analysis will be forwarded to the home Government.

The Militia Department will probably receive fuller information by to-morrow's mail with regard to the Indian trouble in British Columbia. C Battery was taken to Point Essington at the mouth of the Skeena by H.M.S. Caroline and will ascend the river in canoes to Hazelton where the Indians are assembled. There is no truth whatever in the statement telegraphed from Winnipeg that C School of Infantry had been ordered to British Columbia, and Col. Panet, Deputy Minister of Militia, and Col. Powell, Adjutant-General, disclaim any knowledge of General Middleton's having been summoned home on account of the troubles, as wired from Quebec to-day. Sir Adolphe Caron is out of town.

The Act passed by the Quebec Legislature amending the charter of the Quebec Central Railway Company has been confirmed by the Governor-General in Council and declared in force.

The Department of Justice has not received any reply from the Quebec Government to the enquiry whether they wish the extradition of Collart and Halligan held at St. Albans for robbery. Unless the Provincial Government makes a speedy answer the two months during which the application or extradition may be made will have lapsed.

The Rose Publishing Company have received an interim copyright for Rider Haggard's new book "Miawa's Revenge."

Proceedings will be taken in the Patent Office next September to annul the patents for Edison's system of electric-lighting in Canada for non-compliance with the requirements of the Patent Act.

Grand Trunk Earnings.

MONTREAL, July 20.—For the week ending July 14 the traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway were:

	1888	1887
Passenger train earnings	$151,497	$148,236
Freight train earnings	214,597	245,675
Total	$366,094	$393,911
Decrease 1888	$27,817

An Echo of the Gananoque Camp.

KINGSTON, July 20.—B. Bird has entered an action to recover $500 from Col. Straubenzie for the destruction of his goods during the Gananoque camp. The Colonel dumped liquor, ginger ale, tobacco and cigars belonging to Bird on the sward, and the latter claims that as the act was committed outside of the camp lines the Colonel is liable.

SOME AWKWARD FACTS.

BROUGHT OUT BY THE MANDEVILLE INQUEST.

Mr. Parnell's Uncertain Attitude with Reference to the Commission—The Chief Opponents of the Measure—The Pope's Letter to the Irish Bishops.

LONDON, July 20.—The Parnell Commission Bill is an open door through which anybody and anything may walk. Perhaps no commission ever sat with such large powers. Lawyers are already suggesting that the judges who are to compose the commission may themselves object to the scope of the inquiry. Roughly speaking, whatever the Attorney-General alleged in his speech in O'Donnell against Walter may be inquired into, whether it affects Mr. Parnell or any other member of Parliament or any outsider. Everything in The Times' pamphlet, "Parnellism and Crime," may be inquired into, because that pamphlet was read by the Attorney-General. Anything referred to in the course of the proceedings in that trial may be inquired into. Witnesses are compellable to attend and are to be examined and cross-examined by as many counsel as the judges choose. All documents must be produced. Everybody implicated may have counsel; if Mr. Egan comes over he may have counsel. Everybody who makes a clean breast of it goes scot free. He may be forced to criminate himself, but cannot be prosecuted if he does, nor made defendant in a civil suit on account of his evidence. This certainly goes far beyond Mr. Parnell's expectation, but at present his attitude is one of uncertainty.

Sir Joseph McKenna's notice of a motion to reject the bill was made without Mr. Parnell's knowledge. It is already arranged that Sir Charles Russell shall represent the Irish leaders before the commission. Mr. George Lewis, who speaks of this as the biggest cause in which he was ever engaged, is hard at work preparing for the hearing. If the commission really avails itself of all its opportunities it looks as if it would last a year. Mr. Gladstone's acquiescence in the Parnell Commission Bill is not approved by all his colleagues. It is remarkable that the two chief opponents of it should be Mr. John Morley and Sir William Harcourt, Mr. Morley represents all that there is most austere and theoretic in Liberalism, Sir William all that is most practical in politics. From both points of view, therefore, this bill might be resisted were it not that Mr. Gladstone has declared in favor of its principle, and Mr. Gladstone is, after all, the best Parliamentary tactician in his party.

Mr. Gladstone's speech at Sir Wilfred Lawson's dinner table is not one of the first importance, but it contains two or three interesting points. The chief of these is his declaration about retaining the Irish members at Westminster as part of the new Home Rule scheme. Surprise had been expressed at Mr. Parnell's recent avowal of his concurrence in this proposal. I had known he was for it, said his great ally, for two years past. What Mr. Gladstone now says on this extremely difficult question is not itself free from difficulty, but on the whole he may be deemed to bind himself not to oppose retention of the Irish members if the country is for it. He will bind himself to no specific proposal, nor will he consent that Parliament should so tie its own hands as not to be able to exclude the Irish hereafter. With these reservations he accepts the principle with open arms.

The Mandeville inquest brings out some awkward facts. Whether his treatment by the prison authorities caused or hastened his death may be an open question, but he was treated, it is clear, with hardness, though not with more hardness than other refractory prisoners. Mr. Gladstone refers to it as one of the most shocking, one of the most revolting cases that has occurred, and he repeats that the discipline to which members of Parliament have been subjected in prison cannot be called less than brutal.

The Pope's letter to the Irish Bishops seems to have made less impression here than, according to some despatches, in America. No doubt the Pope's language is of the most explicit kind and does expressly enjoin upon his flock to have no part in boycotting or the Plan of Campaign. He does, too, rebuke those that alleged that the Rescript had been based on imperfect information, and meets one by one the arguments by which Nationalist orators had endeavored to break the force of the Rescript itself. It is, said one of them, bitterly enough, the Bishop of Limerick speaking from the Papal Chair. But it is not clear that the actual situation is much modified by the ex-cathedra deliverance. G. W. S.

Suicide of Jail Physician Ridley.

DUBLIN, July 20.—Dr. James Ridley, the medical officer in attendance at Tullamore Jail during Mr. Mandeville's incarceration there, and who was subpœnaed to appear at the inquest at Mitchelstown after Mr. Mandeville's death, has committed suicide. Dr. Ridley had been present at the inquest daily, waiting to be called to the witness stand. The evidence given to show that Mr. Mandeville was subjected to ill-usage while in the jail seemed to prey upon his mind. His suicide confirms the popular belief that Mr. Mandeville was cruelly treated by the Prison officials.

Father Gelligan, who was imprisoned at Limerick for an offence under the Crimes Act, was released to-day. He was greeted by a crowd and made a speech.

More Questions.

LONDON, July 20.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Hon. W. H. James (Lib.) asked whether any correspondence had passed between the Government and the proprietor of The Times respecting the Commission Bill, and if so whether such correspondence would be placed on the table. Mr. Smith replied: "There are no documents of the kind." [Cheers from the Ministerial benches.]

Mr. Sexton then asked whether printed or oral communications had passed between the Government or any one acting in their behalf, and The Times.

Mr. Smith declined to answer.

Lord Randolph Churchill moved the suspension of Mr. Conybeare on account of a letter being written by the latter, which appeared in The Star, denouncing the Speaker for supporting the Tory motion for closure of the debate on the second reading of the Drainage Bill. The motion was adopted, 245 to 214. An amendment was afterwards adopted suspending Mr. Conybeare for one month. Mr. Labouchere's motion in favor of suspension for a fortnight was rejected, 299 to 152.

A Plumbago Mine in York State.

TROY, N. Y., July 20.—Wm. Lyon, of Wellsboro', Essex County, has discovered a plumbago mine about a mile and a half from the village. The deposit is nearly pure.

Unprecedented Crop Prospects in the N.W.

MONTREAL, July 20.—Senator Ogilvie, who has just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast, says: "The crops from the boundaries of Manitoba to the west, where they have usually been short, are simply splendid, and better I never saw. I saw wheat in the ear standing four feet high, and as thick as it could stand for hundreds of acres. The farmers have usually complained of drought, but this year there has been plenty of rain, if not too much, but the appearance of the crops is totally beyond anything I ever dreamed of, and I was always a hopeful man of Manitoba."

Gen. Boulanger's wound has healed and he is rapidly convalescing.

THE CZAR'S GUEST.

Imperial Osculations—A Grand Banquet on the Program for To-morrow.

CRONSTADT, July 20.—The arrival of the young German Emperor in Russian waters was blessed with magnificent weather. Punctually the Czar boarded the small English built yacht Alexandria, which steamed out toward Cronstadt, with its strong forts and water batteries, while beyond them were the masts of long lines of Russian ships, stretching away towards the horizon.

The Czar wore a Prussian General's uniform with a high crown German cap and the orange riband of the Black Eagle.

About half-past three clouds of black smoke appeared and a heavy fire of saluting guns broke from the line of Russian battle ships and forts with a deafening uproar plainly audible at Peterhof. Then all knew that the German squadron was in sight and being saluted. The German vessels came forward in line with the Hohenzollern leading.

The German Emperor, dressed in a Russian infantry uniform, with black sheepskin cap, and his brother, Prince Henry, in naval dress, stood on the bridge. As soon as the German vessels were near enough to take up their allotted positions opposite the Russian squadron they poured forth broadsides in answer to the Russian salute, while the yards of the Russian men-of-war were manned with the crews waving their caps and shouting the short, sharp Russian hurrah.

The czar met His German Majesty at the gangway and the sovereigns embraced and kissed each other several times. Then the Alexandria returned to Peterhof, flying both the Russian and the German imperial standards. The yacht soon reached the quay, where the Czarina was awaiting in a pavilion erected close to the waterside. After cordial greetings had been exchanged Emperor William approached the guard of honor and walked down the ranks inspecting the men, while the military band played the Prussian national hymn. The imperial party then drove to the great palace, the route to which was lined on both sides by troops.

To-morrow Kaiser Wilhelm will witness a grand review and pay a second visit to Petropolis. On Sunday afternoon a grand banquet will be given in the ballroom at Peterhof. Later on the Kaiser will re-embark at Cronstadt, pass the night in the harbor and on Monday steam away for Stockholm,

DEATH OF E. P. ROE.

America's Most Popular Novelist—Sketch of His Career.

NEWBURG, N.Y., July 20.—Rev. E. P. Roe, the author, died here this morning.

E. P. Roe was born at New Windsor, N.Y., in 1838; studied at Williams College and Auburn Theological Seminary; Chaplain of the Harris Light Cavalry during the Rebellion; pastor of the Highland Falls, N.Y., Presbyterian Church. His first story was "Barriers Burned Away." He has been a voluminous writer, one or two of his works appearing every year. The aggregate circulation of his books has reached over 1,000,000.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 214, and for Canada 14, a total of 228 as compared with a total of 240 last week, and 214 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week last year the figures showed but 172 failures, the United States contributing 147 and Canada 25.

Business Circles Hopeful.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's emphasize the favorable crop reports of the past fortnight and indicate a more hopeful feeling in business circles at the larger cities, owing to the improved outlook.

Unwarranted by the Constitution.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Chandler (Rep. Me) offered this resolution, which was laid over:

Resolved, that the power to make treaties and to appoint all high officers of the United State being vested in the President and the Senate jointly, the President has no right, under his implied power of making preliminary negotiations of treaties, to appoint without the concurrence of the Senate private citizens as plenipotentiaries, to make and sign such treaties on behalf of the United States, and that the recent appointment by the President without the consent of the Senate of James B. Angell and Wm. L. Putnam as special plenipotentiaries to make and sign the proposed Fishery Treaty with Great Britain, dated Feb. 15, 1888, was unwarranted by the constitution.

A Rich Gold Find.

ISHPEMING, Mich., July 20.—The richest discovery of gold ever made outside the Comstock lode was made at the Lake Superior Iron Company's shaft, seven miles from here this morning. Three hundred pounds of quartz carrying free gold at the rate of over $60,000 to the ton was uncovered by one blast and brought into the city where it is creating the wildest excitement.

Killed by a Falling Wall.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Disastrous results followed an attempt this morning to pull down an old building owned by the Germania Singing Society. While the work of demolition was going on one of the back walls facing North Clark-street and Grant-place collapsed. A number of persons were caught by the falling mass. The contractor, Chas. Wickler, was killed outright, and a laborer suffered a similar fate. The other victims were taken out alive; some were severely injured.

Banker Taylor "Wants Out."

LONDON, July 20.—The release of Henry Taylor, who has been languishing in the debtor's cell of the county jail since last August, has been applied for under the Judgment Debtor's Act, and the hearing is set for to-morrow.

THE COMMERCIAL TAX.

Montreal Corporations Revolt—The Batouche Colonization Scheme.

MONTREAL, July 20.—The revolt of Montreal against the commercial tax has begun. The important feature is that the commercial corporations which have hitherto kept away from politics are taking a hand in this movement.

It has leaked out that the Sulpicians sent over $500,000 to their order in Paris last year.

Church circles are deeply interested in the Batouche colonization scheme; The idea seems to be to plant a French colony in the Northwest as a nucleus for the predominance of the Roman Catholic Church and the French-Canadian race in the territories. A large draft for the purpose is said to have been made the other day on the funds of the Sulpicians.

The report that Jay Gould has bought the Mackay cable is officially denied. A shilling rate has, however, been agreed upon and will go into effect Aug. 1.

Fatal Forgetfulness.

LAREDO, Texas, July 20.—A well authenticated report reached Laredo last night of the disastrous wreck of a construction train on the Mexican National Railway in which fifteen men were killed. A relief train was sent out from Saltillio. The accident was caused by one engineer forgetting his orders to look out for the other train.

SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1888.

INSTITUTE AND SCHOOL.

FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR REPAIRS TO FIRST.

A Site Selected for the Fourth Ward School at a Special Meeting of the Board of Education—Miscellaneous Business.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held at the Board room, on Friday evening.

Chairman Stevenson presided and the others present were Messrs. Dumble, Hill, McWilliams, Weir, English, Wrighton, Kendry, Stratton, T. Rutherford and O'Meara.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Miss Katie M. Lewis offering her services as teacher for any vacancy that may occur in the schools.—Committee on Appointments.

From Jas. A. Fife asking for the position of mathematical master in the Institute, in place of Mr. Bean, resigned.—Committee on Appointments.

From Geo.C.Robb, Boiler Inspector; stating that the steam boiler used in the school needs washing soda to clear out the tubes and regulating of the gauges.—Received and referred to Property Committee.

The CHAIRMAN said the meeting was called for the purpose of considering the question of alterations to the Institute. Unless something is done at once the Government will withdraw the grant.

A NEW TEACHER.

Mr. DUMBLE asked for instructions to advertise for a new teacher to fill the place of Mr Bean. Mr. Ellis, of Cobourg, would be an applicant and he advised that he be secured, as he was well known to the Board and had been discussed on a previous occasion. He is a proficient teacher and one who is admitted to be one of the finest teachers in the country. He knew Mr. Ellis personally and had always heard him spoken of in the highest terms.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS thought the question of a new building or fixing up the old one be settled, before any man be brought here for perhaps only a few months.

Mr. HILL said that Mr. Fife was a good teacher and was only in receipt of a small salary, which should be increased, and he favored the idea of entertaining his application for Mr. Bean's position.

Mr. WRIGHTON thought that Mr. Fife was not well enough known yet and no application for an increase of salary should be entertained until the teacher has been in his position for a year, at least.

Moved by Mr. KENDRY, seconded by Mr. WRIGHTON,—That the Chairman of the Committee on Appointments write to and offer a position on the staff of the Institute to Mr. Ellis, of Cobourg.—Carried.

NORTH WARD SCHOOL.

Mr. KENDRY made a verbal report recommending that the lot near the Barnardo Home be purchased from Mr. Geo. A. Cox. The street was fifty feet wide, instead of forty-five feet as understood by the Board, at the last meeting. The whole block could be secured for $3,000 or one half for $1,600. He thought the first figure was the lowest.

The CHAIRMAN suggested sites near the hospital, the gully north of Antrim-st. and the Burnham lot north of London-st.

Fault was found with all these and nothing was done.

Mr. WRIGHTON pointed out that the intention, as endorsed by the board, was to buy the lot this year and put up the building next year.

Mr. STRATTON said that in the South Ward the half-day system is in force and at an early day a wing will have to be added to accommodate all who desire to attend school.

The CHAIRMAN said that the town Council was not willing to expend so much money just at present.

Mr. WEIR favored purchasing the whole of the Cox block offered, as in a few years an acre and three-quarters was not at all too large for good play grounds. In case they purchased the whole lot and they needed only half of it, they could sell in a few years and make money.

The CHAIRMAN said the Board could not do everything at once. A new Institute at a cost of $25,000 or $30,000 was asked for and the townspeople in their present frame of mind would not vote for spending so much money.

Mr. KENDRY said that the North Ward school was a necessity, as many children could not attend school now, particularly during the winter.

Mr. STRATTON said that at the last meeting there was great haste and it was decided to purchase half of the lot, and now it was asked that the whole lot be purchased. He thought the Board should agree at once in order to know what demand to make on the Town Council.

Mr. KENDRY simply recommended personally, that the whole lot be purchased.

The CHAIRMAN thought that half of the lot would be sufficient.

Mr. STRATTON would vote for whatever scheme was in the best interests of the schools and town.

Mr. T. RUTHERFORD wanted the matters of the Fourth Ward school and the new Institute separated, as if they came up jointly, the north Ward school project would be killed altogether.

Mr. DUMBLE was disgusted with the whole matter and deprecated the judgment of the North Ward committee who had passed over an $1800 lot, fully as good, if not better, than the $3,000 lot now recommended. He did not want a fancy lot, but wanted the money put into a good building. The school is necessary, he agreed. With regard to the Institute, it is now and has always been common school property and a rental is paid for it every year. It is not at all suitable for Institute purposes and if any changes are made the money must come out of the Protestants alone, but money for institute purposes must be raised from Protestants and Roman Catholics alike. The present building is well built, handsome, commodious and on a beautiful site, and if properly ventilated and lighted, and a few internal changes made, at a cost of probably $3,000, it can be made as convenient and suitable for its purposes as any institute in the Province. He had spoken to an architect who went through the building, was of the opinion that with the Sweed system of ventilation and some changes it would suit the requirements. With this done and the smaller pupils removed to a new ward school, erected at a cost of some $8,000, the entire outlay would not be more than $13,000, instead of $30,000 as proposed. In the country pupils walked miles and thought nothing of it. In town the older pupils should not be considered, but for the smaller pupils he favored schools close to them. He would like to see the Central School farther west. He felt sorry that the Board did not purchase the Ulyot Storehouse property, on McDonnel-st., which he regarded as one of the finest sites for a school in town. In the first place the money would have to come out of the Protestants, who would only charge a higher rent to get even. $4,000 he regarded as sufficient to make the necessary improvements to the Institute, and by putting in one Smead boiler, there would be good ventilation and heating. He reviewed the various schemes proposed and pointed out that his plan was the cheapest.

Mr. KENDRY had spoken to many ratepayers of the north ward who all favored the lot proposed to be purchased in preference to the one spoken of by Mr. Dumble.

The MAYOR suggested that the Dennistoun house at "Inverlea" be rented for school purposes for a year and the lot proposed purchased, so that the estimate of the amount required could be sent into the Council.

Mr. KENDRY said [illegible] would make a good ice house.

Mr. DUMBLE said the half lot was 120x250 feet or nearly three-quarters of an acre.

SETTLED AT LAST.

Moved by Mr. KENDRY, seconded by Mr. T. RUTHERFORD,—That the Board purchase from Mr. Cox, for $1,600, the lots west of Church-st. and north of Barnardo Avenue, lots 5, 6, 7 and 8, with the street as at present, together with that part of Britton-st., lying north of lot No. 5, and that Mr. Kendry be authorized to purchase the same.—Carried.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Moved by Mr. HILL, seconded by Mr. STRATTON,—That the salary of Mr. Fife be $800 per annum from the 1st of September.

This was left as a notice of motion, objection having been raised to its passage.

FIXING THE MATTER.

Moved by Mr. STRATTON, seconded by Mr. WRIGHTON,—That a demand be made on the Town Council for $4000, to add to and rearrange the present Institute, and that the secretary communicate with the Minister of Education to the effect that the Board will before the first September, 1888, have the Institute building so re-modelled as to comply with the regulations and ask that the standing of the Institute be not interferred with before that time, so as to give the Board an opportunity of providing the funds and have the work done, so as not to interfere with the teaching of the school.—Carried.

PLANS FOR THE INSTITUTE.

Moved by Mr. DUMBLE, seconded by Mr. KENDRY,—The the Institute building be modified so as to comply with the requirements of the Department, that estimates of the probable cost be obtained with plans and specifications, that the proprietor of the Swead system be invited to inspect the building and assist in such estimate, that a sum of not more than $100 be allowed for his expenses, and that the report be submitted to a special committee of this Board, consisting of Messrs. Wrighton, Stratton, the Chairman and the mover.—Carried.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Moved by Mr. KENDRY, seconded by Mr. HILL,—That Mr. Bean be paid for the holidays.—Carried.

IMPROVEMENTS.

It was decided to permit Mr. Wrighton to go on with any necessary repairs and improvements during the holidays.

The meeting then adjourned.

Beaten.

Mr. G. A. Strickland, of Lakefield, was beaten in the final heat of the junior single sculls, at the Sunbury. His conqueror was Shea, of Toronto, but the loser was a good second. The celebrated Toronto four-oared crew were also beaten. They had a long lead until the stroke slipped a bolt of his oar and from that out they were beaten.

A lovely thing in Perfumes—"Lotus of the Nile."

A Mystery.

A package of letters was received at the post office the other day tied up in a small package, which were all perforated by a small bullet. The package was forwarded from Peterborough a few days previously, and it was sent back to find out, if possible, how it occurred. Diligent enquiries have failed to account for it, but the fact remains that a bullet made the holes. The bullet, a small revolver one, was found in the mail bag.

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Asfi your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price.

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is; it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You wil find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. No trouble to show Goods. It will pay you to look through our Immense stock. We will give you a Pointer or two worth dollars to you. We have still a few pairs of those Cheap Pants left, everybody is talking about them.

For the Civic Holiday.

Shall we have a civic holiday this year? Certainly! Most decidedly! Why not? The day off will allow the business man to leave his books, the clerk his counter, yea, the plumber his plumbs, the carter his cart and best of all allow the ladies to wear for the day with grace and fitness, the splendid golden lion prints, now selling so rapidly at 10 cts. per yard, worth every inch 15 cts.

At Cannington.

It is probable that Royal Jim, Grey Ned, Sleepy Dan, and Brown's mare will start at the Cannington races. They should manage to get a good slice of the purses between them.

Masonic.

Admired by All.

The Lindsay papers each have a word of praise for Canton Peterborough, which visited Lindsay on decoration day. The Post says:—"The Canton from Peterborough arrived by the 2.30 train, and were met at the station by a deputation from the local lodge and the Citizens' band and escorted to the market square, where they were met by the Lindsay brethren. The rich uniform and correct military movements of the visiting Canton attracted much attention, and many were the complimentary references made in their behalf." The Warder says:—"Canton No. 10, Peterborough, in beautiful blue-black cloth suits, gold lace, cocked hats with long, flowing plumes, dress swords, and above all, well drilled, were admired by everyone." The Watchman says:—"The marching and drill of the Peterborough men was fine and much admired by the large crowd of onlookers."

Intelligence has been received from the managers of the Home for Incurables, Toronto, regarding the case of William Course, the man who is suffering terribly from a cancer in his mouth, to the effect that the man will be admitted, if the town will pay for his maintenance. Scott Act Cases.

Chief Roszel, at the Police Court this morning, charged Messrs. John Wilson, John Clancy, J. E. McIntyre, W. Clancy, W. J. Morrow, T. Cavanagh, J. H. Brault and Wm. All pleaded guilty and were assessed $50 and costs each, to be paid in ten days in all cases, or in default distress or two moths in gaol.

Civic Holiday.

The Mayor has received a letter from the Clerk of Lindsay, stating that the civic holiday in that town had been fixed for Thursday, August 16th, and asking that Peterborough's be fixed so as not to clash with it. We understand that the letter came rather too late, as a petition to the Council has been largely signed, asking that the same day be declared a civic holiday here. The Council will decide the matter here on Monday night.

Gas Works Extension.

The energetic manager of the gas works, Mr. W. Drury, has been hard at work during the last three weeks erecting some addition to the plant used in manufacturing. A fine set of new pattern condensers and scribbers, imported from the builder, Geo. Brown, of St. Neots, Hunts, England, has been set up and the necessary connections made. The condensers are massive and strong and will add very materially to the capacity of the works as well as ensure a splendid quality of gas. They replace the old system which has served its purpose, but is now too primitive to meet the demands of the service. Several new retorts have been built in so that the coming winter will find the system fully able to meet all requirements.

Turner's New Catalogue.

From the job department of the REVIEW Office has just been issued a handsome catalogue of 32 pages for J. J. Turner, the Tent, Sail, and Awning Manufacturer. Turner's business has increased until a catalogue became an absolute necessity as a means of answering the many enquiries received as to the goods manufactured. Turner decided that rather than sit up nights writing letters to customers that a deal of information could be compressed into a neat book. Turner was and is right. The catalogue is explicit as to size and cost of almost every kind of goods or articles to wear, sit on, or sleep on or under, in the very complete stock he keeps. The cover is handsome and glowing in four colors, engraved and printed by the office, while the back of the catalogue displays the flags of various nations as they appear when flying from pole or masthead. Get a copy and look up prices.

The Cruiser Popular.

The Cruiser took another large crowd of excursionists and campers up the lakes on Thursday last. The ladies speak in high terms of Capt. Grylls and his boat and are delighted with the awning over the deck, which is sure to be a success, as our townsman Mr. J. J. Turner manufactured it.

Social Ball.

A social ball under the auspices of the True Blues was held in their hall, Simcoe-st, on Friday evening. About thirty couples were present and a very pleasant evening was spent. The person who "called off" has mighty lung power and his stentorian tones could be heard for a long distance.

Lacrosse.

Twelve players of the Etna Lacrosse club, a junior organization, drove down to Millbrook on Friday and played the juveniles of that town a match. The game was interesting from commencement, but the Peterborough boys were given the short end of the stick, by a score of three games to one. The boys speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received at the city of hills and hollows.

The Exodus Northward.

Vessel owners on the back lake waters report a very much increased travel by the boats over previous seasons. Not only is the route made use of by those who go up for a trip, but large numbers of our people as well as many from a distance are summering on the islands and shores of the lakes. During the winter large numbers of lots have been purchased and new cottages are being put up rapidly, and where the opulent citizen can lay awake nights, flight off the mosquitoes and reflect that he must hurry down to town in the morning to arrange for that note of Brown's or draft of Robinson's. On Tuesday the Cruiser carried up a large party who came from Port Hope and who will camp above Burleigh, while a second party go to Peplow's Island. The "A Hall and Stewart" syndicate are at home on their island. The Breeze party are domesticated on the new lot, the cottages of Messrs. Roper, Foote, Sherwood, Edwards, Roger, Hackett, Lech, McClelland and many others are occupied by the owners and their families. Dr. and Mrs. Race, from away off in Massachusetts, have located at Boshink. On Monday Mr. A. Clegg and a party of friends go up for a week or two. Taken altogether the lakes are lively.

Religious Services.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

LACROSSE—NORWOOD VS. Y. M. C. A.

The Latter Are Defeated by 4 Goals to 2—A fine Exhibition of the Game.

The lacrosse match announced for yesterday evening between the Norwood club and the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. club took place on the P. A. A. A. grounds. The Norwood team arrived by the 6 p. m. C. P. R. train. They arrived on the grounds a little before 7 o'clock, where it was immediately apparent that they were much heavier men than the home team. The Y. M. C. A. team soon appeared and while they were pretty confident of defeat determined to play a hard game and make the visitors work for victory. About 150 spectators, including a number of the fair sex, occupied the grand stand, and the boys adorned the fences. At ten minutes after seven the teams lined up as follows:—

NORWOOD.		PETERBOROUGH.
S. Hendren	Goal	Ed. Manning
R. J. Stewart	Point	Dr. Brennan
F. C. Stephenson,	Cover Point.	Fred McIkeral
J. A. Harper	1st Defence	Jas. Connal
H. Hill	2nd "	S. Rubidge
J. Kerr	3rd "	Ed. Pearson
W. J. Stephenson	Centre	R. Davidson
J. Jory	3rd Home	W. H. Stevens
H. Pearse	2nd "	J. Begley
R. Patterson	1st "	F. Pakenham
F. Pearse	Outside "	R.H. Henderson
J. R. McKelvie	Inside "	Geo. Armstrong
J. C. McConkey	Field Captain	C.J. Phelan
J. Garry	Umpire	T. Fraser

Referee—W. K. McNaughton.

The ball was faced by W. Stephenson and Davidson, the former getting the advantage of the draw. The ball was immediately sent on Peterborough's goal, but was quickly returned and for a few moments things looked dangerous for Norwood. However, their defence played a rattling game and kept the home men from scoring. After 8 minutes play Jory secured the rubber and sent it flying between the home flags.

THE SECOND GAME.

The ball was immediately faced and the home men settled down to work in earnest. The ball was kept hovering about the Norwood flags and after 4¼ minutes playing Armstrong lobbed on the goal and Henderson passed it through. The score now stood game each and the visitors commenced to perceive that they had no mean opponents to face.

THE THIRD GAME.

Stevenson and Davidson again faced the ball, which was soon again on the fly. After three minutes play the ball was sent on Norwood's goal. Stevenson secured it and running up a little made a long throw straight on Peterborough's flags and scored.

THE FOURTH GAME.

This was the shortest game. The ball, after the face, was sent in the vicinity of Peterborough's flags. A scuffle ensued at the side. One of the Norwoods passed it to McKelvie, who was right in front of the goal, and he scored.

It now stood 3 games for Norwood and 1 for Peterborough and the visitors were jubilant.

THE FIFTH GAME.

Play was immediately started again and this was the longest game. The home team worked hard and made several dangerous charges on the visitor's goal, but after 11 minutes play F. Stephenson again scored for Norwood. There remained now only 12 minutes until time would be called.

THE SIXTH GAME.

At the face the ball was sent on the Norwood flags and was kept hovering about them throughout. The home team seemed to be determined to score this time. During this game Pearson received a bad cut on the head and was compelled to withdraw from the game. After a pause of 3 minutes the ball was again faced. It was immediately sent on Norwood flags and after six minutes play Begley scored.

NOTES.

Quite a difference was noticed in the weight of the teams, the Norwood's being much heavier than the Peterboroughs.

It was an exciting and well contested game throughout, some good exhibitions of lacrosse being given.

AN ABSCONDING BANKER.

From Atalanta, Georgia, Arrested at Campbellford and Remanded.

On the 30th day of June, this year, C. C. Nelson, a private banker of Atlanta, Georgia, skipped out from that city, taking with him the sum of about $10,000, obtained by selling drafts on banks that knew nothing of him.

Circulars were sent to all parts of the continent, among other places to Peterborough. From the description given Chief Roszel located Nelson at Campbellford where he had been rusticating since the 8th of July.

A wire was sent to the Atlanta authorities asking for instructions and a reply was received to arrest Nelson for grand larceny and perjury and hold him until an officer arrived with the extradition papers.

The chief answered that the offences named were not extraditable and the answer was to watch him as $1,000 was offered for his arrest and extradition.

In the meantime Chief Hinde, of Trenton, got wind of Nelson's where-abouts, arrested him and took him to Trenton.

On Thursday night a banker, Jacob Hass, and an Attorney, Col. Adolphus Brandt, came from Atlanta to secure their prisoner if possible.

On learning that he was in limbo at Trenton, the two left for that place, Chief Roszel accompaning them at their request.

On Friday afternoon Nelson was brought before Police Magistrate Gordon, and was remanded for eight days, on a charge of bringing stolen money into Canada.

When arrested he had but $150 in cash in his possession. He had also half a dozen gold and silver watches and two pairs of diamond earings, which it is said were pawned with him for loans of money.

Whether from swampy land or stagnant pool, or from the deadly gases of city sewers, malarial poisons are the same. Ayer's Ague Cure, taken according to direction, is a warranted specific for malarial disorders.

The Eclipse.

A total eclipse of the moon will take place to-morrow night. It will be visible in Peterborough and smoked glass or telescopes will not be necessary to see it.

The Market.

The market this morning was one of the best attended seen for some months. All kinds of produce was on the square in abundance and the transactions must have totalled up quite a large sum of money.

A New Culvert.

Men are at work digging out a culvert on the west side of the Chemong Lake R. R. from Benson-st. south. It will be built of heavy cedars and covered with ties the same as the long one on the other side already constructed.

Brevities.

—Some the floors at the Institute are badly in need of repairs.

—Two Toronto police officers went north this morning to spend their holidays.

—The services at the new Salvation Army temple continue to draw large crowds.

—A large quantity and variety of goods were sold by auction on the market this morning.

—The plumbers are still tinkering around the police cells. They will be in good shape after a time.

—An extra large number of farmers were doing business in town to-day and things looked brisk.

—Raspberrries appear to be a good crop this year, judging by the number of palls seen on the market.

—One of the Norwood lacrosse players had a terribly bruised face received while practising on Friday.

—A freight and a timber train came together near Birdsall's, on Friday. The damage was but slight.

—The tailors' nine and the athletics will probably play a game this evening on the Riverside Park grounds.

—The Finance Committee met last evening and passed a number of accounts. They will report on Monday.

—The system of ventilation in use at the Salvation Army barracks is about the best and cheapest yet seen in town.

—Reports from the county state that the recent rains did much good, but more is needed to bring abundant crops.

—Mr. J. A. Harper, of the Norwood Register, accompanied the lacrosse players from that village, on Friday night.

—Rev. Orr Bennett, B.A., will occupy the pulpit of the Lakefield Presbyterian church during the absence of the pastor.

—An assault case was withdrawn at the court this morning, the parties having shaken hands and agreed to bury the hatchet.

—A loose plank at the corner of Water and Simcoe-sts. tripped a large number of people this morning until "Bony" came along and fixed it.

—Mrs. Pattillo, wife of the pugilist, died at Toronto the other day. Her former name was Rule and she resided here for years, at the south end of the town.

—Peterborough now boasts of a half dozen or more baseball clubs and they may be seen practising on almost every vacant lot in town that affords them room.

—It is proposed to proceed with the erection of a gymnasium at the Institute at once. The site proposed is just north of the building, between it an the play shed.

—"It should be a third offence against you" said the P.M. to one of the Scott Act defendants at the police court. "I'm satisfied with a first" replied the defendant and the court smiled.

LINDSAY.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—During the thunderstorm on Wednesday morning while the adopted son of Mr. John Fell, of Somerville, was engaged in milking the cows the lightning struck the barn and two cows, killing one instantly. The boy had a narrow escape, being only somewhat dazed, and noticing the barn burning ran to the house to procure assistance, when the fire was extinguished by the application of a few palls of water.

"Iget your idea," said Mr. Balltop to his wife "Your reasoning is quite correct. Your experience is a safe guide. Quite so, decidedly so. You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. What a Time

People formerly had, trying to swallow the old-fashioned pill with its film of magnesia vainly disguising its bitterness; and what a contrast to Ayer's Pills, that have been well called "medicated sugar-plums"—the only fear being that patients may be tempted into taking too many at a dose. But the directions are plain and should be strictly followed.

J. T. Teller, M. D., of Chittenango N. Y., expresses exactly what hundreds have written at greater length. He says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills are highly appreciated. They are perfect in form and coating, and their effects are all that the most careful physician could desire. They have supplanted all the Pills formerly popular here, and I think it must be long before any other can be made that will at all compare with them. Those who buy your pills get full value for their money."

"Safe, pleasant, and certain in their action," is the concise testimony of Dr. George E. Walker, of Martinsville, Virginia.

"Ayer's Pills outsell all similar preparations. The public having once used them, will 'have no others."—Berry, Venable & Collier, Atlanta, Ga.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"I wonder what keeps the lad," said Mr. Craig. "He isn't often so long on the road; an' I begin to want my denner."

"We need not wait for him."

"Naw, but it wants mair than half an hour yet to the time. I'll tak' a cup o' milk wi' a drap o' whisky intilt, just to stop the craving."

This refreshment administered, the old man took up the paper himself, and began to study the state of the funds. He was perfectly well able to read to himself, but his niece's soft voice and clear enunciation were luxuries to which he considered himself entitled, and Uncle Sandy was not the man to forego a hair's-breadth of his rights. Over the "price current," however, he loved to linger, and judge for himself, after Mona had skimmed it for him.

Mona went to put some fresh flowers in the drawing-room. She, too, was anxious for Kenneth's return; she hoped (as he was to call at the postoffice) that he would bring her a letter from Mary accepting the invitation she had been permitted to send. She had grown fond of the gentle Highland lassie, and she greatly appreciated the companionship of an intelligent girl.

Mona resolutely directed her thoughts to some little plans of work and practice to be shared by Mary, when the distant sound of approaching wheels caught her ear, and, going to the window, she saw the phaeton crawling slowly up the steep road. Kenneth held the reins; but, could she believe her eyes, Waring was again beside him! What had happened?—He could not have missed his train! They had started in abundant time. Waring was leaning back in a languid manner quite unusual.

"Uncle Sandy!" she cried, running into the library; "here is Mr. Waring returning with Kenneth."

"Ye don't say so!" cried Mr. Craig, catching up both sticks, which always stood in the corner beside his chair, and moving with unusual rapidity to the front door—"What's that for?"

Mona followed, her heart beating fast. They both reached the steps as Kenneth pulled up.

"Where's the gardener?" he cried, as he threw the reins on the back of the old horse and sprang down. "Mr. Waring has met with a bad accident, and can scarce get out alone."

"Guid preserve us! what has happened?" cried Mr. Craig. "Rin—rin, and ca' Robbie; he's back frae his dinner!"

Mona sped swiftly to the garden without a word.

"It's a stupid business," said Waring, cheerfully, but in a faint voice. "I am afraid I shall be on your hands for some time. Macalister will tell you all about it. My right arm is broken."

Here the gardener came running up, followed by Mona at a less rapid pace.

"Here!" exclaimed Kenneth, "go to his left, Robbie; put your arm on his shoulder, Waring. I'll help you on the ill side."

"I think I can get out well enough myself."

But when he tried to move, Mona saw that he winced and grew white. It was with great care and slowly that they managed to get him into the house. Then it could be seen that his right arm was bound up, and that his coat sleeve had been cut open.

"He had best go to his room at once," said Kenneth. "I have the doctor's directions; and there's composing medicine and what not in the trap. Come along, Phemie," to the cook, who had hurried to the scene of action; "and, Mona, fetch some wine."

"I feel awfully ashamed of myself for giving all this trouble," said Waring, his eyes resting on Mona's for a moment with a deprecating glance.

She, still silent and pale from the shock she had received, went noiselessly and brought the wine by the time the little procession had reached Waring's room, which the housemaid had not yet dismantled.

"She poured out a glassful, and placed it in his left hand, which, as she saw it trembled very much, she steadied with her own.

"I fear you are suffering," she said, softly.

"Oh, of course I am in pain, but there is nothing serious the matter, only I fear I must be a nuisance for some time."

"It canna' be helpit noo, my laddie," said Uncle Sandy, with unusual tenderness, "and you are right welcome to my hoose."

"He must get to bed!" cried Kenneth, with authority. "That's the doctor's order. He must be kept fery quiet, to avoid fever. Mona, will you see that the things are taken out of the phaeton; and the letters, Mona."

This done, there was nothing for it but to wait till Kenneth was at liberty to explain the cause of the accident.

Meantime she found a letter from Mary, evidently written in high glee, accepting Mr. Craig's invitation, and promising to be with her friends the following week.

"Noo, tell us a' aboot it, Kenneth!" cried Uncle Sandy, when they at length returned to the dining-room, after seeing Waring made comfortable.

"Well, you see, we were in plenty time, and when we found the ticket-clerk was not there, we went into the yard to look at some horses that were waiting for a box that was coming from Glasgow—for Waring is very keen about horses—and presently up comes Tulloch the grocer's big cart with some heavy boxes, and that wicked black mare of his in the shafts. The driver left the cart at the far side of the yard. Whether anything frightened the beast or no, I cannot tell, but all at a sudden it started off toward the gate, kicking and squealing. There was a decent-like woman and a bairn standing about, and the bairn had got in the way. There was a scream that it would be killed. Waring made a dash for the child, and just threw it to the mother; but somehow in doing so he fell, and got a kick from the mare on the shoulder, while the wheel went over his arm. He was insensible for a few minutes. Then we got a bench and carried him to the doctor's who, by good luck, was at home. He was some while setting it, for it's a bad break; but he says it was a mercy he was so far from the beast's hoof, or the shoulder would have been smashed, which would be a much more serious matter. As it is, it's a nasty bruise. Waring seemed chiefly put out about missing his passage, but I promised to write to his partner for him."

"It was varra unlucky," said Uncle Sandy.

"And there's his dream come out," observed Kenneth.

"Ach! hold yer havers aboot dreams, an' sic like fule-talk!" cried Uncle Sandy, contemptuously.

"Well, may be it is; but I heard him mutter to himself something about 'his fate,' and he is not a superstitious Highlander."

"Doctor Donaldson did not think his injuries dangerous?" asked Mona.

"Oh, no! Specially if he did not get feverish. He's coming over to see him this evening. I'll just have the big easy-chair in his room to-night, and doze a bit in it, in case he wants anything."

"Ay, 'twill be better so. If he could get a gude lang sleep, it would be the making o' him."

It was a curious, disturbed, uneasy day. Uncle Sandy was especially restless and time went at once quickly and slowly. Mona felt she could not settle to anything, and all waited eagerly for the doctor, who was later than they expected.

He pronounced the patient to be doing well; but much depended on his getting rest; and he finally sat down cheerfully to supper, and enjoyed a long "crack" with Uncle Sandy afterward.

TWO REGATTAS.

Canadian Oarsmen at Sunbury and Yachtsmen at Oswego.

SUNBURY, Pa., July 20.—In the final heat of the junior singles, Shea, of the Don Amateurs, of Toronto, won easily, time 10.09½; Sutherland, of the same club, second; Seaton, Paterson, N.J., third. Psotta, of the Cornell Navy, won the senior singles final heat in 9.55; Donohue, Nautilus R. C., of Hamilton, second, and Ryan, Toronto R. C., third. The Don Amateurs of Toronto easily won the doubles in 9.20. Nonpariel second and Metropolitan third. In the four-oared seniors there was a big surprise. The Torontos, who were quoted in the betting at $20, against the field's $18, were beaten by the Passaics, of Newark, N. J., in 8.47. Toronto crossed the line ten seconds later and the Sylvans finished third. In the eight-oared race the Fairmount Club of Philadelphia won against the Crescents of the same city.

The International Regatta.

OSWEGO, July 20.—In the international regatta to day the White Wings, of Hamilton, won in the second-class, beating the Cygnet, of Toronto, and the Scottish cutter Madge, of Rochester. The latter carried away her topmast stay and dropped out on the first round. The greatest interest centered in the race between the Burgess yacht Merle, of Oswego, and the Cuthbert boat Iolanthe, of Belleville. The former easily outsailed the latter, winning by nearly eight minutes.

DOMINION NEWS NOTES.

MRS. DONALDSON'S FATAL FALL AT OTTAWA.

Drowning Accident at Hamilton—Another Meeting at Montreal Enters a Protest Against Pauper Immigration—Telegraphic Extension in New Brunswick.

OTTAWA, July 22.—A sad accident occurred here this morning which resulted in the death of Mrs. Donaldson, wife of the late Major Donaldson. The deceased lady whilst walking along the edge of the cliff at the end of Sparks-street fell over and was almost instantly killed. The cliff at this place is about sixty feet high. The deceased lady was about 60 years of age and highly respected. Her son-in-law, Barrister E. P. Remon who has been ill for some time past, expired a few hours afterwards.

Drowning Accident at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, July 22.—A yount man named Walter Lawrence, employed in Knox, Morgan & Co's wholesale dry goods establishment, in company with three other young men, hired the yacht Volunteer to-day and went across the bay to bathe. Near the powder magazine on the north shore of the bay, while the yacht was still under way, Lawrence began undressing, when he fell overboard. He could not swim and before his companions could turn the yacht to rescue him he was drowned. The body has not been recovered.

Against Pauper Immigration.

MONTREAL, July 22.—A mass meeting under the auspices of the Central Trades and Labor Council was held at Papineau-square last evening to protest against pauper immigration. Several labor representatives addressed the meeting and similar resolutions to those adopted at the meeting held a week ago were carried with an additional one protesting against alien contract labor and demanding that the Government should put a stop to it at once by legislation, the same as in the United States.

Telegraphic Extension.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 22.—The Canadian Pacific is now getting out a large quantity of telegraph poles for the short line through Maine and New Brunswick. Those for this province are chiefly cut on the lands of the New Brunswick Railway. The intention of the Canadian Pacific is, not only to construct their telegraph line over the new road but to extend it along all their connecting lines in this province which will include such points as Fredericton and St. John, and may take in Chatham by the new railway. The extension of facilities for telegraphing, especially with the upper provinces, will be hailed with considerable satisfaction by a great many persons in New Brunswick.

THE SUDBURY COPPER MINES.

A $1,500,000 Smelter to be Erected—Hand some Returns Expected.

SUDBURY, July 22.—A copper smelter, to cost $1,500,000 when completed, is to be erected here. Men are at work getting out material for the building, some of which is now on the ground, and the superintendent of the smelting works has arrived. There are three copper mines, the Copper Cliff, Stobie and the Evans. The former is most actively in operation, the ore obtained there being very rich indeed. There are hundreds of tons of this ore waiting for the erection of the smelter, which will be situated about three-quarters of a mile from the Copper Cliff. These three mines are owned and operated by Ohioans, mostly from Cleveland. The company owns the railway line to the Stobie, about four miles north, and a private line off the "Soo" branch of the Canadian Pacific, of a mile. Captain Andrews, recently of the Beaver, has general supervision of all the mines. Assays show the presence of other metals, but these have not been developed to any extent. The owners of the copper mines are not endeavoring to boom the property with a view to speculation, but expect to reap a handsome profit by actual working.

HERRINGTON HEARD FROM.

Stratford's Ex-Chief Writes to Mr. Henry—Assessor Sharman Arrested.

STRATFORD, July 22.—Ex-Chief of Police Herrington sent a letter from Port Huron, Mich., recently to Mr. Henry, the husband of the woman with whom he eloped, denying all knowledge of the whereabouts of the missing woman.

Following in the wake of the Herrington sensation comes the arrest of City Assessor Sharman for alleged larceny. Mr. Sharman, while a member of the City Council, made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, after which he resigned his seat at the board. Shortly after he received the appointment of city assessor. Mr. Sharman was arrested at the instance of the Sheriff, who is the assignee of the estate, for appropriating goods that belonged to the estate to his own use. Mr. Sharman states that he has kept a correct account of all the goods he has disposed of and has returns for the same. He was admitted to $500 bail. The case will come up before the Police Magistrate to-morrow.

Severe Fighting near Wady-Halfa.

CAIRO, July 22.—Four hundred rebels attacked a village near Wady-Halfa to-day. Col. Woodeham, after severe fighting repulsed the rebels, inflicting severe loss. Twenty villagers were killed or wounded.

Attempted Robbery at Oshawa.

OSHAWA, July 22.—An attempt at robbery was made last night about 11 o'clock on one of the back streets, but the thieves were scared and left.

A Montreal Wholesale Firm's Failure.

MONTREAL, July 22.—Ross, Haskell & Campbell, wholesale dealers in fancy goods, have suspended payment. Their liabilities are placed at $100,000.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

ENDANGERED BY GREED.

THE SALMON FISHERIES IN PERIL FROM THE CANNERS.

A Petition Forwarded to the Government by the British Columbia Board of Trade Asking for the Adoption of Restrictive Measures.

OTTAWA, July 22.—The gradual killing off of the lobsters in the Maritime Provinces owing to the reckless destruction by the canners has opened the eyes of British Columbians to the fact that the splendid salmon fisheries of that province are liable to partial if not complete extinction from the same greed of the canning companies, and a petition has been forwarded by the British Columbia Board of Trade praying that restrictive measures be adopted.

The Fisheries Department has concluded the payment of bounty claims to Canadian fishermen who number over 45,000. Forty thousand checks involving an expenditure of $150,000 were issued.

The Government steamer Newfield will leave Halifax in a few days to repair the breaks in the Magdalen Island and Bird Rocks cables. Telegraphic communication has been interrupted since April last. The Newfield was undergoing repairs and could not be sooner obtained by the Public Works Department.

Mr. F. N. Gisborne, Superintendent of Government Telegraphs, will visit the Northwest and British Columbia on official business this fall. Before doing so he will lay three Government cables, one between Kingston and Howe Island and a second from Howe Island to Wolf Island. The third cable will connect Pelee Island in Lake Erie with the mainland. The latter cable will weigh over twenty tons.

John Page, Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, has gone to St. Catharines on a tour of inspection of the Welland Canal.

Little Madawaska depot, one of Perley and Patte's stations at Pettewawa River, was burned last Tuesday, about $10,000 worth of provisions, stock, etc., being destroyed.

The bush fires in the section are very heavy. On Wednesday 100 men from the drives, who were fighting the fire near Little Rapids depot, were surrounded by flames and would undoubtedly have perished had it not been for heavy rains which quenched but did not extinguish the fires. All the men escaped.

THE MANDEVILLE INQUEST.

Sensational Evidence Given by an ex-Warden of Tullamore Jail.

DUBLIN, July 22.—The Mandeville inquest was continued yesterday. A great sensation was caused by the evidence of Daniel Goulding, who was formerly a warden in Tullamore Jail. Goulding deposed that on the evening of Nov. 22 the Governor of the Jail said that he had received orders to strip Mr. Mandeville, that he (witness) and the other five warders entered the prisoner's cell and found him sleeping soundly, that they shook him rudely and aroused him, that Mr. Mandeville resisted but was stripped naked, in which condition he remained during the night. Witness said he was aware that Mr. Mandeville had been punished for periods never before recorded. The inquest was adjourned.

O'Brien at Edinburgh.

EDINBURGH, July 22.—Mr. William O'Brien addressing a meeting here last night said he believed that deep in the British heart there was a feeling of sickness and loathing for the endless misery and blood-guiltiness in Ireland. It was the deepest desire of the Irish, he said, to forgive and forget the miserable past and enter into a brighter and better time.

THE YANKEE LIAR.

A New York Herald Correspondent's Story Denied—Winnipeg Notes.

WINNIPEG, July 22.—Prominent citizens of St. Boniface deny that the appeal for aid from the Metis of the Northwest, which was wired to The New York Herald, was ever received at St. Boniface.

Mayor Jones' resignation will probably not be accepted.

Governor Royal left for Ottawa to-night.

Deputy Registrar-General Chenier's appointment has been cancelled.

The Early Closing Association is taking steps to put the Act recently passed by the Legislature into operation.

Wentworth Farmers' Picnic.

HAMILTON, July 22.—At a meeting of the Executive of the Wentworth Farmers' Institute, held in the city, it was decided to hold a Farmers' picnic at Oakland's Farm Grove, placed at their disposal by Mr. Fuller, on Wednesday, Aug. 29. These gentlemen were invited to address the meeting: Hon. John Carling, Hon. Charles Drury, Adam Brown, M.P.P.; Alex. McKay, M.P.; J. M. Gibson, M.P.P.; Professor Robertson, Messrs. T. B. Townsend, Aldershot; V. E. Fuller, and E. D. Smith, of Winona.

Serious Accident at Galt.

GALT, July 22.—John Gourlay, manager and proprietor of the Galt Electric Light and Power Company, narrowly escaped being killed yesterday morning. He was engaged at the top of a high ladder putting on a shutter at his residence at Dickson Hill. When in the act of looking round to descend he lost his balance and fell to the ground. In his descent he grasped the ladder, which turned over with him, breaking the fall somewhat. Four ribs were broken, one penetrating the lungs.

Pitcher's Stealings Recovered

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 21.—The Union Bank this afternoon received all the notes, drafts and all other securities stolen by Teller Charles A. Pitcher and expressed from New York to the name of James A. Roberts in care of Brown, Shipley & Co., London, and Drexel, Harges & Co., Paris.

More Gold in Michigan.

ISHPEMING, July 22.—The mines in the Lake Superior gold shaft resumed work at once after making the rich strike Thursday night, and Saturday night another lot of remarkably rich rock, nearly 100 pounds in weight, was brought into the city. This was locked up in the vaults with the rocks already mined.

HALTON REFORMERS.

Mr. John Waldie of Toronto Chosen as Candidate for the Dominion House.

MILTON, July 12.—At the Reform convention for the county of Halton, held here to-day, Mr. John Waldie of Toronto was selected to contest the coming election for the House of Commons in the Reform interest. Dr. Robertson presided. It was decided that the selection of a candidate should be according to American usage. Ballots were therefore cast, there being no nomination made and Mr. Waldie secured 84 out of 110 on the first ballot.

Mr. Waldie carried the county by 9 majority the general election of 1887, but the election being protested he voluntarily resigned his seat. David Henderson, Conservative, was elected by 147 over Wm. McLeod, but he has been unseated for bribery by an agent. It is probable that Mr. Henderson will be again chosen as the Conservative candidate by the convention to be held shortly, and a hard contest is looked for.

TELLER TAKES THE FLOOR,

Address of the Colorado Senator on the Fisheries Treaty.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—In the Senate to-day in open executive session Mr. Teller (Rep.) continued the discussion of the Fisheries Treaty. He said that if the treaty had come from a Republican administration he did not believe there was a Republican Senator who would have supported it and there was not a Democratic Senator who would have supported it if it had not come from a Democratic administration. He knew that there was not any considerable number of Democratic Senators who would have supported it but for the fact that the power of the administration had been brought to bear upon them to compel their support. If any Senators desired proof that the administration was the active propagandist of the treaty he would furnish it.

Proceeding to discuss the treaty on its merits he declared that the American rights to the fisheries were inherent and were no more conferred by treaties than were the boundaries of the Republic itself. The American people were not to be intimidated by threats of war or by the suggestion of the difficulty which might occur in the maintenance of that which rightfully belonged to them.

Mr. Teller spoke of the alleged insults offerred the American flag by Canadian cruisers and said no decent apology had been made for these acts, but this was in keeping with the whole course of the administration in dealing with the British Government. If there was a disgraceful chapter in American history it was in connection with that negotiation by which it was undertaken through the Secretary of State to assist the Democratic party by allying it with the Canadian party and with the British party. It was folly to talk of war, but if war should come America would be just as well prepared as Great Britain.

The Vote on the Mills Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—An analysis of the vote on the Mills Tariff Bill, which was passed by the House yesterday, shows that of the 162 voting for the measure 156 were Democrats, three—Brower (N. C.), Fitch (N. Y.) and Nelson (Minn.)—were Republicans, and three—Anderson (Ia.), Hopkins (Va.) and Smith (Wis.)—were Independent, the two last named being Labor representatives. Of the 149 votes against the measure 144 were Republicans and 4—Bliss (N. Y.), Greenman (N. Y.), Merriman (N. Y.) and Sawden (Pa.) were Democratic.

BAUEREISN AGAIN ARRAIGNED.

Bowles Repeats His Story and the Accused is Held For Trial.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The trial of the charges against John A. Bauereisn, accused under the State laws of procuring dynamite to be brought into the State for illegal purposes, came up before Justice Lyon on Saturday.

Bowles was the first witness and he succeeded in making out a complete case against the defendant. He said that after a secret meeting of the brotherhood Baucreisn told him that dynamite could be used with good effect and he asked witness if he could get some. The latter replied in the affirmative. The witness then said: "Bauereisn gave me $7.50 with which to purchase it. I then came to Chicago, but could not get any here and I went to Logansville, Ind., where I got a pound and a half and brought it back to Chicago. I brought it to the Grand Pacific and left it in room No. 34. Down stairs I met Baucreisn and told him that I had it. He wanted me to take it to Aurora, but I would not and he then asked me to take it to George Clark at Galesburg and gave me $10. I took it to Clark and returning to Aurora told Baucreisn that I had delivered it. He then asked me to get some more.

"I told him," continued Bowles, "that Clark had used it, and he gave me $9 to get more. I went to Indiana, got more dynamite and brought it back. I showed it to Mr. Hoge—"

Attorney David was unable to catch his breath sufficiently to shout an objection, but his wildly waving arms brought the witness to a standstill and he was told not to mind what he had showed to Hoge. This was the only sensational feature of the trial.

Smith was then called and he substantially repeated his testimony given before Commissioner Hoynie.

Baucreisn was held to the Criminal Court under bonds of $3,500 which he readily furnished.

Another Striker Placed Under Arrest.

AURORA, Ill., July 22.—Ex-Engineer August Koegel, a prominent brotherhood man and striker, was awakened by a deputy sheriff this morning and escorted before a justice on the charge of assisting Baucreisn, Bowles, and the remaining alleged conspirators, in procuring, storing, and distributing dynamite, knowing at the time that the explosives were to be used for the purposes of injuring the property and business of the Burlington road. Koegel was not a whit surprised, pleasantly acknowledging that he rather expected a visit from the officer and cheerfully accompanied him to the Justice's office, where he furnished bonds of $5,000 for his appearance Wednesday next. Bowles was a former roommate of Koegel's, and the testimony of the former, that he had left some dynamite in his room at Heck's Hotel, was probably the cause of the arrest. Koegel denies all knowledge of the dynamite said to have been in his room.

Carbolic Acid Poured Down His Throat.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 21.—Oscar W. Doran, an engineer, died here this morning under circumstances that cause the belief that he was killed by his wife. They had been living apart for several months, although not divorced, she remaining in Indianapolis. Last night she came down to see him, and they occupied a room together at the hotel. Early this morning screams were heard there and he was found in a dying condition, carbolic acid having been poured down his throat and over his face and breast. He died in a few minutes and she was arrested for the murder. She claims he committed suicide.

Cross and White Convicted.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 21.—The trial of Cross and White, the bank officials, on the first indictment, ended to-day in conviction. Cross was sentenced to seven years' hard labor, White to five. An appeal was taken, which the attorneys of the defendants say will be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States, as a Federal question is involved. Bail was fixed at $10,000. It has not been given. The other case against the defendants was postponed.

A Fatal Fall.

BELLEVILLE, July 22.—John Wallace, an employe of John Irvine, of Sidney, was instantly killed in the hayfield yesterday morning by falling from the top of a wagon-load of hay.

While a young girl named Kennedy was on her way to market with a companion she was seized by a man who attempted to gag her. The girl's screams, however, frightened her assailant away.

The Bay Bridge Bylaw was adopted by the people of Ameliasburg yesterday by 31 majority.

Cows Killed by a Bear.

CHATHAM, N. B., July 22.—One morning recently, as two heifers, belonging to James Hudson and John Dignum, of Wellfield, were returning home to be milked, they were attacked by a bear and killed. The other evening another heifer, belonging to John Dignum, was killed by a bear. A trap was set for the marauder, a she bear and two cubs, but she sprung it and took the bait.

TEUTON, GAUL AND SLAV.

RENEWED ATTACKS AT BERLIN ON RUSSIAN AGGRESSION.

The French Press Excited by the Rumor that France is to be Disarmed—The Pope's Protest Against Emperor William's Projected Visit to Rome.

BERLIN, July 22.—The political results of the Emperor's visit to the Czar remain absolutely unknown. The disposition of official circles is toward a disbelief that the interviews have determined anything. The immediate effect has been to lessen the strain of the relations between the Berlin and St. Petersburg foreign offices, but it is noteworthy that while M. de Giers and Count Herbert Bismarck exchange confidences at Peterhof The North German Gazette and other inspired organs renew their attacks against the Russian spirit of aggression. An article in The North German Gazette on Thursday denouncing pan-Slavism as a menace to the peace of Europe was worthy of the warmest period of the anti-Russian campaign. It checked operations on the bourse and caused a slight fall in roubles. The obvious aim was to show that the policy of Prince Bismarck is not changed by the courtesy of the visit of Emperor William to the Czar. The Cologne Gazette also treats the interview as simply a friendly manifestation toward the Czar, implying no deviation from German projects or a sacrifice of German interests. The Cologne Gazette explicitly denies that any special question has been resolved at Peterhof, or that anything has been done affecting existing treaties. Diplomatic circles are convinced to the same effect and regard the interview with indifference.

Emperor William's tour of the leading courts of Europe is certainly in the interest of peace for the time being, prolonging as it does the period of truce; but it is now recognized as a purely social function, the new monarch paying his first visit to the heads of States with whom he desires to cultivate amity. The foreign press gets absurd rumors that France is to be overpowered and disarmed; that the Czar joins the central alliance; that a congress will revise the Berlin treaty; that the Emperors have agreed to combine to uproot anarchists, whether German socialists or Russian nihilists, and so forth. All alike are fictions.

The French papers are especially excited over the rumor that France is to be disarmed, associated as it is with an increase of military activities in Alsace-Lorraine. The movement of troops from the interior towards the frontier and the reinforcing of the garrisons at Strasbourg and Metz are regarded as suggestive of a scheme to surprise France. The real object of these movements is to prepare for extensive manœuvres around Metz during the Emperor's visit to Alsace-Lorraine about the middle of August. The manœuvres will certainly be on a gigantic scale, engaging 120,000 troops, and will be a significant demonstration for French Chauvinism to ponder over. They should also tend to help the malcontents to accept the appropriation of Alsace-Lorraine by Germany as inevitable.

The Emperor's projected meeting with King Humbert is definitely fixed for October. Under the instigation of Prime Minister Crispi King Humbert has asked the Emperor to visit Rome, and the latter has assented. The Pope being apprised of this has sent a vigorous protest to Prince Bismarck, declaring that the Emperor's presence at Rome would be an act of hostility towards the Vatican, especially during the pending crisis with the Italian Goverment. Cardinal Rampolla, the Papal Secretary of State, has also sent circulars to the nuncios at Bavaria and Austria, asking them to use their influence with those governments to induce them to advise Emperor William that his interview with King Humbert must be at a place remote from Rome.

Mgr. Galimberti sought a conference with Prince Henry of Reuss, the German Ambassador at Vienna, and made an urgent representation, declaring that an interview with King Humbert in Rome would render the Pope's position intolerable and probably precipitate his departure. Signor Crispi holds that there has been no arrangement hitherto that the German sovereign should be received in Rome.

In deference to Catholic sentiment, monarchs meeting or visiting Emanuel or Humbert have avoided sanctioning by their presence at the Quirinal, the Pope's dispossession, and the Vatican has not failed to draw advantage from this fact, using it as proof that the Italian Government's occupation of the Pope's territory was not definitive, even in the eyes of Italy's allies. Signor Crispi, it is understood, attaches the greatest significance to the matter.

Queen Natalie, of Servia, who arrived at The Hague to-night, has further cause for complaint against the Berlin Government. She accuses Count von Bray-Steinberg, the German Minister at Belgrade, of urging King Milan to contract a marriage with one of the Saxe-Altenbourg princesses. The Servian Premier approves the project. Nothing will be done openly until a divorce has been obtained. The proceedings move slowly. A powerful section of the higher Servian clergy opposes a divorce and denies the competence of the synod to interfere. The attitude of the clergy being likely to prevent the granting of a divorce, the friends of Queen Natalie have renewed negotiations for a separation under the terms offered her at Wiesbaden.

CHEERED BY THE RUSSIAN TROOPS.

A Hearty Welcome for Emperor William—An Exchange of Honors.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—Emperor William reviewed the troops at Krasno-Selo Friday evening. On the Emperor's arrival, in company with the Czar, the bands played the Prussian National Hymn and the troops cheered. Later the Emperor joined the Russian Imperial family and Prince Henry of Prussia at the pavilion, where the bands played selections from German and Russian airs.

Emperor William has conferred the decoration of the Order of the Black Eagle upon Duke Alexander of Oldenburg, Commander of the Russian Guards Corps. In bestowing the decoration the Emperor extolled the perfection of the corps.

Prince Henry of Prussia has been appointed Honorary Commander of the 33rd Regiment of Russian Dragoons. Emperor William has appointed the Czarewitch Chief of the First Westphalian Regiment of Hussars.

The German Imperial visitors attended a Lutheran service this morning. Afterwards they accompanied the Czar and Czarina to the Castle chapel, where services were held according to the Russian liturgy. Splendid chorals were rendered by the Court singers. The departure of the German Imperial party has been postponed until Tuesday morning.

The Official Messenger says that in proposing the health of Emperor William at Krasnoe-Selo the Czar included the toast "His glorious army."

Emperor William visited the Queen of the Hellenes on Saturday.

Uncle Sam's Crops.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The weather during the week has been favorable for the growing crops in the wheat and corn regions of the Northwest.

The Wagner Festival was opened at Beyruth yesterday with a splendid performance of "Parsifal."

There were 50,000 men and 168 guns in the Krasnoe-Selo review.

Prices on the continental bourses during the week were firm and there was a general upward tendency.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS.

THE railway statistics for the year 1887, which have recently been issued to the public, cover a period remarkable in growth of traffic, enlargement of transportation facilities and increase of mileage. The length of lines completed a year ago was 12,332 miles, the Montreal Gazette says, and at that time 660 miles were under construction, principally on railways subsidized by the Dominion Government, so that the railway mileage of Canada in operation cannot be less than 12,500 miles. Ten years ago it was less than half this extent, 6,143 miles, but in the interval the Canadian Pacific system has virtually been created, and the policy of public aid has started into life many enterprises of this kind in all sections of the country. The statistics comprise returns from sixty-four companies, several of which, however, exist only in name and have no independent entity. Thus the Northern and Hamilton Northwestern, classed as district corporations, are now really part of the Grand Trunk system, and many small lines though nominally independent are simply local feeders of the two great corporations which practically control the railway system of the Dominion. Of the total completed mileage of 12,332 miles, the Canadian Pacific with its leased and acquired lines, embraces no less than 4,946 miles, the Grand Trunk 3,113 miles, and the Dominion Government owns and operates the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island roads, covering a length of 1,099 miles. Three-fourth of the railway system, therefore, is controlled by two great corporations and the Government. Of the other fifty odd companies enumerated in the returns only eleven have a mileage exceeding 100 miles in length, namely, the Canada Atlantic 128, Canada Southern 362, Central Ontario 104, Kingston & Pembroke 112, Manitoba & Northwestern 207, New Brunswick and leased lines 415, Northern & Northwestern of New Brunswick 115, Northwest Coal & Navigation company 109, Quebec & Lake St. John 177, Quebec Central 159, Windsor & Annapolis 116.

The construction of railways in Canada has been very liberally aided by municipal, provincial and federal grants. The nominal capital paid in, or more correctly the aggregate receipt for capital purposes, has been $683,773,200, an average of $55,447 per mile of constructed railway, and the actual capital revenue can hardly have been less than $50,000 a mile. Of this large amount, $227,335,800 is represented by ordinary share capital, $96,793,000 by preferential, $194,801,500 by bonded debt, $129,497,666 by Dominion Government aid, $12,812,836 by municipal aid, and $21,205,000 by provincial aid. There remained on June 30th of last year, an immatured and unpaid liability of $8,756,602 on account of various public subsidies to railway enterprises, but probably one half of this amount will never be forthcoming, owing to the failure of the companies to comply with the conditions of the grant. Of the one hundred and thirty millions paid by the Dominion Government, the Canadian Pacific has received $58,124,589, the Intercolonial $44,996,000, the Grand Trunk $15,142,633, and the balance has been distributed over some thirty-five different lines. The year covered by the report is referred to as marked by much enterprise and activity in construction, and by a prosperity quite without example to the lines in operation. Iron rails are fast disappearing; the equipment of the railways has received notable additions and improvement, and the increase of the traffic has been such as no former year can show. In the last six years the traffic has thus rapidly developed:—

	Passengers carried.	Freight tons.
1887	10,608,658	16,356,383

The earnings in 1887 were far in excess of any preceding period, showing an increase of nearly $5,500,000 over the previous year, while the total expenses augmented only $3,447,000, giving an increase of some two million dollars in net revenue. Compared with six years ago the earnings stand thus:—

	Earnings.	Expenses.
1887	38,841,609	27,624,883

The average rates of freight in Canada are lower than in any other country in the world, not excepting the United States. The rate of construction, which in ten years has doubled the railway mileage of the Dominion, can hardly be maintained in the near future, but with the settlement of the Northwest enterprises of this character must proceed continuously. That section of Canada will naturally be the theatre of work for many years to come, the tendency in the old provinces, which are now fairly well served in the matter of railway communication, being towards consolidation of local lines, the improvement of facilities, and the provision of short branches rather than independent lines of importance.

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Bucket Shop People in Court—A Carpenter's Fatal Fall.

TORONTO, July 23.—The nine men arrested in Hanrahan's bucket shop refused to plead when arraigned in the Police Court on Saturday, questioning the jurisdiction of the court. The case was adjourned until July 28.

A carpenter named John Macdonald was instantly killed on Saturday morning by a fall from a badly constructed scaffold.

Fifty Italians, who had been at work on the G. T. R. double track and were going to work on the C. P. R., were stranded here on Saturday, their leader being arrested on a capias for an unpaid grocery bill.

Two hundred German and English immigrants arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, remaining over for two hours to take a meal, after which they continued their journey west. They were for Manitoba, and looked as if they would make good settlers.

Joseph J. Richards, of Dun, Wiman & Co.' agency, was fishing in Ashbridges Bay on Saturday afternoon, when he was shot in the face and arm by some unknown pot-hunter. The charge used was bird shot. Only one shot struck him in the head, but his arm was fairly riddled with them.

The police at a late hour last night were informed of an attempted suicide in a boarding-house on Duchess-street. The victim was a young man, who despondent because he could not settle for his board, shot himself in the breast. His condition is reported to be precarious.

Killed by a Falling Barn.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 22.—John Goggin, who lives on the South Branch of the Oromocto, was assisting a neighbor to pull down a barn when the bents of the building gave way and fell on him, crushing him to the ground. He was got out from under the heavy beams as quickly as possible, but he gave a few gasps and dropped dead. He was about 42 years of age and leaves a large family.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

The Eclipse.

Owing to the rain the sky was so overclouded on Sunday night that it was impossible to observe the eclipse, as far as Peterborough was concerned. At Toronto and other points splendid observations were made.

The List is Increasing.

Mr. Kent has just added two more telephones to the large list already in use in town. Phones have been placed in the new show room of the Ontario Canoe Company, corner of Water and Brock-sts., and in the shop of Mr. J. J. Turner, the awning autocrat, corner of George and King-sts.

A New Sign.

Messrs. Wyatt & Turner, the young firm of enterprising clothiers, have adorned their premises with a handsome new sign bearing the name of the firm. It is twenty-two feet long, with white letters, shaded with gold and green, on garnate ground-work, and is a striking as well as handsome sign. Mr. W. M. Green did the work and did it well.

Conservatory of Music.

We have received a copy of the calendar for 1888-89 of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. This institution, the only one of the kind in the Province, has been very successful since it was established. It furnishes instruction in all branches of the art and science of music and instruction in other subjects that are useful in the development of the students' mental and physical faculties and in preparing them for pursuing music as a profession. The faculty is an efficient one. The students enjoy many free advantages, such as classical concerts by visiting artists and the faculty, lectures on musical subjects, lectures by distinguished members of the medical profession, and attendance on a series of lectures in the University of Toronto by Mr. W. J. Loudon, B.A., on the principles of musical acoustics. Mr. Geo. A. Cox is one of the Vice-Presidents of the institution. The calendar is a neat phamphlet of eighty pages, giving full information.

and Picnic,

Inspected.

Captain Dick, Toronto, and Mr. Adams, Kingston, inspectors of steamboat hulls and boilers respectively, looked over the Golden-Eye on Saturday and pronounced her to be in splendid shape. Commodore Calcutt and Captain McDonald were highly complimented by the inspectors.

Camping Parties

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

Personal.

Mrs. Mitchell and daughter, of Oconto, Wisconsin, are in town visiting friends. Mrs. Mitchell was formarly a Miss Milane, of Otonabee, and has not been in Peterborough for 20 years. She is a thorough believer in the stars and stripes, but she admits that Peterborough is "a right smart little town and one hard to beat," even in the land of defaulting bank cashiers and boodlers.

Tuesday, July 24th,

A Storm.

It would appear from the reports brought in by farmers, that the town only experienced a slight touch of the rain storm on Sunday night. A gentleman who was at Downeyville informs us that the rain poured down in perfect torrents for some time and the lightning and thunder were the worst he ever saw or heard. The crops, particularly roots, were badly in need of the water and the result will be greatly for the benefit of the country. South and east of the town the rain also fell copiously.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

A Collision.

On Saturday evening in front of the Opera House, a heavy farm wagon collided with a light phaeton, in which were seated three ladies. The hubs touched and the phaeton came within an ace of being upset. The ladies screamed, but things turned out all right. While the driver of the wagon was explaining to the driver of the phaeton how the accident occurred, another man undertook to drive between the two rigs and this time an accident in earnest was only prevented by the interference of a bystander, who caught the team of the third party and held them until the other vehicles were driven away.

Boat leaves at 8 a.m.

Lacrosse.

On Wednesday afternoon next the Riversides and the Orillia lacrosse clubs will meet on the Riverside Park in a championship game. The teams are well matched, as shown by the result of the last game in Orillia, when the boys from the north succeeded in winning only one game, after two hours of hard play. The Riversides have been practicing steadily and it is said that they are in splendid trim to contend for championship honors. They expect to place the strongest twelve of the season in the field, and as the Orillia and Beaverton teams are now combined, the visitors will place a team to face them that it will take all the boys can do to keep the ball out. The team to represent the local club will be chosen this evening.

A Rumor.

A rumor was current around town this morning to the effect that a burglary had taken place on Sunday night. If there is anything in the story the police know nothing of it, as they have not been apprized of any such thing having occurred.

Moving It.

Brevities.

—Several water services are being placed in George-st. stores.

—There were no cases for trial at the Police Court this morning.

—Some new potatoes of extra large size are shown by several dealers.

—Captain Bottum, Bobcaygeon, is in town to-day seeing how things look.

—The rain of yesterday and last night, though small in quantity, was highly appreciated.

—Matters in general are remarkbly a quiet and the police report "all quiet on the Otonabee."

—The majority of the lawyers have decided to close their offices at 3.30 p.m. during July and August.

—The Chairman of the Finance Committee in Belleville has prepared his estimates and places the rate at 21 17-20 mills.

—The Salvation Army paraded through Ashburnham on Sunday and gave our neighbors the benefit of their music and singing.

—The writer of a letter advocating Sunday band concerts was handled without gloves by a speaker at the Park on Sunday afternoon.

—The streets on Saturday and Sunday nights were crowded with people until a late hour. The rain on the latter night dispersed the crowds.

—A man with fresh fish disposed of a large number on the streets on Saturday night. They were maskinonge and bass and were caught down the river.

—A locomotive standing on a siding in Ashburnham, almost opposite Simcoe-st. for some time on Sunday afternoon, led many to believe that a fire was in progress in the village.

—Many inquiries are being made as to what the tax rate will be this year. It is impossible to say at present, but the indications are that it will be higher than last year when 12¼ mills provided the necessary funds.

—The regular weekly practise of the members of the 57th Batt. Rifle Association took place on Saturday afternoon and evening at the range. There were a good number present.

—Quite a number of excursionists went down the river on Sunday. The boat was damaged on the return trip and those who desired to reach town in time for business this morning, were compelled to take an eight mile walk. Something they had not bargained for.

—A tie train ran up on the C.L. R. R. this morning as far as the cut. It cannot be definitely said yet when a ballast train will run. The engineers are at work to-day taking levels, etc. The grade at Smith-st. looks very steep to the eye, but those who should know state that it is not any steeper than on many other portions of the line.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should as ways be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it product natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright es a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

NORWOOD.

THE ORANGE DEMONSTRATION.—Thursday was the 12th of July, the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, and was right loyally celebrated by the members of the Orange order. The brethern of the Midland district, with the exception of those of East Peterborough, attended the grand demonstration in Port Hope. The East Peterborough Orangemen, at least the majority of them, celebrated the day in Norwood. Ten lodges, with an average membership of fifty, were present and the turnout was the most creditable we have ever seen in Norwood. All the lodges were neatly uniformed and when on parade presented a splendid appearance. Another noticeable feature was the entire absence of "drunkenness," not an Orangeman, so far as we could see, being "under the influence." The number of visitors in the village is variously estimated at from 3,000 to 4,000. About one o'clock the lodges repaired to the park where the procession was formed. After parading the principal streets the lodges marched to Grover's grove where addresses were delivered by the Revd's Carmichael and Clarke, and Messrs. J. Crowe, A. R. Anderson, J. P. Brown, Jos. Harrison and others. The orations were of more than usual excellence and were listened to with marked interest by the large assemblage. The programme was brought to a close by singing "God Save the Queen," after which the lodges dispersed. The celebration was successful in every particular and reflects much credit, both on the Order and those who had immediate charge of it.

A CHURCH DISMANTLED.—During the heavy gale which prevailed on Wednesday afternoon of last week the steeple on the R. C. church here was blown down. Its fall was witnessed by hundreds of our citizens. It acted in a very dignified manner, yielding slowly to the fury of the gale and bravely contesting every inch. Finally, when at an angle of about forty five degrees, a gust of more than usual severity compelled it to bow its stately head and submit to the inevitable. But even in failing its actions were graceful. Those of the spectators who expected to see it come down "slap-bang" and knock the bottom out of that particular part of the globe were sadly disappointed. It manifested none of the mad haste usually attributed to falling steeples, but came down slowly, gracefully, and we might add—solidly. It fell directly in front of the tower, the portion to which the cross was attached crushing through the plank walk which leads to the main entrance of the church, and burying itself some nine feet in the ground. Almost instantly it snapped in two like a pipe-stem, about six feet above where it was imbedded in the ground, the base just reaching to and destroying a portion of the fence. Although the distruction of the steeple is to be regretted, still it is very fortunate that it fell as it did. Had it fallen on the roof of the building it would have damaged it to the extent of several thousand dollars. Father Conway informs us that he had intended in the near future removing the steeple and replacing it with a cupaio, so that he has really money in pocket, as its removal would have cost a considerable sum. In the meantime the tower has been temporarily covered and the cupaio will follow in due course.—Register.

What a Time

People formerly had, trying to swallow the old-fashioned pill with its film of magnesia vainly disguising its bitterness; and what a contrast to Ayer's Pills, that have been well called "medicated sugar-plums"—the only fear being that patients may be tempted into taking too many at a dose. But the directions are plain and should be strictly followed.

J. T. Teller, M. D., of Chittenango, N. Y., expresses exactly what hundreds have written at greater length. He says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills are highly appreciated. They are perfect in form and coating, and their effects are all that the most careful physician could desire. They have supplanted all the Pills formerly popular here, and I think it must be long before any other can be made that will at all compare with them. Those who buy your pills get full value for their money."

"Safe, pleasant, and certain in their action," is the concise testimony of Dr. George E. Walker, of Martinsville, Virginia.

"Ayer's Pills outsell all similar preparations. The public having once used them, will have no others."—Berry, Venable & Collier, Atlanta, Ga.

MONDAY, JULY 23, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

The next few days were each a repetition of the other. Mona felt herself very useless. All she could do was to lighten the labors of the cook by instructing the house-maid to do a good deal in the kitchen.

The doctor came daily, and Kenneth was quite devoted to the sufferer when he was indoors. At length the monotony was broken by the arrival of Mary Black, whose interest and excitement at the news which awaited her was considerable.

"I hope I am not in the way, Mona, dear? Why did you not put me off?"

"You will be of the greatest assistance, Mary. To-morrow Mr. Waring is to be allowed to move into the drawing-room. The swelling and inflammation in his shoulder is almost gone; and Doctor Donaldson says that, although he is to be kept quiet, he is not to be allowed to mope, so you must help to amuse him."

"Is it me! Ah, Mona! I could not amuse a fine London gentleman."

"Fine! Poor Mr. Waring! In his most prosperous days he never had anything fine about him. It is wonderful how much an invalid increases the work in a house; and I shall be very grateful to you if you can do some of the reading to Uncle Sandy."

The first time that Waring left his own room for the drawing-room was a great event.

He looked pale and languid, and his eyes seemed unusually large. Mona and Mary had placed cushions and plaids on the sofa, and were ready to welcome him when he came in, leaning on Kenneth's arm.

"So glad to see you able to get about again," murmured Mona, placing a pillow to support his back, and another under his head.

"Thank you!" he said. "It is almost worth while being smashed up to be petted and made much of. It is a new and delightful sensation for me."

"You will soon be quite independent of us all! Let me introduce Miss Black to you—my one great friend. She is quite ready to assist in the process of spoiling you."

"Where is Uncle Sandy?" asked Kenneth.

"In the garden, I think. He has a dispute with the gardener about asparagus, and he has found some passage in a book on the 'Kitchen Garden,' which he thinks will annihilate Robbie Sanders."

"Suppose we go and find him," said Kenneth to Mary, who blushed vividly, and saying, "If you like," rose and went to find her hat.

Kenneth followed her. As he left the room Mona's eyes met those of Waring. They both smiled, and she felt that Kenneth had been very confidential to his new friend in their frequent interviews.

"Now, what can I do for you?" asked Mona, gently. "The doctor says that you are to be amused, though not excited."

"Oh! if you would lap me in Elysium, read to me! I find I get awfully tired holding up a book."

"With pleasure! What shall it be? The papers?"

"No, a book—any book."

"Do you deign to read novels?"

"I have liked some novels."

"We have nothing very new, but here is a volume of essays—Freeman's Essays, which are more interesting than many novels. Perhaps you have read them?"

"No, never! Would you mind sitting opposite to me? I shall hear you better! Do you know, it seems to me as if some queen of romance was condescending to comfort her wounded servant!"

"You were not wounded in my service!" said Mona, a smile dimpling round her mouth. "Now, you must not talk, Mr. Waring."

He bent his head, and so disarranged his cushions.

Mona gently replaced them, and began her lecture.

Waring listened, apparently with much interest, and occasionally made an observation which proved it; then she herself became absorbed in the charm of style and idea, and she read on for some time without looking up. When she did so, Waring's eyes were closed, and his head rested against the pillow. Mona thought he slept, and resuming, lest a sudden break might wake him, read a few sentences in a carefully subdued voice, and then ceased and sat gazing at him with an expression of tenderness and compassion of which she was unaware.

Suddenly Waring opened his eyes and fixed them on her for a moment, with a look of pain and sadness—but only for a moment, the next, he exclaimed—

"You thought I was asleep, but I was not, I was only dreaming heavenly dreams."

"That implies sleep," said Mona, shaking her head.

"I can repeat the two last sentences," said Waring, and he did so. "I like books better than I did," he continued. "I used to be an awfully stupid chap at school. I fancy I was exceedingly youthful, not to say backward, for my years. Now, you are tired, you must be tired; don't read any more."

"I read much longer to Uncle Sandy; but you must have some jelly now. I will get it for you."

"Was ever any fellow in such clover!" exclaimed Waring.

Then she brought it daintily, set forth on a snowy cloth, and held it for him, nor did he eat it up too fast.

"I did not think I should put our new friendship to the test so soon," he said.

"This is not a test," returned Mona, gravely, "it is only the exercise of ordinary humanity."

"Then how—" he was beginning, when Uncle Sandy came in full of pleasure and congratulations, and Mona left them together.

CHAPTER XXV.—A DISCOVERY.

Uncle Sandy had rarely appeared to such advantage as he did on this occasion. Leslie Waring was associated with perhaps the only well-spring of romance that had ever bubbled up for him in the somewhat arid plan of his life.

To him there were but two really great men in modern society, they were Meceachern & Leslie—the creators of the house with which he was so proud to have been connected. To have the grandson of one of these potentates under his roof, treating him with kindness and making himself pleasantly at home, seemed to Uncle Sandy's loyal, if rather rough heart.

Waring's character and bearing too was calculated to gain upon such a nature as his host's. Society of the higher order had left its stamp upon his simple, unaffected manners, and the ready courage with which he turned from a life of mere pleasure to one of hard work, when he had still enough left to idle on, delighted the sturdy old "man of the people." Waring was, to his idea, a sort of glorified incarnation of middle-class merit, the result of plebeian energy, which even conquered and appropriated the graces of good-breeding.

This satisfaction was reflected on all around him.

The monthly settlement of housekeeping accounts—a crucial test which even Mona dreaded—was accomplished without a single growl. Poor Kenneth's arithmetical errors were passed over with a slight expression of contempt, in the term "blunderin' gowk," and the contradictions of Robbie Sanders, the gardener, were overlooked.

To Mona, this was an unaccountably delightful break in the monotony of her existence. To be good friends with Waring, to see that he was a better and a stronger man than formerly, these were sources of purest pleasure.

THE BOHEMIAN PLOTTERS.

Consternation Among Chicago Anarchists—Sensational Developments Promised.

CHICAGO, July 22.—"This is only a prelude," said a Central Station detective, speaking of the arrest of the Bohemian dynamiters. Developments far more important and sensational will soon follow and at least six more Anarchists, all Germans and prominently identified with the Haymarket riots, will be placed under arrest."

It appears that since the Northwest side group, of which Fischer and Engel were members, was disbanded about a year and a half ago, a number of small Anarchist groups have been formed in various parts of the city. The group is organized on a plan suggested by Johann Most and his associates in New York. Each group is composed of but three or four members and is entirely independent in its actions. Whatever a group undertakes it does on its own responsibility. In case its existence is discovered only its own members are affected, and these can furnish the police information but about themselves. The members of one group know nothing about those of another, and the only way they communicate is through ciphers in Johann Most's New York paper, The Freiheit.

The arrest of the Bohemian plotters has caused great consternation among the Anarchists. They lay all the blame on the police, of course, and characterize the arrest of Hromek and comrades as a farce.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.

Just to hand light and dark Seersuekers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

THE BARK MARIE WRECKED IN THE GULF OF ST. LAWRENCE

Major Anderson of the 43rd to be Promoted—The Contract Let for the Pembroke Public Building—An Immense Output of Lumber.

OTTAWA, July 23.—The Department of Marine to-day received intelligence of the wreck on Bird Rocks, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, of the bark Marie of St. Johns, Newfoundland. The crew were saved and landed at North Sydney, the collector of customs at which place has asked assistance for the crew to send them home. This will be granted by the Department.

It seems to be definitely settled that Major Anderson of the 43rd will succeed Lt.-Col. White, Senior Major Welch being obliged to decline promotion on account of press of business.

The contract for the public building at Pembroke has been let by the Public Works Department to Munro, Beatty & Grieve of Pembroke. The building will be of local sandstone.

The output of lumber from the Chaudiere mills this season will probably be the largest ever known in the history of lumbering operations in this section. Including Gilmour's mill at Chelsea and Edwards' mill at Rockland the cut will be fully 500,000,000 feet, an increase of about 25 per cent. over last year. The low water last year "hung up" a large portion of the drive and there was practically no reserve left to commence this year's cut with. The water this spring, however, has been high for an unusually long period and not only was all the lumber which was stuck last fall got down early, but the immense cut of last winter is all in a fair way to reach the booms. Many of the firms greatly increased the capacity of their mills during the winter and all have been working night and day since the middle of May, but the drive is coming down so fast that the booms are kept pretty nearly full all the time. Shipments are being very freely made, prices keep fair and everything indicates a big year for lumbermen.

A Montreal Detective Shot.

MONTREAL, July 23.—A detective of the Law and Order League lies sick at his parents' residence with a bullet wound in his left side a little above the heart. A few evenings ago he was accosted by two roughs who made an insulting reference to the League, he replied and blows were exchanged. Another then made his appearance and drawing his revolver aimed it at the detective's breast, but the shot fortunately lodged a few inches above the heart. The sound of the shot brought assistance and the detective was helped into a hack and taken home where medical aid was summoned and the bullet extracted.

A Long Canoe Voyage.

MONTREAL, July 23.—Allan W. Johnston and Hugh Hartshorne of Brantford, are in the city. They came down from Hamilton in their canoe Nora en route for New York. They will go from here to St. Johns by rail and will continue their journey via Lake Champlain in their canoe.

A Thankless Child.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 23.—D. Engler, merchant tailor of this town, was robbed of $1,780 Saturday afternoon by his son Master Engler, a young man of 18 years, who had been a clerk in his store. The money was in a bureau drawer at the family residence where Mr. Engler had put it but a few hours before with the intention of purchasing the stock of E. Viger to start his son in business this week. A reward of $200 is offered for the young man's arrest and the recovery of the money.

Attempted Burglary at East Whitby.

OSHAWA, July 23.—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning burglars entered Col. Mulligan's house at East Whitby. The housekeeper heard them and alarmed the veteran, when they beat a hasty retreat without taking any valuables.

A Regular Dakota Tornado.

ALLISTON, July 23.—A terrific storm passed over a section of country a few miles west of here last night, unroofing several houses and barns, upturning trees and strawstacks and doing other damage. In fact it was a regular Dakota tornado.

Lundy's Lane.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 23.—The mayor of Niagara Falls South has made proclamation of a civic holiday for July 25, the anniversary of the battle of Lundy's Lane. The Historical Association will meet on the battle ground, and Col. Otter and other distinguished visitors will be present.

Drowned in Lake Sengog.

PORT PERRY, July 23.—On Saturday afternoon John Scott, aged 17, son of Rev Robt. Scott, Presbyterian minister of Brooksdale, and his cousin John Campbell, aged 16, son of Mr. Hugh Campbell, of Port Perry, went out in a canoe for a sail on Lake Sengog. They had not been long on the water when by some means they were upset. Campbell was rescued, but Scott sank and was drowned. Young Scott has been for about a year in the employ of W. A. Murray & Co., of King-street east, and was on his holiday trip.

The Ives Extradition Case.

ALBANY, July 23.—In the matter of the application by the State of Ohio to Governor Hill for the extradition of Henry S. Ives, George A. Hayner and E. Wilson Woodruff, who are in Canada, Governor Hill this afternoon listened to arguments. The hearing was adjourned till Aug. 7 when affidavits are to be filed by both sides.

An Opinion from Experts.

HAMILTON, July 24.—On Saturday some of the members of the Victoria Rifle Association fired some of the new Snider ammunition on the issue of 1888, made at the Government factory in Quebec, and they found the quality to be most excellent.

MISTRESS OF A NOVEL ART.

LONDON CHARMED BY MRS SHAW'S ECSTATIC TRILLS.

The Mysterious Woman in the Parnell Case—Another Theory Touching Stanley—The Marquis of Lorne's Appearance as a Poet—Phyllis' Broken Heart.

LONDON, July 23.—Mrs. Alice Shaw, who brings with her a new art from the land of novelties, the United States, has the merit of great courage in facing a new world by no means favorable to whistling of any kind. It is true that the tendencies of the times are allies of most innovations, especially when the innovators are unlowered daughters who display the true dash of independence. If some should say that whistling for a livelihood is what a large section of the community does already, and to whistle for want of thought is what the listless majority has always indulged in, it is none the less a fine art, though it has never attained to the enviable popularity even of the banjo, triangle or big drum. Indeed this ideal whistler combines the strength of an opera singer with the sweetness of a nightingale, and a diva's mastery in diminuendo, such as was displayed by Estadiantina Figaro at the famous garden party last year. Many people in London have been asked out to hear Mrs. Shaw, regarding the whole thing as a joke, and have come away in simple wonder at the unlooked-for display of her powers. They have found her a sound musician and a subtle mistress of her particular art. They have found that through her special medium she could fill Covent Garden with ecstatic trills or stray into softest whispered notes, the execution of which only years of rehearsal could achieve. It may be difficult to conceive of a whistling prima donna, but the fact is that whistling as a fine art is worthy of attentive study. Vocal chords which act as vibrating reeds form, in conjunction with the mouth, a resonatern, or hollow reverberating sphere, the only musical apparatus that can boast perfection, and it is certain that this instrument so sweet and effective in expressing emotion through the voice in speech and singing can be made equally so when its sounds are made to issue from self-adjusting lips. Those who have once heard Mrs. Alice Shaw cannot fail to realize that if whistling were cultivated as a fine art by those who, in addition to musical endowment, have strength of vocal chord and a high-roofed palate, they might be trained to take part in concert with effects more thrilling than the most exquisite instrumental music has ever conjured up, and which from its novelty alone would be more surprising than any concert hitherto heard, whether instrumental or vocal.

The interesting question being asked in political circles is, "Who is she?" It is rumored, and seems to be generally believed, that a woman is at the bottom of the Parnell prosecution, and that she is the main source from which The Times obtained the material on which it based its charges. Not only is the woman known to the initiated few, but it is said that the line inserted in the bill making any and all persons who testify before the commission free from any injury which might otherwise accrue from their testimony refers particularly to her, and was put in to get her into the witness-box. If she has forged the letter she will naturally keep out of the way, but should she appear some very interesting proceedings may be looked for. The whereabouts and personality of the woman are shrouded in mystery, but as rumor has often declared that Parnell is not entirely callous to the influence of the fair sex, and as the most rigid research has failed to fix treachery on any attachee of the League organization, the story obtains general credence.

Sir Francis de Winton, honorary secretary of the Emin Pasha Relief Committee, advances the theory that it is not at all unlikely that Stanley and Emin Pasha have been together for the last four months. He said that Stanley would not advance on Khartoum under any circumstances, considering his outfit, and that he would certainly stick to his original purpose of relieving Emin Pasha. He regards the reports concerning the White Pasha as magnified and unreliable, such being usually the case with reports passing from one African tribe to another.

The autumn session of Parliament, which is now unavoidable, will be a serious inconvenience to Joseph Chamberlain, who contemplated a visit to the Endicotts in America this fall. Gossips here have it that a wedding will take place in January.

The Marquis of Lorne is about to appear as a poet. He has written a number of books, but has never published any of his poems. His publisher has just published "Love Idyll" by him, which is handsomely illustrated.

It is said that Phyllis Broughton's breach of promise case will be settled out of Court. She asks £20,000 damages, but may accept half that amount, as did Miss Fortescue.

St. Stephen's says in the report of the week:—"The ball of the evening was Miss Adaire's," in Curzon street, in the house which formerly belonged to Lord Bantry. Here six duchesses and all the elite of the inner circle of what is known as the Marlboro House set put in an appearance. The new Duchess of Marlboro was again the centre of interest, and having recruited from the fatigue and unpleasantness of her recent journey across the ocean, her beauty was more pronounced and more widely recognised than it even was on the famous night of her debut last week at Mrs. Oppenheim's ball in Bruton-street."

The ancestral house of the Washington family is to be sold on Aug. 7. This is the Sulgrove estate in Northamptonshire. Henry VIII. it is said, gave part of the property, which extends over 220 acres, to Lawrence Washington, Mayor of Northampton in 1545. There is a memorial brass of this gentleman in the parish church dated 1545. His two sons, Lawrence and Robert, sold their inheritance and the son of the younger Lawrence, of whom George Washington was himself a descendant, emigrated to Virginia.

Kaiser and Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—At the dinner in the Peterhof Palace last evening the Czarina had Emperor William on her right and the Czar on her left. The minister of the Court sat opposite, with the German guests on the right and the Russian on the left. All the Ministers were present, as well as Count Schonvaloff, Gen. Von Schwernitz, the foreign suites, the Admirals of the German squadron and Capt. McKellar of the U.S. steamer Enterprise. The silver dinner service was used. In the floral decoration were 5000 roses and a quantity of blue lobelia, Emperor William's favorite flower. The proposed luncheon on board the yacht Hohenzollern was abandoned. The Czar instead will inspect the vessel on Tuesday. Count Herbert Bismarck and M. de Giers conferred with Emperor William during the day. Emperor William has conferred the Order of the Red Eagle upon Gen. Gresher, prefect of St. Petersburg. Russian officers are much impressed with Emperor William's martial spirit and bearing and his amiability and thoughtfulness.

Suicide of a Stanley Farmer.

ZURICH, Ont., July 23.—Joseph Templeton, of Stanley township, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn on Saturday morning. He was about 30 years of age and not married. He had a good farm and was working it successfully with a hired man, his mother keeping house for him. He appeared perfectly sane on the previous evening. No one can tell the cause of his rash act. An inquest was held and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Two Warehouses at Lindsay Completely Destroyed—Serious Accident.

LINDSAY, July 23.—A most disastrous fire occurred here on Sunday morning about 3 o'clock, destroying the large store-houses owned and occupied by the firms of Dundas and Flavell Bros. and Sadler, Dundas & Co., situated on King-street, near the track of the Midland Railway. One of the buildings was partially occupied by R. Touchburn, grain and produce merchant. There were contained in the buildings 15,000 bushels of wheat, 30,000 pounds of wool and a large quantity of butter and eggs. The water works were soon brought into operation, but the fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save either building.

Occurring at this season of the year the indirect loss to the firms will be very serious, more especially as the wheat destroyed was held in store to meet the requirements of their large flour mills. The insurances, however, will barely cover the losses, as the policy held in the North British and Mercantile was a blanket policy which covered not only the property destroyed but a large number of other warehouses situated along the line of the Midland Railway. The other insurances are $5000 in the Royal Canadian, $3000 in the Liverpool, London and Globe, and $1100 in the British American, the last amount being on Touchburn's grain. The total loss will reach $25,000.

During the progress of the fire a serious, and what may prove a fatal, accident occurred. Mr. M. O'Leary, a barber at the Central House, raised a window on the third story, presumably to look out at the fire, and by some means fell out, alighting on the sidewalk below. He sustained injuries which may result in his death. At the present moment he is in a precarious condition.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Arrest of a Batch of Suspected Crooks—Taken In by a Swindler.

TORONTO, July 23.—Henry Myers, a laborer engaged in piling stone on Sylvester's wharf, fell into the bay this morning with the best part of the pile, which had been built loosely and slipped. Fortunately the man was on the top of the pile and he escaped with a ducking.

A short man wearing a light suit, a gray moustache and a seductive smile has been calling upon several large business houses here soliciting subscribers for an American mercantile agency, which he alleged was about to open in Canada. The name on the card presented by him was Gustave S. Marston. Two or three local merchants were induced to subscribe, and now one of the orders which were signed has turned up in the shape of a promissory note, which Gustave had discounted. Mr. Marston cannot be found in Toronto.

From out of a respectable boarding-house on Simcoe-street the police, this morning, produced nine young men who arrived in the city on Saturday night, and who are suspected by the authorities of being part of an extensive organization of crooks. They gave names supposed to be fictitious and one only told where he came from, when he recorded himself as Thos. McLaughlin, Pittsburg.

Premier Greenway was at the Queen's this morning looking healthier, stouter, better dressed and more aggressive than ever. The Manitoba chieftan bids fair, if he keeps on, to become a rival of President Cleveland in the matter of avoirdupois. To your correspondent he said: "We are going to have a much more extensive exhibit of all the products of the country at the exhibition than we ever had before. Lately we have had excellent growing weather, and this year there is the greatest crop outlook in the history of the country. Wheat and the other cereals are doing splendidly, and in fact all crops are. As to prices I cannot prophesy. Twenty miles of track of the Red River Valley Railway were down when I left home, and the road will be in Winnipeg next month. I think Winnipeg is bound to become a great city. It is pretty well recovering from the injurious effects of the boom of 1882. Politically I have not anything to say. Everything that I could say is pretty well known already."

A sub-committee of the Board of Works presented yesterday a scheme for the complete reorganization of that body.

James Lindsay, aged 21, disappeared from his house, 604 King-street west, on Saturday and has not been seen since.

BAD BOYS AT HAMILTON.

Precocious Burglars and Larcenists—A Fatal Accident.

HAMILTON, July 23.—There is a patient in the hospital suffering from the effects of an accident, the particulars of which have not hitherto appeared in the papers, having probably been kept quiet by interested parties. On June 6 a lately arrived immigrant from the Green Isle named Patrick Mulligan was over at Bay-view and in coming down the elevator he fell in some way and broke his back. There is no hope of his recovery, though he may linger for weeks yet. The lower half of his body is completely paralyzed and has not the slightest feeling in it. A pin might be stuck into any part of it without causing the man any pain. Mulligan is perfectly conscious, however, and fully realizes his position.

The residence of W. E. Brown, was burglarized last night, and between $60 and $70 was stolen. A door and a couple of windows were found open this morning.

Five boys were brought up on remand at the police court this morning to stand their trials for housebreaking and larceny. John Miller and Andrew Mortimer, aged 13 and 17 years respectively, were the worst of the five. No less than four charges were laid against them. The magistrate sent them to the Penetanguishene reformatory for three years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently. Mortimer is also charged, in conjunction with John Folland, with breaking into McGregor & Parke's drug store. This case will be tried to-morrow morning. Charles Cole, the young man who was detected in the act of breaking into McLaren's grocery store, was sent to jail for one month. William Pearson and Charles Johnston, the youngsters who broke into H. J. McAllister's grocery store and stole $5, were fined $4 each.

When the Sunday Beach train was starting for home last evening a young man was trying to persuade the young woman who accompanied him to remain behind, but she would not; then he tried to hold her. As the train started she got on the platform of one of the cars and he caught hold of her and tried to drag her off, but he lost his footing and fell. He staggered and then went off the platform, and right under one of the cars. He succeeded in getting out before the wheels got up to him, the train fortunately having not much speed.

Sudden Death of a Guelph Lad.

GUELPH, July 23.—George Rudd, aged 18 years, son of Mr. John Rudd, died suddenly yesterday afternoon. George, in company with several young people, went out for a walk a short distance from his father's residence when he was taken seriously ill. His comrades carried him into a house near by, where he remained some two hours, and seeming to be getting worse he wished to be conveyed home. On the way he was taken much worse and before reaching his father's house he fell down and expired.

Sudden Death at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 23.—John Ogilvie, brother of Hon. Senator Ogilvie, was found dead in his bed this morning. Heart disease is supposed to be the cause of his death. He was out for a long walk yesterday, and appeared to be quite well when he retired last night.

THE FISHERIES TREATY.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE IN THE U.S. SENATE.

Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts Makes a Long Address Opposing Ratification—Mr. Evarts of New York to Close the Discussion on Monday.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—After routine the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Fisheries Treaty in open executive session, and was addressed by Mr. Dawes (Rep., Mass.) in opposition to its ratification. He said that the declaration of independence entitled the United States to the fisheries, and that the treaty of 1873 was but the recital of the bill. When that treaty was adopted the rights of the United States in those waters were precisely the same as the rights of the British Crown in them.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) asked Mr. Dawes whether his opinion of the colonial right in respect to the fisheries was that the Canadians, prior to the revolutionary war, had the same fishing rights on all of the American coast down to Georgia as the Americans hadin Canadian waters. Were there mutual colonial rights!

Mr. Dawes declined to be drawn from the line of his argument, but expressed his willingness (whenever he had leisure) to sit at the feet of the Senator from Alabama and learn all about the subject. He went on to say that if to-day the title of the United States to fishery rights in those waters fell short one particle of its title when the treaty of 1873 was signed it was the result of diplomacy. The first departure, the first surrender of rights was in the treaty of 1818 and out of that treaty had come all the American woes.

The present treaty was an experiment of the administration in that field where so few laurels had been gathered heretofore by the diplomacy of the United States. It would have been well worthy the attention of any administration to consider whether it was not in its power to restore the ground lost, and if not absolutely as near as possible the condition of things which the fathers of the Republic had delivered our to their sons. If the administration had entered upon the negotiations with any such purpose and had given notice that it did not propose to make further concessions but to observe the mitual obligations of the two countries a far different result would have been attained than the treaty before the Senate.

The idea as to the terrible consequences that would result if the United States longer persisted in contending against the unjustifiable claims of Great Britain had but one parallel and that was when the navy yard at Pensacola was surrendered by the Secretary of the Navy in January, 1861, in order to preserve the peace.

As a treaty of peace he declared the treaty to be an utter failure. Those who negotiated on the one side and the other would find that if it were ratified that the occasions for strife would multiply and twelve months would not pass after its ratification before the United States would wish it were in its power to retract its steps.

Mr. Dawes quoted from the speech of Sir Charles Tupper in the Canadian Commons to show that the concessions were made not by Great Britain but by the United States, and said that he returned his thanks to Sir Charles for the obligation he had put the American people under in furnishing them with materials to form a proper judgment of the treaty, which materials had been withheld from them by the Crown negotiators.

Mr. Morgan asked him whether he was under any obligation not to offer an amendment to the treaty and suggested that any supposed obscurity in its language might thus be corrected.

Mr. Dawes replied that not under any circumstances was it a treaty of peace but full of strife and disturbance. Great Britain never had that power to interfere with the free passage of the Straits of Canso by any vessel of the United States. As a security the treaty was not worth the paper on which it was written because its conditions were subject to all the caprices and hostilities of local legislatures and of local courts. This was one reason why it was not a treaty of peace.

The Canadians themselves had utterly failed in obtaining that for which they had entered the negotiation. It had come to be understood that this was Canada's opportunity for obtaining freer commercial relations with the United States. Mr. Ambrose Shea, an officer of the Government of Newfoundlagd, and Mr. Wiman, a Canadian whose residence was in Brooklyn, had come to Washington immediately after the inauguration with that object in view. Was there any doubt that Canada had failed in her paramount purpose in entering into the negotiations?

Mr. Stewart (Rep., Cal.), then made an argument against the ratification of the treaty.

Mr. Stewart said among other things that England should name the sum to be paid for the Dominion of Canada, the Dominion should name the conditions of union and the United States should respond in a spirit of concession and generosity.

Mr. Evarts (N. Y.) stated that it had been arranged on the Republican side that he should close the debate against the treaty but that he did not expect that the conclusion of the discussion would be reached before next Monday.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Mr. Smith Moves the Second Reading of the Bill.

LONDON, July 23.—In the House of Commons to-day Philip Stanhope called the attention of the Government to the threatening language used by the Crown counsel before the coroner at Mitchellstown and to his charging the court with preventing the inquiry in the Mandeville case. Mr. Stanhope asked whether the counsel acted so in pursuance of instructions from Dublin Castle and whether the Government would order the counsel to assume a more respectful attitude toward the coroner.

Mr. Balfour replied that he had no information on the subject, but he believed the Crown counsel did not need any instructions from himself or from Mr. Stanhope.

Mr. Smith moved the second reading of the bill dealing with the charges and allegations against members of Parliament. He supported the measure in a speech in which he announced that Sir James Hannen would be the President and Justices Day and Smith would be the other members of the Commission.

Mr. Parnell said that it was evident that the case as regarded the forged letter was going to be a breakdown and demanded that the Government limit the scope of the Commission to the charges against himself and the other Irish members. He would vote for the second reading but the issues raised must be considered at a later stage.

Mr. Gladstone, after a pause during which there were calls for the Attorney General, expressed surprise that the Government did not answer Mr. Parnell. There ought to be no skulking.

Mr. Matthews repudiated the idea that the Government had in any sense made themselves a party to the charges. The Commission surely could be trusted to deal impartially.

A Missionary to Japan.

WHITBY, July 24.—Mr. Arthur W. Beall, B. A., a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, a young citizen of this town who has made his mark as a scholar, left here yesterday morning for Tokio, Japan, where he will work as a missionary under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A., of Montreal.

TUESDAY, JULY 24, 1888.

FOR GENERAL BUSINESS

A SHORT AND UNINTERESTING TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

Town Debentures Talked About—Prohibiting Shooting—A new Town Directory—Chairman Langford of the Street and Bridge Committee—Some chat regarding Street Lighting.

A special meeting of the town Council was held on Monday evening.

Mayor Stevenson presided and his twelve apostles were all in their seats.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the town Clerk of Lindsay, asking that August 16th be not chosen as the date of the Civic Holiday.—Received.

From Wm. Gooderham, Toronto, in reference to placing Wm. Course, suffering from cancer, in the home for Incurables.—Charity Committee with power to act.

From E. Pearse, Secy.-Treas. Town Trust, making a demand for $7,540, to meet maturing debentures and interest.

From W. H. Law asking for a sidewalk on and the grading of Dalhousie-st., west from George-st. to the Bridge Works.

From Edg. Pearse, Secy.-Treas. Town Trust stating that the commissioners will be in a position to take $10,000 debentures on the 31st December next.—Received.

ACCOUNTS.

P. Connal & Co., charity	$ 81 55
Dickson Co. lumber	654 40
R. Shortley, harness blacking, etc	5 35
Kingan & Co., nails, etc	22 35

N. Lush, charity	15 98
Times, printing	2 00

The accounts of the Chief and N. Lush were ordered to be paid and the others were referred to the Finance Committee.

A CHARITY CASE.

The MAYOR brought up the case of Wm. Course, who is suffering from cancer and is confined to gaol. The Rev. Mr. Beck was present and he invited him to speak.

Rev Mr. Beck said that Wm. Course is suffering from a cancer in his mouth. Owing to the fact that he is incurable he could not be admitted to the hospital here. He had written to Toronto and found out that he would be taken into the Home for Incurables, Toronto, if the Council will pay for him. The case is a bad one and although he receives good care at the gaol, it is no place for him and he thought that he should be removed at once as the lives of the other prisoners were endangered from blood poisoning.

The matter was referred to the Charity Committee with power to act.

A DIRECTORY.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON, on motion was heard. He proposed publishing a complete directory of the town, which would give a full description of the town and a lithographic map. It would be a most complete and accurate work and by placing copies in the principal hotels and other public resorts in the Dominion, he felt confident that it would prove a great advertisement for the town. In order to assist in getting the book up he asked the Council to take one hundred and fifty copies at one dollar each. He only asked for the order and would not ask for payment unless the book was satisfactory to the Council.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

The MAYOR said that the Town Clerk was ill and desired leave of absence.

Moved by Councillor KENDRY, seconded by Councillor CAHILL,—That four weeks leave of absence be granted to the Town Clerk.—Carried.

WHISTLING.

The MAYOR said that he had receive satisfactory assurances that the whistling by the railway locomotives had ceased.

Councillor MOORE could not agree with the Mayor.

Councillor HARTLEY was well satisfied as he had not heard any noise from this cause, during the last month.

FINANCE REPORT.

Councillor DAVIDSON read a report recommending payment of the following accounts:—

T. Dolan & Co. and W. Lech's accounts were not entertained as the police are by by-law obliged to furnish their own uniforms.

With reference to the Blythe Woollen Mills by-law, the committee would recommend that it be further considered.

The report was adopted.

A NEW CHAIRMAN.

Moved by Councillor CAHILL, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That Councillor Langford continue to act as Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee.—Carried.

DISCHARGING FIREARMS.

A by-law regarding the discharging of firearms inside the corporation was passed, amending the former by-law by making the term of imprisonment in default of payment of fine 21 days instead of 30.

TOWN DEBENTURES.

The MAYOR said that the Town Trust could take $10,000 of the Town Debentures at four per cent. but they must realize on them in 1893. He had several offers of 97.

Councillor DAVIDSON had an idea that par could be obtained and he advocated advertising.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee with power to advertise.

BOOMING A PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

Moved by Councillor HARTLEY seconded by Councillor HENDRY,—That the Council take at least 150 copies of Mr. J.R. Stratton's directory, about to be issued, at $1 00 per copy, subject to the approval of the Finance Committee.

Councillor MOORE favored the idea, but wanted something binding on Mr. Stratton, such as a written agreement. He considered 100 copies sufficient.

Mr. STRATTON said he was willing to receive any suggestions the Finance Committee may submit and allow them to read the proof sheets.

Councillor MOORE wanted to see the book and the style of it before the books are printed.

Councillor LANGFORD pointed out that the Finance Committee would advertise the work.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL could not exactly see how the work would advertise the town. He wanted to consider the matter and asked that it be referred to the Finance Committee.

Councillor KENDRY thought it was a good scheme and one that would advertise the town to a large extent.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL was personally in favor of the directory, but it was another question whether the town should assist in booming a private enterprise.

Councillor KELLY thought the motion was all right as the town is not committed, unless the book is approved of by the Finance Committee.

Mr. STRATTON said the work would point out all the advantages of the town as regards manufacturing facilities, location, modes of access, etc.

The motion was carried.

AN EXPLANATION.

Councillor LANGFORD read a letter from Mr. J. G. Macklin of the the G.T.R., stating that the company had duly received a plan of the Smith-st. grade, but did not make use of it. Mr. Hay had told the speaker that the street was too hard to cut. He made the explanation in order to quiet some stories that are in circulation.

MORE LIGHT.

Moved by Councillor A. HALL seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That the offer of Mr. T. G. Hazlitt to supply 35 electric lights, at $60 per year, to burn 300 nights be accepted and that the matter be referred to the Fire Water and Light Committee.

Councillor KELLY did not favor putting up any more light as it cost too much money already.

Councillor A. HALL said that the Committee had considered the matter fully and they had concluded that they could save money by making the contract proposed.

The MAYOR found fault with the motion and thought the town was not acting fairly with the Gas Co.

Councillor KELLY could not see where any saving was made by using electric light instead of gas.

Councillor YELLAND said that some gas lamps could be done away with, that are not at all necessary. He wanted to act square with both companies and not be prejudiced.

Councillor A. HALL said that gas lamps ordered to be discontinued were left lit night after night.

The MAYOR said that the Electric Light Co. had put up lamps without orders and the gas lamps under them were lit.

Councillor A. HALL said that in some cases gas lamps were lit long after they were cancelled.

Councillor DOUGLAS said that the Electric Light Co. should extend their lamps to the outskirts, as the gas Co. were compelled to do.

Councillor KENDRY said that there is no light at all at the north end, and one of the objects of the resolution was to light up the outskirts.

Councillor DAVIDSON said the proposed new lights would form a circuit from Crescent-st. to Englishtown, and thence north to Auburn. The additional expenditure would only be $300, for nearly double the number of lights at present in use.

Councillor CAHILL favored more light, but he thought the town paid sufficiently large sum at present for the service given. He wanted a good binding contract with both companies to prevent disputes in the future. He wanted the matter referred to the committee to furnish particulars. With the purposed lamps the cost would be $4000 to light the town.

The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to report.

The meeting then adjourned to the call of the Mayor.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you can may depend upon this for certain.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

Crooks Arrested at Wesley Park.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 23.—Chief McDougall of the Ontario Police arrested two apparent crooks in Wesley Park grounds this morning, one of them slightly intoxicated. They gave their names as Harold Evans of Pittsburg and H. E. Penny of Buffalo. Upon Evans' person was found nearly $800. One package containing $500 had a band around it, marked German National Bank, Pittsburg. Evans had registered as Fred T. Clark, Buffalo, N.Y., as well as Penny.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

Take in Your Hose.

A new phase of thieving has developed during the last few weeks. Sneak thieves are reported as stealing the nozzles of lawn sprinklers and water taps left out during the night. Lengths of hose have been taken, and the other night fifteen feet of hose was cut off the length lying on a citizen's lawn on Aylmer-st. The police should look out for the robbers, and see if any clue could be obtained by inspecting the stock carried out of town by peddlers and others dealing in old metals and truck generally.

Taking Tea in the Woods.

A pleasant social occasion was the picnic and evening tea participated in by the employees of Mr. J. C. Turnbull on Monday evening at the Quarry. The lady employees of the house furnished tea, and the gentlemen, who were as invited guests, voted the occasion one particularly agreeable and that would bear duplicating. In all, nearly fifty people, connected with the house, together with immediate friends, were of the party. The shower that fell was somewhat of a draw back, but did not seriously interfere with the success of the evening.

Better Light.

The scheme of securing eleven more electric lights for the streets is one that has been under consideration by the Fire, Water and Light Committee for some time. The members have walked all over the town and have located the extra lights in places where they are badly needed and where they will do most good. All of the councillors agree that the outskirts are not by any means properly lighted. While on this subject, as it is to go before the committee, might it not be well to see what arrangements can be made for all night lights in the centre of the town. They are a necessity. The proposed 35 lights will cost $60 each per year, to burn until, midnight on 300 nights in the year. At present the town pays $75 per year for the same service for 24 lamps.

At the Park.

The Fire Brigade band gave their regular weekly open air concert in the Horticultural Park on Monday evening. The threatening weather militated against the usual large attendance and shortened the programme. However, those who were present heard some excellent new music, as well as favorite old numbers.

A Good Choice.

The Council has appointed Coun. Langford to the position of Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, vice Coun. Cahill resigned. During the absence of the latter gentleman, Coun. Langford performed the duties of the position to the satisfaction of all portions of the town and we have no doubt but that he will continue to do so in the future.

A Hint to Campers.

A camper who went up the lakes on Saturday afternoon was heard at Lakefield loudly grumbling because he could not find a piece of baggage forwarded the day previous. After search some trace was got of the missing property. No wonder it was astray, for it was not labelled. Those going north should affix tags to their belongings, plainly marked in care of the boat by which they wish the freight carried. This will save a deal of annoyance.

Two Excursions.

The annual excursion of St. Paul's Sunday school took place to-day, per the Grand Trunk to Lakefield and thence by steamer through Stoney Lake. A large number took advantage of the cheap fares to visit the health giving resorts to be found up north. The Golden Eye this morning carried down several hundred friends, teachers and scholars of the Charlotte-st. Methodist Sunday school bound for Jubilee Point on their annual outing. Never before in any one season did the Golden Eye carry as many excursioners in the same length of time, as she has done this year.

A Peculiar Account.

Among the accounts presented at the Council meeting on Monday evening was one from a town builder and contractor for the sum of $13, reading "To 3 day's work at $4 per day, tendering for King and Charlotte-st. bridges." After calling for tenders for these structures, the Council suddenly decided to do them by day work and this contractor thinks that under the circumstances he is entitled to be paid for his time. Judging from the fact that the account was simply received a majority of the members do not agree with him. The reading of the account caused considerable laughter and amusement.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

Belleville Toughs.

The Intelligencer says that about midnight on Saturday, the residents near Quinte toboggan slide, West Belleville, were disturbed by a great uproar in which there was a high, strong contralto voice, which was readily recognized as the property, by right of possession, of Mary Cole, better known as "Flat foot." The police were telephoned and officers Cook and Morton responded. On the way up they met two men coming toward the city, and, thinking they might be of the party, concluded to search them, as a revolver had been used in the row. The men proved to be Geo. Rogers and Wm. Dumensil, a barber. Rogers had a sand bag in his pocket and Dumensil, a six shot revolver of peculiar pattern. They were escorted to the cells. Flat Foot, who inhabited Zwick's Island some two winters ago, but is now holding forth on Baker's Island, had gone west with a companion and was not secured. In police court this morning Dumensil was required to give surities to keep the peace, in default 30 days, and Rogers was fined $15 or 30 days. The bag was made of eel skin filled with sand.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

Considerable Discussion Regarding Proposed Rules, but No Sales Made.

The regular meeting of the cheese Board was held at the old Music Hall, at noon today. There was a good attendance and some lively discussion. The buyers present were Messrs. McCargar, Hodgson, Dingwall, Cook, McBain, Warrington, Bird, Flavelle, Leary, Fitzgerald, Wrighton and Cluxton.

The cable quotation was 46 shillings at Liverpool.

The following cheese were boarded:—

The proximate value of the cheese was $13,000.

Mr. Cluxton before bids were asked for introduced a resolution, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, in reference to rules for the guidance of the Board sales. He thought that when selections were made, the factories selected should be called off before any further bids were taken.

Messrs. Hodgson and McCargar thought that the factories should not be called off until the Board closed.

Mr. Cluxton found that the Belleville buyers were as one, and divided the cheese purchased. He liked to see them in Peterborough, but he was afraid that unless different rules were adopted the Peterborough buyers would be driven off and then there would not be any competition whatever.

Mr. McCargar pointed out that on all the other boards in this district and increase of ½ takes selections and 1-16 the board.

Messrs. Hodgson and Cook denied that they had divided.

Mr. Cluxton said that if they did, it was perfectly legitimate.

The motion was lost and after waiting for some time without any bids being made the Board adjourned for one week.

Band Competition.

A grand band competition will take place at Walkerton on August 8th and 9th. $1,200 are offered in prizes. In the first-class the prizes are $300, $200 and $100. In the second class they are $150, $100 and $50. In addition to these several prizes are offered for bands of the county of Bruce. Remarkably low rates have been secured from the railways and an enormous attendance is looked for.

The Georgian Boodler.

Belleville Ontario:—C. C. Nelson, the bank absconder from Atlanta, Georgia, arrested by Chief Hinde, of Trenton, has been positively identified by Jacob Hatch banker, and L. Giant, solicitor, of Atlanta. The amount of money that Nelson made away with was $25,000 and upwards. He also carried off a large amount of jewellery put up as collateral security. He is held on a charge of bringing stolen goods into Canada. Nelson is a gentlemanly fellow, plausible and insinuating in his manner, and altogether one of the slickest of customers. He is talking most of the time. He says he was born at Long Point in Western Ontario, and that his name is W. C. C. Nelson, but that he dropped the first initial some years ago. He was brought before Police Magistrate Gordon and remanded for a week to the Belleville gaol, but as yet he has not been brought here. An effort was made on Saturday to get County Attorney Henderson's permission for Nelson's discharge, but he refused his consent. Nelson was in Belleville the day before he was arrested, and stopped at an uptown hotel. He is quite content to remain under surveillance as he is sure he cannot be extradited. Nelson, it is said, was willing to give up all the money and valuables which he had if he was granted his discharge. A Trenton correspondent writes that three prominent citizens figured as directors in Nelson's arrest, until it was found the party who offered the $1,000 reward was not responsible and then they suddenly knew nothing about the case."

Starting for Fort William.

The Calgary Daily Tribune of July 19th says:—"P. J. Henselwood, bridge foreman on the C. P. R., who with his crew of men have been engaged between Calgary and the mountains since early spring, received a telegram from Mr. Ross, Superintendent of bridges and buildings of the western division, to start with his men to Fort William to work on the new elevator there. Mr. Henselwood and his crew are all Peterborough, Ont., men, and as they have worked for Mr. Ross before, he always places them where the most important work is in progress. The names of the party are Messrs. Eastland, Sherlock, Rehill, Smith and Huffman. They have earned the good will and wishes of all with whom they had intercourse since coming to the mountains."

Lawn Tennis.

A lawn tennis match was played here on Saturday, between Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and Peterborough clubs, with the following result:—

Singles.

Retallack (Peterborough) beat Summerhays (Osgoode Hall), 6-2, 7-5.
Carion (Peterborough) beat Brown (Osgoode hall), 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.
Langton (Osgoode Hall) beat Gordon Smith (Peterborough), 5-7, 6-0, 6-1.

—Again this morning the Police Court docket was a blank. Evidently Peterborough is a good moral town.

Port Hope Guide:—"Miss Ada Aldridge, of Peterborough, is the guest of Mrs. Samuel Coombe, Victoria-st.

—Grey Ned and Sleepy Dan left for Cannington to-day. They will take part in the races on Wednesday and Thursday.

—The tail of Gilmour's drive is now passing through the town and the cookery has many visitors, looking for beans.

—According to the C. L. A. Schedule, the Bradford and Riverside lacrosse clubs, should play to-morrow, but the date has since been changed.

—The Charity Committee are in communication with the Home for Incurables, Toronto, with reference to placing Wm. Course in that institution.

—The great Belleville baseball aggregation is in financial difficulty. The same thing usually happens when a one horse town tries to run a two horse team.

—The Little World was taken to Lindsay this morning. It is an exhibition well worth seeing. As an example of mechanical skill it is not surpassed on the globe.

—A Port Hope youth, imbued with the wild west spirit, purchased a shot gun. The barrel burst and a lacerated arm and a powder stained face were the results.

—The time for the completion of the Napanee water works is at hand but the contractors have not commenced work and the people begin to think they will not be built.

—Yardmaster McNeil, of the G. T. R. at Belleville, while coupling cars on Monday was caught between the bumpers and seriously injured. The doctors have some hopes of his recovery.

—Some of the gentlemen who walked home nine or ten miles up the river, on Sunday night through the heavy rain have solemnly resolved never to go sailing again on the Sabbath.

—The coon boot black, arrayed in a coffee sack cut and trimmed a la cowboy from the wild and wooly west, attracts considerable attention on the streets, and he also rakes in considerable dimes for shines.

—For the first time in some months, the thirteen members of the Council, all occupied their seats on Monday evening. The Mayor congratulated Coun. Cahill upon his return from the Pacific coast.

Principal Grant of Queen's college, Kingston, who went by way of England and the Cape of Good Hope, has reached Australia and will remain there for some months. He is attaining the object for which he went abroad, the recovery of his health.

—A. W. Johnston and Hugh Hartshore of Brantford, passed down the St. Lawrence in a canoe. They will run all the rapids except Lachine, Long Sault and Cedar. They have coasted down Lake Ontario shore from Buffalo, and will go on to Sorel, and then into Lake Champlain, and on to Troy, and finally New York city, where they will dispose of their canoe. The trip will take about three weeks.

—A nuisance that may result in causing a serious accident some day by frightening horses, is the practice of boys flooding the stations and platforms with handbill paper and dodgers. Such advertising matter should be distributed to houses, not thrown a way indiscriminately. The station authorities do not wish to hamper town merchants by unnecessary severity but those using such printed matter should require it distributed properly.

Not a particle of calomel, nor any other deleterious substance, enters into the composition of Ayer's Pills. On the contrary, this medicine is carefully compounded from the curative properties of purely vegetable substances. Try it.

"Iget your idea," said Mr. Balltop to his wife "Your reasoning is quite correct. Your experience is a safe guide. Quite so, decidedly so. You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

Then he was so very reasonable. He worried her with no expressive looks or words which insinuated lover-like feeling. He liked her to read to him, or to write for him; but he was nearly as well pleased with the services of Miss Black, nearly—not quite; and when in a talkative mood, he used to describe the wild beauty of his Californian home quite eloquently. He really had more in him than she at one time could have believed. He had grown quite good-looking too (Mona was keenly alive to her exterior advantages), and she often thought, as he lay back on the sofa cushions, what an honest strong face he had, and how much the thoughtful subexpression of sadness it had developed, beautified and ennobled it.

Then the temporary weakness of his strong frame appealed to the tenderness of her most womanly heart; there was undoubtedly a friendly sympathy between them. Her voice never sounded so sweet, so expressive, as when she read or sung to him. But they were rarely alone together. Mary Black was not behindhand in delicate attentions, and, as Kenneth observed, both young ladies vied with each other who should spoil the invalid most.

To Mary, however, most of his talk and good-humored chaff was directed. He praised her songs loudly, and said but little about Mona's, except now and then an imploring exclamation of "Do go on;" "Another, please, another."

Uncle Sandy, however good-humored, did not admit of any neglect, and always demanded an hour or more of Mona's time after their early dinner, while she read to him the better part of the famous Scotsman, and some portion of the Times weekly edition, which reached them every Saturday. Sometimes Waring slept on the drawing-room sofa during this exercise—sometimes he came to listen, while Mary and Kenneth disappeared; but occasionally the former took her work and sat with the "ill mon." The murmur of their voices while thus engaged, with occasional bursts of merriment, came through the door of communication to Mona one afternoon, as she toiled through a heavy leader on "municipal" government, and presently Mary put in her head.

"Mr. Waring says it's so fine and bright, he would like a little turn, and I am going with him," she said. "We will be down the drive."

"Dinna let him do too much!" cried Uncle Sandy. "We will come along and meet you."

Waring was now permitted to take exercise, and was rapidly recovering.

"What shall I read next?" asked Mona. "There is an article on the Soudan—"

"Naw," said her uncle—one of his most negative "news," which always seemed to Mona as if it could stop a torrent—and he sat in thought for a minute; then he roused himself.

"I'm thinking," he said, "that Mr. Leslie is growing ower-fond of Mary Black. They are aye at havers wi' ane anither, and I am no varra pleased. She's no match for Leslie's grandson; and yet the lassie is a guid lassie. I wadna see her vexed. He is a weel-spoken lad forbye—the sort to win ony woman's love. Eh, Mona?"

"I do not think Mary cares much about him, uncle. Tastes differ widely, you know. As to her being no match for him, you must remember that Mr. Waring has not much in the way of a home to offer. His—"

"Hoot, toot!" he interrupted. "It will be a fair home enough. Young Leslie is going to be a successful mon after a bit."

"I am sure I hope so; but I do not think you need trouble about Mary. As to Mr. Waring, I dare say he admires her—she is very sweet and charming; but these fancies do not trouble men long."

"Ay, the sort o' hempies you're been used to. But, my lassie, a real thouchtfu' mon, if luve taks hold on his heart, it grips it hard and fast, and will na let go. If young Leslie has let himself luve our Mary, he'll no leave her behind him. He doesna come of the sort that gives in."

"Well, I do not think that Mary is in love with him."

"I hope you are right," said her uncle, slowly; then, after a pause, he began to struggle to his feet. "Come," he said, "we will go and meet them."

"As it is but a short way, uncle, could you get on without me? I have never answered madame—I mean Mrs. Fielden's last letter, and I should like to do so this afternoon."

"So do, my dearie, so do. I'll just gang a bit down the road. May be I'll met Kenneth."

Mona escaped as quickly as she could to her own pleasant room, from the window of which she could catch a glimpse of the sea between two hills, and having hastily put out her writing materials, she sat down, leaned her head on both hands, her elbows resting on the table, and fell into profound and painful thought.

Her uncle's words had suddenly bared the recesses of her heart, and lo! there lay an unsuspected root of pain and mischief.

That Mary was completely guarded by her warm attachment to Kenneth, Mona did not doubt. That Waring admired her was possible, but she did not believe it was more than a kindly liking.

The revelation to her was this: If Waring really loved Mary, or any other woman, how was she to endure it? The mere idea filled her with despair. The terrible conviction grew upon her that she loved her rejected lover with all the warmth and tenderness of her fine rich nature, not in any half-hearted way, but glowingly, completely. She loved him for the straightforward, honest affection which made him hasten to offer her all he had in her hour of need. She loved him for the delicate consideration which had guided him in their brief engagement, for the forbearance with which he had released her, for the frank kindliness with which he had offered her his friendship when she had refused his love, for the stand he had made against his own follies and weakness, for the resolution with which he had cast off his attitude of lover to herself. She admired and loved his quiet, unpretending strength, his sun-burned face, his big brown eyes that could say so much if they chose. Never again could she touch his hand without an electric thrill. She loved him! loved as she never before dreamed she could love, and all in vain! He had put off the lover forever. She was from his life a thing apart; and he was, or could be, her whole existence. Yet, through all, she did not regret that she had rejected him.

"Then, I should have misunderstood him; we should have drifted apart, as we shall now; but at least I do him justice. All that remains to me is to hide my own feelings (he shall never pity me), and bid him good-bye forever with tolerable composure. Forever! Ah! it is a hard, cruel fate!"

She was not of the sentimental, weeping order of young ladies. She sat, very white and still, and thought it all out, and resolved on her own line of conduct. She would be a kind, pleasant friend while they were together—and after! Then, indeed, would come anguish and despair—a brief parting, probably to meet no more on earth!

Slowly she gathered herself together, and collected her ideas. Then she wrote a long gossiping letter to Mrs. Fielding, telling all the events of their little world. This accomplished, she gazed critically in the glass, smoothed her hair, and looked for her hat, hoping to efface any sign of emotion before meeting any of the party.

It so happened that Waring asked for one or two particular songs that evening. Mona sung them easily and sweetly.

"You have not had any bad news?" he asked, coming over to stand by the piano.

"No. What made you think so?"

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

Then he was so very reasonable. He worried her with no expressive looks or words which insinuated lover-like feeling. He liked her to read to him, or to write for him; but he was nearly as well pleased with the services of Miss Black, nearly—not quite; and when in a talkative mood, he used to describe the wild beauty of his Californian home quite eloquently. He really had more in him than she at one time could have believed. He had grown quite good-looking too (Mona was keenly alive to her exterior advantages), and she often thought, as he lay back on the sofa cushions, what an honest strong face he had, and how much the thoughtful subexpression of sadness it had developed, beautified and ennobled it.

Then the temporary weakness of his strong frame appealed to the tenderness of her most womanly heart; there was undoubtedly a friendly sympathy between them. Her voice never sounded so sweet, so expressive, as when she read or sung to him. But they were rarely alone together. Mary Black was not behindhand in delicate attentions, and, as Kenneth observed, both young ladies vied with each other who should spoil the invalid most.

To Mary, however, most of his talk and good-humored chaff was directed. He praised her songs loudly, and said but little about Mona's, except now and then an imploring exclamation of "Do go on;" "Another, please, another."

Uncle Sandy, however good-humored, did not admit of any neglect, and always demanded an hour or more of Mona's time after their early dinner, while she read to him the better part of the famous Scotsman, and some portion of the Times weekly edition, which reached them every Saturday. Sometimes Waring slept on the drawing-room sofa during this exercise—sometimes he came to listen, while Mary and Kenneth disappeared; but occasionally the former took her work and sat with the "ill mon." The murmur of their voices while thus engaged, with occasional bursts of merriment, came through the door of communication to Mona one afternoon, as she toiled through a heavy leader on "municipal" government, and presently Mary put in her head.

"Mr. Waring says it's so fine and bright, he would like a little turn, and I am going with him," she said. "We will be down the drive."

"Dinna let him do too much!" cried Uncle Sandy. "We will come along and meet you."

Waring was now permitted to take exercise, and was rapidly recovering.

"What shall I read next?" asked Mona. "There is an article on the Soudan—"

"Naw," said her uncle—one of his most negative "naws," which always seemed to Mona as if it could stop a torrent—and he sat in thought for a minute; then he roused himself.

"I'm thinking," he said, "that Mr. Leslie is growing ower-fond of Mary Black. They are aye at havers wi' ane anither, and I am no varra pleased. She's no match for Leslie's grandson; and yet the lassie is a guid lassis. I wadna see her vexed. He is a weel-spoken lad forbye—the sort to win ony woman's love. Eh, Mona?"

"I do not think Mary cares much about him, uncle. Tastes differ widely, you know. As to her being no match for him, you must remember that Mr. Waring has not much in the way of a home to offer. His—"

"Hoot, toot!" he interrupted. "It will be a fair home enough. Young Leslie is going to be a successful mon after a bit."

"I am sure I hope so; but I do not think you need trouble about Mary. As to Mr. Waring, I dare say he admires her—she is very sweet and charming; but these fancies do not trouble men long."

"Ay, the sort o' hempies you've been used to. But, my lassie, a real thouchtfu' mon, if luve taks hold on his heart, it grips it hard and fast, and will na let go. If young Leslie has let himself luve our Mary, he'll no leave her behind him. He doesna come of the sort that gives in."

"Well, I do not think that Mary is in love with him."

"I hope you are right," said her uncle, slowly; then, after a pause, he began to struggle to his feet. "Come," he said, "we will go and meet them."

"As it is but a short way, uncle, could you get on without me? I have never answered madame—I mean Mrs. Fielden's last letter, and I should like to do so this afternoon."

"So do, my dearie, so do. I'll just gang a bit down the road. May be I'll met Kenneth."

Mona escaped as quickly as she could to her own pleasant room, from the window of which she could catch a glimpse of the sea between two hills, and having hastily put out her writing materials, she sat down, leaned her head on both hands, her elbows resting on the table, and fell into profound and painful thought.

Her uncle's words had suddenly bared the recesses of her heart, and lo! there lay an unsuspected root of pain and mischief.

That Mary was completely guarded by her warm attachment to Kenneth, Mona did not doubt. That Waring admired her was possible, but she did not believe it was more than a kindly liking.

The revelation to her was this: If Waring really loved Mary, or any other woman, how was she to endure it? The mere idea filled her with despair. The terrible conviction grew upon her that she loved her rejected lover with all the warmth and tenderness of her fine rich nature, not in any half-hearted way, but glowingly, completely. She loved him for the straightforward, honest affection which made him hasten to offer her all he had in her hour of need. She loved him for the delicate consideration which had guided him in their brief engagement, for the forbearance with which he had released her, for the frank kindliness with which he had offered her his friendship when she had refused his love, for the stand he had made against his own follies and weakness, for the resolution with which he had cast off his attitude of lover to herself. She admired and loved his quiet, unpretending strength, his sun-burned face, his big brown eyes that could say so much if they chose. Never again could she touch his hand without an electric thrill. She loved him! loved as she never before dreamed she could love, and all in vain! He had put off the lover forever. She was from his life a thing apart; and he was, or could be, her whole existence. Yet, through all, she did not regret that she had rejected him.

"Then, I should have misunderstood him; we should have drifted apart, as we shall now; but at least I do him justice. All that remains to me is to hide my own feelings (he shall never pity me), and bid him good-bye forever with tolerable composure. Forever! Ah! it is a hard, cruel fate!"

She was not of the sentimental, weeping order of young ladies. She sat, very white and still, and thought it all out, and resolved on her own line of conduct. She would be a kind, pleasant friend while they were together—and after! Then, indeed, would come anguish and despair—a brief parting, probably to meet no more on earth!

Slowly she gathered herself together, and collected her ideas. Then she wrote a long gossiping letter to Mrs. Fielding, telling all the events of their little world. This accomplished, she gazed critically in the glass, smoothed her hair, and looked for her hat, hoping to efface any sign of emotion before meeting any of the party.

It so happened that Waring asked for one or two particular songs that evening. Mona sung them easily and sweetly.

"You have not had any bad news?" he asked, coming over to stand by the piano.

"No. What made you think so?"

New Goods received this week. Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets, Cretonnes, Fringes, Table Oilcloths. Ladies' Belts, Prints, Lawns and Dress Goods.

Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.

Just to hand light and dark Seersuckers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

CANADIAN CANAL TOLLS.

THE CHARGE OF DISCRIMINATION DENIED.

The Minister of Customs' Explanation of the Matter—The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Interstate Commerce Bill, The Price Has Dropped.

OTTAWA, July 25.—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, denies that there is any ground for the charge made at Washington of discrimination against American vessels using Canadian canals. There is no discrimination at all. All vessels going from the same ports to the same ports are charged the same rates; all vessels bound east, whether Canadian or American or any other nationality, using the Welland Canal are charged the same rate—20 cents per ton. If they pass down Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence canals to Montreal they are allowed a rebate of 18 cents per ton, but if they seek the seaboard by the American instead of the Canadian route no rebate is allowed; that is all there is to it.

The rebate is intended to encourage shipments from the west to Europe by way of the St. Lawrence and Canadian ports instead of by American ports, and the rebate of 18 cents per ton on grain landed at Montreal is made to American vessels equally with Canadian.

Referred to Another Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—In the House, to-day, the communication received yesterday from the Secretary of the Treasury relative to the use of the Welland Canal and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, was referred to the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, with authority to that committee to report thereon at any time.

The C. P. R. and the Interstate Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—In the Senate today, Mr. Cullom, (Rep., Ill.) filed a preamble and resolution reciting the published statements that the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway have passed into the control of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, that these two railways control all the approaches to the bridge over the St. Mary's River on the boundary line between the United States and Canada, that the ownership of that bridge is also in the Canadian Pacific and that by virtue of this monopoly the Canadian Pacific road operated in the interest of a foreign Government, is able to ignore and defeat the operation of the Interstate Commerce Bill, directing the Committee on Interstate Commerce to inquire into these matters and whether any legislation is necessary to protect the interests of the people of the United States and to prevent the diversion of commerce from its legitimate and natural channels and to prevent the monopolizing of traffic by a foreign corporation.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) asked that the resolution go over to to-morrow as he desired to offer an amendment to it and it was so ordered.

THE HEROES OF LUNDY'S LANE.

Drummondville's Gala Day—74th Anniversary of the Battle.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 25.—The seventy-fourth anniversary of the battle of Lundy's Lane was right loyally celebrated to-day at the historical little village of Drummondville on the ground where the battle was fought. The graves of those who fell and were buried in trenches in the old village graveyard were profusely decorated with flowers and Union Jacks. The trenches were staked out and large Union Jacks were floating above them. A wire was stretched across the street and hanging from it side by side were the Stars and Stripes and Union Jack.

The grave of Laura Secord, who walked to Beaver Dam and gave the information of the approach of the American army to the British troops, with her husband's, has been restored and enclosed with a picket fence by the Lundy's Lane Historical Society and was also decorated with flowers and Union Jacks.

Dr. Ferguson, M. P. for Welland, was made chairman and delivered an interesting address, which was followed by speeches by Mr. Kerler of Niagara, Rev. Mr. Hobbs, Rev. Mr. Young and Warden Burgar.

BERLIN'S TOURNAMENT.

A Big Crowd Present—Bowmanville Wins in the Band Competition.

BERLIN, Ont., July 25.—The first day of the Berlin band and firemen's tournament was a great success. Crowds of people came in from the country and the forenoon trains brought over 2000 more from a distance.

The mayors and councillors of Guelph, Galt and Waterloo, as well as visitors from Bowmanville, Preston and other places were entertained to lunch in the Saenger Hall.

Six thousand people gathered to see the evolutions of Capt. Clarke's cadets in the town park and to hear the band competition. The three bands which competed were the Bowmanville, the Massey of Toronto and the Barrie band. The prizes were awarded as follows: Bowmanville, 1st, $250; Massey's band, 2nd, $150; Barrie, 3rd, $75.

At night there was a concert in the Skating Rink.

Trying to Collect a Big Judgment.

MONTREAL, July 25.—Seizure after judgment on behalf of the Ontario Car Co., in their actions against the trustees of the South Eastern Railway Company, was taken out to-day. The original action was brought to recover the cost of fifty cars supplied to the line and judgment was given in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount which, with interest, amounts to some $65,000. The seizure issued also included the traffic receipts of the line which are now in the hands of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A CASUALTY IN GOTHAM.

COLLAPSE OF A PORTION OF A LARGE BUILDING.

A Scene of Confusion and Terror—Fifty Girls and Women Precipitated in the Debris, but only One Killed Miraculous Escapes From Death.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The old armory of the Eleventh Regiment at Elm and White streets has been used for commercial purposes for some years though still owned by the city. This afternoon the gallery for 31 feet on one side collapsed and fell carrying down with it five heavy folding machines and about fifty girls and women. Over 200 girls and women who were at work at the time ran panic stricken to the street.

The scene baffled description. Men were trying to get at the buried people and women were shrieking and moaning.

The five heavy folding machines crashed like rock ribbed monsters to the floor of the hall, the floor yielded and the mass crashed through to the ground floor. Six girls who had been working at the machines went down in the wreck all the way to the ground floor. The rest managed to escape. Two of the six were uninjured. May Bignell, of 127 King-street, Brooklyn, lay dead, her hands clutching a piece of the sheets she was holding when the crash came. Two other girls had fallen in such a way that the debris formed an arch over their heads. They were unhurt. The sixth, Mrs. Mary MacDonald, was badly bruised.

Infernal Machines Captured at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 25.—A gunsmith named Rudolph Sevic was arrested this morning and is charged with being the individual who furnished dynamite to the anarchist conspirators. Sevic acknowledges that he has been dealing illegally in dynamite. Inspector Bonfield last night also captured several infernal machines of cylinder shape 2½ inches in diameter.

Sevic professed ignorance of English though Inspector Bonfield said he knew it passably well. He was held in the sum of $7000.

Inspector Bonfield said the bombs made by Sevic were of the most devilish pattern. One of them might have killed fifty men.

This afternoon Sevic was carried with Hroneck and Chapek before the grand jury who immediately took up the case. The proceedings were guarded with the utmost secrecy.

Seeking Fresh Fields.

OMAHA, July 25.—The eloping editor, Henry W. Moore and his paramour, Mrs. Norton, passed through Omaha yesterday afternoon en route to Canada. They were accompanied to this city and to Council Bluffs by Charles Reynolds, of The Topeka Democrat. At Council Bluffs he parted company with them and came over to Omaha.

Moore and Mrs. Norton left on the Burlington train for Chicago, and expected to be in Canada to-day. In a few days they will sail for London, where Moore will at once become the London correspondent of The New York World, this position having been given him since the elopement.

The Papermakers' Convention.

SARATOGA, July 25.—The American Papermakers' Association held its eleventh annual session at the Grand Union Hotel to-day. There was a large attendance.

Milan's Meanness.

LONDON, July 25.—King Milan, of Servia, is a most despicable creature. Some years ago he went to Vienna for a brief stay, and the first night of his visit he lost £24,000 at a noble's club. The money had to be paid within twenty-four hours, and as the amount was not within his reach he went to the palace and requested a loan from the emperor, who gave him the money on condition that he would not play again, and yet the very next night he was found at the table and did not rise until another £8,000 had gone. No application could be made this time to the emperor, so Milan raised the money on a splendidly jewelled scimitar, his most valuable hereditary possession, which had been presented to the late Prince Milosch by Emperor Nicholas. His scimitar has never been redeemed, and it is now in the possession of Herr Bleichroder, a Berlin banker.

An Illinois Murder.

QUINCY, Ill., July 25.—A party of seven persons were boat-riding here last Saturday night, when the skiff was capsized and Sam Steele and Miss Jessie Kay were drowned. Steele's body was recovered to-day and a bullet hole was found in the temple. It is thought he was murdered and the boat upset to remove suspicion. Miss Kay's body has not been found.

Settled the Funeral Expenses.

SHAWNEE, Ill., July 25.—Wm. Randolph, aged 30, came here from Arkansas yesterday and killed his father because he had been abusing Mrs. Randolph. Young Randolph settled the funeral expenses and then surrendered to the authorities.

Death of Mr. Richard Burrows.

OSHAWA, July 25.—Richard Burrows of Oshawa, father of Alfred Burrows of Toronto, who has been connected with the Canadian Pacific Railway for the past few years, died this afternoon in the 64th year of his age. He was born in Manchester, Eng., and came to this country some 34 years ago.

Will Prohibit Christian Missionaries.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 25.—A report comes from Corea that the king of that country has intimated to the missionaries that he will prohibit the preaching of Christianity.

The Hazledean Church Trouble.

OTTAWA, July 25.—The church trouble at Hazledean, between the Methodists and Baptists, was further investigated before the county magistrate, at Hintonsburg, today. The case will likely be decided against the people who created the disturbance. An appeal is pretty sure to be taken.

ANOTHER M. P. ARRESTED.

Mr. Gladstone's Golden Wedding—The League Is Not Dead."

LONDON, July 25.—James J. O'Kelly, the well-known journalist and member of Parliament for the north division of Roscommon, was arrested in London last evening for offences under the Crimes Act. The warrant for his arrest charges him with making speeches in Ireland, inciting to intimidation and boycott. Mr. O'Kelly, under an escort of police, left for Dublin on an early train this morning. The charges against him are based on utterances in a speech at the recent election in the south division of Longford, which resulted in the return of Mr. Fitzgerald (Parnellite) to the House of Commons. It is expected Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Leamy, the newly-elected members of Parliament for South Sligo, will also be arrested.

Their Golden Wedding.

LONDON, July 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone celebrated their golden wedding today. Testimonials in shape of letters, telegrams and presents poured in upon them by hundreds. The couple were given a reception at the residence of Earl Spencer this afternoon and were presented with portraits of themselves painted by Frank Holland and Hubert Herkomer and also with three large silver cups and an address signed by 150 members of Parliament. Lord Granville made the speech of presentation.

The League is Not Dead.

DETROIT, July 25.—The following cable was sent from here last evening:

"DETROIT, JULY 23, 1888.

"TO SIR GRATTON ESMOND, HOUSE OF COMMONS, LONDON, ENG.:—Tell Biggar and Kenny I am drafting each £1,000. Tell murderers of Mandeville the League is not dead. CHARLES O'REILLEY, Treasurer."

A FUGITIVE BRIDE.

Peculiar Adventure of a Staten Island Chorus Girl.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Miss Maud Frances Reilly, of Brooklyn, has learned something of the vicissitudes of life in the last few days. A week ago she was rolling cigars in a factory on First avenue. Five days ago she was a ballet girl in Kilralfy's "Fall of Rome," in Staten Island. Last Sunday she was engaged, yesterday she was married, and now she is unfaithful Mrs. Abel J. Hayes, fleeing from her husband of a few hours. Young Hayes and his father of Rampo, N.J., drank in the gorgeousness of the "Nero" ballet together last Friday evening. The son became enamored of Miss Reilly, who danced in the first row of the chorus, made an appointment after the performance to meet her the next morning, engaged himself to her during the meeting, and yesterday presented his wife to Hayes, senior. The father stormed and threatened to disown his son. The new daughter-in-law, frightened and disappointed, deserted her husband. The young groom is now searching Brooklyn and New York in vain for his truant bride.

A REVOLUTIONARY PLOT.

Discovery of a Bulgarian Conspiracy—Panslavists Implicated.

BERLIN, July 25.—The Allegemeine Zeitung learns that a revolutionary plot has been discovered in Rustchuk, and that two persons have been arrested in connection with the affair. The Bulgarian Foreign and Finance Ministers have arrived at Rustchuk to enquire into the plot. Letters under date of Kieff were found in the possession of the persons arrested. A number of Bulgarian refugees, headed by M. Zankoff, are attending the Pan-Slavists' Christian festival at Kieff, and it is supposed they are implicated in the plot.

The Traitors' Object.

SOFIA, July 25.—The object of the plot discovered at Rustchuk was to murder Prince Ferdinand. Two of the ringleaders, Boynteff and Ivanoff, have been arrested.

ONE HUNDRED SHOTS EXCHANGED.

Prohibition in Kentucky Leads to Winchesters and Bloodshed.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 25.—There is a bitter fight in progress over the whisky question at Harlan Court-House, Kentucky. County Judge Lewis believes that a great deal of whisky is being sold in the town in spite of the local prohibition law. Several grocerymen were tried a few days ago on the charge, but no proof was produced. The arrest angered the accused, and as Judge Lewis rode out of town at evening he barely escaped being shot by John H. Barley.

Lewis rode back into town and assembling the opponents of the traffic proceeded to search the stores of those suspected. They found liquor in several and rolled the barrels into the streets and emptied the contents on the ground. This was done under a guard of twenty men with Winchesters. Yesterday the whisky men rallied and the two factions met in the street. A hundred shots were fired, but nobody was killed. Five were carried off badly wounded.

A TREASURER ABSCONDS.

A Wealthy Married Woman Also Disappears—Possibly an Elopement.

GREAT FALLS, N. H., July 25.—Emery J. Randall, treasurer of the Great Falls Manufacturing Company, has left town. The books of the company are being examined by an auditor. The wife of William A. Worcester has also suddenly disappeared, and it is believed she and Randall have gone to Europe together.

Mrs. Worcester is worth $100,000 in her own right. Her husband is a prominent citizen. Randall leaves a wife and two children.

Expensive Hospitality.

LONDON, July 25.—The Czar was probably glad that he was not obliged to receive Emperor William at his country seat, when special preparations would have been necessary for his reception, as the expenses of such visits are prodigious. It cost the Emperor of Austria £120,000 to entertain the Czar for three days at Kremsier in 1885, and the bills for putting Archbishop Olmutz's palace into repair and for decorating and furnishing it for the occasion amounted to nearly £40,000.

The Emperors to Visit Rome.

LONDON, July 25.—The Chronicle's Rome special says it is asserted that the Italian Government has been officially notified that Emperor William will visit Rome and that it is probable Emperor Francis Joseph will come at the same time.

Smuggled Gems in the Mails.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Among the European mail received at the post-office, Sunday, was a small package directed to S. Misrali; a few lines in one corner stated that it would be called for. Yesterday a well-dressed man who said he was Misrali applied for the package. The clerk requested him to open it but the man demurred. Inspector Bissell, who was present, insisted. Misrali with great reluctance undid the wrapper. In the box were fifty polished diamonds. Box and man were seized and taken before Inspector Magone. Misrali, who refused to give his residence, was detained. The diamonds were appraised at $19,000.

Suspected of the Danville Murder.

RICHMOND, July 25.—Three men named respectively Allen, Wilson and Perkins have been arrested and taken to Sherbrooke Jail on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of Lillie Powell at Danville on the night of July 1.

REWARDED FOR BRAVERY

THE MINISTER OF MARINE'S AWARD TO ITALIAN SAILORS.

The Proposed Infantry School Transfer—A Nova Scotia Syndicate's Extensive Horse-Breeding Scheme—Canadian Fishermen Making a Good Catch.

OTTAWA, July 25.—The Minister of Marine has awarded a gold watch to the master, a silver watch to the chief officer and a gratuity to each of the crew of the Italian bark Savina for bravery and humanity in rescuing the officers and crew of the barkentire Harriet Ughan of Londonderry, N. S., on Feb. 7 while the latter was on a voyage from Montevideo to Arcegon, Brazil.

Sir Adolphe Caron, on being asked to-day whether it was true that A School of Infantry was to be transferred from Fredericton to Toronto and C School sent from the latter place to Fredericton, said the matter had not yet been decided, but it was probable that the change would be made in the course of time, as it was intended to move the infantry schools about periodically in the same manner as batteries of artillery were moved.

Justice Burbidge of the Exchequer Court will go to Halifax after vacation to try several cases there in connection with the expropriation of lands on branches of the Intercolonial and will afterwards proceed to British Columbia, where there are several cases waiting trial.

The Department of Marine was to-day advised that the crew of the Atlantic, wrecked on St. Paul's Island, had arrived at Port Sydney.

The members of Trinity Church Guild of Archville last night presented Mr. John Lowe with a handsome address on the occasion of his promotion to be Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Two more boilers for the lighthouses at Cape Race have been purchased by the Marine Department from Geo. Fleming & Son of St. John, N. B., and will be shipped to their destination by the Government steamer Newfield in the course of a few days.

It is understood that a Nova Scotia syndicate has intimated its intention of applying to the Federal Government for a lease of Sable Island. Their scheme includes horse breeding on an extensive scale, there being a large number of horses in a semi-wild state on the island.

While the fish are scarce outside the three-mile limit on the Atlantic coast it is understood the catch is fairly good by our own fishermen. In fact the Canadian shore fishermen are doing better than ever. On some parts of the coast the mackerel are not schooling this year.

The black cod exploratory party that were to have left Victoria, B.C., on board the Government steamer, cannot operate this season, the Department of Fisheries having given instructions to postpone it until next summer. The reason assigned is that the Government vessel was required for special service in connection with the Indian Department and she is the only available boat to be had on the Pacific coast.

The Hydrographic survey of the lower St. Lawrence undertaken jointly by the Imperial and Canadian Governments has been laid over until next season. The Quebec Board of Trade were anxious that the work should be continued nearer to Quebec and the channel between the harbor of Montreal and that city surveyed. This would involve considerable expense for which no provision has been made and it has of course to stand over.

MANITOBA'S PROLIFIC CROPS.

Surplus of 20,000,000 Bushels of Wheat—Other Grains in Proportion.

WINNIPEG, July 25.—Nothing that could be said regarding the prolific crops in the Prairie Province would be exaggerated. It is estimated that the surplus of wheat will be about 20,000,000 bushels and other grains in proportion.

It is stated on the best authority that the Indians at Skeena are honest and inoffensive and the stories from there are doubtless largely exaggerated.

The city newsboys exourted down the river this afternoon.

A Pembina man named Leighton has been captured at Morden for stealing a horse and buggy from Pembina.

The body of Anderson, one of the six drowned in Bow River, was found to-night.

Calgary will shortly ship 300 cattle to Montreal.

ARE THEY CAPTIVES?

Two White Children Discovered in an Indian Camp at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, July 25.—At the annual sun dance of the Blackfeet at the reserve at Gleichen just concluded nearly three thousand braves were in attendance. Objects of interest to the visitors at the reserve were a couple of pretty little white children, who are kept by one of the squaws as members of her family. The squaws of Crow Foot's tribe keep several stories in circulation as to the origin of these strange little youngsters. It is said the children were stolen some time ago from Fort Assinaboine, Mont., and that their father is an American officer quartered there. Some people who have become interested in the two little ones have attempted to induce the squaw to allow them to be sent to the Indian school at High River, but she refuses to separate herself from them.

COUNTERFEITERS COMMITTED.

The Examination of Johnston and His Pals at Sarnia.

SARNIA, July 25.—At the examination of Chas. Johnston, W. O. Parsons and Benjamin Mackenzie on the charge of counterfeiting was taken up here to-day. Knight, the party who has been committed for trial for passing counterfeit money at Kingston, testified that he got $500 in counterfeits of the Bank of British North America from a man named Coultis at Port Edward last April and that Johnston was in the company of Coultis. Knight went to Kingston a couple of days afterwards and in a couple of hours passed $300 of it.

Alexander Brownley of Ailsa Craig also gave evidence to the effect that he has obtained counterfeit money from both Parsons and Mackenzie and that Johnston told him he was dealing in the money and would get it for him.

Chief Sherwood and Inspector O'Leary of the secret service, who had been engaged on the case and who made the arrests, also testified. The three prisoners were committed for trial.

Drowning Accident at St. Kitts.

ST. CATHARINES, July 25.—While playing on the bank of the canal at lock 4 this morning, a ten-year-old son of Ald. John W. King, jr., slipped into the water and was drowned. The body was recovered about two hours afterwards.

Adjusting Freight Claims.

MONTREAL, July 25.—A number of the representatives of the various fast freight lines of the United States and Canada arrived in town yesterday to attend the monthly meet to be held in the Windsor to-day. These meetings are for the purposes chiefly of adjusting claims and are held each month in a different city. The roads which are to be represented at the meeting are the Lackawanna, Great Eastern, Nickel Plate, Commercial Express, West Shore, Hoosac Tunnel, Erie Despatch, Grand Trunk, Chicago & Grand Trunk, Intercolonial, Erie, New York Central, Wabash and others lines.

FIRE PROTECTION.

REFERRING to several recent fires in villages the London Free Press makes the following remarks, which should be thought over by residents of villages in this county and district:—"The question of fire protection ought to occupy the attention of every village, which is as vitally interested to the extent of its wealth as any of the cities. It has been well said that it is very like tempting Providence for the inhabitants of a place containing 1,200 or 1,500 souls to leave themselves with absolutely no provision against the outbreak of fire. Any new community should neither postpone or evade the duty of providing some means of fighting flames, for flames will come to disturb and menace them. And it is plainly wrong for a goodsized place, thirty years old or more, to be caught without a fire brigade. Nor may the residents of flourishing places with 1,000 or 2,000 population pretend that they cannot afford fire appliances. It is a hollow pretence. Every place should have some sort of provision against such a ravenous enemy."

A KANSAS paper says:—"This morning we were shown by Orrin Drake a species of the Kansas grasshopper, and although it was only about half grown, it measured two inches around the body and three and one-half inches long." Perhaps this is further evidence that Kansas is a farmers' paradise.

ELI PERKINS says audiences in Ontario are "bright as lightning."—Toronto Globe. Canadian audiences would not unanimously return the compliment.

A LACROSSE VICTORY.

The Riversides Defeat the Orillias in a Championship Match.

A lacrosse match in the district championship series was played on the Riverside Park on Wednesday afternoon, by the Riversides, of Peterborough, and the Orillia club, the leaders in the series at present. There was a very good attendance of spectators. The teams lined up at twenty minutes to three and had nearly two hours to play, the limit being 4.30 o'clock. The players were as follows:—

RIVERSIDES		ORILLIAS
Joe. Phelan	Goal	W. Peard
Joe. Joyal	Point	J. Henderson
A. Rose	Cover Point	E. Robbins
A. Butler	Defence Field	J. C. Quinn
T. Mahar	" "	F. Maundrell
M. Halpin	" "	D. Tudhope
F. Larone	Centre Field	M. Peard
Joe. Begley	Home Field	McGinnis
F. Pakenham	" "	P. McMillan
T. Duncan	" "	R. Henderson
T. Isbister	Outside Home	D. McMillan
F. Burnon	Inside Home	R. Frost
W. Rudkins	Field Captain	G. Thomson
L. Gerry	Umpire	T. Fortye

Referee—G. W. Stewart, Toronto.

FIRST GAME.

The ball was faced by Larone and Peard, and although Larone drew it out it was lost to the other side and was sent down near the home goal. It was returned to centre, but soon found its way back to the Peterborough goal. This was kept up for five minutes or so, the Peterborough defence each time sending it out. A couple of hot shots on the goal were neatly stopped by Phelan. Then the home-players, of whom at the start the visitors had the advantage, got on their muscle and made it warm for the Orillia defence. A couple of shots were so close on the visitors' flags that the crowd cheered, thinking a game had been scored. Very good play was shown throughout the game, the ball being kept in motion and never allowed to remain long on the ground. Frequent long throws were made by the defence players on each side, and the home players strove to pass the ball through. The exhibition was so good that the cheers were frequent. After the first few minutes the hopes of the friends of the Riversides rose, as they appeared to have the advantage, and after twenty-eight minutes of playing, Larone passed the ball to Isbister and the latter scored.

SECOND GAME.

The second game began with a scuffle for the ball in centre field. It was taken near the Orillia goal and the play at once became warm. After three minutes Phelan stopped a shot on the Riversides' goal, but in doing so got a blow on the head. He laid down at the flags. The ball had gone behind, but was brought around, and while Rose was standing by Phelan, P. McMillan threw the sphere between the flags and over the prostrate goal keeper. Game was claimed, and as the referee, who was down the field, had not called time it was allowed.

THIRD GAME.

In the third game Larone again drew the ball. It was flying in lively style for two minutes when Butler ran on his stick and time was called. A delay of eight minutes occurred, and again the ball was faced. In eleven minutes after play first commenced P. McMillan gave the ball to Frost and he put it through.

FOURTH GAME.

The fourth game began by an attack on Orillia's goal. The visitors were a game ahead, but the Riversides were playing in first-class style and their chances were good. After fifteen minutes of lively work Begley made a good run in with the rubber and dropped it in front of the flags, and in a scuffle Isbister put it through.

FIFTH GAME.

The sides were now even, and each went in to win the fifth and deciding game. The Riversides, however, held the visitors in good shape, and though they were sufficiently balanced to make the playing interesting and exciting, the home team could be seen to have the advantage. This game was won by the Riversides, Isbister again scoring. Time, two minutes. As the time was up, this gave the Riversides the match by three goals to two.

The match was one of the best seen on the grounds for a long time. The playing was spirited throughout, a friendly feeling prevailed and good lacrosse was shown. The Riversides are improving, and with close attention to practice they stand a good chance of winning this championship.

The usual cheers for the teams and the referee were given, and the players returned to town. The Orillia boys left for home on the 5.15 G. T. R. train.

BUSY.—Everyone is busy with harvesting. The old adage that barley harvest and showers go hand in hand is no exception from the rule this year.

TOO MUCH PICNIC.—For the present picnics have taken a back seat around here. We would make the suggestion to some of our leading picnic promoters to try something new. A harvest dinner or a lawn social would be a pleasant change.

CHEESE.—Our cheese factory is still doing a flourishing business, making from fourteen to sixteen cheese per day. There will be no need of the milk inspector visiting here. In some parts they kick against skim milk for cheese making but none has been sent here yet.

THE OLD, OLD STORY.—At least one young man from the next township, east, is wondering seriously over the old but wise saying, it is not good for man to be alone. One of the fair daughters of Eve here, seems to allow her thoughts to run in the same channel.

HASTINGS.

A PERCY MAN SHOT DEAD.—A former resident of Percy was the victim in a tragedy, a short distance from Hollister, California, on Thursday, the 5th inst. Mr. C. Waters, who will be remembered by many of our readers, moved to California some twenty years ago, the family, including the son Nicholas, the subject of this sketch, following a few years later. Nicholas engaged in farming and grazing operations, having acquired some two thousand acres. A recently purchased piece of land included sixteen acres on which a man named Strong, seventy years of age, with his son had squatted. It was this piece of land which led to the tragedy. Old Strong had been notified to desist from the cultivation of the plot, but in defiance of the notice, seeded the ground as usual. On the morning of the above date, Nicholas Waters saw the old squatter throwing down the fence, when he (Waters) rode over to rebuke the old man for his persistent trespass. An altercation ensued, during which Strong's son stole up behind Waters (who had dismounted), and pioniored his arms, the old squatter drawing a revolver and firing at Waters repeatedly as he was thus held. Three shots took effect, one piercing the heart. Mrs. Waters hearing the pistol shots, and fearing trouble, hurried to the scene, where she found her husband lying on his face, dead. We did not learn whether the murderers were arrested, or what was the verdict of the inquest.—Star.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!
IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

The Port Hope Times says:—"The Rev. R. A. Rooney, of the Parish of Perrytown and Elizabethville, will on Sunday next, 29th inst., at 7 o'clock p.m., conduct special services in St. Paul's English Church, Perrytown, in relation to the late Mrs. McMurtry's recent death and burial. Also in the several English Churches throughout the township of Hope special services will be held at the usual service hours in relation to the demise of the same lamented lady." The deceased lady, who was the mother of Mr. T. A. McMurtry dentist, it will be remembered died very suddenly, in Peterborough recently.

Privileges to be Appreciated.

A well known citizen of Orillia writing to a friend in Peterborough in reference to his—the friends—visit to the town and canoe camp says:—"We have engaged the License Inspector to conduct you to all the strictly Scott Act places in town and the night watchman is directed to ignore you altogether during the continuance of the camp. My brother should have written this, but he is over at the camp where he sees so many pretty Peterborough girls that he is totally incapacitated for conducting ordinary business correspondence. The only other gentleman to whose presence we will be oblivious during the meet is Mr. Smiff, of the Bobcaygeon Independent. The password is 'Goulais.'"

No Practice.

Bandmaster Miller is at Sturgeon Point arranging for the excursion on the Civic Holiday and in consequence we are requested to state that there will not be bugle practice at the Drill Shed this evening.

Ten Days.

A river driver named John Sullivan, who is not unknown to the police, was arrested on Wednesday by officer Adams on a charge of being drunk. He was fined $2 or ten days in gaol. He had not the necessary bills and went up on the hill.

Gift Sale,

For the next thirty days I will present every lady who purchases boots or shoes to the amount of $2.00 or upwards with a box of Perfect Kid polish and a silver spoon, and boys or men with a good pocket knife. F. B. BROPHY, 168 Hunter-st. 6d17.

Camping Parties

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

Coughs and Colds.—If everything has fail d, try Allen's Lung Balsam and be cured.

After All.

A telegraph received from Barrie on Wednesday evening announces that the I. O. O. F. Demonstration Committee of that town, have finally decided to engage the Fire Brigade Band, of Peterborough, to give promenade concerts during the demonstration. The committee could not have made a wiser choice and we feel confident that they will have no reason to regret the selection they have made.

Disorderly.

At a late hour on Wednesday night two young men amused themselves and disturbed the neighborhood by driving up and down the streets at a furious rate, on a common carter's truck. Their yells were something terrible to hear and they punished the poor horse severely. The officers on duty succeeded in capturing them after a long chase. They were placed in the cooler for the night and left to ruminate on what they had done.

Choir Picnic.

The members of the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral and the altar boys, held their annual picnic down the river, on Wednesday. The place chosen was Jubilee Point and the means of conveyance was the Golden Eye. The picnic and excursion was a thoroughly enjoyable one and home was reached at an early hour after a pleasant trip. At the Point various sports and amusements took place and the trip both down and up was made interesting by the rendition of numerous hymns, songs and choruses.

A Smash.

On Wednesday evening, two men, one from town and the other a lumberman, got into an altercation on the sidewalk in front of Mr. T. Hurley's Real Estate Exchange, on Hunter-st. While wrestling the men fell and one of the large lights of glass in Mr. Hurley's window was smashed. The owner, who was inside at the time, came out and demanded pay for the damage. He was offered and accepted $1.50 in settlement, but he was rather surprised a short time afterwards to learn that double that amount would not replace the broken pane, so that he probably is out of pocket unless he can find out the whereabouts of the men who were responsible for the breakage and make them pay up.

Baseball.

The Astonishers Baseball Club of Ashburnham, played a team from the Lock Works and other clubs on the Riverside Park, on Wednesday evening. There was a very fair attendance of spectators and everything considered the playing was very good. The Astonishers are a new organization, but they have some good material and we would not be astonished to hear of them more frequently looking for honors on the diamond field. The following was the score:—

Innings	1	2	3	Total.
Astonishers	0	7	0	—7
Lock Works	2	5	2	—9

Batteries—Astonishers, Mein and O'Brien. Lock Works, Farley, Parker and Graham. Umpire, J. Callahan.

Police Court.

Michael Fitzgerald was charged with being disorderly on Hunter-st. on Wednesday. The chief said that the prisoner and another man had a scuffle and between them a window was broken, but that it had been paid for. The prisoner admitted taken part in a row, but claimed that he had been forced into it in self defence. He was fined $2 and cashed up out of his little purse. Patrick Shearer and Thomas McGee were charged with disorderly conduct on the public streets at an early hour this morning. They were driving at a furious rate, and yelling and cursing. They had nothing to say for themselves and were fined $2 each or ten days in gaol. They had spent all their available funds and as the Magistrate promptly refused to give them time, they were conveyed to castle Nesbitt.

Sleepy Dan won the 2.50 trot at Cannington on Wednesday. Dan O'Connel, of Toronto, won the other race. Sleepy Dan and Little Ned both go to-day.

At Berlin.

The Bowmanville band won the first prize in the Berlin competition, the Massey band, of Toronto, was second and the Barrie band third. Only three bands competed.

A Fine Portrait.

There is exhibited in a window of Mr. Clegg's store a portrait of the late Richard Croft. The portrait is an excellent one, life like and admirably executed. It is the work of Mr. Thomas Workman.

Delayed by Logs.

The steamer Golden Eye went down the river this morning on her regular Thursday family excursion trip. At Robinson's Island logs were so jammed in the river that the boat was unable to proceed and was steamed back to town.

Sanitary Convention

The Sanitary Convention takes place at Lindsay on the 14th, 15th and 16th of August. Great preparations are being made by the citizens to welcome the visitors and delegates, of whom a large number are expected to be present.

Cricket.

There will be a general cricket practice this evening at 6 30 o'clock, and all cricketers should be on hand on time. At the close of the practice a meeting of the club will be held. The players for the big matches will be chosen from those who attend the practices.

Still They Come.

Turner, the sail man, is trimming his and other people's sails to catch the breezes of prosperity. On Thursday he received an order from the Ontario Lumber Co'y, of Toronto, sent from the manager at French Mills, for a large yacht sail to equip one of the company's boats. A complimentary reference was made in the letter, to sails previously furnished by Turner. 1d21

That Reward.

According to the latest developments in the case of Nelson, the absconding Atlanta banker, would point to the fact that neither Chief Hinde of Trenton or any other person else will get that reward of $1,000 that was so glibly talked about, for the arrest of the prisoner. The Atlanta authorities and the bankers interested did not authorize the chief of police to offer any reward and what he did was solely on his own responsibility. As he is not worth anything, those who were seeking for the ten centuries will wait a long time before they catch sight of it or jingle it in their pockets. Chief Hinde when he arrested Nelson was offered $2,000 to allow him to go at liberty, but the officer was too honest to accept the bribe and consequently he receives nothing for his trouble and is out his expenses besides. Sometimes the most astute officers in the country put their foot in it by having anything to do with Yankee boodlers and this looks very much like one of those cases.

North-West Missions.

In addition to the appeal recently made to the congregation of St. Paul's Church, the Committee of the "Woman's Foreign Missionary Society" hereby publish a list of the things considered most necessary for the Indians on the Assiniboine Reserve, which, as coming from the missionary, the Rev. John McLean, will carry some weight and help contributors in their selection of articles to be sent from the societies in the Peterborough and Bruce Presbyteries to the above station next month:—Warm materials, such as home-spun and flannels are better unmade. Quilts, comforters, of bright warm patches for the same; blankets of any color, yarns and knitting needles, children's warm socks and stockings and suits. Dresses, if made, are preferred in the old style of waist and skirt together. Basques, unless of a large size and warm material, are useless. Cast off clothing should be in good condition or neatly mended. The women are anxious to learn, and Mrs. McLean is fully able and willing to teach them how to cut out and make dresses, coats, vests, pants, etc. They are also all able to knit, hence the desire for unmade material and yarn. The number of Indians on the above reserve is about 250: men 60; boys 53, 16 of these are infants; women 84; girls 51, 5 of whom are infants. Parcels may be sent during the next three weeks to the caretaker of St. Paul's church. Residence on Murray-st., next door to the church.

Not a particle of calomel, nor any other deleterious substance, enters into the composition of Ayer's Pills. On the contrary, this medicine is carefully compounded from the curative properties of purely vegetable substances. Try it.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

Arrangements Being Completed for a Successful Show.

The Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society are pushing forward the work of making all arrangements for the Central Exhibition this fall, and the work is well forward. The premium list, which will include prizes aggregating of $3,000, and the special attractions, will be such as cannot fail to attract a large number of exhibitors and spectators. The exhibition will be held on the spacious Agricultural Grounds on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Sept. 25th, 26th and 27th, under the auspices of the West Riding Agricultural Society and the citizens of the town of Peterborough.

THE OFFICERS.

The following are the officers of the Society this year:—

PRESIDENT.—Wm. Rutherford.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT.—John Garbutt.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.—Robert Vance.
SECRETARY.—Wm. Collins.
TREASURER.—C. McGill.
DIRECTORS.—Jas. Stevenson, M.P., Peterborough; Joseph Forster, Joseph Tully, W. M. Fair, North Monaghan; John Mouncey, South Monaghan; G. W. Fitzgerald, Smith; John McClelland, Peterborough, and Jas. Baptie, Springville.

When Mr. Gailetly resigned the Secretaryship, Mr. Wm. Collins was elected to that position and the choice was a good one, as Mr. Collins is an industrious and careful Secretary and has for years been a hard worker in connection with the exhibition. With these officers and directors, all men who have had experience, who go into the work to make the exhibition a success and who do not spare time or pains in performing their duties, the Central will undoubtedly be most successful, if the weather is favorable.

COMMITTEES OF MANAGEMENT.

The following excellent selection of committees has been made:—

HORSES.—Jos. Tully, W. M. Fair and James Baptie.

CATTLE.—John Mouncey and John Garbutt.

SHEEP AND PIGS.—Robert Vance and Joseph Forster.

POULTRY.—John McClelland.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE AND GARDEN VEGETABLES.—G. W. Fitzggerald, James Baptie and Jos. Tully.

DAIRY AND HORTICULTURAL PRODUCE.—Jas. Stevenson, John Garbutt and John McClelland.

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES AND LADIES' WORK.—Jos. Tully and Jas. Baptie.

GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.—G. W. Fitzgerald.

The position of General Superintendent is a difficult and trying one, but Mr. Fitzgerald is one of the men who are well adapted for the office.

The Secretary's office will be at Mr. W. J. Green's clothing store, two doors south of the Grand Central, where entries can be made up to Sept. 20th. Mr. Collins will be in attendance for a week to take entries from ladies. Letters to the Superintendent may be sent in care of the Secretary to P. O. box 926.

THE FIRST DAY.

All entries for the inside departments must be delivered on the ground by 12 o'clock, in order that the judges may complete their work this day.

THE FORMAL OPENING.

On the second day the gates will be open from 9 a m. All exhibits must be on the ground by 10.

The formal opening of the exhibition will take place at 1.30 o'clock, when the Hon. C. E. Drury, Minister of Agriculture, will be present and officiate.

Some of the events in the special class, speeding in the ring, will take place at 2.30 o'clock and other attractions will be provided. The 57th Battalion Band will be in attendance each day.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Thursday, the third day, will be children's day, when school children under 14 years will be admitted for 10 cents. Several of the events in the special class will be called in the afternoon, when good sport may be expected. A grand parade of the prize animals will take place at two o'clock sharp.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS.

The special attractions include seven events. They are a stallion trot, prizes $55; farmers' prize, single driving horses, $30; pair of fastest driving horses, hardware merchants' prizes, $30; 3 year old colts, brewery cup, $30; hotel keepers' prize, for single horses, $200; best horse in saddle, prizes $25; cheese buyers' prize, for fastest trotting horse owned by cheese buyer or manufacturer, $10; and high jump, prizes, $15. These events will be exceedingly interesting.

BABY SHOW.

One of the most interesting features will be a baby show, in which a $10 suit will be given to the father and a cashmere dress to the mother of the winning baby and the child will be given a $5 gold piece, given by Gough Bros.

With the list of special attractions, and others to be added, with the large sum to be given in prizes for exhibits and with the experienced and energetic management, the prospects for an excellent exhibition are bright. The citizens have given liberally to aid the exhibition, and nothing will be be left undone to make it a success.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger airl passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you tou may depend upon this for certain.

—Mr. Richard Johnson has constructed a wharf for boats to land at the grove at Hastings.

—The semi-monthly meeting of the P. A. A. A. lawn tennis club takes place this afternoon.

—The quiet spell in police circles has been broken and now a boom may be looked for for a time.

—The regular weekly practice match of the Rifle Association is in progress at the range this afternoon.

—The Peterborough-Belleville return cricket match will probably be played at the latter place on August 3rd.

—It is expected that twenty five priests will take part in the retreat, which commences at St. Peter's Cathedral on Monday, Aug. 6th.

—Several drives of sawlogs are waiting up north until the Gilmour drives gets far enough down to prevent mixing and the consequent sorting.

—Tenders are asked for the masonry work of the Brock-st. bridge, near Lundy's tannery. It is the intention to put up a good strong structure at this place.

—A balcony and verandah are being erected on the hotel at Jubilee Point. Several other improvements will also be made at an early day at this beautiful pleasure resort.

—The bill posters for Miller & Freeman's circus are decorating all the billboards and dead walls in town with gaudily colored posters depicting what may be seen at the show, which will exhibit here on Monday, August 6th.

—Quite a large number of campers bound for Stoney Lake and other northern points went up this morning. Those already there must number well up in the hundreds, but instead of decreasing, they are increasing day by day.

—The Irish Gentleman Cricketers will play a 15 of Peterborough and district here on August 25th and 26th. A $200 guarantee is necessary and all lovers of the noble game should contribute liberally so that the local men will not loose any thing, by bringing to town the strongest team that will play in America this year.

THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

She rather dreaded the moment when the ruler of Craigdarroch would awake to the knowledge that the "bit lad and lassie," as he considered them, had taken their lives into their own hands, irrespective of his consent. If he was angry and unreasonable on the subject, it might be terribly bad for both young creatures, though his evident liking for Mary was a great point in their favor. Indeed, Mona wished to turn her thoughts from the pain, the dull aching which oppressed her, to pros and cons of her friends' fortunes.

It was a few days after the above recorded conversation, Mona was in the library, entering sundry items in an account-book, which her uncle had great pride and pleasure in teaching her to keep in the most orthodox fashion.

It was a lovely day stolen from May to beautify the last hours of March. The blue sky, the glittering loch, the balmy air which stole like a caress round cheek and throat, seemed to promise that "gloomy winter was awa'."

Kenneth had taken a holiday from the spring operations of field and byre, and proposed to take Waring and Mary for a drive through Strathairlie and Balmuir, that the former might see some of the fine views in the neighborhood, as his time was now growing short.

Mona volunteered to remain with her uncle, and—with a degree of unreasonableness, for which she scorned herself—felt hurt that Waring had made no attempt to persuade her to come with them.

Mr. Craig had been pottering about the garden, and Mona thought she had heard the tap-tapping of his stick in the hall just before the excursionists had driven off.

The sound of the wheels had hardly died away, when Uncle Sandy came into the room and threw himself into his arm-chair, upsetting the fire-irons with an unusual amount of clatter.

"Guid preserve us!" was his first exclamation. "They're gane clean daft! Wha'd hae thought o'—such—such perversity!"

"What is the matter, uncle?" and Mona came over to stand on the hearth-rug beside him.

"Matter! it's the deil's own matter. Listen to me. When I cam' in frae the garden, I saw the chaise at the door, and I went into the hall to ca' them, and was nigh slippin', but got on to the bit carpet, and into the drawing-room; an' what should I see but Kenneth standin' by the window wi' his arm round Mary Black, and her head on his shoulder, as if she war weel used to it! He was saying, 'My ain love, it's hard to have patience,' but, before I could break oot upon them, I heard Mr. Leslie's voice behind me, and, before I had rightly recovered my senses, they were awa'. Noo! what do you think o' such a pair o' cedlots—o' worthless, unprincipled cedlots!"

"Well, uncle," began Mona, after a short pause, "I am not surprised. Anyone might have seen they were growing fond of one another; which was not to be wondered at, for—"

"And do you mean to tell me," almost screamed Uncle Sandy, "that ye saw it, and suspected it a' the time, and never warned me."

"I do not see that it was my duty to do so," said Mona, instinctively feeling that a bold tone was best; "especially as I think Kenneth and Mary would make each other very happy, and you too, uncle. You know what a sweet—"

"You'll just drive me aff my heid!" he interrupted. "Don't ye see that Kenneth needs a wife wi' a tocher—a bit siller!—a carefu', thoughtfu' woman wha'd be a guide and a stay to him, not a bit lassie that he'll be Dauvid an' Solomon and the rest to."

"I fancy there is much more probability that Kenneth would be all the wiser and stronger for the companionship of a woman that looks up to him."

"Whaur's the use of argufying? Mary Black is no the wife I want for my nayfew; an' if he crosses me, I'll just pit him oot. Why should I gie my money to a feckless loon wha hasna the sense to consult me in the maist important step o' his road?"

"But, uncle, of all the steps a man can take, the most important to himself is matrimony. Now, where would you find a sweeter girl than Mary? You miss her yourself when she goes; can't you fancy her and Kenneth making a happy home for you, and caring for you? Suppose he married a rich girl, who had been educated at some first-rate school, do you think she would be content to live here as your housekeeper, and have no change from year's end to year's end?"

"And what for shouldn't she?"

"I do not know why; but I am quite sure most girls would tire of Craigdarroch, sweet and lovely as it is; even I do."

"You!—you tire of a braw home like this?"

"Oh, I shall be pleased to come back; but I like to go away sometimes; and I am old of my years."

"Aweel, I deserve that o' Kenneth that he shouldna hae spoken to a lassie without asking me first."

"Why, that is more than a father could expect from a son; and, besides, we do not know how long these two may have loved each other—perhaps before you had any claim on Kenneth."

"Eeh, the follies o' children dinna reckon!"

"Don't you think if Miss Leslie had loved you, uncle, you would have clung to her though father and mither and a' should go to——"

"Ah, my lassie, but that was a' different. She was a grim' young leddie, wi' five figures to her tocher; an', Mona, my dear, a man thinks a deal o' the girl that's just abune his reach."

"Perhaps so, uncle; but the true man thinks the girl within his reach just as sacred and precious, if she is dear to him."

A quick sob rose in Mona's throat as she spoke, and Uncle Sandy, in his quickened condition of mind, observed—

"What's wrang wi' ye?" he asked. "You're no fond o' the laddie yourself?"

"Only in a sisterly way, I assure you. I am deeply interested in his welfare."

"Sae am I, but I canna see it's for his welfar' to wed wi' a penniless bairn."

"A bairn that would look on you as a father, and be a daughter to you, Uncle Sandy."

"Naw, it's no use telling me sic a like tale. I'doot that onybody wad be as guid to me as you are, Mona; and I want Kenneth to get a fortin' wi' his wife, that I may gie you a better tocher, my dearie. You'll wed a grau' gentleman some day, and you must be weel tochered."

"Uncle!" cried Mona, earnestly; "you must not think of that! My possible marriage is a long way off, and I will go away and leave you if you let me come between my cousin and happiness."

"If you must go, you must!" said Uncle Sandy, sternly, though his voice was unsteady. "I did without you before, and I can again."

"That is for you to consider. Now, uncle, make me a promise."

"What is it?" he asked, cautiously.

"While Mr. Waring stays, make no disturbance. He has been so comfortable here, let him take away his good impression unimpaired. If you speak to Kenneth and show displeasure, Mary will go away, and her people will forbid her to speak to Kenneth; our pleasant life will be broken up; I shall be too distressed to remain; I shall accept General and Mrs. Fielden's often repeated invitation to go and stay with them in Paris, and you will bully poor Kenneth till he does not know a mangle wurzel from a kale."

BANKERS.—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce
SOLICITORS.—Dumble & Leonard.

TO DEPOSITERS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.

TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223.69, and on securities of at least double that value.

By the Laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS.—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate Security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest. The Mortgage may be paid by yearly instalments or otherwise, as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amount paid on account of the sum borrowed. Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or any of the Agents.

TURNBULLS'.

New Goods received this week. Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets, Cretonnes, Fringes, Table Oilcloths. Ladies' Belts, Prints, Lawns and Dress Goods.

Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.

Just to hand light and dark Seersuckers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

THE DOMINION'S EXPORTS.

A TOTAL OF $77,612,552 FOR THE 12 MONTHS ENDED JUNE 30.

Comparison With Last Year's Figures—Twenty-First Annual Statement of Post Office Savings Banks—The Most Satisfactory Report Ever Issued.

OTTAWA, July 26.—The value of exports from Canada for the month of June was $9,924,556, of which $9,175,874 was the produce of Canada and $748,682 the produce of other countries. Compared with the same month last year this shows a decrease of $307,434 in the produce of Canada and $365,410 in the produce of other countries. In produce of the forest there is an increase of about $300,000 and a similar decrease in animals and their products. Agricultural products also show a decrease of nearly $500,000 and manufactures and fisheries an increase of about $200,000.

The publication of these figures enables a comparison of the exports for the twelve months ending June 30 with the corresponding period last year. The total exports amount to $86,454,989 of which $77,612,552 was the produce of Canada and $8,842,437 the produce of other countries. The total exports for the twelve months only fall $52,800 below last year, which is very gratifying in view of the short grain crop in Ontario. The following statement shows the details of the produce of Canada exported:

Produce of the mine	$ 4,080,063
" " fisheries	7,723,483
" " forest	20,979,495
Animals and their products	24,642,215
Agricultural products	15,369,934
Manufactures	4,023,423
Miscellaneous	793,919
Total	$77,612,552

Compared with last year the following increases are shown:

Mine	$288,436
Fisheries	870,605
Forest	475,113
Animals and their products	329,399
Manufactures	947,619
Miscellaneous	151,878

Agricultural produce shows a decrease of $3,402,682. This shows a net decrease in goods the produce of Canada of $339,632; but goods not the produce of Canada show an increase of $296,832.

The following is the statement of goods entered for consumption during the month of June:—

Dutiable	$ 6,084,327
Free	4,018,242
Total	$ 10,102,769
Duty collected	$ 1,942,439

The twenty-first annual statement of Post-Office Savings Banks to June 30 will be published to-morrow and is the most satisfactory one ever issued. Although there were over 100,000 accounts remaining open at the end of the year they were all balanced, the interest calculated and the statement prepared in little more than three weeks from the close of the fiscal year, a feat of which the postal authorities may be proud.

During the yea the number of depositors increased 1100, the largest increase in any one year since the system was established.

The number of accounts remaining open at the end of the year was 101,963 against 90,159 last year. The balance at the credit of depositors increased $1,250,000 and at the end of the fiscal year reached $20,686,032. The expenses of management are the same as last year or within a few dollars. The increase in small deposits is a healthy sign.

Under the policy adopted last year of not allowing savings banks to be used as a place of deposits for large amounts a salutary situation was given to the purely savings character of the bank.

A new column has been added to the statement showing that the process of absorption of Dominion Government Savings Bank accounts has begun. The amount transferred from the Government Savings Bank to the Postoffice Savings Bank was $217,385.

The Governor-General has consented to become patron of the Dominion Artillery Association.

The Department of Justice has received a request from the Quebec Government to take steps for the extradition of Wm. Goleman and John O'Halligan, arrested in St. Albans, Vt., about a month ago on a charge of highway robbery committed at Stanbridge. It is stated that Capt. Sears of C School of Infantry, Toronto, and Capt. Frees of St. John, who has been temporarily attached to London Infantry School, will shortly return to England, their term of service in Canada being completed.

ONTARIO'S CASE COMPLETED.

The "Disputed Territory" Argument Before the Privy Council Closed.

TORONTO, July 27.—Acting Premier Hardy received a cablegram from Mr. Mowat last evening from London stating that the argument in Ontario's "disputed territory" case, now before the Privy Council, had just been concluded and that judgment was expected within a week.

The writs for elections of members for the Ontario Legislature in the three open constituencies in Ontario have not yet been issued. The vacant constituencies are Frontenac, East Elgin and North Lanark.

THE ARREST OF O'KELLY.

A SOURCE OF GENERAL SURPRISE IN LONDON.

Coercion to be Pushed to the Bitter End—Literary Celebrities at the Authors' Dinner—The Real Fight on the Commission Bill Yet to Come.

LONDON, July 26.—The Incorporated Society of Authors for the first time in their history gave a public dinner to distinguished American men and women of etters last night. The ostensible purpose of the banquet was to celebrate the progress of the International Copyright Bill in America, but a scarcely secondary purpose was to welcome James Russell Lowell on his first public appearance in London since his recent illness. It was a gathering of distinguished literary celebrities of the old and new worlds. British Literature was represented by Wilkie Collins, Wm. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gosse, Lord Bradbourne, Walter Besant, Austin Dobson, Edmund Yates, George Meredith, George A. Simms, Oscar Wilde, Lady Colin Campbell, John Strange Winter, Professor Pollock, Campbell Praed and wife, Professor George Darwin, the Earl of Pembroke, J. Stanley Little and Professor James Bryce. Lord Tennyson, the president of the society, never goes to public dinners, but he sent a telegram conveying "the warmest feelings to our American guests." Mr. Lowell in his speech referred to the good feeling between England and America which every good man in both countries is anxious to increase, and added that there were no differences between them which good sense and good feeling could not settle. The reception to Mr. Lowell almost took the form of an ovation.

The arrest of O'Kelly has caused general surprise. He is so quiet a member in the House and so universally popular that the news that he had offended Balfour's delicate feelings was quite unexpected. Nobody knew that there was a warrant out for him, and his offence is quite an old one, the charge being that in a street meeting at Boyle, County Roscommon, he besought his audience to refuse to give evidence under the Crimes Act. O'Kelly's arrest means that Balfour, instead of wavering in consequence of the late Cabinet Councils, means to push coercion to the bitter end. To-day O'Kelly was remanded for a week.

The real fight on the Parnell Commission Bill will take place on the third reading, the date of which is not yet fixed. The Parnellites will make a resolute stand in favor of special charges. Mr. Chamberlain's speech causes much comment, and it is now believed that the member for Birmingham has had a great deal to do with the drawing of the bill, a fact which makes the Irish members more than ever cautious in the strategetical contest over the preliminaries.

In the House of Commons it was agreed to hold an autumn session. Replying to a question by Mr. Sexton Mr. Balfour said he accepted the whole responsibility for the action taken toward Mr. O'Kelly and other Parnellites who have been arrested.

The Kaiser at Stockholm.

STOCKHOLM, July 26.—Emperor William arrived here safely at noon. He was received by King Oscar and the Crown Prince Gustaf. The streets were crowded with people and the houses were profusely decorated.

Elaborate preparations are being made at Copenhagen for the reception of Emperor William. King Christian of Denmark, will start with a small fleet from Copenhagen on Sunday to meet the German squadron. Two Russian men-of-war are also expected at Copenhagen during the stay of the Emperor.

NOT ALLOWED TO CROSS.

Port Huron Customs Authorities Say They Have shut Out Canadian Labor.

PORT HURON, July 26.—Regarding the report from Ottawa that investigation had shown that Canadian laborers are not prevented from entering the United States at Port Huron, the customs office at this place says it does prevent the employment of contract Canadian labor on the American side and it has stopped Canadian employes of the Grand Trunk from working on this side of the river.

The Fisheries Treaty Debate.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—In open executive session to-day Mr. Wilson (Dem., Ma.) addressed the Senate in favor of ratification of the Fisheries Treaty. He said the question at issue was simply whether the British contention had not so much in it that was reasonable as to render the question at issue an honestly debatable one and such as honest and reasonable men, endeavoring to avoid a possible war, might hope by mutual concession to adjust. He justified the reasonableness of the British contention as to the construction of the treaty of 1818.

Mr. Salisbury (Dem., Ma.) took the floor and said he would address the Senate to-morrow and Mr. Vance, (Dem., N.C.) gave a like notice for Saturday.

Mr. Frye said he would ask the Senate to meet at 11 a. m. on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday and until the vote was reached.

The Penalty Waived.

WASHINGTON, July 26. The Secretary of State has received a despatch from Consul-General Phelan at Halifax, N. S., in relation to the case of the schooner Arthur D. Storey, seized early this season for entering and leaving the port of Halifax without clearance papers. He said he had received a note from the Canadian Minister of Customs saying that as the papers showed that her agent endeavored to have the captain comply with the law, he had decided to waive any penalty in the case notwithstanding that her captain had been guilty of deliberate violation of the law.

Enterprising Burglars at St. Kitts.

ST. CATHARINES, July 26.—Benjamin Pender's machine and gunshop was burglarized some time during last night, and a number of guns, revolvers, hunting knives, etc., stolen, valued in all at about $200. The burglars forced the lock of the back door.

A WRECK ON THE GRAND TRUNK.

Two Freight Trains Meet in Collision on the Eastern Section.

QUEBEC, July 27.—Early this morning two freight trains on the eastern section of the Grand Trunk Railway were sweeping along in opposite directions when they met in collision near Warwick Station. The drivers and firemen just had time to jump off in safety when the collision took place. The cars piled on each other and in a short time a large amount of property was destroyed but fortunately no lives were lost all hands coming out uninjured from the wreck. It took several hours to remove the debris and the express train was delayed.

The Grand Trunk authorities have had several employes connected with the night service suspended and a searching enquiry will be made. The night was clear and this enabled both drivers to see ahead and jump in time to save their lives. The general opinion is that the telegraph clerk is at fault.

STABBED BY A TOUGH.

Singular Assault on a Hamiltonian—Youthful Thieves—Suspected of Larceny.

HAMILTON, July 26.—A young man named Carrom, is suffering from a severe knife wound in the hand. The wound was inflicted on Saturday evening last, but the injured man neglected to report the occurrence to the police, and has not done so yet. It happened in this way: Carrom and a fellow-boarder named Campbell walked down to the bay at the foot of John-street about 10 o'clock. They were walking along quietly when suddenly about half a dozen roughs sprang out of a dark corner and jumped on them. Carrom saw a knife flash in the air and threw up his hand to protect himself when the weapon came down and went clean through the palm of his hand. He struggled a few minutes until he got free and then ran for all he was worth.

Three boys named Alexander McLellan, William Cusick and John Mulroy, are held by the police for several cases of larceny. They were brought up before the police magistrate this morning and pleaded guilty to two offences. There are other charges against the prisoners, and the boys were remanded until Friday morning.

William Steves, a young man who lives in Ancaster, was a prisoner at the police court this morning because it is suspected that it was he who broke into C. H. Forsyth's boathouse on March 27 and stole a pair of rubber boots, two spoonhooks and a pair of oarlocks. The stolen articles were found in Steves' possession. His explanation was that he purchased the boots from his brother, who bought them from a man in Dundas. The case will be further investigated to-morrow.

Last night Thomas Johnston had a watch stolen out of his pocket.

A ROW OVER A CHURCH SOCIAL.

A Flamboro Man Fined for Using Too Vigorous English to a Neighbor.

HAMILTON, July 26.—At the Police Court this morning Mr. John Ward, of Flamboro, charged Mr. M. J. Morden with making use of indecent, profane and threatening language. Mr. Ward swore that some time ago Mr. Morden went to him and asked him to lend the gate at a social that was to be given at his place in aid of Christ Church of that village. He reluctantly consented. After the social he went into Mr. Morden's house to get his supper and Mr. Morden asked him to count the money with him. Then Mr. Morden got very angry, he said, and accused him of stealing and being a robber. Mr. Ward swore that Mr. Morden said he (Ward) had pocketed $3 for every $1 he accounted for; also that he called him a damned Methodist. A man who was employed by Mr. Morden to watch the place also swore that he heard Mr. Morden calling Mr. Ward a thief. He did not hear any profane language because a woman shut up the door as soon as the row commenced. Counsel for the parties agreed that a nominal fine should be imposed upon Mr. Morden, and that the defendant should apologize to Mr. Ward for calling him a thief. The Magistrate consented to the proposition and imposed a fine of 25 cents and costs—$8.69 in all.

THE BERLIN TOURNAMENT.

Winners in the Contests Yesterday—A Complete Success.

BERLIN, July 26.—At the band and fireman's tournament to-day the hose and reel race was won by Seaforth, Caledonia second. In the hook and ladder race Grimsby won, Smithville second.

There were seven entries in the second class band competition. Walkerton won, Dunnville second and Streetsville third.

An error appeared in yesterday's despatch with reference to the first class band contest. The first prize of $250 was won by the Dominion Organ and Piano Company Band, not by the "Bowmanville Band" as stated.

Fully 12,000 visitors were in town during the two days and the tournament has been a complete success.

Attempted Escape of a Convict.

KINGSTON, July 26.—A Haldimand horse thief named Seth Clews, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, was brought to the city this morning by two constables. He was accompanied by his wife who succeeded in loosening his manacles with a file. In front of the British American Hotel the party alighted from the cab in which they had driven from the wharf. Clews got out on the side furthest from the hotel and ran up Clarence-street at full speed, pursued by the constables who succeeded in recapturing him after a long chase.

A $20,000 Fire at Mildmay.

MILDMAY, July 26.—A most disastrous fire occurred here this morning by which the large roller mill, saw mill and private residence of Messrs. Eidt & Schmidt were totally destroyed. In the roller mill were about 2000 bushels of wheat and a large quantity of flour. A large quantity of lumber was also destroyed. Burning shingles were carried a great distance and were the cause of two or three small fires in the village which were luckily extinguished before gaining any headway. The loss is estimated at $20,000, insurance $5,000.

One Way to Look at It.

WINNIPEG, July 26.—The Moosomin elopers were traced to Winnipeg by the irate husband who seeing the mutual affection existing between the erring couple returned home quietly. All the parties are well connected in England.

They Got the Reward.

BELLEVILLE, July 26.—The $1,000 reward for the arrest of C. C. Nelson, the Atlanta absconder, has been awarded. P. Parent of Trenton, who informed Chief Hinde where he would find the man, got half.

No News Touching the N. P. Negotiations.

WINNIPEG, July 26.—Nothing has been heard from New York respecting the negotiations with the Northern Pacific.

They Prefer to Pay Toll.

HAMILTON, July 26.—The bylaw for the purchase of the toll roads by the county was defeated yesterday. So far as the returns have been received there is a majority of 376 against the measure.

BELLEVILLE, July 26.—Lewis W. Moore, formerly of this city, was fatally shot in a saloon at Mount Clemens, Mich., Saturday last. His father lives here.

An effort is being made to prevent the use of gill-nets in the bay.

MONTREAL MALEFACTORS.

HOW ALFRED FORTUNAT ROBBED HIS EMPLOYERS.

Absconder Pitcher Recommitted—A Bell-Boy's Diamonds—Drowned in the St. Lawrence—The Heathen Chinee—A Suspicious Transaction.

MONTREAL, July 26.—The modus operandi of Alfred Fortunat, who was arrested last night on the charge of appropriating $1,000 from his employers, Thos. May & Co., was as follows: When the customs clerks go down to take out packages they are given so much money to pay the duty. Supposing he had to take out packages on which the charges were $300 he would only take out packages on which the charges were $300 and pocket the other $200. As the customs do not give receipts for money and the large firms nearly always have goods there, it is a very difficult matter to discover these defalcations until some considerable time has elapsed. Fortunat was sentenced to three months' imprisonment today.

Judge Church this morning recommitted Pitcher, the absconding bank teller, on the charge of having brought stolen money into Canada, knowing the same to have been stolen. Guerin, Pitcher's counsel, moved to have the matter brought before a full term court of the Queen's bench, but Judge Church rejected the motion, allowing it, however, to be placed on file as part of the record. He said the only thing Guerin could do, in his opinion, was to issue a new habeas corpus when the court sits in September.

DROWNED IN THE ST. LAWRENCE.

Mysterious Fate of a Woman—The Body Identified.

MONTREAL, July 26.—When the Terrebonne boat was nearing Varennes yesterday morning, the captain observed the body of a woman floating down the river. It was recovered by the aid of a boat hook and conveyed to the wharf, to which it was lashed, and the boat proceeded on her way to this city. The body is that of a tall, good-looking woman, of about 45 years of age, of dark complexion and short, curly hair, she was dressed in a calico dress and apron, with small shawl over her back, and wore rosary beads around her neck. Her hand was in the dress pocket and was clasping a handkerchief and purse. The appearance of the body led to the supposition that it had only recently got into the water. As far as could be seen there were no marks of violence on the person.

The body has since been identified as that of Julienne Prevost, aged 40 years, spinster, who lived with the Grey Nuns at Varennes and was considered slightly affected in mind. She is supposed to have taken a fit and fallen into the water.

He Owned Diamonds.

MONTREAL, July 26.—Detective Robertsen found, yesterday, in a second-hand shop on Craig-street a handsome and costly diamond ring, which the proprietor said had come into his possession under suspicious circumstances. On information received from him the detective proceeded to St. Lawrence Hall, where he questioned a bell boy, who admitted that he was the party who had sold the ring. His story was that he had found the ring in room 142 of the hotel lying under the bed. Further examination by the detective elicited the fact that the boy had also in his possession a second diamond ring, which, he stated, he had found in the same room. The officer thought there was something fishy in the case, and arrested the boy on suspicion. When before the magistrate, his father appeared, and the boy was allowed his liberty on the parent promising that he would be forthcoming when required. The young fellow has only been employed eight days at the Hall, and his parents are very respectable.

A Suspicious Transaction.

MONTREAL, July 26.—Yesterday morning a young fellow went into Moss's pawnbroking establishment on Notre Dame-street and offered for sale a pair of costly gold spectacles. When questioned by Mr. Moss as to where he had come by them, he said that his father had given them to him to sell. He left the shop and returned a few minutes later with a youth a little older than himself, whom he represented as his father. The pawnbroker became suspicious and while he kept the boys in conversation told one of his employes to call the police. Before the officers arrived, however, the boys took up the spectacles and decamped. The lad who had first offered the spectacles was subsequently arrested. Before the police magistrate he pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for inquiry.

A Secret Marriage.

MONTREAL, July 26.—A Belgian named Von Dosch came to board with a family in Chaboillez-square some months ago and becoming enamored of the 15-year-old daughter of the family they were secretly married in St. George's Church. The girl was not in good health and proceeded home immediately after leaving church. She never mentioned the subject to one of her family but her mother began to suspect that there was too much familiarity between the two. The day before yesterday Von Dosch was given notice to leave the house and very much astonished his landlady by pulling out the certificate of marriage and saying he would not go unless his wife was allowed to go with him.

The parents were informed that as the man was a Protestant and the girl a Catholic and the ceremony had been performed in a Protestant Church the marriage could be declared null and void.

To-day a warrant was taken out for Von Dosch's arrest, as he declared at the church that the girl was 21 years of age.

The Celestials Paid the Duty.

MONTREAL, July 26.—Two of the three Chinamen over whom there has been such trouble in Plattsburg, N.Y., came back to Montreal to-day in charge of United States Marshal Dowell. The Marshal handed over the two Chinamen to Landing Walter Crowhurst at Bonaventure Station. Having entered Canada in bond they were liable to a duty of $50 a head if they wished to remain within the Dominion. After a brief delay the money was paid, the documents signed and the two Celestials were at liberty once more.

Montreal's Nightly Fire.

MONTREAL, July 26.—A fire took place, to-night, in the shop and stables of Mr. D. Ouimet, tinsmith and plumber, St. Lawrence-street. The place was gutted and two valuable horses burnt. The loss is $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

The Type-Setting Contest at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 26.—These printers have entered their names for the type-setting contest at the French printers' picnic on the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday next: English—W. A. Bell, Isaac Glennon, Witness; M. O'Connor, E. Larose, Gazette, E. A. W. Simmers, Herald. French—E. Dupont, La Minerve; P. Robineau, L. Marchand, Le Monde; L. Dube, L. O. Brazeau, L'Etendard; Jos. Belair, Jos. Lariviere, Gebhardt-Berthiaume; H. Dalaire, Imprimerie General.

Assignment of a Montreal Merchant.

MONTREAL, July 26.—At the instance of Reed, Rye & Co., of London, Eng., and representing Graham & Co. of Oporto, a demand of assignment was made to-day upon James Guest, wholesale wine merchant, which was acceded to. The liabilities are said to exceed $200,000, of which the Oporto firm represent $35,000.

FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1888.

MR. LAIDLAW'S LETTER.

WHEN the Globe wished to get an opinion adverse to the completion of the Trent Valley Canal it apparently knew where to look for it. Its enquiries to Mr. George Laidlaw drew forth opinions that, if correct, would certainly make it very difficult to persuade any Government to go on with the work. But Mr. Laidlaw's estimate of the cost and other opinions—which are reproduced in another column—are so wide of the mark that his letter can do little injury to the scheme.

Mr. Laidlaw cannot understand how water could be obtained for the canal. On this point, however, doubts have been set at rest by the engineers, Mr. Stark reporting that all doubts regarding the supply of water had vanished, and Mr. Rubidge, who cannot be said to have been at all partial to the canal, reporting that the scheme is practicable.

As to the startling estimate Mr. Laidlaw makes of the cost of the construction of the canal, the improbability or impossibility of his figures being anything like near what the actual cost would be deprives them of the effect they would otherwise have. Mr. Rubidge's estimate of the cost of the canal, when supplemented by Mr. Page's figures, was less than $10,000,000. Mr. Rubidge calculated on building locks such as those already built, and therefore Mr. Laidlaw's reference to those locks does not frighten. Besides, it has not been shown that locks as costly as those already built are necessary, and the expenditure may be brought below Mr. Rubidge's estimate—that is, below $10,000,000, instead of the $50,000,000 or $70,000,000 that Mr. Laidlaw talks about.

We believe that other calculations given by Mr. Laidlaw are erroneous, and that they will be shown to be incorrect before the Commission. As a well-wisher of his country, and of this district, no doubt that gentleman would be pleased to find that he has made a mistake.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Mr. Geo. Laidlaw's Estimate of the Cost of the Work.

The following is taken from the Toronto Globe of July 25th:—Mr. George Laidlaw, who for some time was a member of the Dominion Canal Commission on the artificial water-ways from lake Superior to the St. Lawrence, has forwarded the following communication in answer to the inquiries of one of the members of the Globe staff:—

In reply to your inquiries anent the Trent Valley Canal question, let me say first that the Government and Parliament have dealt generously with the proposed scheme, as far as it was the least feasible, in connecting some of these inland lakes together; although I don't expect to live to see the day when the lock masters will take enough fees to pay their wages.

The larger scheme of making a through traffic canal from the Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte is preposterous—and impracticable, if not in construction, certainly so in utilisation. The Lake Simcoe basin has a very limited area of watershed, and last year and other years its outflow was not sufficient to drive a saw mill in the dry season. If you will send an expert to examine the outflow from the lake at present, or refer to Christie, Kerr, & Co., I think you will get sufficient evidence to prove this statement. Supposing the canal were built to Lake Simcoe, the whole of the traffic would have to be lifted from the Georgian Bay to Lake Simcoe by the regular outflow from Lake Simcoe, which is entirely inadequate. How the vessels are to be lifted from Lake Simcoe to Balsam Lake over the height of the land between these two without damming up either lake to a great height and drowning out half the country, I do not understand. From Balsam Lake to the mouth of the Trent, except in a year like last year or this year, there would be water enough for a small business and a very small canal, but the extent of the work to be performed to get five feet depth from the Georgian Bay to the mouth of the Trent, in my opinion, would cost over $50,000,000, perhaps $70,000,000, judging by the cost of the locks already built on these lakes and the fact that it cost $14,500,000 to deepen the Welland Canal. There is 40 miles of canal from Balsam Lake to the Georgian Bay, and there must be five or six more from five feet depth on Balsam Lake to the lock at Fenelon Falls.

Apart altogether from engineering or financial questions, and supposing it was built throughout, it would be practically worthless, for this reason:—Supposing two steamers with a hundred thousand bushels of grain arrived from Lakes Michigan or Superior at the point in Lake Huron where they would have to choose between the routes via the Trent Valley Canal or the Welland Canal to make the best time to Montreal with the cargoes; that which would go by the Welland route would reach Montreal before that via the Trent Valley could get out of the canal, for the reason that the delay in getting through so many locks from the Georgian Bay to the mouth of the Trent would give time to the cargo by the other route to reach its destination. You can see therefore the importance of such a route as compared with the Welland route. To the cost of freight by the Trent Valley route must be added higher insurance, larger amount of interest, and heavier dues, if provision is to be made for any interest on account of capital and the working expenses of the canal. For these reasons I deem the canal project absurd and impracticable.

The canal scheme is supported along its route by people interested for local reasons, and in view of the enormous expenditure which would take place, members and candidates for Parliament have given more or less support to the scheme, and, supported by sections of their constituents, have been able to persuade Parliament to make the expenditure already voted, but there it should stop. Had one-half the money been directly applied to the improvement of agricultural interests in these counties from the Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte, it would have produced a much more profitable and satisfactory result.

Regarding finance:—If the canal was to be built it must be built with public money as a public work, or upon borrowed capital from private individuals in Great Britain, and the misery that followed the building of the Grand Trunk would be but little in comparison to that which would follow private investment in the Trent Valley Canal.

Again, if these counties believe in the practicability and usefulness of the canal, let them vote from half a million to a million dollars apiece, not given by way of bonus, but to be invested in the bonds of the Canal Company, and this small amount would be a ll the guarantee of good faith on their part to the investing public. It has been said that I see everything from an interested or railway point of view. Not so. I am not interested in the Grand Trunk railway, but the Trent Valley Canal would start with the Grand Trunk at the Georgian Bay, and finish with it at the Bay of Quinte, and during its whole route the amalgamated lines were heavily subsidised by the municipalities concerned, and it would be better for them to duplicate that operation than invest in the Trent Valley Canal. It would pass through a mile and a half of my property and within sight of my house.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Sensation in Woolens—A Pretended Detective Run in as a Hotel Beat.

TORONTO, July 27.—It is said that the junior member of a wholesale woolen firm in Front-street has pocketed about $5000 of the firm's money. He had charge of the books and failed to enter the collections. The loss is reported to be covered by a guarantee company's bond, each of the partners having given an instrument of that nature. The firm has dissolved partnership in consequence of the discovery.

A man giving his name as J. H. Potter and claiming to be a Pinkerton detective from Chicago engaged in working up a special case, has been doing up the hotels here for various amounts during the past month. He was arrested yesterday on a charge of fraud, having obtained $4 of a Palmer House guest on the pretence that he wanted it to pass some goods through the customs.

Three months ago Toronto Typographical Union No. 91 served a notice on the publishers of the four morning newspapers in Toronto, that on July 25 they would demand an increase in the price of composition from 30 cents to 33½ cents per 1000 ems.

Yesterday a committee from the union saw Mr. Douglass of The Mail and Mr. Creighton of The Empire. The committee did not make the demand for the increase, but merely requested that Mr. Douglass and Mr. Creighton meet them at a future day to "talk matters in general over." This both gentlemen consented to do, but no date was fixed for the conference. The committee also went to The Globe office, but found neither Managing Director Cameron or Secretary-Treasurer Taylor about the premises.

The Globe notified the union several days ago that they would grant no increase at present.

William Irving, of Lippincot-avenue, reported to the detectives yesterday that $135 had been stolen from his house during the temporary absence of his family last evening.

While in a state of intoxication last night, Francis Roche wandered down to Front street, where he lay down to rest. During his slumber, his wallet, containing $58, was neatly abstracted from his inside pocket.

James Mason, whom Central Bank Liquidator Lye saw running and chased in the Union Station immediately after $300 was abstracted from his pocket, was discharged for want of direct evidence.

The Deadly Buttermilk.

WICHITA, Kan, July 26.—The family of Daniel McCarthy, consisting of his wife, four daughters and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henshaw, were poisoned yesterday by drinking buttermilk. The doctors have succeeded in saving the lives of Mrs. McCarthy and three daughters. Mrs. Henshaw and one daughter, it is believed, will die. It is thought that the milk had been allowed to stand in a copper vessel and became poisoned.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price.

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. No trouble to show Goods. It will pay you to look through our Immense stock. We will give you a Pointer or two worth dollars to you. We have still a few pairs of those Cheap Pants left, everybody is talking about them.

Little Ned (Peterborough)	3

Cricket.

There was a fairly large attendance at the meeting of the cricket club, on Thursday evening. The principal topic of discussion was in connection with the proposed visit of the Irish cricketers to Peterborough next month to play a two days' game here. The Irishmen ask a guarantee of $200. This amount was deemed rather large and the secretary was instructed to write to the gentlemen who is managing their Canadian tour and in lieu of $200 guarantee offer the visitors the entire gate receipts. If this proposition is not excepted it is altogether probable that the people of Peterborough will not have an opportunity of seeing the celebrated team play.

The Circus.

Millar and Freeman's circus that is to exhibit here on Monday, August 6th, is not, we are assured, a small affair as detractors put it, but on the contrary it is the only large circus that will visit Canada this year all the other large combinations remaining across the lines. The management is in first-class hands and our exchanges wherever they have exhibited speak of the performance as first-class in every particular. They entered the Dominion at the Maritime Provinces and are steadily working this way. Many novel and interesting features are promised, including a leap from a balloon given on the circus grounds each morning at 11 o'clock. This is said to be a most thrilling feat. At a height of upwards of five hundred feet in the air the aeronaut lets go and gracefully falls to the earth, a too hasty descent being prevented by the open parachute which he carries in his hands.

Court Little John's Excursion.

The civic holiday will not be without its attractions. Court Little John Forsters, have arranged for an excursion to Toronto per G. T. R. on the civic holiday. A large number will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity to run up and do the city.

More of It.

A citizen residing near the Little Lake Cemetery informed the police that on Wednesday night, the two young men who were arrested for furious driving drove through that part of the town at a great rate of speed and made the locality ring with their yells. They got off pretty easily, at a cost of only two dollars each.

'Prentice Boys Excursion.

The Peterborough Lodge of 'Prentice Boys have arranged for an excursion to Hastings on August 15th. The 'Prentice Boys of Belleville come up to Hastings on that day, and will bring with them a brass band and a string band. The Frankford brethren will also join them, and a large gathering is expected.

Pay Lists.

The town pay lists are mounting up rapidly in consequence of the work being done on the streets, sidewalks, King-st. bridge and the cribbing at the Little Lake. For the last fortnight the wages were as follows:—

Streeets and Sidewalks	$313 05
King-st. Bridge	257 36
Cribbing Crescent-st.	63 68
Total	$644 09

Cheeky.

For the past two or three weeks some of the members of the Otonabee Canoe Club have been greatly annoyed by having their canoes overhauled by some person, and paddles, carpets, cushions, fishing tackle and other articles have been taken off. At Last.

Charles McGuire, the young man from Harvey, committed to gaol some time ago as a lunatic, was removed to Toronto this morning by an official from the Asylum. There are at present confined in our county gaol, five of these unfortunate human beings, two of whom have been there for four years. The Ontario Government has at last made arrangements for their removal and it is promised that all in this gaol will be taken away to proper institutions within the next ten day.

Found.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"On Friday morning, at about nine o'clock, the parties who were in search of the body of Mr. James Crowley, discovered it floating near the surface, in a position as if standing in the water with the head back. A sash was found around the body as stated by Connors who was with him at the time of the upset. The body was buried on Saturday at the Emlamore Cemetery. Mr. Crowley was 65 years of age, and came from Fermoy, Cork, Ireland, in 1850. He resided upon the Island which bears his name, for 22 years, and there raised his family of five children, three boys and two girls, all of whom except one, Patrick, are married and settled in life."

Tore up her Hat.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"An exciting incident occurred at the Grand Trunk station last Saturday afternoon as the 6.05 train was coming in. A man evidently under the influence of liquor approached a very fine looking woman and in the most unceremonious manner pulled off her hat and tore it into shreds. She coolly brooked the insult and was quickly supplied with a felt hat by an obliging railway agent. The man, a fellow named Morgan from Peterborough, levanted at once. The woman comes from the north country, and, it seems, rejected his advances, hence the scene. She proceeded home on the 6.20 train."

Will Watch for Them.

Purses aggregating $1,500 will be offered in prizes for horse races and athletic sports at Lindsay on the civic holiday, August 16th. The Post says:—"An additional attraction will be an excursion from Peterborough by the 57th Batt. band and Canton No. 10, I.O.O.F. The band numbers twenty-four pieces, and is one of the best in the province. It will play on Kent-st. in the evening, and at the same time the Canton will give a drill exhibition. Peterborough's civic holiday is on the 16th also, and the visit from our neighbors on that day will be cordially appreciated. The excursion is for Lindsay or Sturgeon Point, but in view of the strong attractions here the crowd will likely stay in town. They will be most hospitably treated. The Canton's fine display on Decoration Day has been warmly praised, and the multitude of spectators on the 16th will be on the look out for them."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Brevities.

—There was a clean slate at the Police Court this morning.

—Rasberry pickers announce a great crop, but exceedingly small fruit.

—Another delegation for the A. C. A. camp at Couchiching left on the G. T. R. this morning.

—A special meeting of the Central Exhibition Directors will take place to-morrow afternoon.

—The river is filled with sawlogs and several other drives are waiting up north for a clear track.

—There were several private picnics yesterday to Chemong Lake and other neighboring resorts.

—Mayor Stevenson, who was in Toronto yesterday, says that things are as dull there as they are here.

—Mr. T. Cavanagh has placed two billiard tables in the Balmoral Hotel and they are ready for playing on.

—About one hundred checks were paid out of the town offices to-day, mostly all for street and bridge and similar work.

—Messrs. Geo. Ball and Z. B. D. Lafleur, represented Peterborough at the K. of L. District Assembly at Lindsay, on Thursday.

—A dog collar and tag were picked up on the street last night. As the owner's name was engraved on it, there was no trouble in locating him.

—The two young men sent up to gaol on Thursday for non-payment of fines were liberated about noon, some person having furnished the needful.

—Another party of American campers went north to the Stoney Lake region. Another and larger party remained in town, but they will also go north in a few days.

REVIEWS.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.—There is no more delightful periodical for the reading of older young folk than Harper's Young People. It has the peculiar excellence that it is not too good to handle. It is in an honest, plain dress, that wears well for every day purposes. It is a weekly issue and a welcome one. Its columns contain fresh and breezy reading that is clean and hearty intellectual food for young readers. If you have boys or girls or both, try a year of this excellent work for their benefit. Note the increased interest taken in the current thoughts and literature of the day. It is a perfect library for the household and one that can be perused with interest. That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger airl passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you tou may depend upon this for certain.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

ACCIDENT.—On Sunday morning about 2 p. m. shortly before the fire occurred, Mr. J. O'Leary, carpenter, who was sleeping on the third story of the Central Hotel, got out of bed and by some unacountable manner, managed to tumble out of the window to the sidewalk. His injuries, though severe, we are pleased to learn, are not fatal. His arm and several ribs were broken. He is progressing favorably.—Watchman.

FIRE.—The alarm of fire was given at about four o'clock in the afternoon, on Wednesday, and it was soon found that Lewis and Lancaster's carriage and blacksmith shop at the end of the iron bridge, was on fire. The engines were quickly on the ground but the place was like a tinder box, and with a strong wind blowing there was no chance of saving it The building being a shell, it was soon over, but was intensely hot, while it lasted. Many were scorched, and Mr. Albert Reid in crossing the bridge with No. 1 engine had his hand burnt. The cause of the fire is believed to have been a spark from a fire used for setting tires. The building was owned by Mr. James Moffat, and was insured. it will not be replaced short of $500. The stock was insured for $700 which will cover the loss of the tenants.—Independent.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

Don't Wait

Until your hair becomes dry, thin, and gray before giving the attention needed to preserve its beauty and vitality. Keep on your toilet-table a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor—the only dressing you require for the hair—and use a little daily, to preserve the natural color and prevent baldness.

Thomas Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky., writes: "Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best hair-restorer in the world."

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delavan, Ill.; "but, after using a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, it became black and glossy."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"You are just a trifle too clever, missie," said Uncle Sandy, irritated, but not conquered. "I dinna understand why you are so strong on they rules' side. However, I'll mak' no disturbance while Mr. Leslie is in my hoose. But promise—for promise you must—gie me your word not to let them know I am acquaint wi' their foolishness."

Mona was silent for a moment or two, while she thought that it would do no good to put the offending pair on their guard.

"Very well," she said; "I promise. But you must not be cross; you must be nice and kind, as you have been."

"I'm muckle obleeged to you for the compliment," dryly.

"And, uncle, don't think I want to leave you. I am grateful to you, and I like you; I am interested in you, for you are full of character; but if you are unjust to Kenneth on my account, or if you doubt me, and try to worry me into marrying anyone I do not like, I shall just go away, because—"

"Because what?" asked Mr. Craig, somewhat struck by her tone.

"Because I do not care a straw what becomes of me!"

She turned and left the room abruptly.

Mr. Craig looked after her, immensely puzzled.

"What's come to the lassie?" he said. "She's nae like hersel'. She is just deep in love wi' Kenneth. I always thocht it, and I am seldom wrang. I'll keep a calm sough, an' may be things may come right. That Mary is a bonnie girlie, douce an' handy—but, na, na! there are few can come up to my ain niece!"

CHAPTER XXVI.—AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR.

This premature discovery was very embarrassing to Mona. Her conviction that it would make matters worse if Mary or Kenneth knew that Uncle Sandy's eyes had been opened, gave her courage, however, to keep it a secret from the parties most interested. It would be a great gain if he grew accustomed to the idea of the engagement before he was able to fly out and pledge himself to opposition, for to an obstinate, headstrong nature like his, retraction was almost impossible. He had an immense contempt for men who threatened and did not execute.

But Mona felt infinitely depressed, and singularly lonely. If she could but see the question of Kenneth's engagement set at rest, she would certainly take leave of absence and pay her dear Deb a visit. Not that she could ever tell even that dear friend the secret of her inner sorrow; but the sound of her kind voice—the change—would bring relief.

Uncle Sandy was in a very queer temper after this discussion. He was querulous and complaining, yet occasionally obsequious to his niece, on whom he had grown very dependent, and of whose independence he stood in awe.

Waring felt that something had gone wrong, and watched Mona's expressive face with profound sympathy.

"Let me come with you," he said, one afternoon, when she had complained of a headache, and begged Mary to read to Mr. Craig, while she went to try the fresh air cure.

"Very well," she returned. "I will show you my favorite haunt."

They proceeded through the grounds into the group of oak trees beyond. On the edge of the little wood was a bench from which was a view of the sea, between two rocky hills. A narrow ravine opened steeply down to the beach, widening as it descended, and here, on its sheltered sides, the first primroses, the earliest yellow honey-scented gorse blossoms were to be found. Behind the seat were big gray bowlders, scattered among the tall bracken, and from the little space of level ground where it stood, the hill-side rose steeply up.

"It is a delicious place to read in," said Mona, as they sat down. "On a very still day you can hear the dash and ripple of the waves down there like a soft accompaniment to your thoughts, or the thoughts you are reading. Then, later on, the hum of the bees as they gather the honey from the whins, as Uncle Sandy calls them, makes a complete harmony with the whisper of the wavelets. It is enough to make a poet even of my uncle."

"I dare say," said Waring, resting his elbow on his knee, and his head on his hand, while his eyes dwelt on hers with the grave, yearning expression they often wore—"I dare say your uncle thinks he might be the best poet in the kingdom, if he 'laid his mind to it,' as he would say himself."

Mona laughed.

"Very likely. I suppose his good opinion of himself has been a lever to hoist himself withal."

"No doubt. It strikes me he is very exacting. You have seemed to me weary, and—and depressed, of late. Does he worry very much?"

"He is really very good. I have nothing to complain of. I have been depressed lately because I am puzzled. I am greatly tempted to tell you why, and to ask your advice."

"Do," said Waring, changing his position, and looking out into the sea. "At least you may trust me to keep counsel, and if I can do anything, need I say, command me?"

"Then here is my story." She proceeded to detail the history of Kenneth's engagement, and Uncle Sandy's accidental discovery. "You see it is a very serious matter," she concluded. "Kenneth is quite dependent on Uncle Sandy, and were he out of favor, and dismissed, both would be in a very hopeless condition."

"I see that. I trust old Craig won't turn rusty, it would be very cruel. How can anyone be in the house with them and not see the state of affairs? They seem to me made for each other. But you have done the best you could in getting your uncle to keep quiet. He will get used to the idea."

"Then, Mr. Waring, the help you can give me—I mean us—is to talk in a natural, easy way to Uncle Sandy about Kenneth's engagement, as if you considered it a settled thing, from your own observation."

"Well, I do!" said Waring.

"My uncle, I can see, has a very high opinion of you—you have a sort of mysterious influence upon him—so you must give Kenneth and Mary all the help you can."

"My having any influence on so shrewd a man as Mr. Craig must seem a considerable mystery to you," he said, laughing. "I feel much flattered, and will do the best I can for the cause."

Both were silent for a few moments, then Waring asked, a little abruptly—

"Where is madame—I mean Mrs. Fielden—now?"

"In Paris—where they intend to make some stay."

"I was in hopes they might be in London. I should like to see Mrs. Fielden again—I think she is a capital woman."

"She is, indeed!—a true, loving friend! And when do you think of leaving?" asked Mona, steadying her voice by an effort.

"Oh, about this day week! I must go then. And my arm is nearly as good as new. By the time I get to the end of my journey, I shall be quite fit for work."

"And—and how do you like the idea of going back to the woods?" this in a low tone.

To be Continued.

Stratford's New Sensation.

STRATFORD, July 26.—A case of more than usual importance, on account of the prominence of the parties, was tried at the Police Court yesterday before James O'Loane, Police Magistrate. Sheriff Hossie of this county laid an information against James Sharman for stealing from his former place of business. Mr. Sharman has been largely engaged in the foundry business in this city for many years, but met with reverses, and found it necessary to make an assignment to the sheriff some months ago. His estate is still in the hands of his assignee. The business carried on was the manufacture of agricultural implements, and at the approach of harvest there was the usual demand for repair castings for machines made by the Sharman foundry, and the farmers are always in a hurry in such cases. Mr. Sharman acceded to the requests of his former customers, entered the premises, sold and took payments for castings, without the knowledge or consent of the sheriff, and without making any return of the transactions, though he produces in court a memorandum of the deeds and the money, all in an envelope, which he says he kept separate from his other money, with the intention of making a return at some convenient time. After hearing the whole case the police magistrate decided that Sharman was guilty, but allowed him to go on a suspended sentence.

Arrest of a Horse Thief.

GUELPH, July 26.—A horse thief, who refused to give his name or any information about himself, was lodged in jail here to-day. He stole a horse and buggy from a son of Sheriff McKim at a barn-raising a week ago and was traced through several places and finally run down and arrested at Campbellville. His name is supposed to be Hefferan.

THE FISHERIES DEBATE.

U.S. SENATOR SAULSBURY DEFENDS THE TREATY.

A Wise and Just Settlement of a Threatening Controversy—The Headlands Theory Never Abandoned by Great Britain—The Discussion Not Yet Concluded.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—In the Senate today Mr. Sherman (Rep., O.) gave notice that as soon as the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill should be disposed of he would insist on getting the Fisheries Treaty out of the way and he hoped to do so early next week. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Fishries Treaty in open executive session and was addressed by Mr. Saulsbury (Dem., Del.) in favor of its ratification. He said:—

Democratic Senators had not opposed the open executive session from any apprehension that the public discussion of the treaty would injure the administration or the Democratic party. On the contrary they believed that a full understanding of it would commend it to the favorable judgment of the country as a wise and just settlement of a controversy which had at times threatened the harmony and peace of the whole country.

Whoever was willing to continue such a state of affairs when trouble could be honorably prevented was callous to the true interests of his country and to the highest demands of patriotic duty. The treaty, while securing to the United States valuable rights and privileges hitherto denied and which no previous administration had been able to secure, gave up no undisputed right nor any privilege that could be justly regarded as of the slightest value. The objections to the treaty were too insignificant to be permitted to prevent the settlement of a long-standing controversy and the suggestion that under it that controversy might be continued and aggravated was so absurd that it was surprising that any senator would venture to make such an assertion.

As to the headland theory which Republican senators had represented to have been long since abandoned by Great Britain, Mr. Saulsbury showed by quotations from American, English and Canadian public men that it had never been abandoned and never could be abandoned. Even Mr. Trescott, who had been very severe in his criticism of the pending treaty—a little mortified perhaps because he had not been employed as one of the negotiators—had acknowledged in 1876 that the headland question was then an existing question between the two Governments. He would not say that claim on the part of England was correct but only that she had steadily insisted upon it and that the assertion that she had withdrawn from it was contradicted by the repeated declarations of her public men. For nearly seventy years England had denied the right on the part of American fishermen to enter the bays and other waters over which her jurisdiction extended, except under treaties. The pending treaty settled that controversy and would, if ratified, prevent the possibility of disagreements between the two countries hereafter on that subject. Was it not a matter of great importance to settle disputes of long standing which had threatened to disturb amicable relations, and which remaining unsettled might put in peril not only the commerce but the peace of both countries?

He declared that the President could have made no settlement of the question that would have met the approval of a majority of Republican Senators. They would have agreed to no settlement that would have deprived them of the opportunity of appealing to the prejudices of a class of voters against England. It was votes they wanted, not a settlement of the controversy. To what base uses had the senate come at last!—abdicating its high functions as part of the treaty-making power and debasing and degrading its executive power to a political machine.

He defended the Secretary of State against the assaults made upon him by Republican Senators and declared that no man who has occupied that position has labored more honestly than he to promote the interests and maintain the honor of the country in its relations with foreign countries, and that but few of his predecessors had manifested an equal fidelity and ability in the discharge of their duties. "It might be," Mr. Saulsbury said, "that Mr. Bayard's success, in securing an honorable adjustment of a long standing controversy which his Republican predecessors had been unable to secure, had, in part at least, inspired such assaults upon his character and upon the treaty he negotiated."

At the close of Mr. Saulsbury's speech the treaty went over without action.

An Illicit Still in Grey County Seized.

OWEN SOUND, July 27.—Collector-of-Inland-Revenue Graham of this place yesterday seized an illicit distillery in full operation in Collingwood Township, at the foot of the Blue Mountains. W. J. McMillan, the chief distiller, was tried to-day and convicted, being fined $100 and one month's imprisonment. Thomas Wallon, the proprietor, made his escape. A considerable quantity of unrectified spirits, malt and crushed grain and about 200 gallons of wash were also seized.

A Break in Bread.

OSHAWA, July 27.—Bread was down to 5 cents per small loaf here yesterday. Today the price went back to 6 cents.

Le Monde's Lottery Case.

MONTREAL, July 27.—In the action brought by the Provincial Government in the Police Court against Le Monde Printing Company for publishing advertisements of the Louisiana State Lottery, counsel for defendants to-day filed a preliminary plea to the effect that the provincial statute on which the action is based was ultra vires and the prosecution should come from the Federal and not the Local Government.

NOT THE LEAST ANXIETY.

TOUCHING THE MEN SENT TO THE SKEENA.

The Latest Romance of the Yankee Liar at Ottawa—Convict Roberts Pardoned—Matters Working Smoothly under the Fisheries Modus Vivendi.

OTTAWA, July 27.—Sir Adolphe Caron laughed to-day when shown the sensational despatch from Ottawa to a New York paper, in which it was stated that great anxiety was felt here about the safety of C Battery sent to the Skeena, and the Militia Department was charged with having blundered in the route selected for the men. Sir Adolphe said there was not the slightest anxiety about the safety of the men who had been sent out by the local authorities, as provided by the act and the Militia Department had nothing to do with selecting the route.

It is understood that the convict Roberts, reported to be dying in Kingston Penitentiary has been pardoned and his release ordered.

The Marine Department has been advised that the Imperial Government has decided not to continue the signal station on Sambro Island at the entrance to Halifax harbor and that the regular troops stationed on the island will be withdrawn.

The work of construction on the line of the Pontiac and Pacific Junction Railway is being vigorously prosecuted and it is expected that before next fall the company will be running their trains into Pembroke.

Col. Tisdale, M.P., was here to-day on business connected with the South Norfolk Railway. He says the line will be commenced immediately and he expects it will be finished by December, when it will be taken over and run by the Grand Trunk Railway in connection with the Georgian Bay section.

The presence of Mr. D. Pottinger in the city has caused a revival of the rumor that he is likely to succeed Mr. Collingwood Schrieber as Superintendent of Government railways, the latter accepting a position on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Gen. Middleton returned last night from his inspection of the military camp and schools of instruction. He will probably visit British Columbia this fall.

Reports to the Fisheries Department continue to show that matters are working smoothly under the modus vivendi. The American fishermen take out their licenses and there is very little disposition to evade the regulations.

Special-Customs-officer Wolff has reported to the Customs Department the seizure of a lot of watches smuggled into Canada from the United States at Salmon River, N.B.

The Government steamer Cruiser is now on her way to Georgian Bay where, in addition to looking after the Lake fisheries, she will be engaged in preventing smuggling from the United States.

To-morrow's Canada Gazette will contain the following appointments:

John Muir of Hamilton to be Judge of the County Court for Wentworth and Local Judge of the High Court of Justice for Ontario.

Lieut.-Col. H. R. Smith of the Canadian Militia to be an extra Aide-de-Camp to His Excellency the Governor-General.

Joseph Leblanc of New Richmond, Que., to be Preventive Officer of Customs.

An order-in-council has been passed approving the tariff tolls of the Trent Valley Canal.

Arthur Wand of Montreal, contractor, will apply to Parliament next session for a bill of divorce from his wife, Jennie Darrach, formerly of the same place but now of the City of New York, on the ground of adultery, desertion and attempt to poison the applicant.

Notice is given by the Prescott County Railway Company of application to Parliament for an enlargement of its bonding powers, the construction of a bridge at or near Hawkesbury, the extension of their line through the counties of Russell and Ottawa, including a bridge over the Ottawa River at some convenient point west of Plantagenet, change of name and extension of time for construction.

An order-in-council has been passed placing these articles on the free list:

Wire of iron and steel, No. 13 and 14, wire gauze, flattened or corrugated and used on a machine known as the wire grip in the manufacture of boots and shoes and leather fitting.

Certain chemical preparations, when imported for the manufacture of cotton and woollen goods.

Two-ply cotton twine and yarn in cops only, made from single cotton yarn finer than No. 40, and used by manufacturers of Italian cloths, cashmeres and cotton cloths.

Blanketing and lapping and discs or mills for engraving copper.

Rollers, when imported by cotton manufacturers for use in their factories only.

Ex-Banker Nelson's Case.

TRENTON, July 27.—The case of C. C. Nelson, the Atlanta absconder, was up before the police magistrate here again this afternoon. A considerable amount of evidence and affidavits were taken in regard to the matter. The case was adjourned until next Tuesday to allow time for further evidence to be procured. Bail was accepted for the appearance of Nelson.

Drowned While Boating.

QUEBEC, July 27.—Two sons of Mr. Etienne Lemieux of Leris, a messenger employed at the Parliament Houses, and nephews of F. X. Lamieux, M.P.P., aged 11 and 13 years respectively, were drowned while boating at St. David to-day.

A Campbellford Lad Drowned.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 27.—This afternoon 11-years old John Dickson, only son of Mr. James Dickson, was drowned while bathing. The body has not yet been found.

PARTY STANDARD BEARERS.

Cumberland Liberals Select Their Candidate for the Commons.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 27.—At the Liberal convention in Truro to-day Cyrus Eaton, Ex-Mayor and President of the Jubilee Temperance Society, was selected to oppose Sir A. G. Archibald, for the seat for Cumberland in the Dominion House made vacant by the resignation of Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Eaton accepted and announced that the two leading planks in his platform would be Unrestricted Reciprocity and Prohibition.

East Elgin Reform Convention.

AYLMER, July 27.—At the East Elgin Reform convention held here to-day there were sixteen names presented from which to select a standard bearer in the coming contest for the local House. On the third ballot ex-Warden Charles Dance was chosen.

WAFTED FROM WINNIPEG.

Another Candidate for Cardwell—The N. P. Negotiations.

WINNIPEG, July 27.—It is reported in the Free Press that Hon. Mr. Dewdney, when appointed Minister of the Interior, will run for Cardwell.

Telegrams from New York indicate that some sort of an arrangement with the Northern Pacific is being consummated. Additional information has been asked of members of the Government here and furnished by wire.

It is stated that the Yankee officials are in the conspiracy which led to the arrest of Leighton at Morden for horse-stealing, the object being to get him extradited and claim the reward.

MRS. MORLEY'S MALTESE.

The Famous Cat Case Taken en Delibre—Sale of Southeastern Stock.

MONTREAL, July 27.—The famous case in connection with Mrs. Morley's cats was resumed to-day. Lecavalier, physician to the Board of Health at St. Laurent, testified that he had examined the premises of defendant and found a very unpleasant odor, which was doubtless attributable to the presence of so many cats. There could be no doubt that this was not conducive to health. The judge took the case en delibere.

Fifty-two hundred shares of $100 each of the South-eastern Railway Company were sold by sheriffs' sale yesterday in execution of a judgment in case of Geo. Stephen, et al., v. Bradley, Barlow and Duncan McIntyre. The shares, formerly worth $520,000, were adjudicated to J. O'Halloran, for $50.

John Crawford and other property owners of Verdun have decided to ask for an injunction restraining the governors of the Protestant Insane Asylum from erecting a building in that vicinity.

SAVED FROM DROWNING.

Narrow Escape of an Ingersoll Lady and Her Daughter.

BEAUMARIS, July 27.—There was very nearly a drowning accident here a day or so ago. Kee-way-den Island is situated about two miles out from Beaumaris and on this island are three cottages' one occupied by Rev. Mr. Maitland, Ingersoll; Joseph Gibson, Postmaster at Ingersoll, and Messrs. McCaulay and Dundas and party; another by Mrs. Ross, Ingersoll; and the last by Rev. W. H. Laird, of the First Methodist Church, Hamilton and party. Wynnie Ross and Queenie Maitland were playing on the rocks at the edge of the water not far from the cottages, which are located a short distance apart, and Queenie, who is 8 years old, fell into the water, which was at that point 25 feet deep. Wynnie ran screaming to the house and Mrs. Maitland rushed wildly to the water's edge and without the slightest hesitation leaped in and seized her child. Mrs. Maitland was unable to swim and could not regain the rocks. Rev. Mr. Laird, who was the only man on the island at the time, heard the screams and hastened to the spot and reached out a long pole, which the drowning woman clutched and was drawn safely up, holding her child in her arms. When Mr. Laird arrived Mrs. Maitland had sunk twice, and but for his timely assistance both she and the child would most assuredly have met a watery grave. Both have entirely recovered from the effects of the ducking.

DEFYING THE LAW.

The Megantic Murderer Goes to Meet the Officers Sent to Arrest Him.

MONTREAL, July 27.—Donald Morrison who killed Bailiff Warren at Lake Megantic has not been captured yet, and by all appearances never will be. The people of the district sympathize with Morrison and hold that he was perfectly justified in killing Warren as the latter had threatened to shoot Morrison on sight, and had even drawn a revolver on him when Morrison killed him. The Quebec Government offered a reward of $400 for his arrest, and sent five men to hunt him down, but they were apparently not the right kind of men for they have never seen him yet, and the people take a delight in sending them on a wild goose chase every second day. Morrison never avoids them, but goes around with a loaded rifle over his shoulder ready to defend himself. He was told the other day that the officers were watching him at Richmond and advised him to keep away from there. Instead of following this friendly advice, however, he shouldered his rifle, marched down to Richmond, entered the bar-room of the principal hotel and asked, bringing down the rifle significantly, "Where are those detectives who wanted to arrest me?" No one spoke, and Morrison, after marching through the town looking for the officers, returned to the bush.

A Jilted Lover.

MONCTON, N.B., July 27.—A rather sensational scene was enacted at Cocagne, Kent County, at an early hour yesterday morning. It appears a man named Perrigo, a photographer at Buctouche, had arranged an elopement with Miss Lucas of Cocagne, and the marriage was to take place in Moncton. Miss Lucas, however, did not show up, having been followed to Buctouche by relatives and induced to return home. Perrigo was told she was about to be married to a Mr. Millican, and expressing his determination to get her if he had to shoot her and the whole family, posted in hot haste to Cocagne, reaching there about 1 o'clock in the morning. He thumped loudly at the door, but her male relatives rushed out, seized the revolver and gave Perrigo a terrible thrashing. He is now talking of an action for breach of promise. Miss Lucas and Millican were married by Rev. J. D. Murray, yesterday morning.

Terrorized by Tramps.

OTTAWA, July 27.—Five daring tramps, one of them a negro, have been frightening the life out of residents of Russell County. They adopt the usual course of striking a house when the men folks are away. They committed several burglaries at St. Josephs Village and were in a farmer's house close by when the good wife returned and caught them. They said they came to buy some milk, but when the woman found the negro extracting $18 in cash from the parlor bureau she concluded they were no milksops, and gave the alarm. A committee started after the scoundrels who had a stolen horse and rig, and were rapidly gaining on them when the tramps' rig collapsed and they took to the woods. They have stolen horses and robbed farmers of money and provisions and defy capture.

Business Disasters.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The failures attending the half-yearly settlements have been numerous. For four weeks the number in the United States have been 821 against 594 last year, but in Canada only 82 against 95 last year. The business failures occurring throughout the contry during the last seven days number for the United States 199 and for Canada 22, or a total of 221 as compared with 228 last week and 240 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the failures numbered 162 in the United States and 22 in Canada.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 27.—Jay Gould and family arrived in Saratoga in a special car this afternoon and are at the United States Hotel. Mr. Gould is looking quite well.

Grand Trunk Earnings.

MONTREAL, July 27.—For the week ending July 21 the traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway were:

	1888	1887
Passenger train earnings	$143,124	$147,272
Freight train earnings	220,147	252,600
Total	$363,271	$399,872
Decrease 1888	$36,601

O'Donnell to Move for a New Trial

LONDON, July 27,—Mr. O'Donnell proposes to move for a new trial against The Times.

The Black Prince.

NEW YORK, July 27.—J. P. Johnson Howard, a negro whose reported wealth gained for him the title of the "Black Prince," and who has for many years been active in Brooklyn politics, was to-day sentenced to seven years and six months imprisonment for committing perjury.

A LIBEL SUIT PROBABLE.

PARNELL INCLINED TO BRING THE TIMES INTO COURT.

In Which Event it is Believed the Commission Would be Dropped—The Irish Party said to be Exasperated at Chamberlain—Lord Salisbury's Health.

LONDON, July 27.—A report, which may almost be called startling, was current last night, or rather was whispered among a few well-informed persons on both sides. It is nothing less than a probability that Mr. Parnell may, after all, bring on an action for libel against The Times. It is certain he was seriously considering it. One or two friends said he had made up his mind. It is needless to say what a momentous resolution this would be if really taken. I believe that most of his Gladstonian counsellors counsel him against it. They urge all the old arguments, the probability of a prejudiced judge and of a disagreeing jury, the expense, the peril of cross-examination, which cannot be limited to the direct issue, the extreme difficulty of proving letters to be forgeries, and so on. Mr. Parnell's answer I understand to be substantially this: That his position before the special commission would be worse than in a court of law as plaintiff. This commission, supposing all limitations rejected by the Government, will go into matters which might be excluded from a court, and the delay, expense and difficulties of all sorts will be greater. Mr. Parnell assumes that if he sues The Times the commission will be droped. Nobody likes it, except, perhaps, its inventor, Mr. Chamberlain. The debate, which ended in the second reading of the bill unanimously, was very hot. Apparent unanimity is apparent only. No two men agree about the details of the scheme. The personalities imported into the discussion are exceedingly bitter. The attacks on the Attorney-General have broken down, but will be renewed. Mr. Chamberlain, in the character of a candid friend, exasperated the Irish party beyond all others. In spite of his declaration of his own belief in Mr. Parnell's integrity, they say all his honeyed sentences were only meant to smooth the way to an open commission which should seem to be strictly limited, and really have free hand. All these things, however, become of secondary importance, should Mr. Parnell finally resolve to proceed with his action against The Times. If the commission sits, Sir James Hannen will practically be the commission—certainly one of the strongest, and as certainly one of the fairest judges on the bench.

The stories about Lord Salisbury's health have only too much foundation. He is again suffering from a sharp outbreak of eczema, his old enemy, and means to leave London for Royat this week or next at the latest. The waters of Royat are his best medicine. This, however, has little bearing on the question of the date to be fixed for the closing of the session. So long as no foreign trouble threatens the Prime Minister is content to leave such domestic matters as are most pressing in the hands of his colleagues.

In the Wild West.

LIBERAL, Kan., July 27.—A livery stable keeper at Hugoton gives the following particulars of an encounter between Hugoton and Woodsdale men in Stevens County whereby seven men lost their lives. Sam Robinson, the city marshall of Hugoton, and W. Cook, of the same town, went to the Dudly ranche, near Stony Creek, yesterday, accompanied by their wives, to look up some cattle they were trying to buy. While taking dinner Deputy Sheriff Short, a Woodsdale man, accompanied by five other Woodsdale men, rode up to the party and asked Robinson to surrender as he had a warrant for his arrest. Robinson said he would go a short distance from camp, leaving Cook and the ladies behind, and then give his enemies a chance to take him. He did so and on reaching a convenient spot both parties opened fire with the result that four Woodsdale men turned up their toes. The other two fled and Robinson escaped without a scratch. Cook returned to Kingston, gave the alarm and soon an armed force went to their assistance.

Meeting a lot of Woodsdale men an encounter took place in which three more persons were killed and a number wounded. The whole county is at war. John Cross, Sheriff of Stephen's County, was one of the men killed in the second fight. The names of the others killed could not be ascertained.

Expelled on Suspicion.

BERLIN, July 27.—Herr Hartung, a well-known Berlin engineer, has been expelled from Switzerland on suspicion of being a socialist.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The President of Venezuela has telegraphed as follows to the President of the United States: "On the occasion of the inauguration of the cable to-day in this Republic I have the honor to salute you, cordially hoping that the electric wire may be a new bond of harmony between the two nations for whose prosperity, as well as for your own personal happiness, I offer sincere prayers."

Secretary Bayard replies as follows: The President is absent, and in his behalf I cordially accept your message of amity and am assured that the cable, with its facilities for anneable communication, will prove a blessing to the people of both countries.

The Proposal Rejected.

PARIS, July 27.—The Municipal Council has rejected a proposal to grant 5,000 francs to aid the navvies' strike.

Kingly Courtesies.

STOCKHOLM, July 27.—Emperor William accompanied by King Oscar and Crown Prince Gustav, Prince Henry of Prussia and Count Herbert Bismarck, drove to a number of points of interest this morning.

King Oscar has bestowed the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Olaf of Norway upon Emperor William and Prince Henry. The Emperor has conferred the decoration of the Order of the Black Eagle upon Baron Beldt, President of the Swedish Cabinet.

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Mr. Wm. H. Hunter met with a very painful accident on Thursday in the Messrs. Strickland's saw mill. His right hand was thrown on one of the saws, cutting his first finger entirely through the bone, leaving it hanging by the flesh and skin. The second and third fingers were severed completely. Drs. J. R. and J. M. Fraser dressed the injured members. Mr. R. C. Strickland assured Mr. Hunter that he need not worry about any loss of wages, as his pay would go on until he was able to return to work.

EXCURSION RATES.—Thursday of each week has been appointed a special rate day on the steamer Cruiser for the people of Peterborough, that is, one dollar from Peterborough to Stoney Lake and return. Mr. Henderson has made arrangements for the citizens of Lakefield for cheap rates on Tuesday each week at 50 cents return fare, good to return same day, only provided that the passengers secure their tickets at the ticket agency in Henderson's Pharmacy. Passengers not holding the special rate ticket will be charged full return rates.

INJURED BY A DOG.—Mr. Garrett Galvin's son Isaac, while on a visit at Mr. Harry Garbutt's, had his leg badly bitten and torn by Mr. Garbutt's dog. He was brought down to Lakefield and Drs. Fraser Bros. dressed the injured limb, the cut requiring some stitches. The dog was immediately shot, although a very valuable one.

WELCOMED.—We were very much pleased with a call from an old Lakefield resident, Mr. Francis Bowker, and two sons, on Saturday. Mr. Bowker has a fine property on Strickland-st, which he occupied when living in the village. After he left for England, Capt. Fort and wife occupied the house. A short time ago the Captain and wife returned to England, leaving the house empty again. We would all make Mr. Bowker and family very welcome back to Lakefield as a permanent citizen, and would be glad to see him occuping his old home once more.

WRIST DISLOCATED.—Mr. Richard Affords was thrown off a load of barley on Saturday, dislocating the right wrist, and bruising his face, also giving him a thorough shaking up, otherwise Richard is all O.K.

PERSONAL.—Mr. H. R. Patterson was away last week attending the funeral of his father....Misses Noble, of London, are spending a few days in Stoney Lake and also have been the guests of Miss Graham.

NEW WHARF.—The new wharf has been completed and everything made convenient for the travelling public, as well as the steamboats. We hope the owners of the steamers will keep the wharf clear of debris, and not have it piled up with all kinds of rubbish, and thereby show that they appreciate the efforts of the Council in their behalf.

LINES

Respectfully addressed to John Elder, formerly of Peterborough, now in San Francisco, Cal., for sending me a list of ninety names ordering copies of my book of poems.

When you left here, ma canta cheil,
How sad ma auld Scotch heart did feel,
Lang we had lued ilk ither weel
While here thegither
Your love sae sterlin' true an' leal,
As onna brither.

In search of worldly glittern' gear
You left your auld Scotch cronies here,
Though we should drap the bitter tear,
At partin' flows,
I hope you found a brighter sphere
Where baabees grow.

I thought the Califronia air
Would set your brains right in a flare,
And you wad think on me nae mair
Sae far away,
Till your lang list, sir, made me stare,
And weel it may.

Your generous act, though far apart,
Has pierced my soul, and sent loves dart
Up to the hilt, in ma auld heart,
Sensation move,
It gives na pain—I feel na smart,
The wound is love.

Your love of country, love of race,
Deep in your heart, still holds a place,
No time nor distance can erase
Your love sa strong,
Whither the Scot holds power or place
Or lilts a song.

Philantrophy your soul elates,
While from your heart love emanates,
Your friendly deed I appreciate
With high regard.
Reciprocal love it creates
In a poor bard.

It would be mean, ungrateful, cold,
To pass your act by unextolled,
My friend, your name shall be enrolled
Through time to shine,
The child unborn shall yet behold
Your name with mine.

Long as my mortal breath remains,
And life's blood course through my veins,
While my weak muse its power maintains
By pledge compelled her,
One name to link oft with her strains,
My friend, John Elder.

Now muckle thanks, ma sonsie callant,
Lang may ye craw high on the haltant,
An' show the Yankie chaps your tallants,
Or better still,
Gather the bills like auld Scotch ballants
Your pouch to fill.

WILLIAM TELFORD, Smith.

Our Roads and Streets.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The condition of our country roads is a subject for better consideration on the part of our civic rulers. For the number of years that the principal roads have been travelled, some over 50 years, we might expect a better road bed. It is surely time the present system of statute labour was out of existence, and if the work under it were reduced to cash, and with an additional sum, expended under competent direction, each municipality would have at once, one leading road that would be a credit to it.

Railroad managers by maintaining a good roadway save wear and tear on their rolling stock, and the same principle holds good with common roads, which, treated as they are, in many places with loose stones, miscalled gravel, are and always will be rough.

Good roads with easy communication are a boon to any country, and although not possible within the compass of one letter to say what might be said on this subject, I will be satisfied if this be the means of inciting some other interested persons to give their views through your valuable paper, and thus bring the matter to the notice of our county council next January.

Yours, &c.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price.

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

A Striking Sail.

A canoeist from Peterborough created a sensation at the Couchiching meet this week, by coming out on the water with his sails made of a handsome print. He calls the arrangement the "Mikado." When interrogated he admitted buying the print at the golden lion, where they are sold cheaper than cotton.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

A Rare Sight.

What is fortunately a rare sight in Peterborough, was witnessed on the street on Friday evening. An elderly woman decidedly intoxicated was being assisted home by another woman. They stopped in front of the police station and the one who was sober wanted the officers to take charge of her companion, but they refused and asked that the inebriate be taken home.

Failed to Appear.

Patrick Galvin, the man who pulled out the pistol and attempted to shoot a bartender, on Tuesday night last, as stated in the REVIEW at the time, was summoned to appear at the Police Court this morning and answer to a charge preferred by Chief Roszel. His name was called three times, but the defendant did not appear. The case was laid over to secure his attendance. Four witnesses of the affair were in court prepared to testify.

For Lindsay

On the 13th of August the Orangemen of the district will celebrate the closing of the gates of Derry, by a monster demonstration, at Lindsay. King William Lodge of True Blues, the Nassau Lodge and L. O. L. 49 and 80 from town have already signified their intention of taking part. The Lakefield Lodge has also received an invitation and in all probability they will accept. The True Blues have ordered new uniform caps and they expect to wear them on this occasion for the first time.

"THE Maiden's Prayer."—Give me one more cup of Fine Tea from The Pantry. d7-tf

Who Is He?

Orillia Packet:—"On Tuesday evening, a drunken fellow from Peterborough, who gives the name of John Robinson—said to be really named Hughes or Hammersley—created a disturbance at the east end of Mississaga-st. He attacked a townsman, and used some frightful language. On the approach of constable Andrew Clarke, whom he had been expressing an anxiety to demolish for arresting him during a previous visit to this town, the fellow decamped. Mayor Thompson issued a warrant, and the constable found Robinson on Wednesday, in the billiard room of the Russell House. The prisoner pleaded guilty, and His Worship imposed a fine of $5 and $5.10 costs."

Exciting Scene at Lindsay.

An insurance agent of Peterborough who was in Lindsay Thursday tells of an exciting scene there. While he was in a jewellery store, a man came in, and after he went out a valuable purse was missed. The man was called back and searched. He strenuously resisted the searching of one pocket and broke away from the jeweller, but the insurance agent caught him. A constable was sent for, but while waiting the purse was slipped back and the man was allowed to go. He came back and protested his innocence, but took the advice to leave. A third time he returned, and a watch case was missed, which was sold across the street. He was accused of the theft, but bolted, and a chase over fences, through gardens, over lumber piles, etc. ensued. A brakemar saw him, took in the situation and tried to stop him, when a rough and tumble fight followed, but having bit the brakeman severely he again got away. The police are now on his track.

Coughs and Colds.—If everything has failed, try Allen's Lung Balsam and be cured.

Off the Track.

Several cars of a freight train going east on the Grand Junction were derailed on Friday evening near Keene. The cause of the accident is believed to have been the spreading of a switch rail, which threw five or six cars off the track. The express train was delayed until the cars were again placed on the rails, but very little damage was done.

The Gun Club.

The following were the scores made at the Gun Club practice on Friday evening:—

R. Tivey	1	0	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	—9
N. Parker	1	1	1	0	1	1	1	1	0	—8
H. W. Kent	1	0	1	0	1	1	1	0	0	—5
N. Neil	1	1	1	1	1	0	1	1	1	—9
H. Calcutt	0	1	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	—5
R. G. Kingan	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	—4
J. E. McIntyre	1	0	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	—9

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

For Deep Seated Colds and Coughs, Allen's Lung Balsam cures when another remedy fails.

Numbers of Canoes.

The Orillia Packet publishes two columns of chatty and interesting notes about the A. C. A. camp. One of the notes is:—"A member of the Lindsay Club places the number of canoes owned in that place at about two hundred. A Peterborough man doubts whether there are that many, but says that if there are his town certainly has more. A Lakefield man estimates the number in use there at seventy-five or eighty."

Discharged.

John Powers, who was arrested while in a stupidly drunk condition, by officer Adams, pleaded not guilty to a charge of being drunk. As an excuse for his limp condition he said that his brain had been affected for some time, as the result of an injury. On Friday he got into a row and was kicked in the head, hence the state he was found in, although he admited drinking three glasses of beer. The P.M. gave him the benefit of the doubt and discharged him. Powers was up last winter on a similar charge and was discharged on the same excuse. Officer Adams is confident that the man was under the influence of liquor when he was arrested.

Personal.

Mr. M. J. O'Leary, who was injured last week while getting off a train, at Ashburnham, has sufficiently recovered to be able to get out again.

Mr. Irwin, of Lindsay, Deputy Inspector of Weights and Measures for this district, is in town to-day on business. He spent most of the morning on the market talking with the farmers regarding their weigh scales.

Miss M. J. Robertson, of New York city, is in town visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Radcliffe and Miss Bella Radcliffe, of St. Louis, Mo., are visiting at the residence of Mr. W. H. Anthony, Aylmer-st.

Warden Walsh, of the County of Peterborough, is in town to-day on county business.

Mr. Geo. Sproule, who had been conducting evangelistic services up north, was compelled to return home through illness and is at present confined.

Mr. John E. Belcher, Town and County Engineer, has been confined to the house during the last week by illness, but he is able to be around and intends to start for the back lakes as soon as possible.

Port Hope Guide of Friday:—"Miss Ettie Welsh, who has been spending a few days with relatives in Peterborough, returned home last night, having enjoyed her visit very much."

Baseball.

The Lockworks and the Ashburnham Astonishers played another game of ball, on the Riverside Park, on Friday evening, the former winning. The score was:

Innings	1	2	3	Total.
Astonishers	1	0	2	—3
Lock Works	0	4	2	—6

Batteries,—Astonishers, Mein and O'Brien; Lockworks, Farley and Graham.

The Farmers' Institute.

A member of the Farmers' Institute of the West Riding asks why the annual meeting of the Institute has not been held. Other Institutes, including that of the East Riding, have held their annual meetings, soon after the close of the financial year, and the returns should be sent to the Government and county. Perhaps the President or Secretary will give the information desired.

More of Them.

Most decidedly this has been a year of picnics and excursions and since the season opened they have come thick and fast. People are not decided on any particular place for holding them, but Jubilee Point, up to date has had the call. On August 7th the tailors will excurt and on the 16th of August the Emerald Beneficial Association will hold their annual picnic and excursion. Both will go to Jubilee Point.

That Reward.

A story was telegraphed all over the country to the effect that Chief Hinde, of Trenton, had received $500 reward of the $1,000 offered for the arrest of Nelson, the absconding banker of Atlanta, Georgia, but those who should know laugh at the yarn and the subsequent proceedings point that way. Nelson was before the Police Magistrate on Friday and was remanded until Tuesday next.

Scott Act Cases.

At the Police Court this morning Chief Roszel had nine Scott Act cases, all first offences. Of these Messrs. T. Dunn, W. H. Chamberlain, Wm. Snowden, R. B. Hamilton, T. O. Rush, M. Connors, John Cameron and John Garvey all pleaded guilty and were fined $50 and costs each. To a similar charge John McFarland pleaded not guilty and the case was enlarged until Tuesday next.

Simply Great.

Millis' Tourists, now on their second tour around the world, will give one of the unique and sparkling entertainments here, in the Opera House, on Tuesday, July 31st. Everywhere they have been endorsed by press and people. The Toronto Mail says:—"Everyone appeared to be well satisfied with Fred. W. Millis, the ventriloquist, who kept the house in roars of laughter. He is simply great, and to see him is well worth the price of admission."

Davis' Pain-Killer is the best medicine in the world for all Diseases of the Bowels.

An Unfortunate.

Toronto World:—"A peculiar case of man's duplicity and woman's frailty has lately occurred, the details of which were enacted in Toronto and Peterborough. A few days ago a woman whose years might reasonably be supposed to have wrought discretion, applied to the Mayor for a pass to the Burnside Hospital. She had been brought into trouble, she said, by a young man in Peterborough with whose parents she worked. They had turned her adrift with $4, the wages due her, on discovery of her condition. The Mayor refused the pass on the ground that Peterborough and all other places should care for their own unfortunates. Her money being exhausted she stayed around the waiting-room of the Union Station, sleeping in a shed near by during a couple of nights. Yesterday she was given a pass on the railroad to Peterborough, where it is to be hoped her condition will meet with more indulgent care. She is about 35 years of age and is of German extraction, her home being in the vicinity of Peterborough."

A Meeting of District Assembly No. 236. Held at Lindsay.

District Assembly No. 236, was in session at Linday during Thursday and Friday, being attended by representatives from Gravenhurst, Midland, Port Perry, Lindsay, Uxbridge and Peterborough, and a considerable amount of important work has been transacted. District Master Workman Elliott, of Uxbridge, was unanimously elected to represent the district at the General Assembly to be held at Indianapolis in November next.

The following resolutions were adopted:—

Resolved, that we, the delegates of the various local assemblies in session at Lindsay, do condemn the indiscriminate landing on our shores of pauper and other undesirable emigrants and are of the opinion that Parliament should pass a bill enabling the Government to deal with this question and remove the evils complained of.

Whereas, The time has arrived when the system of paying registrars of counties, court clerks and bailiffs should be changed, therefore it is resolved that in the opinion of this district assembly the said officers should be paid a fixed salary, and that all fees be returned to the county treasurer.

That this District assembly call the attention of Parliament to the vast importance of that body issuing all the currency and establishing a national bank, and that all benefits derived therefrom should go directly to the people.

Several complaints were made regarding the careless manner in which the factory inspector is performing the duties of his office.

The next meeting will be held at Peterborough, on the last Thursday in January. Messrs Geo. Ball and Z. B. D. Lafleur, the Peterborough representatives, arrived home on Friday evening.

Incapable.

On Wednesday afternoon a drunken man walked into LeGros' barber shop and deliberately laid down in the centre of the floor. The police were sent for and officer Adams went over. He found that the man was stupidly drunk and could not speak at all. He was also without the use of his limbs and had to be carried to the station. He did not revive for several hours.

Brevities.

—A Scott Act case will be fought out on Tuesday, the first for some weeks.

—Owing to the fact that so many people are out of town on holidys, no regatta took place last night.

—Several carloads of fat cattle have recently been shipped from here to Montreal, by Eakins, of Port Hope.

—Persons who are anywhere within several blocks of the market this morning could easily tell that Eli Sager, the razor paste man, was in town. His voice betrays him and agitates the atmosphere.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday last Mrs. A. Feir of Ops, met with a severe accident near Mr. R. McQuade's residence west of Omemee. All the particulars we can gain are that the horse ran away and threw Mrs. Feir out of the buggy, dislocating one of her shoulders and inflicting other severe injuries. Medical aid was at once secured, and she is now doing a well as could be expected.—Herald.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger airl passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

until your hair becomes dry, thin, and gray before giving the attention needed to preserve its beauty and vitality. Keep on your toilet-table a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor—the only dressing required for the hair—and use it liberally daily, to preserve the natural color and prevent baldness.

Thomas Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky., writes: "Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best hair-restorer in the world."

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delavan, Ill.; "but after using a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became black and glossy."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"Like it! There is no use in thinking about liking what must be. I have cut myself adrift from every other kind of life, so I must and will make it answer, but it—it's an awful wrench to go. I can't deny that! Still—" He broke off, and meeting her eyes, exclaimed—"If you look so sorry for me, I shall make a fool of myself. That is," flushing sympathetically as he saw her color rise, "I shall whine and bemoan my hard fate, in a fashion that will not increase any gleams of respect you may have for me."

"Is she afraid I am forgetting the bitter lesson she once gave me?" thought he.

"Does he imagine I am fishing for an avowal of the affection which has died out?" thought she.

"I assure you I do not suspect you of any such weakness. I dare say you will find your new home and life pleasant enough."

"Oh, very likely! Indeed, given certain conditions, I can imagine enjoying life on the ranch very much—though we are twenty-five miles from the nearest 'city,' as it is called—and it is merely a big village, minus the rusticity of a village, and plus the gas, the gilding, the looking-glasses, the gambling, the cheating, the orgies of a big modern town."

"What an awful place!" said Mona. "You must be glad to have twenty-five miles between your home and it?"

"Between my place of abode and it," he returned. "Well, yes! though there are inconveniences. Yet you would be surprised if you knew how many good fellows—kindly, brave, generous—are scattered about among the general rowdy population, like nuggets in dirt. Are you going—"

"Yes, you have sat here long enough. The sun is beginning to go down."

"You forget that a broken arm does not constitute an invalid. I am as strong as a horse now."

"Perhaps so. Then the country is very fine about these dreadful 'cities?'"

"Superb! The redwoods on the edge of which I am located are the finest stretch of forests you can imagine. I am afraid to tell you the dimensions of the trees—you would think I was romancing; then the beauty and luxuriance of the under growth, such feed for hogs—not very interesting stock, I acknowledge, but very profitable—while in the more open spaces, and where it has been cleared, such a soil for wheat. Then, of course, we have a number of employes—hunters, herdsmen, keepers of various kinds, and some Chinamen for servants. The climate is perfection, the sunsets and sunrisings marvelously lovely."

"What a wonderful country! You ought to be happy there."

"There are one or two things wanting—still one cannot have everything. You see, my friend and partner Watson is a queer fellow, sharp and clever in his way. He got hold of this ranch by a lucky chance. An old hunter had got it for a song some years ago. He did a good deal in clearing and improving, till he come to the end of his cash, and got sick of being settled. So Wells bought it as it stood cheap enough, then he found he hadn't a penny left. Just about that time I wandered into San Francisco and met him, so we entered into partnership. I hope to buy him out by and by."

"I think," said Mona, "were I a man, I should rather like the life; but it must be lonely."

"Oh, it would be terrible for a woman, I am afraid," said Waring, with a sigh. "I must take out some solid reading with me, to provide for the winter evenings."

"How long shall you be in London?"

"About a week."

"It will be full, as it is near Easter. Shall you not look up some of your old friends? The contrast would amuse you."

"No, I have done with all that! There are some relations of my father's on whom I must call—but I really do not care to see anyone else."

This conversation had lasted while they made the tour of a stony, heathery piece of land outside the low, moss-grown wall which inclosed the lawn and bit of pleasure ground, and came out upon the road leading to Kirktoun.

As they paused to look at the sunset, and just as Waring had uttered the last words, a gentleman on foot came round a turn of the road. Waring's brow contracted; he glanced swiftly at his companion, and exclaimed—

"By Jove! it is Lisle!"

In another moment Lisle was lifting his hat and shaking hands with Mona.

"Waring!" he exclaimed, in a tone of extreme surprise. "Waring! by all that's astonishing. Where—how—what has brought you here?"

"Chiefly railways and steamboats."

"My uncle knew some of Mr. Waring's people. They met in Glasgow, and Mr. Waring came back with him."

"I thought you were lost forever!" cried Lisle, in a tone which did not express very lively pleasure at his turning up again.

"Well, here I am, you see, considerably the better for a sojourn in the wilds."

"So it seems. Why, you look years older!"

"Now, Sir St. John, pray account for yourself," said Mona. "Your sudden appearance requires explanation, as well as Mr. Waring's."

"Does it?" said Lisle, flashing a quick glance into her eyes. "Well, Finistoun was coming north for a little rest and fishing, so, as we both had had enough of gay and festive scenes for the present, I came with him, and am staying in my old quarters at Kirktoun for a day or two. How is a' wi' ye?" as your quaint old uncle would say."

"We are all remarkably well. He will be a good deal surprised to see you."

"More surprised than delighted, I suspect."

"It takes a great deal to delight Uncle Sandy, but I think he was always placidly pleased to see you."

"And how goes the Highland cousin? Has he grown reconciled to his uncle's plans?"

"Oh, no!" cried Mona, laughing; "he is more irreconcilable than ever."

Then Lisle asked for Miss Debrissay, and described with cool sarcasm the surprise and indignation of Gen. Fielden's friends at that warrior's marriage.

Waring was very silent. Mona's quick intelligence told her that each man was annoyed by the sight of the other; Waring, of course, did not care to [illegible] who had advised a step which [illegible] and mortification; while the other—well, she understood his irritation clearly enough.

Lisle imparted a good deal of London gossip before they reached the house, and was then duly introduced to Uncle Sandy.

"Eh, but I'm varra pleased to see you!" he said, with unusual warmth. "It's an uncommon time o' year for a Londoner to come amang the hills."

"You see, Craigdarroch always has its attractions."

"May be so—may be so. It will be looking grawly in anither month. And now you'll tak' a bit supper wi' us. We have supper at eight, and Kenneth will put you on your way back."

"Thanks; I shall be most happy. I need not trouble your nephew. In your well-ordered country the roads are as safe at midnight as midday."

"That's true!" emphatically. "I am glad you're aware o't. That great, bang, self-opeenionated young woman—how d'ye ca' her?—that just turned up her nose (mair than nature had done for her) against Scotland to a Scotchman!—that 'wasna weel-mannered for a lady that goes to the Queen's Court, they tell me."

"Oh! the court is a regular olla podrida now," said Lisle.

To be Continued.

At Toronto.

The Executive Committee of the Permanent Central Farmer Institute of Ontario met yesterday in the Walker House. The committee regret that the grant given by the Department of Agriculture was insufficient to meet their expenses. This was made the subject of a lengthy resolution which concluded with the ominous statement that if the grant be not increased this year they will look elsewhere, to the individual institutes, for support. At the afternoon session an offer of co-operation was received and accepted from the Ontario Fruit-growers' Association. On motion of Mr. Shaw, it was resolved to so amend the constitution as to admit two delegates each from the Dairymen's Association and the Eastern and Western Creameries Associations. It was resolved that an attempt should be made to secure $1000 from the Minister of Agriculture. The advisability of doing away with township fairs will be discussed at the next annual meeting of the Institute, to be held in Toronto on the first Tuesday in February, 1889.

An $800 Blaze at Cobourg.

COBOURG, July 27.—About 3.45 this morning fire broke out in a stable on Chapel street, the property of George J. Stephens, undertaker and furniture dealer. The building with contents were totally destroyed and a valuable horse perished in the flames. The loss is $800, insured for $125.

TURNBULLS'.

New Goods received this week. Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets, Cretonnes, Fringes, Table Oilcloths. Ladies' Belts, Prints, Lawns and Dress Goods.

Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.

Just to hand light and dark Seersuckers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

THE ALLEGED SENDING BACK OF CANADIANS FROM PT. HURON.

Further Enquiry to be Made by the Department of Customs—The Food Adulteration Act to be Vigorously Enforced—Disastrous Bush Fires.

OTTAWA, July 29.—On being shown yesterday a telegram from Pt. Huron, Mich., reasserting that Canadian employes on the Grand Trunk had been forced to cross the line, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, said, "I know nothing beyond what has been received from the Collector of Customs at Sarnia. He forwarded a report denying the statement that Canadian workmen had been sent back. However, I intend to make further enquiry."

Gen. Middleton, on being asked yesterday what he thought about the Guards' difficulty, said that he could not express any opinion as he had heard nothing about it beyond what had appeared in the papers. No resignations had been reported to him.

It is understood that no more analyses will be made by the Department of Inland Revenue this year. Next year it is said the Department will vigorously enforce the Food Adulteration Act. Traders will by that time have had sufficient opportunity to make themselves familiar with the act and will have only themselves to blame if they get caught.

The Department of Justice has received notice from Judge Johnson that he has issued a warrant for the arrest of Bergin, the Baltimore forger, now held in Montreal.

It is reported that Sheriff Coultlee of Ottawa County, who is about 80 years old, is anxious to retire. It is said that his successor will be C. B. Major of Hull.

Bush fires are again very troublesome in this section and two large ones could be seen from Parliament Hill to-day, one back of Hull and the other apparently on the line of the Canada Atlantic.

THE N.P.R.R. NEGOTIATIONS.

Nothing Definite Known at Winnipeg as to the Arrangement.

WINNIPEG, July 29.—Nothing has been heard from New York respecting the negotiations with the Northern Pacific beyond the announcement in the Associated Press dispatch that they have been consummated. The members of the Government here have not received any information of the details of the deal, but it is stated that the agreement involves $6500 guarantee of bonds per mile, instead of $5000, and that the Legislature will be called before harvest to pass the necessary legislation to charter another company, as the bonds cannot legally issue to the Northern Pacific nor does the Manitoba Central charter cover all the territory the Northern Pacific intends to possess.

Archer, the principal in the criminal assault case at Donald, was shot dead by Kennedy, one of the witnesses, who claimed he did it in self-defence.

A heavy discount, ranging from 3 to 20 per cent. has been placed on American silver.

It is believed that Mayor Jones' resignation will not be accepted.

Arrested for Forgery—The Bucket Shop Case Goes Over Again.

TORONTO, July 30.—On Saturday a man named John George Burrows, who says he is an insurance agent, was arrested on two charges of forgery.

The Sons of England picnicked at the Exhibition Park on Saturday, the Canadian Pacific Railway employes at Orangeville and the Typographical Union at Oakville.

A large number of yachts of all rigs and sizes arrived in port yesterday, to take part in Wednesday's regatta.

A public meeting will be held in Wycliffe College this evening at 8 o'clock to say farewell to Rev. J. Cooper Robinson, who is going as a missionary in Japan. He is the first missionary sent out by the Church of England in Canada.

The Police Court was crowded again Saturday morning when the nine men who were arrested in the recent raid of the detectives on Hanrahan & Co's alleged bucket shop at 23 Toronto-street, were placed in the dock. They had been released on bail and were all on hand. The prosecution is under the Gaming Act and Senator Abbott's Bucket Shop Act passed at the last session of Parliament. The Crown was not prepared to proceed with the case and a further remand was made to Thursday next.

The City Council have decided to unite with the Ontario Government and Canadian Institute in extending an invitation to the American Association for the Advancement of Science to hold its next annual meeting in this city.

Foresters at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, July 29.—To-morrow a larger and more imposing demonstration than any that has occurred in Hamilton for years will be seen—the demonstration of the Ancient Order of Foresters in honor of the High Court of that great Order, which will meet here next week. Above 5000 excursionists are expected to the city by train and boat. A procession at 1.30 p.m. from the Gore will open the proceedings. It will march to Dundurn Park, where a long list of sports, competitions and amusements, many of them quite fresh in character, and all of them interesting, will be run through. A larger sum has been expended for prizes probably than has been done at any similar event in Hamilton.

Another Big Failure at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 28.—Nathan Kennedy, a live stock importer, made an assignment to-day. His liabilities are about $150,000.

NEWS FROM THE SKEENA.

ARRIVAL OF H.M.S. CAROLINE AT ESQUIMALT.

Details of the Affrays Which Led up to the Present Difficulties—A Detachment Sent on to Hazelton—C Battery at the Mouth of the Skeena.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 29.—H.M.S. Caroline, Capt. Sir William Wiseman, arrived at Esquimault from Skeena this evening with the latest news concerning the Indian trouble. The Caroline arrived at the entrance to the Skeena on July 19. Information was first sought as to the condition of affairs at Hazelton which is 140 miles from the mouth of the river and distant 10 days by canoe, the river being a mad torrent enclosed by lofty canyons. Mate Harkin, who arrived the day before from Hazelton, stated that the reports about the Hudson Bay Company's agent and others were totally unfounded. With the exception of the missionary at Hazelton all the white residents had entered the shelter formed by the barricaded Hudson Bay Company's post.

The Indians' demeanor was threatening and they were still excited over the killing of Kit-Won-Cool-Jim by Constable Green, who is now said to be a deserter from the American army. It was the opinion of Harkin that serious trouble would probably ensue unless special police immediately proceeded to Hazelton.

Two more Indians had been killed in a fight caused by some trival feud. A letter from Constable Washburn at Hazelton, sent no the Government, contains an account of the killing of these two men. An Indian famed Tobias Shot, father-in-law of Kit-Won-Cool-Jim, then went mad, threatening to kill the head chief of another tribe. The latter claims self-defence compelled him to kill Tobas, which he did. Washburn and three constables went to the village, arrested him and have him in charge at Hazelton.

Green is also under arrest for killing Jim. From the statement of an Indian eye-witness it would appear that Green wantonly shot Jim. The latter in a house with a dozen others twice asked three constables to arrest him. He had a pistol in his hand and they did not move. Jim suddenly walked out of the back door, the constables after him. Green went out the front door almost colliding with Jim whom, when he passed, he shot in the back. Jim lived an hour. It is claimed that he was about to give himself into custody when the shot was fired. Green's action is generally condemned and he will be tried for manslaughter.

The day after the arrival of the Caroline the steamer Boscowitz arrived with Supt. Roycroft on board, and after some difficulty in securing a crew of six Indians, Roycroft and twelve special constables started up the river for Hazelton. The trip will take nine or ten days up and as soon as the facts are ascertained a messenger will be forwarded to Commandant Holmes of C Battery. If trouble occurs the battery will at once start up the river. The battery at Port Essington, at the mouth of the river.

A DISHONEST BROKER.

Montrealers Victimized to the Tune of Nearly $10,000.

MONTREAL, July 29. Some time ago a certain broker who has been and is well known in town started a grain and provision brokerage business not very far from McGill-street, and did a good business. Of late, however, matters do not appear to have been kept quite straight, and for the last day or two rumors have been current that trouble was impending. From what can be ascertained at present, the facts seem to be that several customers, including two prominent produce merchants, put up margins on deals in Chicago, ranging in amount from $800 to $1,600, which, if properly placed, would have proven profitable. The broker, however, instead of utilizing the margins for his customers, speculated with it on his own account and finding that he was becoming heavily involved determined to wind up in good style by temporarily retiring from the public gaze until the remainder of the margins has been called. It is understood that several large deals are still outstanding and the broker's customers despair of ever seeing a cent of their money, especially as the Chicago firms through whom the deals were supposed to have been made have repudiated connection with the broker. The margins put up by customers certainly exceed $5000 and may even reach $10,000, for which there is little hope of recovery.

HACKED HIS HEAD TO PIECES.

Fatal Quarrel between Two Lumbermen at Sable River.

SUDBURY JUNCTION, July 28.—Great excitement prevails along the Algoma branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, owing to a sensational fight that occurred at Sable River Thursday evening, between a man named Robert O'Connell, a lumberman of Mattawa, and another named Wilson. It appears that the two had a dispute that culminated in a fearful assault upon each other at the lumber camp at Mossey, and O'Connell, picking up a shovel literally hacked Wilson's head to pieces. Wilson is dead. After the fight O'Connell took to the bush and is now being pursued by men of the camp, who declare that they will lynch him should he be found. The chief of police and a detective have left to endeavor to get O'Connell before the campmen lay hands upon him. The murderer is known unfavorably to the police here as a desperate character who will not hesitate to kill anyone attempting to effect his arrest. Trouble is expected.

Sudden Death at Galt.

GALT, July 29.—Edward Edwards, aged 43, an employe at Goldie & McCulloch's safe works, died very suddenly at his residence last night. Mr. Edwards was secretary for the Forester's Society and remained up late writing. Mrs. Edwards retired at the usual hour and awoke between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning. Finding her husband had no come to bed she went to see what was keeping him. She was horrified to find him cold in death, sitting in the chair with his hands folded apparently sleeping. A doctor was sent for, who said that death had occurred four hours previous, and was caused by the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain. Mrs. Edwards is in delicate health, and is left with five children, the eldest 14 years of age.

A Bouchervilie Farmer's Find.

MONTREAL, July 29.—Last week Mr. Louis Sicotte, a rich farmer of Boucherville, while passing near his outbuilding saw some shining pieces of metal on a spot where hens had scratched. Upon approaching he perceived that they were coins and removing the earth a little he found himself in the presence of a treasure consisting of old French, Mexican and American coins. They were for the most part dollar pieces, some of them dating as far back as 1726 and the most modern being 1837. When placed on a scale the treasure was found to be 25 lbs. in weight and worth about $400.

Suicide at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 28.—A man named Geo. Marshall committed suicide at the St. James' Hotel to-day. It appears that he rang the bell, which was answered by a bell boy, who, on entering the room, found him lying on the floor with a bullet hole in his head and a revolver, with five chambers loaded and one discharged, by his side. He was formerly a member of the Montreal police force, but left for the Old Country two years ago. He returned this spring and has been living at the St. James' Hotel since May.

CAUGHT THROUGH HIS UNCLE.

A Man Arrested at Detroit for Disposing of Goods Stolen in Canada.

DETROIT, July 29.—Some days ago a letter reached police headquarters from G. W. Scott, residing at Point Edward, Ont., setting forth that his house had been entered on July 13 and jewelry and clothing to the value of over $500 carried away. Among the jewelry was a Scotch pebble chain, locket, bracelets, earrings, brooches, etc., all of genuine gold and quite antique. Detectives Boeberitz and Baker a few days ago discovered some of the missing jewels where they had been disposed of in this city, and, finding that the robber was in the city, laid their plans to secure him. At the places where the stolen property had been sold and pledged they obtained as accurate a description of the man as possible, and yesterday, on the market, arrested a man whose general appearance answered the description. At the detective bureau, where he was searched, a large number of the stolen articles were found in his possession. He was locked up under the name of Charles Cliff, 36 years old and residing in Massachusetts. He is a stranger to the police and the rogue's gallery does not contain his portrait.

BRODIE, THE BRIDGE JUMPER.

His Girl Makes a Desperate Attempt to Kill Herself.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Steve Brodie, the bridge jumper and Bowery saloonkeeper, and the Albany girl, whom he is accused of abducting, were arraigned at the Tombs' Police Court to-day before Justice Kilbreth. The girl's mother, Mrs. Laura Ford, of Albany, was present and admitted that the girl was 16 years old. The charge of abduction, therefore, fell through. It was then decided to hold the girl as an incorrigible, and while waiting removal to the House of Mercy the girl made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to plunge the blade of a penknife into her breast. Had not Officer Patten caught her arm she would have succeeded in her design. She then remarked defiantly: "Well, either I'll be allowed to go with Steve, or I'll do it yet."

LIBERATED AT LAST.

John Anderson Taken From the Well in Which He Spent Nine Days.

JOHNSTOWN, Neb., July 28.—At early dawn this morning the rescuing party resumed its labors at the living tomb of John Anderson. A box eighteen inches long and ten by twelve inches square, was thrust through the opening to the boards that were protecting him and an opening made to it. Anderson stripped himself and attaching a rope to his body was drawn through the aperture to his rescuers, where he was again dressed and drawn to the upper air. He seemed cheerful and wanted to walk, but by the advice of physicians was carried to a house and placed under the care of Drs. Farleigh and Reine, who pronounced him as doing well and as almost certain to recover. He was in the well nine days.

A Cyclone in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, July 28.—Very hot weather, accompanied by local storms, has prevailed in the Northwest to-day. The Pioneer Press has information that a cyclone at Plainview, near Rochester, Minn., this afternoon, wrecked several houses, but so far as known killed no one. Details are lacking. During a thunderstorm at Brown's Valley, Mrs. Estelle, wife of a farmer, was killed by lightning.

Canal Tolls Upon Canadian Vessels.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Mr. Dingley of Maine presented in the House to-day a bill providing for tolls upon Canadian vessels passing through the Ste. Mary's and St. Clair Flats Canals in case of discrimination on Canadian canals against vessels or ports of the United States. Referred to the Committee on Merchant Marine.

The Ex-Pug Missing.

BOSTON, July 29.—John L. Sullivan's circus has come to an end, leaving, it is said, a large number of unpaid bills. Sullivan's whereabouts are unknown.

The Contract Labor Law Again.

DULUTH, Minn., July 28.—The Duluth Board of Education are threatened with prosecution under the Contract Labor law, having engaged a Miss Lericheaux, of Canada, to teach. The engagement will be cancelled.

Hoge and Murphy Held for Trial.

CHICAGO, July 28.—The cases of Chairmen Hoge and Murphy charged with being implicated in the Burlington dynamite conspiracy were called in court this morning. The prisoners were represented by ex-Judge Barnum who stated that his clients would waive examination and asked that the bail formerly given be allowed to stand for their appearance. In the absence of any opposition from the prosecution this was done. The informers, Kelly and McGilvary, Hoge's clerks, followed suit, waiving examination and being held on their former bonds.

A Youthful Chicago Horsethief.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The police have captured a 16-year-old robber named Brown, whose achievements in the horsestealing line are unparalleled. So far 25 stolen horses and eight stolen vehicles have been recovered.

A Pittsburg Enterprise.

PITTSBURG, July 29, A company was formed in this city last evening, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, the object being to open a tin mine in Mexico, near Durango.

Typesetting Feats of the Montreal Comps.

MONTREAL, July 29—At the French printers' picnic yesterday, the English type-setting match was won by W. Bell of The Witness, who set 1794 ems in one hour without correcting. J. Glennon being only 78 ems behind. The French match was won by M. Belair, who set about the same amount of matter as Bell.

The weather during the past week has improved the condition of the growing crops in the corn and wheat states in the central valleys and in the Northwest.

Recruits Wanted.

QUEBEC, July 28.—Recruits are wanted for the permanent corps of artillery at Quebec and Kingston and for the infantry at St. Johns and London, the corps at these stations being below their establishment. Some names have been sent to headquarters.

THE BULGARIAN THRONE.

PRINCE WALDEMAR LIKELY TO ASSUME THE SCEPTRE.

Emperor William's Movements—Germany's Friendly Relations with the Scandinavian Races—The Kaiser Will Not Go to Rome—The Political Situation.

BERLIN, July 28.—The movements of Emperor William and his party after their visit to Copenhagen are timed so that they will arrive at Kiel on Monday next. On Tuesday His Majesty will hold a naval review, the leading feature of the manœuvers being a test of the powers of torpedo boats.

The interview between Emperor William and King Christian of Denmark has a special importance as associated with the settlement of a family question, connected with the Bulgarian throne. The Czar appears to have given his assent to the creation of a Bulgarian monarchy, with either Prince Waldemar, the youngest son of King Christian, or the Duke of Cumberland on the throne. The Duke of Cumberland has decisively rejected the offer, which was made to him through Prince Bismarck. In his note refusing to accept the Crown he declares that the proposal is an insult to him as the legitimate King of Hanover, and expresses the hope that he is destined to see the King of Prussia reduced to his proper level. King Christian of Denmark advises Prince Waldemar to accept the throne of Bulgaria if the entente between the European powers is perfect. King George of Greece, the brother of Prince Waldemar, opposes his candidature. Important events are certain to take place if Greece and Bulgaria come into conflict.

The National Zeitung, in a semi-official article, declares that the Imperial visit to Stockholm and Copenhagen is a pledge for the re-establishment of friendly relations by Germany with the Scandinavian races.

With reference to Prince Ferdinand, it has been decided that he shall be assisted to maintain his position in Bulgaria. Last evening's Svoboda, the official organ of the Sofia government, declares that the abdication of Prince Ferdinand does not depend upon the will of any power whatever: that he was raised to the throne by the Bulgarian nation and will remain as long as he preserves the affection and confidence of the people.

The Russian Government distrusts more than ever Prince Bismarck's diplomacy with reference to Bulgaria. The Moscow Gazette and The Svet are no longer content with demanding the deposition of Prince Ferdinand from the throne of Bulgaria as a guarantee of Germany's good faith, but demand that Prince Bismarck be first dismissed. It is notable as illustrating how little the effect of the Emperor William's visit to St. Petersburg modified the anti-German hostility seen in the articles of the Pan-Slavist press.

The protest of the Vatican against the visit of Emperor William at Rome has proved effectual. One result of the Vatican's diplomatic triumph is that Minister Crispi has sent instructions to the Italian Embassy in Paris to invigorate the negotiations for a commercial treaty with France. Berlin official circles strongly distrust the Italian Government on account of its relations with France.

The approaching elections to the Landtag cause the difference between the National Liberals and the Conservatives now forming a majority to become more distinctly indicated. The National Liberals, hoping to obtain the preponderance, are disposed to break the alliance with the Conservative leaders, who are disinclined to renew the coalition agreed upon early last year.

NATALIE AND THE CZAR.

Endeavoring to Arrange an Interview—Elopement of a Liverpool Heiress.

LONDON, July 28.—Queen Natalie of Servia, has announced her intention of shortly taking a trip to Odessa, where the body of her father, Colonel Kechko, is buried. Her Russian friends, and they are many and powerful, are making efforts to arrange a meeting between her and the Czar during the latter's forthcoming visit to Livadia and it is likely that the interview will take place.

The jury in the inquest on the body of Mr. Mandeville discussed for some time the question of returning a verdict of murder against Dr. Barr, and had the Parnellite members of the body pressed their arguments in favor of such a verdict it would undoubtedly have been rendered. The leaders of the Home Rule element of the jury however decided that a verdict of general censure of the jail officials together with the suicide of Dr. Ridley would be sufficiently strong object lessons to the British electorate to accomplish the needed reforms and establish the brutality of the treatment to which Irish political prisoners are subjected.

Miss Lucy Rostron, daughter of a Liverpool merchant and heiress to £20,000, eloped on Thursday with a stable groom named Aspin who is married and the father of five children. The father and brothers of the girl started in pursuit and overtook the couple on board of the steamship Bothnia at Queenstown yesterday as they were about to sail for America. The girl when confronted with the gloomy prospect of living from hand to mouth in a strange country repented and returned home. The groom was allowed to go his way.

Singing Boulanger Songs.

PARIS, July 28.—A thousand striking navvies paraded the boulevards to-day singing Boulanger songs.

A Parachutist's Daring Leap.

LONDON, July 28.—Baldwin, the parachutist, jumped from a balloon to-day at the height of 1000 feet and landed safely. Enormous crowds were at Alexandra Palace to witness the feat and displayed great enthusiasm.

Marriage of Sir Charles Halle.

LONDON, July 28.—Sir Charles Halle, the pianist, has been married to Madame Wilhelmine Norman-Neruda, the violinist.

Villages Raided by Lawless Turkomans.

TEHERAN, Persia, July 23.—The Yomood Turkomans in the Askabad district are in a state of revolt. They have raided several villages, plundering the houses and killing many of the inhabitants. The troops are powerless to suppress them. The shops in Askabad are closed and trade is at a standstill.

Discount in London.

LONDON, July 29.—Discount was in good demand during the past week at hardening rates, quoted at 1⅛ to ⅛. The Stock Exchange loan rate until next account is 2½ to 1⅛. On the Stock Exchange during the week business was more active in every department and prices were firm.

Italy Takes Possession of Massowah.

PARIS, July 28.—Count Menabrea, the Italian Ambassador, has handed to M. Goblet, Minister of Foreign Affairs, a note addressed to all the European Powers, informing them that Italy has definitively taken possession of Massowah and the adjacent territory.

Another Royal Tourist.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 29.—The King of Greece arrived here to-day.

Peculiar Accident.

CROPS OF THE COUNTY.

THE YIELD AND PROSPECTS IN THE DIFFERENT TOWNSHIPS.

Reports from Farmers in Various Sections of the County—Particular References and General Observations.

The REVIEW last week sent out a number of circulars to residents of different parts of the county making enquiries regarding the crops. The circulars were sent in almost every case to farmers, and to some townships two or three were sent to residents in different sections of the township. A number of replies have been received, and are given below, and others will be given as they reach this office.

SMITH.

BRIDGENORTH, July 28th, 1888.

Fall wheat is a good crop. Spring wheat—straw short, head long and well filled. Barley—good crop. Oats have improved since the last rain and there are prospects of a heavy crop. Peas—short in straw, average crop. Hay—rather light. From appearances the crop of potatoes will be large. Other roots look very well; would be better with rain. Fruit—light; too much blown off with the heavy wind. Remarks—The last rain made an improvement in the crops, which looked rather sickly, but will now turn out good.

SMITH, 7th Con., lot 20, July 28.

Fall wheat, fair. Spring wheat, very fair. Barley—very short straw; good sample, but poor yield. Oats light. Peas very poor. Hay light, about half a crop. Potatoes look good at present. Other roots are not far advanced, but look well. Fruit is poor, the apples were largely blown off by wind. On the whole there will be a fair crop.

SMITH, 3rd Con., July 28.

Fall wheat—very fair, a little better than was expected in the spring; about an average crop. Spring wheat, very good. Barley, fair; short in straw, but well filled. Oats and peas rather light. Hay, rather light, but well saved. Potatoes promise well, but rain is needed for them. Other roots are backward. Fruit, middling prospect. On the whole the crop may be a little below an average. The grain will turn out well to the straw. Most people will have fodder enough.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

NORTH MONAGHAN, July 28.

Fall wheat, an average crop. Spring wheat is a little under the average. Barley is light. Oats, a little under the average, but picking up. Peas, late peas are good. Hay, very light; about half a crop. Potatoes look well. Other roots—turnips poor; others fair. Fruit, a low average; plums a failure. There will be about a two-thirds crop on the whole.

NORTH MONAGHAN, July 30.

Fall wheat, generally good; only a small percentage killed. Spring wheat, have none, but I consider it medium. Barley, some good and more very short and light, under the average. Oats, very poor with me; have seen one or two good fields. Peas, have seen some good and some that will not give seed back. Hay, about half a crop. Potatoes, very small, and will be, unless we get heavy rains soon. The same may be said of other roots. Not having been away to any distance, cannot give much information.

OTONABEE.

LANG, July 30.

Fall wheat, fair average, where not killed out. Spring wheat is good. Barley, average crop; straw rather short. Oats, looking well, none cut as yet. Peas—early peas are good; late peas, rather scanty. Rye, none. Hay, about a two-thirds crop. Potatoes are looking well, but need rain. Other roots, nothing extra; rather poor. Fruit, rather scarce, below the average. Some week since I was down east, everything then was very good.

ENNISMORE.

ENNISMORE, July 28.

The crops in this locality, after careful inquiry and personal observation, we would find about the following correct:—Hay, not more than 50 per cent. of an average crop. Fall wheat well headed but thin on the ground; 85 per cent. But it must be remembered we don't include what has spring wheat sown amongst it. Barley will go about 75 per cent. A great many of the fields have not ripened regular, consequently injuring the sample of the grain. Spring wheat 70 per cent. Straw long enough, but thin on the ground. Oats, owing to our late local showers, may come about 85 per cent. Peas, like the oats, is benefitted by the rain and will reach 85 per cent. Potatoes, although looking well above the ground, have a poor prospect so far of a good yield. A good many of the turnips are not thinned yet. Taking all into consideration I believe our farmers will not receive more than two-thirds of an average, including seed and labor. Fruit will not come up to our expectations, owing to the gales blowing so many of the young fruit off, and in winter the scarcity of feed will be severely felt, all caused through the long continued drought. The Dominion Government would confer a blessing on the farmers if they would allow corn and oats to come in free of duty for six months at least.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

SOUTH MONAGHAN, July 28.

Fall wheat—good catch where it was not winter killed. Spring wheat—the early sown is good, filling well and a good crop, showing no appearance of rust. Barley will be average crop of grain, bright and of medium sample, with short straw. Oats—Early oats are light; late oats, that received the benefit of the rain, will be a good crop. Peas are poor. Those who have threshed received from 5 to 10 bushels to the acre. From 20 to 30 is the average Rye—not much grown. Hay is light; not half a crop. Potatoes have been helped by late rains and may turn out well, probably over an average. Other roots will scarcely come up to the average. Fruit—Apples will be a medium crop. There is said to be no plums. Cherries and small fruits very good. Not many wild raspberries. Pasture is badly burned up. Cattle are looking thin and beef cattle scarce. There will be fodder enough in this township to pull through with.

FRASERVILLE, July 28.

Fall wheat, an average crop; rather more in this neighborhood. Spring wheat, better than last year; not so much straw. Barley, better than last year; an average crop, but not much straw. Oats, an average crop. Peas, pretty poor. Hay, below the average crop. Potatoes, appearances indicate an average crop. Other roots look well. Fruit, fair, but below the average. Altogether the crops are better than was expected a month ago. There will be more and better grain than last year, but less straw and hay.

SPRINGVILLE, July 27.

Fall wheat, average 15 bushels per acre. Barley 10 to 15 bushels. Oats 20 to 25 bushels. Peas 5 to 10 bushels. Hay 1¼ ton to the acre. Potatoes look well on some lands. Other roots promise a fair crop. Fruit is very poor.

DOURO.

SOUTH DOURO, July 27.

Fall wheat will be an average crop. Spring wheat was good. Barley good. Oats a very poor crop. Some fields will not be cut. Peas a poor crop. Rye—not much sown, but will be a fair crop. Hay about half a crop. Potatoes—unless rain comes soon there will be a poor yield. Other roots look well. Fruit, a poor yield. There will be, on the whole, a poorer crop than last year.

DUMMER.

DUMMER, July 27.

Fall wheat, fairly good where not winter killed any. Spring wheat—the straw is short and the grain small, lack of moisture. Barley will be light; color good; suffered from the drought. Oats on light soil may be said to be a complete failure. Peas, about half a crop; they are parched on high land. Rye, fairly good. Hay, light; little better than half a crop on the average. Potatoes, if the dry weather continues, will be worse than last year. Other roots are making poor progress. Fruit—the recent wind storm carried off about one half the apples. In this section of country who have not had a soaking rain this season, and during the last three weeks scarcely enough to run on the roofs of the buildings.

ASPHODEL.

NORWOOD, July 28

Fall wheat, very good. Spring wheat, fair. Barley, fair. Oats, little better than half a crop. Peas, not very good. Rye is a good crop Hay is about half a crop. Potatoes, prospect of a good yield. Other roots are middling. Fruit is below the average. On the whole the crop in Asphodel is somewhat better than last year.

BIRDSALLS, July 28.

Fall wheat is a good deal better than last year; nearly an averge; slightly short. Spring wheat, rather better than last year; not quite an average crop. Barley, plumper berry than last year; a good deal of it will be colored; not an average crop. Oats, mostly very short straw, but are improving by the late rain. Peas, very poor crop; in some places only straw. Rye, an average crop. Hay is not over half a crop; one-third less than last year. Potatoes look better than last year at present. The potato bugs are very plentiful. Other roots—Mangolds and carrots taken by the grubs; turnips very fair. Fruit, average. With the exceptions of hay and peas I think the crops are better than last year n this township.

GALWAY.

GALWAY, July 28.

Fall wheat, none grown. Spring wheat will be a medium yield, except on the driest ground. Barley, not much grown. Oats, on the driest ground, will be a total failure; the remainder is better. Peas—only on moist ground will there be a fair crop; perhaps half an average. Rye, not much grown. Potatoes, from present appearances, will not be half a crop. Not much of other roots grown. Fruit, not much grown, but what there is is pretty good. Peas and oats will both be about half a crop. Late sown oats on moist land, if we get a month of favorable weather, will be a fair crop.

ANSTRUTHER

APSLEY, July 27.

Fall wheat, 198 acres, good. Spring wheat, average. Barley, light; very little sown. Oats, short straw, under average. Rye, good; not much sown. Hay, fair to good; on low land it is heavy. Potatoes, good. Other roots good. Fruit plentiful. The season has been too dry for this light loamy soil. The principal crop is hay. If we get rain soon late crops will be a good yield.

CAVAN.

IDA, July 28.

Fall wheat—fair crop, but short in the straw. Spring wheat—light crop, but may be fair sample. Barley—very light crop, but better sample than last year. Oats, very light. Peas are a poor crop. No rye in this section. Hay, not half a crop. Potatoes, with rain, will be an average crop. Other roots very poor. Fruit, average. Plenty of rain would help late oats and roots, yet feed will be very short in this section.

HONEY.

The honey crop is almost an entire failure. Not only in this district, but throughout the country, it will average not more than three to five pounds to the hive.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.—Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.—Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price.

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. No trouble to show Goods. It will pay you to look through our Immense stock. We will give you a Pointer or two worth dollars to you. We have still a few pairs of those Cheap Pants left, everybody is talking about them.

A Board of Trade.

The Monetary Times, of Toronto, says:—"A writer in the Peterborough REVIEW expresses regret that the town has no Board of Trade, and points to Lindsay, Trenton, and other places of like size as examples of the benefits to be derived from such an organization. It does seem inconsistent that an enterprising town like Peterborough should be lacking in a practical business movement of this nature."

Both Clever and Amusing.

That the acclaim which greets Millis' Tourists is universal the press notices from all parts demonstrate conclusively. Of Revillo, the modern mystificator, the Montreal Herald says:—"Revillo is undoubtedly the greatest exponent of the mystic art that has ever appeared in Montreal." The Hamilton Spectator says:—"Fred. W. Millis' ventriloquial was both clever and amusing—the best thing of the kind that a Hamilton audience has enjoyed for a long time, especially in the line of local hits that were wittily introduced into his topical songs."

The Central Exhibition.

A meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society was held on Saturday evening. There were present, Mr. Rutherford, President, in the chair, and Messrs. Vance, Fair, Garbutt, McClelland, Mouncey, Fitzgerald, Baptie, and Wm. Collins, Secretary. The resignation of Mr. John Moore from the Directorate was accepted. Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald was elected to fill the vacancy. Messrs. John McClelland and Wm. Collins were elected delegates to the annual meeting of the Agricultural and Arts Association at Kingston, and Mrs. S. McKibbon was appointed Lady Superintendent. A committee, consisting of the President, the Secretary and Mr. Fair, was appointed to attend to the poster advertising. After appointing judges and giving the finishing touches to the prize list, the meeting adjourned.

Grass Burning.

On Sunday afternoon about four o'clock smoke was seen issuing from Burnham's Point, on the lake side. On investigation it was found that the grass was on fire and owing to the high wind was spreading rapidly. Water was procured from the lake and after a few minutes of hard work the flames were extinguished in time to save the fences. About five acres of grass was burned. The fire, it is supposed, originated from some boys smoking along the shore.

Police Court.

This morning a drunk was fined $5 at the police court. He was picked up Saturday night and this morning he pleaded guilty to the charge.....A lad, evidently about twelve years of age, was brought up for being found in a wood yard late at night. He said he came up on the steamer and was looking for work. He found work at which he was to commence next Saturday. The Magistrate gave him some friendly advice and allowed him to depart.....A case against a woman for making use of abusive language towards another woman was enlarged until to-morrow morning.

Obituary.

The Tilsonburg Observer of July 20th prints, from its Courtland correspondent, the following notice of the death of Mr. Thomas Porter, who was married to the fourth daughter of Mr. James Downer, formerly of Smith, and sister of Mrs. Wm. Northcote, of Peterborough:—"It is a painful pen that points to the death record of the village of Courtland this week. In the death of Thomas Porter this community losses as honorable and conscientious a young man as will probably ever again be found upon its roll-call. Not a heart but will seal its sigh with a tear to lean that he has gone away to as hopeful a destiny as most of us could expect, but only to leave behind, with an aching sadness, a tender wife and little ones who have been looking to him here for love and comfort. The sorrowful experience of living, how many they are and how much they need the consolations of an Infinite sympathy! So long as such bereavements are to be the lot of our race, so long will the deep yearnings of humanity go forth to meet the Invisible Comforter of the soul. We would not lessen by one leaf the olive branch that might be looked to as offering a hallowed relief from such an ark of desolation. Rather would we try to increase what might with fulness of trust be relied on for that from which nothing could sever the tendrils of hope. Thomas Porter has been guided by the church he loved, and directed how to enter the portals of an unseen world, into which he has passed without a pang except for those he left behind. We mourn his loss; we envy him the manly Christian trust with which he faced the future. His five days' illness, which arose from obstruction of the bowels, was most painful. The best medical skill that could be had failed, even through a surgical operation, to set him free to remain with the many he left who loved him as a brother." He died on Tuesday afternoon."

DEATH OF C. D. MACDONALD.

The Town Clerk and Treasurer Passes Away—A Prominent Mason.

ON Sunday afternoon Mr. C. D. Macdonald, Town Clerk and Treasurer, after a short illness, passed away at a comparatively early age. Mr. Macdonald had been ill for about a month, but up to a few days before his death was not considered seriously ill. He was at his office for a few hours on the 9th of July, but did not again feel strong enough to come down town, though not confined to his bed. Malarial fever was preying upon him, and other affections developed. On Saturday evening, July 21st, he went for a drive with Mr. H. Rush, and returned quite refreshed. The next day, however, he was not so well, and he grew worse until on Thursday he was confined to his bed all day. Dr. Kincaid had attentively attended to him, with Dr. Halliday as consulting physician, but they held out little hope of his recovery. On Saturday he sank lower, and on Sunday afternoon at twenty minutes to three o'clock he succumbed to the disease and expired.

The late Charles Davis Macdonald was born at Belleville on February 14th, 1834. He was left to his own resources at an early age, and applying himself diligently to acquiring an education secured a first-class teachers' certificate for the County of Hastings, which was dated January 2nd, 1852. He taught school for a couple of years, in Madoc and that vicinity. In 1853 or 1854 he went to Kingston, where he entered the office of Messrs. Ross, Strange & Co., who had the contract for manufacturing boots and shoes at the penitentiary, in a junior position, but he rapidly rose to the position of chief bookkeeper and traveller. In 1863 or 1864 Mr. Macdonald came to Peterborough, and in partnership with Mr. T. G. Hazlitt opened a boot and shoe and grocery store in the premises now occupied by Mr. John Cameron. The firm conducted the business for about three years. Mr. Macdonald then went to Albany, N. Y., where he again entered the office of Messrs. Ross, Strange & Co., who had removed to that city. After remaining in Albany about three years, he returned to Peterborough, and took employment with his former partner, Mr. Hazlitt, as bookkeeper for the Dickson estate.

On January 26th, 1877, Mr. Macdonald was appointed clerk of the municipality by the Town Council, and on May 3rd, 1880, when the offices of Clerk and Treasurer were again combined, he was also appointed Treasurer, and these offices he filled up to the time of his death. He also served for a short time as a member of the Board of Education, having been elected a High School Trustee by the Town Council, but he resigned before his term was completed.

Mr. Macdonald was a prominent member of the Masonic order. He was initiated into Masonry in Ancient St. John's Lodge, No. 3, Kingston, and became a member of Frontenac Chapter and Hugh de Payens Preceptory of Knights Templar of the same place. Taking an active interest in these bodies, he filled the most important offices in all three. After coming to Peterborough he became an active member of Peterborough Lodge, and was, on account of his eminent services to the craft here, made an honorary member of many other Masonic bodies in this Province. In the Grand Lodge he was District Deputy Grand Master and a member of the Board of General Purposes for many years, and in the Grand Chapter he held many offices, including that of Grand Z., or principal officer of the body, and at the time of his decease was the senior surviving Past Grand Z. and the representative at the Grand Chapter of Canada of the Grand Chapter of South Carolina. He was also representative of the Grand Lodge of Oregon at the Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. and A. M. in Templar Masonry Sir Kt. Macdonald was equally prominent, having held all the principal offices in the Preceptory, and having also been Grand Chancellor of the Great Priory of Canada, Grand Sub-Prior of the Great Priory of England, Provincial Prior of this district and Provincial Grand Commander of Ontario and Quebec. In addition to this Sir Kt. Macdonald was one of the very few who held the appointment under the sign manual of the Prince of Wales, who was the Grand Master of the Knights Templar of Great Britain, to be a Knight Commander of the Temple. In other branches of Masonry Mr. Macdonald was equally zealous and prominent. He was a 33 degree member of the A. & A. Scottish Rite, a Past Grand Master of the Rite of Royal and Oriental Free Masonry, a past presiding officer of the Order of Rome and Constantine and of the Cryptic Rite, and an honorary IX degree of the very exclusive Rosicrucian society.

As a municipal officer Mr. Macdonald was careful, methodical and accurate. He enjoyed the full confidence of the Town Council, as well as the esteem of the Councillors and of the citizens generally. His records were always neat as well as accurate, and he took a pride in having his work well done. He was well versed in municipal law and was frequently applied to by clerks in other towns and cities for advice. Personally Mr. Macdonald was of a somewhat quiet and retiring disposition, but was a good friend and was respected and esteemed by all. There is no doubt that his place in the town offices will be hard to fill as he filled it.

Mr. Macdonald leaves one son, Mr. James G. Macdonald, and three daughters, who have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The funeral will take place from Mr. Macdonald's late residence, Benson-st., on Tuesday (to-morrow) afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Masonic honors.

Church Notes.

The pulpit of the Murray-st. Baptist church was occupied on Sunday, both morning and evening, by Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Bailieboro.

The Rev. W. M. Roger, of London, brother of Mr. Geo. M. Roger, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church on Sunday.

At Hunter-st. Crossing.

This morning at about half past ten as an engine was shunting near the Hunter-st. crossing, a team of horses became frightened and one of them rearing on its hind legs, put its fore legs into the harness of the other. The animal released itself without much trouble and was soon quieted. Fortunately the team was not attached to a wagon or serious results might have followed.

"Facts are stubborn things," and sufferers from Chills and Fever find this complaint a very stubborn fact until they commence the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. This medicine never fails to cure even the worst cases.

The Pan-Anglican Council.

At St. John's Church on Sunday morning, after morning prayers, the rector, the Rev. J. W. H. Beck, said he wished to say a few words in reference to an article which appeared in the Toronto Mail of Thursday last in regard to the Pan-Anglican Council now in session in Lambeth. The statements were without foundation, as the Council has not the least authority in either ecclesiastical or any other matters, but is simply a meeting of the bishops of the Anglican communion to talk over the affairs of the church, and as they sit with closed doors, he did not see where the writer in the Mail got his information.

Brevities.

—There is some talk of a match between the Y. M. C. A. team of Peterborough and Port Hope.

—Mr. W. H. Stevens, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is out of town on his holidays. He will not be back for two or three weeks.

—The committee meet to-night to complete arrangements for the S.O.E excursion to Stoney Lake on the civic holiday.

—The hands of the east dial of the town clock are disconnected, until the guard wires are fixed, the hands catching on them.

Greater benefits may be derived from the vacation season if, at the same time, the blood is being cleansed and vitalized by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. An increase of appetite, vigor, and buoyancy of spirits attend the use of this medicine.

—All of our local sporting clubs find it difficult to get a team togethes, on account of so many of their members being away camping.

—The Ætna Lacrosse Club, of Peterborough, is trying to arrange a match with Lindsay Y. M. C. A. It is not known yet whether they will accept.

—The regular weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Baptist Church, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in that church.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should as ways be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether rising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. A hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences, especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia and other throat and lung troubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use, and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Edson, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"A what? What tongue is that?"

"Spanish. It means a general mixture."

"Eh, pow-sowdie is the same thing, that's rale Scotch, and mair expressive and wise-like. Weel, that tall leddy would hold her ain in the biggest pow-sowdie of a', Where is she?"

"You mean Miss Morton! She is the most appalling female I know. She has captured a Greek prince; who goes to balls in a white petticoat, and says he is descended from Alcibiades."

"Eh, he wad be a shifty sort of a great-grandfather to have!" cried Uncle Sandy, who piqued himself on being a "soond classical scholar."

"Well, this fellow is about up to her shoulder, and rather a doubtful personage. They are fighting over settlements at present; for though she is said to be fathoms deep in love, she does not like to lose her grip of the £. s. d."

"And varra right she is. Noo, the tea is ready, come awa' and have a cup."

It was, on the whole, an uneasy sort of afternoon and evening. A sense of unfitness—a want of harmony, oppressed every one, though Mona and Kenneth did their utmost to entertain their guests. Both the girls sung and played and talked their best. Indeed, Mona was unusually gracious to Lisle, yet he was dissatisfied, and left with Kenneth early, saying that he was bound to Lord Finistoun for the next day, but the following he would come to see them, as he was going back to town on Saturday night."

At luncheon next day, when the post came in, Waring, after reading his letters, announced that he must start on Monday, that he had been away too long, and it was time he returned.

To Mona this was a cruel stab. He was, then, to vanish away from her—this frank, kind, brave man, whose qualities were the complement of her own, for whose troubles she felt responsible, and whose wounds it would have been the sweetest and most congenial task to heal, and she dared not try to hold him! No; if it cost her her life, she could make no effort to reveal herself. He was her friend, and nothing more! Yet a vague, dim belief breathed through her heart that he loved her still, to justify which there was not a tittle of evidence.

"I did not know you were here," said Miss Black, coming into the drawing-room the day after this visit, and finding Waring seated with a book before him and his head on his hands. "Where is Mona?"

"She has gone out with Mr. Craig."

"Will you come with me and look for them?"

"No, thank you; I am searching for one or two books I brought here, and I want to put them up. You see, I have only two days after to-morrow."

"I am sorry you are going, Mr. Waring."

"I am gratified to hear you say so. How sorry I shall be to leave you all, it would not be easy to say."

"Well, I think you look sad like, Mr. Waring. You must write Kenneth, and tell us all about yourself."

"Mary!" exclaimed Waring, after a short pause, and not aware of his own familiarity, "what do you think brings that fellow Lisle here?"

"He says it's fishing; and so it is, but not with a rod and line."

"Then it is Mona?"

Mary bent her head in the affirmative.

"At least I fancy so," she said. "He used to be up here in the autumn, and Kenneth thought he would have asked her then."

"I suppose it will be what is considered a good match; but she is too good for him!"

"You might say that of a good many."

"You think so?"

"Yes. Don't you?"

"I do; and I suppose Miss Craig will soon be transformed into Lady Lisle."

"I cannot think so; she never seems to me to care about him. I have always imagined she loves someone we know nothing about; but I have no right to say so."

"No, we have no right to conjecture what she feels or thinks; only I trust in God what she does, and whoever she chooses, she will be happy."

He left the room abruptly as he uttered these words.

"Ah!" exclaimed Mary, aloud, as she looked after him, and then stopped to run over in her own mind a dozen or more of slight indications, which, viewed by the new light that had broken in upon her, made proofs as strong as Holy Writ of the feeling entertained by Waring for her admired friend. "And oh! she does not care for him either, and he is honest and true —I am sure he is," thought Mona. "Stay! doesn't she care for him? I am not so sure. Oh! where is Kenneth? I will go and talk to him."

* * * * * * * * *

The morning after this conversation rose bright and fair, though the night had been so stormy that between the howling wind and her own distressful thoughts Mona got little sleep.

"I must go down to the fishers," said Kenneth, at breakfast. "I hear the two Mackilligans have been nearly drowned, and their boat is stove in. Lisle is severely hurt. They were driven ashore in the gale last night."

"I'll come with you," said Waring.

"You are just killing yourself," said Uncle Sandy, who was busy supping his porridge. "You look like a ghaist as it is! You'll no be fit for a lang journey if ye gang this gait."

"Oh! I am perfectly fit, I assure you, whatever my looks may be. If I did not rise up like a giant refreshed after the care and nursing I have had in this establishment, I should not be worth taking care of."

"Weel, I dinna ken what's come to ye a'; there's Mona wi' a white face, and you wi' a lang ane, and Kenneth's like a bag o' bones. Mary is the best o' ye. It is a comfort to look at a cheerfu', healthfu' countenance," said Uncle Sandy, who had been extremely fractious for the last ten days.

"What a compliment! Mary! I feel quite ashamed of myself," cried Mona.

"Let me know when you are ready to start," said Waring to Kenneth, and soon after the two young men started to see what assistance they could afford to the shipwrecked fishermen. Uncle Sandy calling out injunctions to Kenneth as he went not to commit him "to mend" the broken boats in the parish."

"And wha'll drive me into the town" asked Mr. Craig. "I must gang to the bank, forbye the minister's and Jimmy Tulloch's."

"Mary will go with you, uncle. I have rather a headache, and I dare say Kenneth and Mr. Waring will be back to luncheon."

"I hope so. I am no weel content wi' Mr. Leslie. I hope you have nae been fashing him wi' your idle clavers. He needs rest and kind treatment."

"I think we have been very good and prudent, eh, Mary?"

"Aweel, let us have the denner at one o'clock punctually."

"I will see to it, uncle."

The dinner hour came, but brought neither Kenneth nor Waring, and Uncle Sandy having been comforted with a good many "draps o' whisky," and wrapped up with care, started under Miss Black's escort, for the diminutive town of Kirktown.

C. B. Johnston of Boston Proposes to Swim the Niagara Whirlpool To-Day.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 29.—Invitations have been issued by C. B. Johnston of Boston, Mass., to witness him swim the Whirlpool Rapids on Monday afternoon in a patent rubber suit.

Yesterday the body of a man was seen floating about the Whirlpool. This afternoon about 4 o'clock it was carried by the current close to the shore. A rope was attached to a young man named Tims and he swam out from the Canadian shore, caught the body and pulled it to the shore where it now lies. It is that of a young man about 25 years old who would weigh from 140 to 150 pounds. The deceased was apparently of a sandy complexion. His hair is cut very short and the face is smooth. The body is badly bloated and has apparently been in the water some time. The coroner was notified.

TURNBULLS'.

New Goods received this week. Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets, Cretonnes, Fringes, Table Oilcloths. Ladies' Belts, Prints, Lawns and Dress Goods.

Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.

Just to hand light and dark Seersuckers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

KILLED ON THE RAILWAY.

A WORKMAN RUN OVER AT A TORONTO STREET CROSSING.

A Second Mishap in the Same City—A Saltfleet Farmer's Terrible Tumble Down Hamilton Mountain—Injured in an Iron Mine.

TORONTO, July 31.—A fatal accident occurred at 6 o'clock last evening at the Able-street crossing of the Northern Division of the G. T. R. Mr. William Riley, residing at No. 4 Trafalgar-street, was returning from his work in the Massey factory, along the Northern track, when he was struck by an out-going freight, and so frightfully mangled as to cause almost instant death. The cause of the accident is astribed to Mr. Able's deafness.

Three lives were placed in serious jeopardy last night at the Dufferin-street crossing, and it is probable that one man at least will die as a result of the accident. At 9 o'clock the C.P.R. express was coming in from the west, when at the Dufferin-street crossing it ran into a milk-wagon, driven by Samuel Wright, who had with him a boy named John McMurty and a third person, whose name is unknown. Wright was impaled on the cowcatcher, carried about 20 feet and hurled into the ditch, sustaining serious internal injuries. The boy McMurty, who was first struck by the train, when picked up was found to have sustained fractures of the left arm and thigh, besides several serious scalp wounds. The third man escaped uninjured. The wagon was smashed into splinters, while the horse, strange so say, escaped uninjured.

AN EXCITING ADVENTURE.

A Saltfleet Farmer's Tumble Down the Mountain.

HAMILTON, July 30.—Stephen Penfold, a Saltfleet farmer, residing near Stony Creek, had a remarkably exciting adventure on Friday night, and is engaged in congratulating himself on being alive at present. He was returning from an agricultural meeting at Stony Creek late at night, and while ascending the steep mountain road a short distance from A. D. Lee's residence his horse took fright at some sheep moving on the roadside and bolted over the edge of the road. The tangle of horse, man and rig rolled down the mountain over 100 feet and brought up against a tree, where they stuck. The tree was about half-way down the mountain, which is very steep at this point, the night was very dark and Penfold was afraid to move lest the wreck should roll down the rest of the distance. He lay there with the horse all night and in the morning help came. Tired, sore and stiff, Mr. Penfold was released from his uncomfortable position, and with the aid of those living near the horse was got safely down to the bottom. It was none the worse for its tumble except that the skin was knocked off its back with rolling down. The rig was badly wrecked.

Serious Accident to a Young Englishman.

KINGSTON, July 30.—A young Englishman named Edward Blake met with a serious accident in the iron mines. The bucket filled with ore was being hauled up the shaft when the rope broke and the ore went down below. Several men were immediately beneath the shaft at the time but they managed to get out of the way except Blake who was pinned to the earth with a piece of ore which weighed over 200 pounds. It struck his leg and broke it in two places while other pieces of ore bruised his body severely.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Lindsay Cigar Dealer Fined—A Crash in Canned Goods.

TORONTO, July 31.—Mr. J. McAllister, a recent arrival from Scotland, was seeing the lions with a friend on Saturday, and after passing through the crowd in St. Lawrence Market, missed his pocket book which contained, in addition to $143, a number of letters of introduction and other documents of value.

Abraham McGee, who said he was a cigar dealer hailing from Lindsay, was fined $30 and costs yesterday for improperly accosting Miss Eva Hartcliff, on King-street, Saturday night.

Messrs. C. Richardson & Co., the well-known pickle manufacturers and canners, suspended yesterday. The liabilities are placed at $75,000, but those not secured amount to only $20,000. No statement of assets has been made, but the amount is considerably under that of the liabilities.

John G. Miller, charged with the forgery of two checks for $10 and $20 respectively, was remanded till Aug. 3.

Fire at the corner of Yonge and Cottingham-streets caused a loss of $7000, the victims being E. J. Crown $2000 and Joseph Love $5000.

L. H. Spriggings, a well-known dry goods dealer, left on Saturday to go on his holidays and it is said that he will not return. Mr. Spriggings formerly worked in Simpson's. Previous to this he was in the dry goods business in Strathroy and also for a time in Paisley. He is about fifty years of age and had the record of being straightforward in his business dealings. The stories in circulation are to the effect that if he is gone he has merely left the business as it stood, taking nothing with him. As to liabilities and assets nothing is known yet.

Fatal Accident at Cobourg.

COBOURG, July 30.—A frightful accident happened at the matting factory about 10 o'clock this morning. A young lad named John Coombes, aged 16 years, was playing with a loose belt in the picking room, when he was caught in the belt and carried to the main shaft with such violence as to break his neck. He expired almost immediately. He was engaged to work in the factory on Saturday last and was waiting for instructions when he began fooling with the fatal belt.

ANXIOUS HOME RULERS.

THE LAST WEEK A TRYING ONE FOR THE NATIONALISTS.

Many Consultations Among the Leaders—The Proposed Parnell-Times Action—What a Member of Parliament Says About O'Kelly's Arrest.

LONDON, July 30.—The Nationalist party has been passing through a rather anxious week, many consultations having been held, the latest of which was brought to a close late on Saturday night. These consultations are held only among the leaders, Mr. Gladstone being represented either by Mr. John Morley or by his son Herbert. The rank and file are quite content to obey the word of command. Mr. Parnell probably has neither time nor energy to explain all his purposes to his followers.

I have reason to believe that it is decided after all to bring an action against The Times. It is evident that the Royal Commission as constituted under the new bill, would be more unfavorable than a trial in court, for it must not be forgotten that juries in this country never fail to bring a verdict against a newspaper if they get half a chance and The Times has a very difficult case to prove. Mr. John Morley is said to have overcome Mr. Parnell's objections to the court proceedings, which are evidently not shared by Mr. Wm. O'Brien, who promptly seeks redress when newspapers libel him.

There is further trouble going ahead, arising from Mr. James O'Kelly's arrest. There must certainly be a debate on it, for there are many members on both sides of the House who look with repugnance on the latest proceedings of the Irish executive. It seems a very harsh measure to dog a member of Parliament from the House to his home and there pounce down on him at midnight and drag him off to Ireland on account of a speech delivered five weeks ago, a speech moreover which contained nothing that could do anybody much harm. Many Conservatives shake their heads over this act and say pretty loudly Balfour is going too far.

Mr. O'Kelly is respected in the House as a thoroughly honest and independent man, holding strong opinions doubtless, but always expressing them in a fair and reasonable manner. His distinguished services to journalism are known to many members, and there is a general feeling that he ought not to have been dragged off by the police like a common criminal. Supposing a vote is challenged, I cannot say how far this feeling would find expression in the division list, for the moment the Irish question is touched in any shape the cords of dicipline are tightened, but there would be some Conservatives who would abstain from voting altogether.

If Balfour is wise he will check the ardent zeal of his subordinates in Ireland and keep his hands off members of Parliament, unless they commit some palpable and grievous offence. A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

A Lively Debate in the Imperial Commons—Some Ugly Epithets.

LONDON, July 31.—The House of Commons went into committee last night on the bill to investigate the charges against Mr. Parnell, and Mr. Sexton moved to increase the number of judges to five if it was to inquire into the history of the National League extending over nine years. Mr. Matthews said the Government could not accept the amendment. Mr. Sexton expressed surprise at the nomination of Justice Day.

Mr. Parnell reminded the House that they were discussing a proposal to provide a substitute jury.

Mr. Labouchere said one object of the amendment was to neutralize the influence of Justice Day by increasing the commission.

The amendment was lost, 190 to 233.

Mr. John Morley said that Justice Day was a man of the 17th century in his views concerning Catholics. Like Torquemada he was a "Tory of the high-flyer, non-juror type!" (Hear, hear).

Mr. Anderson moved that in the clause empowering the commission the word "allegations" be inserted—"to inquire into the charges and allegations against certain members of Parliament."

After nearly three hours' discussion the amendment was voted down, 265 to 200.

R. T. Reid (Lib.) proposed an amendment restricting the inquiry to accusations of complicity in murder or violence.

Mr. Chamberlain opposed the amendment.

During the absence of the Speaker from the chair a member referred to Mr. Chamberlain as "Judas" Chamberlain. When the Speaker returned Mr. Chamberlain complained of the insult and T. P. O'Connor thereupon withdrew the objectionable language.

The debate was also participated in by Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Balfour and others.

O'Brien's Libel Suit.

DUBLIN, July 30.—The libel action of Wm. O'Brien v. The Cork Constitution has resulted in favor of Mr. O'Brien for £100 damages. He claimed £5000.

Took a Long Vacation.

MONCTON, N.B., July 30.—An employe in connection with the I. C. R., a few days ago skipped to the United States under peculiar circumstances. He professed to be very pious, and imposed upon a number of merchants. From no less than three merchants before leaving he obtained complete suits of clothes on credit, and from other stores obtained goods. He drew his pay from the I. C. R. and then went away for a vacation to Boston and never returned. Last week his wife also disappeared with all her household effects.

Drowning Accident at Kingston.

KINGSTON, July 30.—On Saturday Mrs. Abbott, the wife of S. W. Abbott, baker of Toronto, came to this city to attend the funeral of her father, the late Mr. James Kirkpatrick. Yesterday she was on the wharf when by some as yet unexplained accident she fell into the water and was drowned. Mrs. Abbott was 36 years of age and leaves her husband and one daughter, Mabel, aged 12.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, July 30.—A number of petty thefts have occurred here recently. Two valises were stolen from the Grand Trunk waiting room this afternoon and three watches were taken from the window of Alex. Wardhaugh's store while he was talking with a neighbor.

Mr. Taylor of Bridgewater is washing over the tailings of the old Gatling gold mine in Marmora and takes out $1.50 per ton, averaging six tons per day.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Mayor McHugh of Sligo, has been convicted of publishing boycotting notices in The Champion and sentenced to four months imprisonment.

The tenants of the Vandeleur estates have resolved to abandon resistance to the payment of rents.

Thirty more Italian laborers were dumped in Toronto without funds on Sunday under fallacious promises of work.

It is said that Hon. Mr. Taillon's appointment to the bench will soon be made.

Mrs. Morley and Her Cats.

MONTREAL, July 30.—In consequence of the writ of ejectment taken against her by her landlord at St. Laurent, Mrs. Morley and her 80 cats have decided to remove to Laprairie.

SUICIDE AT MONTREAL.

A Richelieu Hotel Guest Blows Out His Brains in His Room.

MONTREAL, July 30.—On Saturday night a man named L. L. Lea of Plymouth, Mass., registered at the Richelieu Hotel. To-day it was noticed that he had not left the hotel all day and to-night the officials of the hotel tried to enter the room but the door was locked with the key inside. They then procured a ladder and looked through the skylight but could not see anything. An entrance to the room was, however, effected through a window, when Lea was found dead in bed, his head bathed in blood. A six-chambered revolver was found beside him with one of the chambers discharged, he having undoubtedly committed suicide. From a letter found in his pocket it would appear that his name is Hollbroke not Lea.

TRIED TO HANG HERSELF.

A Prisoner in the Hamilton Police Station Attempts Suicide.

HAMILTON, July 30.—Saturday night Ellen Milmine, mother of the young girl who committed suicide by taking a dose of rough on rats a few months ago, attempted to hang herself while confined in the cells. Mrs. Milmine lives with her husband at 10 Victoria-avenue south. She was arrested about 10 o'clock for assaulting him. The woman raised considerable noise after she was placed in the cells and Constable Lowry, who was on station duty, had occasion to go out and tell her to keep quiet. She was nervously twisting a handkerchief around her hand, so Lowry took it away from her. He also removed her bonnet and her apron and placed her in another cell. Shortly after 11 o'clock he paid another visit to the cells and found Mrs. Milmine hanging to the door. She had taken off the waist of her dress, tied it around her neck and hung it on the top of the door. She was unconscious when Constables Blakely and Lowry cut her down. Dr. Ryall was telephoned for, but before he arrived the woman had regained consciousness and was all right again. For fear that she would try to hang herself again she was taken to the jail. At the police court this morning she was fined $5 on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and was remanded for a week on the charge of attempting to commit suicide, it being thought that she is not in her right mind.

UPSET BY A SQUALL.

Three Persons Drowned While Sailing in Halifax Harbor.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 30.—Shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon a small sail boat was seen to go down in the middle of the harbor under a sudden squall of wind. Sailors from a bark near by picked up three hats and a rudder which floated, but did not see the occupants of the craft again. The drowned persons proved to be Garrett Roach, keeper of a sailors' boarding house, his little son and a young nephew named Wells.

FORESTERS' DEMONSTRATION.

A Brilliant Procession—4000 Foresters in Line—Games at Dundurn.

HAMILTON, July 30.—To-day was a great day for Forestry. There were fully 8000 strangers in town to help the local courts of the Ancient Order of Foresters celebrate the 143rd anniversary of the order. It is estimated that 4000 Foresters, attired in their handsome suits of various colors and shapes, took part in the procession. High Chief Ranger Dr. Secord, Brantford; High Chief Secretary C. L. Newell, Paris; H.C.S.C. R. R. Whitlock, Brantford; High Chief Treasurer John Shaw, Brantford; High Chief Senior Woodward A. Pinkham, Brantford; High Chief Junior Woodward W. E. Taylor, Brantford; High Chief Senior Beadle P. Secord, Brantford, and High Chief Junior Beadle T. Aves, Paris, members of the executive committee of the high court, were here, and took part in the festivities. The bright particular feature of the procession was Maid Marian, personated by Miss Stevenson, and her maids of honor, attended by a body guard attired in Robin Hood costume. The maids of honor are all highly respected ladies of the city. They presented bouquets to a number of the Foresters. The car containing a May pole and dancers, handsomely costumed, was another feature of the procession. The procession marched to Dundurn, where a highly successful program of games, dancing and other sports was carried out.

A Double Murder in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 30.—August Delaff, a Bohemian, last evening shot and instantly killed John Phillips and "Skip" Lonkins. The shooting took place in the Bohemian portion of the southwestern part of the city. The dead men belonged to one of two picked nines who had been playing baseball during the afternoon, and after its finish had started with a number of other players for home. They were passing the house of John Gendraw, where a dance was in progress, and which was attended by about fifty Bohemians, when they met Gendraw and two others, who were returning from a saloon with a pitcher of beer. They were accosted by the ball players with a decidedly rough request for some beer. One of the Bohemians picked up a stick, when Lonkins and his friends began to prepare for an assault upon the party. At this moment Delaff appeared with a revolver with which he soon began firing upon the opponents of his friends. The first bullet struck Phillips over the left eye, killing him instantly, and before Lonkins could retreat his left lung was perforated near the heart, and he too fell dead. The murderer was arrested.

Killed by Fakirs.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 30.—At a Scandinavian gathering at Lake Vadnaise yesterday a man named Oho Olsen was struck in the back of the neck with a club by one of a gang of Fakirs and killed. Another of the gang disemboweled a carpenter named Johnston with a dirk and stabbed, it is thought fatally, two other Scandinavians. Jim Donovan, a desperate character, has been arrested.

An Excursion Steamer Sunk.

MILWAUKEE, July 30.—A special from Arnona, Minn., says the steamer Belleview with 100 excursionists on board sunk near there late yesterday afternoon. The passengers were rescued.

The Danville Murder.

SHERBROOKE, Que., July 30.—The preliminary examination of the three young men arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the recent murder of Lily Powell at Danville took place to day. Nothing has been discovered to positively fasten the suspicion on any one of the three.

The foundry of the Jenckes Machine Company was totally destroyed by fire at 7 o'clock this evening.

Caught in the Act.

INGERSOLL, July 30.—Fred. White, night station-master and operator, and Wallace Grace were arrested here yesterday, and have been lodged in Woodstock jail on a charge of pilfering merchandise from the freight house. Goods have been missed for some time past, and a detective named Ross was sent from Hamilton to look into the matter. He has been about the town for a week past in the guise of a tramp, and Saturday night he secreted himself in the freight shed. This enterprise was rewarded by the discovery of the two men named in the shed breaking open a box and helping themselves. They will appear before the police magistrate on Thursday.

TUESDAY, JULY 31, 1888.

CANADA IN LONDON.

THE banquet by which Canadians in London celebrated the coming of age of the Dominion—the twenty-first anniversary of confederation—was not only reported at length in the London papers, but received long editorial notices as well. The idea was a good one, showing that Canadians while away from home, even in the busy capital of the Empire, remember their home, and it has resulted in renewed attention being given to Canadian affairs in England. The London Standard, in the course of an article suggested by the banquet, says:—

"There can be few Englishmen who do not echo the congratulatory words of the Marquis of Lansdowne and Lord Knutsford at the Canadian banquet last night. Canada is at once the eldest and youngest daughter of the Imperial House of which Great Britain is the head. English navigators were busy exploring the bleak coasts of Labrador and the shores of the St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy even before they settled in Virginia and New England. Canada alone among our colonies has a history of respectable antiquity. She alone has a European population which has been settled in the country so long that it may be considered native to the soil * * * But if the Canada of the Provinces is old, the Canada of the Dominion is young, for it is only the twenty-first birthday of this youthful State that was celebrated yesterday. 1867, when the British North America Act was passed, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia were isolated States, teeming with future possibilities, it is true, but actually small, and, to all appearance, powerless. Now they are a Nation, with enormous resources, a vast commerce, a well-organized military establishment, a splendid system of railway communication, and every quality, except population, which is required for a great and powerful State. Canadian enterprise and ambition have risen by leaps and bounds since the opening up of the magnificent territories in the North-West. When Parliament almost contemptuously threw the whole of British North America into the New Dominion, it scarcely realized the magnitude of its gift. It was supposed that the land beyond the lakes and the forty-ninth parallel was for the most part a desolate Arctic wilderness, which would be useful only to the trapper and the hunter. It is only within the last few years that the true value of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the adjacent territories has been ascertained, and the discovery has changed the history of Canada."

After referring to the vast resources of the Dominion the Standard says:—

"The Dominion sits astride the civilized world. Its territories lie on the very track of one of the great lines of commerce of the future. On one side it commands the Pacific, on the other the Atlantic. It holds out one hand to the civilized west and the other to the swarming and now awakened east. The short way from China to Europe lies through Canadian territory, and, thanks to Canadian enterprise, it is now possible to travel from England to Australia without once leaving the shelter of the British flag."

THE Winnipeg Free Press is the principal Liberal paper in Manitoba, but it is not pleased with the Liberal Premier of that Province. In a recent issue it says:—"A few days ago the public were told through the newspapers that negotiations had been reopened between the Hudson Bay railway promoters and the local government which might lead to the early resumption of and speedy completion of the enterprise. It is a fact that New York capitalists of undoubted strength were represented here by Mr. Onderdonk and his solicitor, Mr. Kingsmill. All of a sudden the matter dropped, Onderdonk and Kingsmill left, and nothing was heard of the affair. Enquiry elicited information which we regret to say does the government anything but credit in the premises. It is certain that Onderdonk came to Winnipeg upon this business upon the specific invitation of the government. After coming he was treated most cavalierly; he was trifled with in the most aggravating manner and dealt with throughout as though he were a beggar of favors at their hands. At this particular time we do not propose to discuss the Hudson Bay railway scheme under newly suggested terms, upon its merits, but may do so later. Meantime, however, we offer an earnest and indignant protest against the conduct of the government towards the men who came here by their own invitation, especially upon such an all important subject as the Hudson Bay railway. Mr. Greenway's couch is not a bed of roses.

THE Globe publishes an interview with Congressman Hitt, of Illinois, in which that gentleman says:—"While I believe unrestricted reciprocity would benefit the United States, I as firmly believe it would benefit Canada more. Of course the chief obstacle to be overcome would be the equitable division of receipts, but that could be done on the basis of the population." So unrestricted reciprocity means a joint purse for the United States and Canada, and this country looking to Washington for money to carry on its affairs.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

MANITOBA BOODLERS.

The Winnipeg Agent of a Chicago Firm and a Customs Officer Missing.

WINNIPEG, July 30.—Fred May, agent for Libby, McNeil & Fairbanks of Chicago, skipped the other day to Kansas City leaving a discrepancy of $1800 in his accounts. One of the firm's representatives arrived today to find the goods supposed to be on hand sold to Winnipeg merchants and hardly recoverable.

W. P. Leslie, for many years customs officer at the boundary, left suddenly without bidding his friends good-bye but wrote from St. Paul that he was going to South America and would send a check for the amount he owed the department which is about $1,300. He failed do so, but sent money to pay some small claims against him. He assigned as a reason for leaving that he would not live in a country in which he could not vote. Leslie was an ardent politician but was disfranchised by the late local election act.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Liquor Permits in the Northwest—Natural Gas at Billings Bridge.

OTTAWA, July 30.—It is understood that the Railway Department has decided not to purchase any more second class cars for the Intercolonial, but as new first class cars are required, those now in use will be converted into second class.

As the result of Lieut.-Governor Royal's conference with the Minister of Inland Revenue it has been decided that permits will be granted for the sale in the Northwest of beer containing not more than 4 per cent. of alcohol or 7 per cent proof. The beer will be inspected in Winnipeg and a special excise stamp placed on it.

It is rumored that Premier Greenway and Attorney-General Martin will come to Ottawa from New York on their way back to Manitoba.

Natural gas was struck last week on the farm of John Smyth at Billings Bridge at a depth of 50 feet while a well was being sunk. It is believed to be only surface gas.

It is understood that James McLaren & Co. intend to abandon the use of water power in their mills at New Edinboro and substitute steam.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney has been appointed Minister of the Interior and Mr. John Haggart Postmaster General.

Sir Hector Langevin returns to-morrow from a four weeks' vacation which has been spent partly at Remouski and partly in trips about the Gulf and Lake St. John.

A Vacillating Forger.

MONTREAL, July 30.—Benj. Bergen, the Baltimore forger, was brought before Judge Charch this morning, when his counsel intimated that as accused had made up his mind to go back there would be no contestation of the case. Detective Hall's deposition was then filed, and was to the effect that on July 3 Bergen had forged a check for $60, and that the Grand Jury of the State of Maryland had found a true bill against him. James McClure, counsel for the police department, was then examined, as was also Detective Gladeau, of this city, as to admissions made by the accused to him when arrested. The evidence of some reporters who interviewed the prisoner was taken this afternoon, and Bergen announced that he would fight against extradition.

Capture of a Cattle Thief.

GUELPH, July 30.—Two local cattle dealers have effected the capture of a cattle thief who was offering three heads of cattle at so low a figure as to excite their suspicion. The miscreant was committed for trial.

A Youthful Halifax Couple.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 30.—Fred W. Wright 17 years of age, and Ida May Griffith, said to be only 15 years old, were married last week. The young couple belong to the North End, the groom being a clerk. The license was obtained by the groom representing himself to be 21 years of age and the girl as 18. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. F. Huestis.

They have been very successful at fishing. They had different games for amusement to fill in times when enjoyment on the water was not possible. The Rev. A. F. Tully carries off the palm for fishing, he having caught some beauties.

A FIRE.—On Tuesday, the 24th July, at about noon, it was noticed that the shop occupied by Messrs. Lewis and Lancaster, in Rokeby, just across the north bridge, was on fire. The fire engines were hurried out and got to work at once, but it soon became evident that it was useless to try to save the building, as it was a wooden one, and the flames soon enveloped it. By vigorous efforts the other buildings near it were saved, though the wind was very high at the time.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. No trouble to show Goods. It will pay you to look through our Immense stock. We will give you a Pointer or two worth dollars to you. We have still a few pairs of those Cheap Pants left, everybody is talking about them.

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh, south to southwest winds; mostly fair and very warm, with local thunderstorms. Cooler north-westerly winds to-morrow.

The Mysterious White Pasha.

Who is the mysterious white man who is moving on Khartoum? Is he Stanley, Emin Bey, or can he be Gordon? Such are the questions asked, but the mysterious one is unknown. Other questions are more easily answered. Do you ask where to get good value in summer goods? At fair's, sign of the golden lion.

S. O. E. Excursion.

A large crowd went on the S. O. E. excursion to Orilia this morning. The train left at 7.30 with between 400 and 500 excursionists on board from Peterborough. As they train stopped at other places for passengers it is likely that the train of eight or nine cars was well loaded before arriving at Orillia. Some of them will return this evening, but others will stay over until to-morrow. No doubt a very pleasant time will be spent around Couchiching lake in various ways. Many will be interested in the A.C.A. campers.

Police Court.

The charge against a woman of making use of abusive language towards another woman was dismissed this morning at the Police Court. The Magistrate warned the defendant to be more refined in her language. He told her she should not take advantage of this case, for if she was brought up again she would not get off so easy. He advised both women to be more neighborly.... The Scott Act case of John McFarlane, which was enlarged from Saturday, was dismissed, as no evidence was found against him.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

A Newspaper War.

A newspaper war has been raging during the last few weeks. It was begun by a reference in the Lindsay Warder to the Methodist Conference. The Post and Watchman of that town marched out in battle array and made a combined attack on the Warder. The latter fought stiffly, and the Port Hope Guide joined the attacking forces. The Warder tried a flank movement on the Guide, and its thrusts were too sharp for the Port Hope Times to miss and it reproduced a couple of them. Then the Guide turned its batteries on Mr. Trayes, of the Times, assailing him personally. Finally, the war bids fair to be removed or extended into the courts, and the Messrs. Wilson of the Guide have received a letter from Mr. Trayes' solicitor.

Camping Notes.

Several parties left this morning for the camping grounds of the back lakes. Dr. King's family left for Clear Lake and the doctor will spend a day or two with them soon.

Messrs. J. H. Wyatt, J. W. Butcher and Metheral composed another party for Stoney Lake. As soon as they have a cottage built Messrs. Wyatt and Butcher will be joined by their families.

Mr. R. B. McKee and family also left for Stoney Lake for a few weeks outing. Mr. Harry Webber accompanied them, but will only spend one day there.

Mr. John Neill, of Chicago, the Misses Neill, and Miss Eagleman, of Philadelphia, will spend a short time on Mr. Wright's island, Stoney Lake.

Mr. Alex Bell, of Toronto, is visiting his father, the Rev. Alex. Bell, and took a run up to Stoney Lake this morning.

Mr. B. Morrow and party returned yesterday from the north.

Band in the Park.

The Fire Brigade Band will play in the Court House Park this evening. The programme will consist of several excellent selections.

Cricket Match.

A cricket match between town and county is in progress as we go to press. The first innings was not finished, but the town score up to time of writing was 58.

When You go Camping.

wear a proper shoe. Your agility will be hampered if you are tied up in a pair of heavy lace-ups. Get from Kidd the proper article and enjoy your holiday. 376, George-st.

Personal.

Mr. Marshall Anderson, of Ritchie's establishment, Lindsay, passed through town this morning on his holidays. He will go to Stoney Lake, and will visit his father, Mr. D. Anderson, before returning to Lindsay.

The Funeral.

The members of the Masonic order met in their hall this afternoon and marched in a body the late residence of Mr. C. D. Macdonald, and the members of the Town Council proceeded in carriages. The funeral took place at 3 o'clock.

The Salvation Army.

Capt. Woodgate, who was allowed to remain in Peterborough two terms, over ten months, is now about to leave. Lieut. Stalliker will also be removed to another station. They will leave on Thursday morning and their successors will arrive on Thursday. They will finally bid the Peterborough soldiers farewell to-morrow evening.

A Theatrical Marriage.

The latest husband of Fanny Davenport, the actress, who was lately divorced from Edwin W. Price, is Melbourne McDowell, a younger brother of E. A. McDowell, who is the leading actor in her company. McDowell will be remembered by theatregoers here as a big, good-looking young man who occasionally played very small parts, but generally figured as ticket taker.

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

St. Leon Water.

The marvellous results from the use of St. Leon Water in Rheumatism, Constipation and all diseases arising from a torpid liver is testified to by hundreds of grateful drinkers of the water. References are kindly permitted to N. T. Lapiant, Frank Bell, Rev. Father Lynch and many other prominent citizens. Sold by the glass and gallon or aerated by Taylor & Macdonald, Druggists, sole agents. d140-w25

This Evening.

Many amusing accounts have been published of the practical jokes played by Fred. W. Millis, the ventriloquist. Once in Providence he caused dismal groans to be heard in the Soldiers' Monument, which ceased just in time to save the monument. Another time a dramatic company opened their trunks looking for a dog they heard inside, but the barking was caused by the ventriloquist. And so on. Mr. Millis will be with Millis' Tourists at the Opera House this evening, when they give their sparkling entertainment.

Fakirs Made to Disgorge.

An exchange says:—"When Howe's circus showed at Gananoque a few weeks ago, Mr. Gardiner lost $60 to one of the fakirs at the shell game. He afterwards learned that the show would open at Perth on Friday of last week, and he went to that place armed with a warrant, and taking with him two constables. He found the man walking the streets of Perth, and had him arrested. Then the show people interfered and declared that he was not the man at all, and threatened Mr. Gardiner for having him arrested. However, the man was taken from Perth, and when it was found he really meant to push the matter and knew what he was about, they paid Mr. Gardiner the amount he had lost."

The Best Show on the Road.

The many thousands who visited Miller & Freeman's monster railway shows last season, unite in saying that none better ever travelled. Consequently, the announcement that it is again to be here, exhibiting on Monday, Aug. 6th, will be good news to amusement goers. They bring many new faces with them, but have retained the services of a few of the most pronounced favorities. Among them, those of Mr. James Murray, whom all will recollect as the most brilliant clown that ever entertained an audience. Among the added features for the present season is one which will arrest the attention of everybody, and which will bring visitors from a large radius. We allude to the daily parachute descensions of Professor Ned Hathaway from a monster balloon, at a distance of five thousand or more feet from the earth. This takes place at 11 o'clock each day at the exhibition grounds, and is free to everybody.

Brevities.

—The Belleville people are not satisfied with the work done by their High School.

—It is not likely that the Peterborough baseball club will make the tour to Whitby, Port Hope, and intermediate places, as was intended.

—Bush fires are still burning around us, though they are not as bad as they were previous to the recent rains.

—At the Madoc cheese board last week there were 2,300 boxes boarded, the largest number since the board was organized. There were no sales, as the buyers would not make satisfactory bids on account of the drop in the cable.

THE LATE TOWN CLERK.

Resolution of Condolence from the Town Council—Pro tem. Appointments.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening.

PRESENT.—His Worship Mayor Stevenson, and Councillors Davidson, Winch, Kelly, Hall (E. H. D.), Moore, Jelland, Douglas, Langford, Kendry and Hartley.

On motion Councillor Kelly was appointed to act as Clerk for the meeting.

THE LATE MR. MACDONALD.

The MAYOR said that he supposed they all knew they had been called together on account of the sad and unexpected death of the Town Clerk and Treasurer. At their last meeting they had voted him a month's leave of absence for the benefit of his health, but no one thought that he would not be with them again at the end of that time. His place would be hard to fill. He had kept his accounts and books in a way that all admired. He (the Mayor) knew they all sympathized with Mr. Macdonald's family. The Council's loss was great, but it was small compared with that sustained by the family. He thought the Council should testify of their respect for the late Town Clerk by attending the funeral in a body. During the past week Mr. James G. Macdonald had faithfully attended to the duties of the office.

The MAYOR further said that cheques in the Police Court would be made payable to his order and placed in the bank until a Treasurer was appointed.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

It was moved by Councillor MOORE, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON, and resolved,—That the members of this Council, having learned of the death of Charles D. Macdonald, the Clerk and Treasurer of this town for upwards of ten years past, desire to place on record an expression of their sincere and heartfelt sorrow and deep regret at the loss of a most efficient, able and trustworthy officer; that the Council extends to his family its sympathy in their irreparable loss; that, as a mark of respect to his memory, the members do attend his funeral in a body; that this resolution be inscribed in the minutes of this Council, and a copy hereof sent to his family.

Councillor MOORE, in moving the resolution, said he was much shocked on learning on the previous evening that Mr. Macdonald had passed away. All acknowledged that he was a very able and efficient officer, and they were free to confess that they could not replace him. Filling the office of both Clerk and Treasurer, he had given entire satisfaction. His excellent penmanship and the wonderful exactness with which he carried out the details of his work was beyond comparison. He doubted that in a town in Ontario there could be found a man filling the two offices so well. They had suffered a great loss. There was none of those who were applicants for the position that would pretend to be able to fill it as Mr. Macdonald had. His whole life experience had been in the work, with a large manufacturing firm in Kingston, with Mr. Hazlitt, with the Dickson estate and lastly in the municipal position. Mr. Hazlitt had told him (the speaker) that he never met a man who had such a thoroughly practical as well as correct theoretical manner of dealing with books. The family had indeed suffered a loss. Mr. Macdonald was a devoted parent and fond of his children, about whom he was concerned in his last hours. He had many virtues, and perhaps some faults, but as an officer he was a singular success.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor LANGFORD moved, seconded by Councillor WINCH,—That Mr. Thomas Kelly be appointed Chairman of the Finance Committee during Mr. Davidson's absence.—Carried.

THE CEMETERY.

Councillor KENDRY moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That Mr. James G. Macdonald be appointed Clerk pro tem.—Carried.

THE ROLL.

The MAYOR said that the Collector had not yet returned the rolls, and his attention should be called to it.

Councillor HALL said that the Mayor should attend to the matter.

SIGNING CHEQUES.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor WINCH,—That the Manager of the Ontario Bank be authorized to honor cheques of the corporation when signed by the Mayor and Chairman of the Finance Committee until further notice, and that the corporation seal be attached to this resolution to give it the force of a by-law.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

CANOEISTS IN CAMP.

The Northern Division A. C. A. Meet.

The Races—Sunday in Camp.

HORSE SHOE ISLAND, July 30th.—Splendid water for canoeing, but little wood. The feature of Saturday was the commencement of the programme of races, two of which were disposed of. The novice race had several starters and was won by F. Goodwin, Lindsay C. C., 2nd H. C. McLean, Toronto C. C., 3rd E. N. Easton, Lindsay C. C. The open race had 27 starters and was sailed in a very light wind. Rear Commodore W. McKendrick, Toronto C. C., 1st, D. B. Jacques, Toronto C. C., 2nd, H. McKendrick, Unique C. C., 3rd.

Peterborough canoe clubs are poorly represented, only five members attending the meet. This fact has been remarked and it was broadly intimated that better things were expected from the town that claims to be the home of canoes and canoeing. Bobcaygeon leads Peterborough in point of attendance, while all other clubs in camp have strong contingents.

Commodore R. W. Gibson arrived at camp on Saturday from New York. He was warmly welcomed and complimented the meet on the pleasant ground secured and completeness of the camp equipment.

Mayor Thompson, of Orillia, has presented to the division a handsome silver cup, leaving it to be decided to what class of canoes the competition should be restricted. The division recognized the compliment with hearty thanks

The next year's meet is the subject of discussion. It is probable that some convenient spot on the Bay of Quinte will be selected and the occasion made a general meet of the Association.

Sunday was quietly spent in camp. At 11 o'clock a.m., service was held at the ladies camp, Rev. Mr. MacGachen, father of Vice-Commodore MacGachen, conducted service and preached an interesting sermon. In the evening a service of song was held at the camp fire and a pleasant hour passed.

All are delighted with the camp ground, its completeness and beautiful situation. A strong effort will be made to ensure future meets being held here.

The many beautiful flags presented by lady friends as prizes in the races are hung on view in the head-quarters tent. Some exceedingly handsome samples of art work are included and will assist to promote a feeling of rivalry in the several contests.

CHEESE BOARD.

A Meeting of the Buyers and Salesmen—No Business Done.

A meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board took place this morning at about half past eleven in the old Music Hall. The attendance was very small. The total number of boxes boarded was 3227, which is just 7 more than last week. The seven extra boxes were from Clear Lake, otherwise there was no change in the board. The total number of boxes boarded from Peterborough section was 2336, and from Victoria, 891. The buyers present were Messrs. Wrighton, Cluxton, McCarger, Leary, Bird, Warrington, Cook and Carton.

A number of rules prepared by Mr. Taylor were laid before the Board for adoption if they were thought suitable. A discussion followed, and several objected to different points. One of these was that when a dispute between a buyer and a seller was left to arbitration to be settled, the loser should pay all expenses, instead of each paying his own. A vote was taken and it was decided that the loser should pay all expenses.

The bidding was as follows:—McCarger bid 8c. for the board, Leary 8¼c. for the board, Bird 8¾c. for selections, Cluxton 8¾c. for selections, Bird 8¾c. for selections, Leary 8¾c. for the board, Cluxton 8¾c. for selections, Leary 8¾c. for the board, McCarger 8¾c. for selections, Leary 8¾c. for the board, Warrington 9c. for selections, McCarger 9 for further selections. Leary 8¾ for the balance of the board. Carton 9¼ for selections. Carton was asked to name his selections and he took Pine Grove (80 boxes). The seller of that factory accepted the offer and that was the only sale made.

The approximate value of the cheese boarded was $10,000, an the cable quotation from Liverpool was 46s. The board then adjourned for two weeks.

THE CROPS.

Continuation of Reports Received from the Townships.

DOURO.

SOUTH DOURO, July 28.

Fall wheat good; 25 bushels per acre. Spring wheat fair; 18 bushels per acre. Barley is a poor crop; 15 bushels per acre. Oats, a poor crop; 20 bushels per acre. Peas, a fair crop; 15 bushels per acre. Rye, a fair crop. Hay, a very poor crop; 10 cwt. per acre. Potatoes, prospects good. Other roots are suffering for rain. Fruit, a small crop. Crops of all kinds are below an average, except fall wheat, owing to the extremely dry season.

LAKEFIELD, July 27.

Fall wheat is good, Spring wheat, nearly a failure. Barley half a crop. Oats, bad; some not worth harvesting. Hay, a very short crop. Potatoes, prospects very bad. Other roots bad. Fruit, scarcely any except appies, and they are not good. This is the worst season I ever recollect.

BELMONT.

HAVELOCK, July 30.

Fall wheat, an average crop. Spring wheat, about one third. Barley, about one third. Oats, about one quarter. Peas, nearly a failure. Rye, an average crop. Hay, about one third. Potatoes, prospects are poor. Other roots, poor prospects. Fruit, nearly a failure. If we get early rain it may improve the root crop.

OTONABEE.

JERMYN, July 28.

Fall wheat, very good, with an increase in acreage. Spring wheat will not be an average crop. Barley, light, with an increase in acreage. Oats will not be an average crop. Peas, poor, about half a crop. Rye, none grown. Hay, very poor, will not average half a ton to the acre Potatoes will be a fair crop, but want rain. Of other roots the same may be said. Fruit—small fruit good; apples poor. There will be a shortage in the yield of all grain except fall wheat, and also a shortage in fodder.

HARVEY.

HARVEY, July 30.

Fall wheat, average, 100 per cent. Spring wheat, 90 per cent. Barley, 70. Oats, 70. Peas 50. Rye, none. Hay, 90. Potatoes, 60. Other roots—Mangolds and carrots almost a failure. Turnips bid fair for a good crop. Fruit—small fruit fair; apples blown off with the storm. The drought dried up the spring crops, especially the late sown.

HALIBURTON.

A gentlemen from Minden, Haliburton County, who was in town to-day, furnishes the following information regarding that county:—Fall wheat, splendid; never had a better crop. Spring wheat, not much grown; what there is is very good. Barley, none grown. Oats, light in straw, but well headed; fully an average yield; straws from 5ft. to 6ft. 4in. are exhibited in Minden. Peas, very good; over an average. Rye, none grown. Hay, over an average crop. Potatoes, A 1, a splendid crop, and other roots also. Fruit—small fruit is very plentiful; apples are pretty good. We have had over the average fall of rain. The spring was cold, cold nights, heavy dews and warm days. A frost on July 13th did considerable harm to beans, potatoes and cucumbers, and also hurt oats and buckwheat some.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

FROM MANITOBA.

SOURIS, Manitoba, July, 1888.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—After leaving Winnipeg the country is very flat and not much settled for several miles. The land is chiefly held by speculators at a high price, but we soon came into a good farming district. The first large fields of grain are very badly seeded with wild mustard, but after we neared the Portage the land appeared clean of weeds and the crops looked well. Portage la Prairie is a fine place, the market town of the richest part of Manitoba. Several industries have been successfully started here—paper mills, biscuit factory, flour and oat meal mills—besides a heavy grain trade. The next station of importance is Carberry, known as beautiful plains, a grain district worth anybody's time to go and see. The crops looked good all the way along the line. Of course there are some strips through the prairie not much use for grain growing, that would make good grazing land. I had not time to stop off at Brandon, but it appeared to be a fine place. The next station is Alexander, which was my stopping place for a while. I called to see Mr. George Hilliard, an old Peterborough boy. He has a large farm of 640 acres, or one section, about 2½ miles south east of the station. Mr. Hilliard hitched up his horse and drove me around to see his farm, a distance of four miles to go around it once. His crops looked good. The spring wheat beat anything I ever saw in Ontario. He has one field, spring wheat, 160 acres in it, besides another large field. Of course this appears large to some of our Ontario farms, but there are lots of farms with four or five hundred acres of wheat on. After spending several days with Mr. Hilliard he drove me down to Plum Creek, Souris, where so many have gone to make new homes for themselves from the township of Smith and Cavan, and the vicinity of Millbrook. They all appeared happy and contented, and all say they would not farm in Ontario on any conditions whatever. If some of your young farmers around Peterborough, who are breaking up new land among stumps and stones, could only see them plowing out here, they would be surprised. Some new settlers use the walking plough, drawn by two horses or a yoke of oxen, others use a sulky plough, with two, some three horses on, and I have seen several using the double mould sulky with four horses abreast. And they do very good work and plough a lot in a day. The crops south of Plum Creek look grand, and if there is no early frosts they expect as large a yield as last year, if not larger. If farmers in Ontario who are on rented farms only saw the crops out here and the amount of land not yet taken up, thousands of acres for sale cheap, I don't think they would pay rent much longer. Any man who can raise about $800 or $1,000 and bring out a carload of stock and implements, can make a good start. There are lots of men out here in very good circumstances who started without a cent.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia and other throat and lung troubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use, and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

JENNIE & THE JOURNALIST

A SOCIAL SENSATION AT THE COMMERCIAL METROPOLIS.

How the Home of a Wealthy Montreal Contractor was Broken Up—The Part in the Drama Played by a Dashing Newspaper Man.

MONTREAL, July 30.—A little advetisement in the local papers containing a notice that Arthur Ward, contractor, will apply to the Parliamnt of Canada at the next session for a divorce from his wife on the grounds of adultery, desertion, and an attempt to poison the applicant, has given a clue to one of the biggest social scandals Montreal has known for some time.

Arthur Ward is the son of a wealthy contractor, has made a fortune in the city and some four years ago married Miss Jennie Darrach, the beautiful daughter of a Church of England clergyman in a country parish, and was congratulated by his many friends on what seemed to be the opening of a happy era in life. The young couple had plenty of this world's goods, were apparently very fond of each other and started connubial life with a beautiful home and every prospect of happiness.

But as is so often the case in modern marriages things were not what they seemed and a little over two years ago their happy life was interrupted by the entrance of the tempter in the person of a son of a leading English alderman, and Mrs. Ward fell, her conduct at a summer resort on the St. Lawrence being such as to lead to her ejectment from the hotel in which she was stopping. She returned home and then became acquainted with Chas. E. George, a dashing newspaper man, working on one of the local papers. A New Englander by birth, he came here from the far west where he had been practising as a lawyer and had earned somewhat of a reputation, but had to leave there because of some social scandal with which he was connected. He came here after having, as he said, worked up a murder case in New England, which had puzzled the detectives, in the interests of a Boston paper. He secured work here as night editor of a morning paper, and eventually worked up a big connection with American papers, including The New York World, and by means of drawing the long bow, at which he was an adept, secured a monopoly of sensational news which existed solely in his fertile brain.

After being introduced to Mrs. Ward he became a frequent visitor at her house especially in the afternoon when Ward was at his business. The neighbors began to talk as neighbors will do and the injured husband gradually became cognizant of his danger and ordered George out of the house. A few days later Mrs. Ward left on a visit to Quebec, accompanied by a woman whose husband, just then dead, had for many years held the most important office in the gift of the citizens, and curiously enough George also went to Quebec. Mrs. Ward after a week's absence returned home, said she had been away with Mr. B. and resumed her place at home. A few days later the citizens were startled by the arrest of Mrs. Ward on a charge of having attempted to poison her husband by putting powdered glass in his tea. The beverage was analyzed by a leading chemist and a quantity of the glass found, but meanwhile Mrs. Ward, who had been released on bail, crossed the border, going to New York, where she still is believed to be.

The developments of the case were too much for George who also left for pastures new, going to Ottawa where for a time he acted as the liar on space of The World and other papers. Even the Capital soon grew too warm for him and he had to leave there also, not openly, however, for the day of his departure various Canadian papers published a despatch descriptive of his drowning in the St. Lawrence. He bobbed up serenely all the same and was next heard of at Little Rock, Ark., where he had a spell of regularity, but some months ago was discharged ignominiously from his post on one of the papers there for having slandered the Governor of the state during a political campaign.

Mr. Ward has meanwhile been endeavoring to recover his lost wife but all efforts have failed to induce her to return and he has accordingly entered action for a divorce.

The revival of the scandal, hitherto only known to a few, has caused a painful feeling and much sympathy is felt for the injured husband.

MISSING MACDIARMID.

The Montreal Law and Order League Detective Sells Out.

MONTREAL, July 30.—When the License Court opened to-day there were rumors in the air that McDiarmid, the detective of the Law and Order League who was shot last week, had been bought off and left the city. Mr. Labourveau, attorney for the League, sent to McDiarmid's residence for information and the messenger was there informed that he had left on Saturday and had not been seen since.

Detective Baylis of the Provincial Revenue Department stated to-day that he had been informed by a respectable hotel keeper that before and since McDiarmid was shot he had offered to sell out to them but that they had refused. Baylis also said McDiarmid had made a collecting tour among the liquor sellers since leaving his bed and sold out cases to all many as he could. As to the shooting affray Baylis had been informed that McDiarmid was in a bar-room on Wellington Street drinking and that a quarrel occurred in which he knocked two men down and that the fight continued after those engaged in it had got outside.

Greater benefits may be derived from the vacation season if, at the same time, the blood is being cleansed and vitalized by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. An increase of appetite, vigor, and buoyancy of spirits attend the use of this medicine.

BUSINESS ON THE MARTS.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets.

TORONTO, July 31.—Nothing was doing at the St. Lawrence Market yesterday. Buyers were few and the supply of every kind of produce was limited. Butter was unchanged at 22c. for pound rolls and 20c. for large, but the price will probably come down in a few days. Eggs were plentiful, and sold at 20 cents. There was no change in the price of vegetables.

No change is reported in cheese which is still quoted at 10c to 12c.

Old hay sold at $24 per ton and new at $17 to $20. Straw sold at $10 to $12.50. No grain was offered.

On call sellers offered No. 1 Manitoba hard at $1; buyers bid 98c; no transactions. Buyers bid 96c on track for No. 1 Manitoba hard; no transactions. Buyers bid 94c on the track (to arrive) for No. 1 Northern spring; no transactions.

FRUITS.

The supply of cherries was light. They sold at 80c to $1 per basket. The supply of black currants was small. They sold at $1.50 per basket. Red and white were plentiful and sold at 75c to $1 per basket. The supply of raspberries was small. Red sold at 12½c and black at 10c per box. Large gooseberries were scarce and sold at $1.50. Small were plentiful and sold at 50c to 80c per basket. The supply of apples was fair and the price remained at 50c per peck. Watermelons sold at 30c to 50c each.

LIVE STOCK.

No changes are reported in the quotations for live stock.

During the week ending July 28, 2304 cattle and 2834 sheep were shipped from Canadian ports to Great Britain.

DAY SCHOOL.

(PRINCIPAL, - - - - MR. EDWARD DUFF.)

On resuming work for the autumn session Mr. Duff will take up, with Junior pupils, the subjects required for entrance to the Collegiate Institute. Additional subjects, such as Book keeping, Commercial Arithmetic, French, &c, will receive careful attention. Those who desire a Classical and Mathematical Training for their children will do well to have the preliminary work entered on at an early stage. Two of Mr. Duff's present pupils, both under twelve, were this term examined by J. H. Long, Esq., M. A., Collegiate Institute, in the first three books of Euclid. The result was very satisfactory, one taking 90 per cent., the other about 50 per cent. Both boys took high marks in Latin, Greek, Translation and Grammar. Prospectus on application. 4d8

TURNBULLS'.

New Goods received this week. Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets, Cretonnes, Fringes, Table Oilcloths. Ladies' Belts, Prints, Lawns and Dress Goods.

Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.

Just to hand light and dark Seersuckers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

A CURIOUS LIBEL CASE.

AN ACTION AGAINST A MONTREAL ADVOCATE.

The Alleged Libellous Matter Written on a Postal Card Sent to the Complainant—A Suicide Identified.

MONTREAL, July 30.—An action for criminal libel was taken to-day against L. N. Demers, advocate, at the instance of Lamille Godérre, grocer. In his information complainant states that Demers had sent him a postal card through the mail. He alleges that the contents of the postal card were libellous and as others could read it, his good name had been injured by it.

The total amount of property left by the late John Ogilvie is about $900,000.

Rev. Abbe Bayle, one of the founders of the Seminary of St. Sulpice in this city, died to-day at the age of 88 years.

The prosecution in the Bergen case decided this afternoon to send immediately for Baltimore witnesses, as they have become tired of Bergen's wavering tactics. The enquiry has been continued until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Montreuil, who have taken an action in the civil courts for the separation of their 15-year-old daughter, Angelina, from Maxime Van Dosch, whom she secretly married, came to the Police Coart and asked that the criminal action against Van Dosch for abduction be dropped. The Police Magistrate, however, refused to do so, as the prisoner had been duly committed for enquete.

The man who committed suicide at the Richilieu yesterday was undoubtedly H. J. Holbrook of Ansonia, Ct. A letter was found in his pocket indicating his intention to kill himself, as he was weary of life.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Another Night of Debate—Mr. Parnell's Attack on Mr. Chamberlain.

LONDON, July 31.—The debate on the bill for the appointment of a commission to inquire into The Times' charges against Irish members was resumed in the House of Commons this evening when Hon. W. H. Smith moved the suspension of the standing order under which the discussion on the Commission Bill would be interrupted at midnight.

Mr. Parnell protested against the suspension of the order. He said it was an attempt to continue the discussion on a measure of first importance after the House had been sitting nine hours.

Mr. Smith's motion was adopted, 231 to 159.

Mr. Gladstone and the other leaders of the Opposition voted with the minority and were cheered by the Parnellites.

Mr. Parnell, resuming the debate on the proposal to restrict the inquiry into the conduct of his associates to accusations for murder and violence, said that he referred yesterday evening to the proceedings of the Cabinet in office from 1882, which had frequently been divulged by Mr. Chamberlain to himself and other Nationalists.

At this point the chairman interfered to state that this line of observation was not in order.

Mr. Parnell replied that if this were the case he would reserve further statements on the subject until he came before the commission.

Mr. Chamberlain said he desired to offer a personal explanation and proceeded to reply at length to Mr. Parnell's charges against him.

Mr. Parnell replied at length and Mr. Chamberlain appealed to Mr. Gladstone to substantiate his statemens with reference to the matter under discussion.

Mr. Gladstone made a guarded reply in the course of which he said that he would have to know more of the nature of the communications before entering into them.

Mr. Reid's amendment, restricting the inquiry to accusations of murder and violence, was lost, 249 to 197.

Mr. Molloy proposed an amendment to modify the clause regarding the allegations so as to include any such of them as the commission might think fit to investigate.

Mr. Matthews objected and a debate followed, participated in by Sir William Harcourt, Mr. Robertson, Solicitor-General for Scotland; Mr. Smith, who denied that Mr. Walter of The Times had anything to do with framing the bill; Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Goschen.

Mr. Molloy's amendment was rejected.

Mr. Sexton moved that the names of the accused persons be given, but the motion was rejected.

An amendment to strike out the words "other persons" was rejected, the House adjourned at 3.45.

Two Brothers Drowned.

FARMERSVILLE, Ont., July 31.—Two brothers, young unmarried Scotchmen recently from Glasgow, named Angus and Thomas Chassels, were drowned to-day while bathing at Charleston Lake. They both slipped off a slanting rock into deep water and grabbed each other. Their boatman and uncle were on the shore, but as the drowning men did not rise even once they were unable to render any assistance. One of the young men had a situation in Toronto as a tailor.

A $15,000 Blaze at St. Henri.

MONTREAL, July 30.—The butcher shop of Mr. Cualier, the residence and restaurant of L. Mallette and the blacksmith shop of Mr. Beaudoir at St. Henri were destroyed by fire this morning. Loss $15,000.

Serious Accident at Parkhill.

PARKHILL, July 31.—Mr. Neil Matheson, and family live upstairs over his store. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Matheson while attending to household duties stepped outside on a platform in the rear of the house. Unexpectedly the supporting woodwork gave way and she fell a distance of 14 feet to the ground sustaining serious but not fatal injuries.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE WORLD OF LONDON.

POPE LEO'S EFFORTS TO SUPPRESS THE SLAVE TRADE.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone at the Irish Exhibition—M. Daudet's Latest Literary Success—A Splendid Entertainment.

LONDON, July 31.—Cardinal Lavigerie of Rome has arrived here on a peculiar mission. He has come to express the desire of the Pope to arouse English public opinion concerning the slave trade in Africa. The necessity for such an arousal is not altogether apparent, as more is heard on that subject in Parliament, in public documents and in the press of London than in any other large city of Europe. The suppression of the African slave trade was Gordon's hobby as it is Stanley's chief ambition. It was also one of the chief influences which caused the recent concessions to the British East African Company. Nevertheless, from what the Cardinal says there appears to be a great need of concerted European action in the matter. He says the trade is not narrowing, but rapidly extending. It is entirely in the hands of the Arabs, and under their brutal rule hundreds of thousands of native blacks from the interior tribes are annually sold into slavery.

The treatment of them en route from the place of their capture to market is horrible. Weak captives, unable to keep up, are ruthlessly cut down, and the route of a slave caravan can always be traced by human skeletons. The Pope, whose information comes from missionaries on the ground, is thoroughly in earnest over the matter, and will exert all the pressure in his power to check the evil. His hope is that a concert of public opinion in Europe will be able to arouse the authorities in Europe and Zanzibar to set themselves against the business. If the Sultan of Zanzibar, for instance, were held responsible for all slave dealing that is permitted to go on in his domains, a different state of things would quickly appear. The movement is not confined to the Catholic Church, but is desired to include all Christian people.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone appeared Friday morning at the Irish exposition in wedding garments after sitting for a photograph in honor of their golden wedding, Mrs. Gladstone's long green velvet train, carried over her arm, being greatly in her way during the perambulation of the exhibition. They were very liberal in their purchases, which ranged from Beleck pottery and Irish lace to reproductions of old Celtic jewelry. Mr. Gladstone's discursive interests were expended alternately in discussion of the Speaker's dress in the famous picture of the Irish Parliament in the Art Gallery, which he denounced as incorrect for the occasion, the milking qualities of Kerry cows, the hygienic value of all-wool clothing, on which he was very eloquent, apropos of the new Irish departure in that direction and the jumping capacity of Connemara ponies. He seemed in marvellous health and spirits and not in the least fatigued after standing about for two hours.

Let me correct a report that Lord Tennyson is writing his "Confession of Faith"; such is not the fact. The Laureate has yet more idyls to sing and some shorter pieces to collect.

Fifty thousand copies of M. Daudet's new novel, "L'Immortel," have been sold in less than five weeks. There is a brisk demand for the work, which is very eagerly read all over Europe.

There is a letter of the author of "Modern Painters" now lying in Puttick & Simpson's rooms for sale on Thursday, written from Denmark Hill on a certain Dec. 16. Professor Owen had submitted to Mr. Ruskin the preface of a work he had in hand, in which the writer of the "Seven Lamps of Architecture" is defined as "a clothed sum of segments." Mr. Ruskin is delighted, and says:—

"I feel so exactly that."

The most splendid entertainment given at Peterhof during the visit of Emperor William was the state dinner on Sunday week, which took place at 7, and 190 covers were laid. There were 5000 roses on the tables. Plates, epergnes, dishes and covers were solid gold.

Another American Defaulter.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The detectives are on the lookout for a young bank clerk named George F. Howell, who absconded from Patchogue four days ago, leaving a deficiency of $3,000 in his cash. His friends made up the deficiency, but it was too late, as the latter had been put in the hands of the District Attorney, and the sheriff was already after him with the warrant. The young man kept a little ahead of the sheriff and is supposed to have come to Canada, the haven of refuge for the defaulter and the boodler.

Mr. Hoar's Resolution Adopted.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Hoar's resolution was adopted, providing for the appointment of a committee of seven Senators to report upon the relations of commerce and business existing between the United States and the British North American possessions, including the effect upon the commerce and carrying trade of the United States of the Canadian system of railways.

ALMOST A MURDER.

Mrs. Crooks of Hamilton Seriously Injured by a Dangerous Missile.

HAMILTON, July 31.—While Mrs. Margaret Crooks, a widow who maintains herself and five small children by selling milk, was standing in front of her house on Saturday night about 10 o'clock talking with some neighbors, she was struck a terrible blow between the eyes with a large piece of hard clay and stone. So heavy was the stroke that she fell to the ground, to the great surprise of the other women, who had been suspecting nothing of the sort. Her face and head were covered with blood, and as she regained consciousness and raised herself blood streamed from a wound between the eyes. Since then she has been in bed and her face and head are now terribly bruised and disfigured. Her nose was broken by the blow but fortunately her eyes were not injured. It is thought that the missile was thrown by someone who had a spite against one of the women, with whom she was talking, on account of her giving evidence in a liquor case.

A moulder named Michael Dwyer was charged at the police court with obtaining $6 from a widow named Mary Elleber. Dwyer went to Mrs. Elleber after her husband's death and told her the latter was $6 behind in his dues and that if she would give it to him he would pay it over and she would get $150 death benefit. She did so and Dwyer spent the money. The case was allowed to stand for a few days.

Another batch of little boys were before the Police Magistrate this morning. Alexander McLennan, 12 years old, was sent to the Reformatory for three years on two charges of larceny, Wm. Cusick, about the same age, was fined $3 and John Mulroy allowed to go, it being his first offence. Robert J. Fitzgerald, George S. Niblock, Herbert Marshall, Moses Niblock and James Jaws were charged by Thomas Arthur with housebreaking. The defendants are boys of from 7 to 12 years old. They were allowed to go to appear for trial to-morrow.

Sudden Death at Chatham.

CHATHAM, July 31.—A colored man named George Francis, about 50 years of age, dropped dead last night on Adelaide-street while returning from work. Heart disease was the cause.

It is said that Hon. Mr. Taillon's appointment to the bench will soon be made.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Young Man Missing—Fined for Ticket Scalping—Burglars Skip Their Bail.

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—A young man name W. J. Orr left the city on July 7 ostensibly to visit Charlotte by boat and has not been seen since. He was about 20 years of age. His relatives are in sore trouble about his disappearance.

William Boyd, a Hamilton cigarmaker, came down to start work in one of the struck shops here. The picket sent out by the strikers of the Cigarmakers' Union captured Boyd before he could put his intentions into effect, and bought him a ticket to return to Hamilton. Boyd went to the Union Depot ostensibly to take the afternoon train for Hamilton, but really, as the sequel shows, to dispose of the ticket that the strikers had supplied to him. Boyd fell into the clutches of Detective Davis while offering the ticket for sale and was arrested for scalping tickets contrary to the statutes in such cases made and provided. On being arraigned Boyd admitted the offence, claiming that he did not know of the existence of a law prohibiting ticket scalping. The magistrate said he would impose the lightest penalty, and fined the prisoner $20 and costs or 10 days' imprisonment.

When Robert KcKenzie, Denis Henry and Edward Green were called in the police court only the former answered, the two latter having skipped their bail. The three were suspected of having burglarized Alex. Singer's store, Jarvis-street, on the night of July 9. It will be remembered that P. C. Craig dropped on the burglars in the store at 2 o'clock in the morning and fired at them, hitting one of them, who, however, succeeded, along with his two pals in eluding capture. The detectives say the wounded crook is named O'Neill. He is now in Chicago. Magistrate Denison issued a warrant for the arrest of Henry Green, and the evidence not in any way inculpating McKenzie he was acquitted.

The Cooper perjury case in which Ald. Baxter is the prosecutor, came up again at the Police Court yesterday. Judgment was reserved until to-day.

The World's injunction case against the Typographical Union was enlarged for a week yesterday by agreement of counsel.

Word was received yesterday that the 9-year-old daughter of Barrister H. J. Wickham was drowned at Murray Island, Muskoka, on Monday.

PRESSMEN IN SESSION.

They Elect Officers, Transact Business and Go on a Trip to the States.

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—The Canadian Press Association held its annual meeting yesterday in the Rossin House. There was a fair representation of members, sixty being present. The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

President—Rev. Dr. Dewart, Christian Guardian, Toronto. Vice-Presidents—D. Creighton, Empire, Toronto; W. R. V. Summerville, True Banner, Dundas. Secretary-Treasurer—W. R. Climie, The Sun, Bowmanville. Assistant Secretary—J. B. Trayes, The Times, Port Hope. Executive Committee—H. P. Moore, Free Press, Acton; A. Patullo, Sentinel-Review, Woodstock; L. Jackson, Era, Newmarket; J. S. Brierly, Journal, St Thomas; J. B. McLean, Canadian Grocer, Toronto; J. C. Jamieson, Intelligencer, Belleville; and J. J. Crabbe, Argus, St. Mary's.

A number of subjects were informally discussed. At 8.30 in the evening the majority of the members took the G.T.R. express for Portland, Me., to enjoy their annual outing.

DANGEROUS SPINSTERS.

Two West Virginia Women Kill One Burglar and Mortally Wound Another.

PARKERSBURG, W.Va., July 31.—Two maiden ladies, Mariah and Victata Reeves, living near Davisville, last night shot and killed one burglar and mortally wounded and captured another. The encounter happened about midnight. One of the sisters saw a man in her room, seized a revolver and fired, killing him. The other sister was awakened, seized a weapon and sprang on the other burglar as he was trying to escape through a window. He was too late, as he fell to the ground with a bullet through his groin. The ladies are generally supposed to keep large sums of money in their house.

The Halton Writ Issued.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—The writ for Halton has been issued, nomination taking place on Aug. 15 and polling on Aug. 22. Solomon Hannant, of Milton, is the returning officer.

DEFYING JUSTICE.

The Megantic Murderer Still at Large—La Montagne's Double Crime.

MONTREAL, July 31.—A tale of defiance of justice equal to anything in the wildest dime novel comes from Sherbrooke in the vicinity of which place two murderers about whose guilt there is not the least doubt are defying the attempts of the authorities to capture them and have the entire sympathy of their neighbors. Donald Morrison, who killed a man named Warren in cold blood at Megantic a few weeks since and on whose head the Government has set a price lives in the woods near the scene of his crime. He goes into town to buy his provisions and once in a while dines at the hotel. He is well armed and with the population partly afraid and partly in sympathy with him, the officers of the law are entirely powerless. He has promised to shoot the first man that tries to arrest him, as it will not go harder with him for one than for two murders. A couple of days ago, Mr. Alex. Ross, one of Her Majesty's Justice's of the Peace, met him while driving in his buggy on the public highway and at his request drove him to town. No one has been found yet who dares to arrest him.

At St. Julie de Wolfstown, Remi la Montagne, who murdered his brother-in-law in order to conceal his incest with his sister, is also at large and defies arrest. The sister has been arrested and has made a very damaging confession both of the murder and of her relations with her brother. The assassin was well supplied with money, he having obtained $1,500 from his wife, who went to St. Anne and took $800 more from her trunk. He was one of several from that neighborhood who were convicted in Sherbrooke three years ago of aggravated assault. This morning the woman, who is very pretty and only 18 years old, was brought before Judge Rioux and remanded for eight days. She refused to say anything and even to her advocate was very reticent. Though the people around Wolfstown claim that La Montagne is still in the vicinity, the officers allege that he has crossed the border.

A New Brunswick Fire.

MONCTON, N.B., July 31.—Killam's lumber mill and the Buotoche and Moncton Railway bridge at Scotch Settlement were destroyed by fire yesterday morning, 50,000 feet of lumber being consumed. The building and contents were completely destroyed. The loss on the mill is $4000. The railway bridge burned was 200 feet long.

Defaulter Nelson Discharged.

TRENTON, July 31.—Nelson, the Atlantic defaulter, was again up before the magistrate to-day. There being no one to appear against him he was discharged. He immediately left the town and, it is said, went to Belleville.

Death of a Guelph Pioneer.

GUELPH, July 31.—Mr. Robert M. Richardson, one of the pioneers of this district, died here this morning. Mr. Richardson was born in County Longford, Ireland, in 1817, and came to this country in 1835.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1888.

UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY.

COMMERCIAL union organs are endeavoring to use the short fodder crop and the lack of pasture to influence farmers in favor of their pet scheme, and they even do not hesitate to exaggerate the conditions in order to sustain their position since they made the change of front. Formerly they wanted unrestricted reciprocity so that the Canadian farmers could sell their produce in the United States; now they say it is necessary in order that the same farmers may purchase grain in the States on account of the short crop on this side of the lines. The Napanee Express, to enforce the new argument, says that Ontario last year—that is, between June, 1886, and July, 1887—imported both corn and oats. But Ontario also exported oats; and this Province imported peas, but exported more than it imported. Besides, though 4,000 bushels of oats were imported into Ontario, the Dominion exported 2,000,000 bushels of the same grain. It has not been shown that Canada will be short of coarse grains this year, or that the home supply will be less than the requirements.

At the same time, if it is a fact that the United States markets can furnish a cheaper supply of coarse grains, would that be an argument in favor of commercial union? The United States has a surplus of agricultural products, we know, and prices as a rule are cheaper there than here, but is that a reason why Canada should, in the interests of the farmers, open her markets for all time to come to the cheaper products of the States? Unrestricted reciprocity would not be for one year alone, The partial failure of the crops that has unfortunately occurred in a portion of this Province, and which is felt more severely in Lennox, is not a usual occurrence. To meet the requirements of one unusual season, supposing what the commercial unionists say is true, would it be wisdom to bind this country to a policy that would be detrimental to the interests of those farmers for years to come? Because unrestricted reciprocity does not mean the free entrance of coarse grains for a year alone, or of coarse grains only, but includes all the products and manufactures of the States for an unlimited period. By this phase of the agitation the Liberals have called attention to the fact that the United States, where the farmers were to find better markets, raises for itself more agricultural produce than it requires.

The Express closes an article with this paragraph:—

"The REVIEW has given a good deal of attention to fault finding with the management of the Provincial Agricultural College and the Model farm. If these criticisms are on a par with the criticisms above referred to 'the absurdity' must be apparent enough to any one."

Is the express familiar with the inside workings of the Agricultural College? If so, perhaps it will be kind enough to give the particulars of the complaints that we were told had been formulated by the Advisory Board and had led to Prof. Brown's resignation. If the management of the College was beyond criticism, why these complaints?

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood, Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable. Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

APSLEY.

DEVR REVIEW,—As I promised ye that I would write ye a line again I now sit down to do so, and, begorra, its little I know to tell ye at all, at all, exceptin that I've bin visitin among the farmers, so I her, and been a takin a kind of onals of the crops and I belave Misthress Burd's clothes baskit will hould near all of thim, so I do, laving out a bushel or two of turnips for the cow and a few praties for the pigs, poor craythurs! There's too much grit and hard scrabble in this part to make farmin a success. It's a queer counthree, I tell ye, and near all bunnt up with the fires, too, so it is, and only fur the byes formin a brigade and the big captin fon his bay horse an a little drap of water that come doon from Eels Lake we would hev lost our grist mill, so we would, an had no flour to make a loaf of brid. And mebbe we'd had to bury one anither accordin as we died, so we would. There's one consolasshune any way; we can't be left naked intirely, fur there's ould clo's sellin here now purty chape, a houl soot fur two dollars, an not more thin a few holes in 'em nayther. Don't this bate yer wonderful chape min doon there? That Shepherd feller that raises his clo's on his own sheep or somethin, and by that manes tries to undersell Goff, who hes to fetch his on the cars and pay frate fur thim, but, my, this is a queer wurld, so it is, ivery one trying to bate his nabor in a dacent way. I belave, dear frind, that I'd go back to the ould sod agin only that the perlice might mistake me fur Mic Davitt and run me in. Poor ould Oireland, with all yer faults I love ye still, an a drap of the craythur at the prisint toime from one of em would be grand intirely, so it would. Excuse me, if you plase, sur, I belave I'm wandering from my subject, and I got over to the Ould Counthree whin I should be writin to ye about Burleigh, so I should. Well, I heven't much to tell ye, anyway. The byes is all well an in good spirits, all but the little General, who got bate shooting to-day by Jim Mac and my cousin Billy. We had a visit from Royalty to-day, who is kaping in good health, but a little smoked up from the fires. Ye can't see acrost the lake fur smoke while I write this, so you can't. Our frind Hughey has a purty hard toime with his rheumatiz. It's a wonder he don't git it pulled out or some thin. I aint as much of a doctor as Judd, who ginerally gives a Warners safe cure bottle for iverything. He give me a drap of it one day and its purty good to take, so it is. Our council must be gone away fur an excursion or out fishing, as they've had no mating for quite awhile! May be they've gone to parlymint fur a grant, as Billy is still wandering around looking fur the mighty dollar which he doesn't git. They've got some scrapers up; maybe they will help to pull in the balance. I may be doon to see ye before long, that is, if Dick gits his trotting horse phat he's going to trot into the Raveship with next year. I mane to kape me eye on Apsley fur awhile and whin he gits his trotter you'll know it, fur thin you will see your affectinate frind, YOUNG DANIEL O'GRADY.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful! Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

OTTAWA TOPICS.

OTTAWA, July 31.—Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, returned to the city at noon to-day, after a month's vacation, apparently much benefited in health by the partial rest he has enjoyed. He utilized part of his time in inspecting the various public works in progress on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Baie des Chaleurs and up the Saguenay. Sir Hector also paid a visit to Lake St. John, being the first Cabinet Minister to visit that region. He said to-day that he was surprised at the splendid crop in that section. The yield of hay was immense, most of it was harvested and seemed in excellent condition and the crops of oats, barley, wheat and potatoes promised to be very good.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau is expected to return to the city in a few days. It is understood that his health has not improved so much as his friends expected and that in consequence he has been compelled to give up his contemplated trip to the Maritime Provinces.

The contract for the greenhouse, seed houses, etc., for the experimental farm at Ottawa has been awarded to Beaudet & Desjardins, who were the lowest tenderers.

I am informed that the delegates appointed by the Government of Newfoundland to confer with the Government of Canada as to the terms on which Newfoundland may become a part of the Dominion will arrive in Ottawa about Sept. 10. Sir John is expected to return to the city a week or ten days before that date, and all the ministers will be here to receive the delegates.

A fashionable event took place this morning at the Basilica, when Mr. P. J. Brennan of the Privy Council Department and nephew of Mr. M. P. Ryan, collector of customs at Montreal, and Miss Catharine Rose O'Reilly, daughter of Mr. John O'Reilly, license inspector, were united in the bonds of matrimony.

The appointment of Hon. Edgar Dewdney as Minister of the Interior and of Mr. John Haggart, M.P., as Postmaster-General will probably be gazetted on Saturday.

NOT YET DETERMINED.

What Constituency Mr. Dewdney Will Contest—The Northern Pacific Deal.

WINNIPEG, July 31.—In an interview today Hon. Mr. Dewdney said it had not been determined what constituency he would contest, nor when he would leave for the east but it would be settled in a few days.

Hon. D. A. Wells in an interview says every one he met in Canada favored Commercial Union or something that would bring a closer trade relationship with the States. He admitted, however, that if carried out the relations of the two countries would become so interwoven that the union would grow into a political one, not annexation but partnership. The question, he says, has, not been discussed widely in the States. The Fisheries Treaty, he says, would be ratified if Cleveland is elected.

The tonic and alternative properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla are too well known to require the specious aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of the marvelous cures effected by this preparation are to-day living in every city and hamlet o the land.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Coal, Public Buildings," will be received until FRIDAY, 10th August next, for Coal supply, for all or any of the Dominion Public Buildings.

Specification, foam of tender and all necessary information can be obtained at this Department on and after Wednesday, 18th instant.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works equal to five per cent. of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department will not be bound to accept the lowest or any tender.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. No trouble to show Goods. It will pay you to look through our Immense stock. We will give you a Pointer or two worth dollars to you. We have still a few pairs of those Cheap Pants left, everybody is talking about them.

A Splendid Tented Exhibition.

Those who are fond of visiting exhibitions under canvas, and who are not fond of it, will be gratified to read the announcement that Miller & Freeman's monster railway shows, which exhibited to such overflowing audiences last season and which gave such unqualified satisfaction to everybody, is to be again a visitor, coming here on Monday, Aug. 6th. It is not saying too much to emphasize the fact that the performances given in every department by this organization have no superior with any show travelling; and the greatly reduced admission prices gives to everybody the opportunity to witness them. A novel feature connected with this exhibition, and one which will bring thousands from a distance to witness, is, the perilous parachute descent by Prof. Ned Hathaway from his mammoth balloon, "Mercury," which takes place each day at the exhibition grounds at 11 o'clock, and which, of course, will be free to everybody.

Personal.

The Calgary, N. W. T., Tribune of July 24th says:—" Mr. Wm. Hamilton, president of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Peterborough, Ont., accompanied by his son, Wm. Hamilton, Jr., arrived in town from the east on Monday night, on a trip to the coast and California. They will return home by the Northern Pacific."

His Lordship Bishop Dowling drove out to Father Keilty's yesterday afternoon. His Lordship was accompanied by the Rev. Chancellor Kehoe and Father Craven, of Hamilton, Chancellor McEvay, of Peterborough, and Father Murray, of Cobourg.

Messrs. R. S. Davidson and J. J. McBain leave this evening for a trip to the Northwest and will be away a couple of weeks.

Mr. John McDonald, of the Lindsay Warder, passed through town to-day on his way to Campbellford. He stopped off a short time to see a few of his friends.

Mr. John Stirling returned on Tuesday evening from Toronto, where he has been engaged for some time in examining papers in connection with the examinations for teachers' certificates.

He Noticed It.

A former resident of Peterborough who has been in British Columbia for five years, passed through town yesterday on his way to his father's present abode near Rice Lake. He naturally noticed the improvements and changes the town had undergone during that time. The large railroad traffic surprised him and he thought the town was going ahead rapidly.

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. The Nicholls Hospital.

The following is the monthly report of the Nicholls Hospital for July:—Number of patients in hospital July 31st, 1888, 3. Disease—Hip joint disease, 2; injury to knee, 1. Discharged cured, 1; improved, 2. Total number treated during month, 6. From Peterborough, 3; from the county, 3. Pay patients, 3; free patients, 3. Dr. Boucher and Dr. Pigeon, attending physicians for July.

Acknowledgement.

The Lady Superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital thankfully acknowledges the following donations to the Hospital in July:—Mrs. T. C. Tucker, flowers; Mrs. Morrw, milk; Mrs. Hautlain, solitaire board, dice for backgammon, mouth organ and slates for boy patients; Miss Wallis, new potatoes, jelly, buttermilk and papers; Mr. Minore, biscuits and daily papers; Mrs. Moffat, old cotton and papers; Mr. Sailsbury, papers; a friend (per Miss Sanderson), old linen, scrap book and flowers.

The New Stand Ready.

To-morrow, Thursday, H. S. Griffin & Co. will move to their new stand, No. 369 George-st. The premises, Alexander's old stand, have been thoroughly overhauled, re-fitted and brightened up. The shop is one of the most commodious in town and will afford facilities for extension in some lines of trade to which the firm propose to devote particular attention. Customers will find the firm in their new premises on and after Thursday. The well known reliable character of the excellent stock kept has ever been a strong recommendation, and having added new lines and sorted up those already in hand with the latest things offered, every facility is at hand to ensure a prosperous trade.

Camping Notes.

The Wee-mis-ti-coo-sea-wa-sis camping party was among those who went north to Stoney Lake this morning. The seven syllable party consisted of Messrs. Harry Stock, Albert Turner, John Tucker, A. Clegg, John Crane, Thos. Armstrong, Wm. Walters (Whitby), Thos. Barrie, W. G. Morrow and Bert. Beattie, and Misses Smart, Rutherford, Clegg, Dean, Barrie, Nellthercut, Brundrett, Crosby, Craig, Lumsden and Hunt (Toronto). Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Griffin will join them in a few days. The ponderous Indian name of the party is supposed to mean "Gone to a happy hunting ground," or something of that kind, but the party is a merry one and will try to bear up under the name.

Another party boarded the train at Nassau, among whom were Mr. W. F. Hilliard, Mrs. Hilliard, and Misses Stewart, Mason and Snyder. Their destination was Stoney Lake also.

Mr. John McClelland, Miss McClelland, Miss Hoyland, of Belleville, and Masters Kenneth and William McClelland were among the pilgrims who went north for relaxation, and Mr. Wm. Lech went up to join his family.

Mr. Chas. McClelland's party, numbering about ten persons, and Mr. W. E. Sherwood's party, consisting of about the same number, returned from Stoney Lake last night. They report having had an excellent time.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall goes north to-morrow morning.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

TO ORILLIA AND COUCHICHING.

The Peterborough Lodge, S. O. E., Excursion a Successful One.

The annual excursion under the auspices of Peterborough Lodge No. 64, Sons of England, held on Tuesday, was a very successful one in every respect. It was over the Grand Trunk railway to Orillia and Lake Couchiching.

The train left the Peterborough station at 7.30 in the morning with a large number on board. At Omemee about thirty more joined the excursionists, and at Lindsay their numbers were augmented by members of Westminster Lodge and others who wished to enjoy a day's outing. Before Orillia was reached there were about five hundred persons on the train. The ride up was a very pleasant one, and was made in good time, the train arriving at Orillia at about 10.30 o'clock.

The excursionists, or a large number of them, proceeded to see Orillia, and an attack was made on the hotel dining rooms. Places of interest in the town were visited and the people of that place would feel flattered if they heard the remarks made. The waterworks were admired and the drinking fountains on the streets appreciated. Many crossed to Horse Shoe Island, the site of the A. C. A. camp, and visited friends there and watched the races. Three steamers were steadily plying between the island and town part of the day and two all day. There was a good breeze blowing that was enjoyed on the lake.

A very enjoyable time was spent during the eight hours or over the party had the privilege of staying at Orillia, on the lake or at the island. The ride home was another pleasant run, and the Peterborough station was reached at about 10.30 o'clock. The railway men were attentive and obliging, and the committee, which consisted of Messrs. Somerville (chairman), Forbes (secretary), I. Richardson, J. H. Stephens, jr., F. Brownscombe, A. Clegg and H. Stock, did all that could be done to complete arrangements for a satisfactory trip, and they succeeded well. The excursion was certainly an enjoyable one from first to last and the lodge is to be congratulated on its success.

Vital Statistics.

The following are the July statistics of births, deaths and marriages taken from the Town Clerk's register for the month ending July 31st:—

Births	23
Marriages	11
Deaths	9

House Numbering.

The work of numbering the houses is progressing. All the houses on the streets running east and west, from the river to Park-st., have been numbered, besides all the business portion of the town, and the work of ticketing the houses on the north and south streets has been commenced.

Wednesday Market.

The market this morning was very poorly attended. The most of the farmers are harvesting now and can scarcely get time to go to town more than once a week. The prices asked this morning were as follows:—Butter 22c., eggs 15c., raspberries $1.25 per pail, potatoes 25c. and 30c. per peck, carrots, onions and like vegetables in bunches, 5c.

Millis' Tourists.

A small but very appreciative audience visited the Opera House last evening. The entertainment was a most enjoyable one. The spectators were well pleased and applauded to the echo. Several of the performers were encored. Mr. Fred. W. Millis, the great ventriloquist and humorist, kept the audience in roars of laughter during his whole performance. Revillo is a marvel in the mystic art. Sig. Dell' Oro performed classic and popular music on his instruments which held the audience spellbound. His imitation of the bagpipe was something wonderful. The scene representing the Egyptian Necromancer was startling and the seemingly supernatural feats almost baffled belief.

Lost and Supposed to be Drowned.

A little boy named Walter Johnston, son of Mr. James Johnston, Dublin-st., has been missing since yesterday at noon. He was last seen shortly after one o'clock picking berries near the lumber piles of the Dickson mills, a few rods from his home, and it is feared that he has gone down to the river and been drowned. There are a large number of logs in the river at Goose Island, and the water at that point has been searched, Mr. Hazlitt letting the water off as much as possible to facilitate the search, but no discovery was made. The lad is seven years old, and wore a brown felt hat, a checked blouse, grey pants and had not boots on, when he left home.

The Sports at the A. C. A.

On Monday at the Canoeists Camp at Horse Shoe Island, Lake Couchiching, there was a renewal of the sailing and paddling contests. There was scarcely any wind during the forenoon but a light breeze came up after dinner

The sailing race for canoes with centre-boards was run off. Twelve canoes started, the winner being D. B. Jacques, Toronto C. C., 2nd W. G. MacKendrick, T. C. C., 3rd H. MacKendrick, U. C. C. The race was well contested but big sails and light boats had the advantage, combined with excellent judgment on the part of skippers. The open canoe sailing race was won by C. Fraser, T. C. C., 2nd H. Maclean, T. C. C., 3rd J. D. Kelly, T. C. C. The first of a series of open canoe races, contestants to paddle with lady paddler, was won by P. Strickland, Lakefield C. C. and Miss Hall, 2nd Dr. Douglas, Lakefield C. C., and Miss E. Britton. The second open canoe event was won by P. Strickland, Lakefield C. C., 2nd S. Britton, Lindsay C. C. In the tournament D. Strickland, Lakefield, and E. B. Edwards, Peterborough C. C., fought down all comers and the event was declared a draw. A pleasant gathering was held in the evening at headquarters. The grand ball to be given this evening in the Agricultural Hall, Orillia, by the citizens in honor of the A. C. A. is expected to be a grand success. There was a deal of telegraphing for dress suits after the ball was announced but gentlemen learned, to the relief of those who had not the apparel handy, that flannels and canoeing suits would be considered full dress for one night only.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

The Funeral of the Late C. D. Macdonald—Interred With Masonic Honors.

On Tuesday afternoon the funeral of the late C. D. Macdonald took place and the remains were interred at the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral was largely attended and was an evidence of the respect and esteem in which during his life he was held by all, more especially those interested in the management of our civic affairs, who appreciated to the utmost his industry, integrity, accuracy in business matters and unfailing personal good humor.

The Town Council attended in a body. The funeral was conducted under the auspices of the Masonic Order, of which the deceased had during his lifetime been a valued and highly esteemed member. The local lodges took part in the last sad rites were Corinthian R. A. Chapter, No. 36, Corinthian Lodge No. 101 and Peterborough Lodge No. 135. The brethren met at the Masonic Hall, Water-st., at 1.30 p. m., and proceeded, arrayed in Masonic clothing and regalia, to the late residence of the deceased on Benson-st., where a part of the beautiful and solemn Masonic burial service was read by Rgt. W. Bro. R. Shortly, and prayer offered by Rev. Bro. Bradshaw. The grand honors were then given thrice by the brethren. From the residence to the hearse the body was borne by the pall bearers, Messrs. Richard Hall, T. G. Hazlitt, C. McGill, Edg. Pearse, D. W. Dumble and John Doharty. The line of procession was made, the Masonic members leading followed by the cortege and citizens. At the cemetery service was read in the chapel by Rev. Bro. Bradshaw, assisted by Rgt. W. Bro. Rev. V. Clementi. From the chapel to the grave the casket was borne by pall bearers, members of the order, W. Bro. H. Rush, W. Bro. A. Dawson, Rgt. W. Bro. E. H. D. Hall, W. Bro. J. Alexander, V. W. Bro. Chas. Cameron, V. W. Bro. W. Paterson, Rgt. W. Bro. R. A. Morrow and W. Bro. H. Winch, the brethren singing that beautiful hymn, "My God, my Father, while I Stray." The family burial plot is situated nearly at the centre of the cemetery, and just north of the chapel. At the grave the Masonic service was concluded, in which Rev. Bro. Bradshaw, W. Bro. Brundrett, Rgt. W. Bro. Shortly, W. Bro. Rush and Rev. Bro. Pearson took part. At the conclusion the line of march was formed and the brethren returned to the lodge room.

As an evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held by Masons all over the Province, many letters and telegrams were received expressing deep regret at the unexpected death of so excellent a brother and who had for so many years exerted his ability to advance the interests of the craft. Among the communications received were those from M. W. Bro. Otto Klotz, P.G.M., Preston, and Right W. Bro. J. R. Robertson, D.G.M., Toronto.

Quite a number of brethern from a distance attended the funeral. Among those present were Bro. D. Ewing, Warkworth; W. Bro. J. McNeil, Keene; W. Bro. Jno. Shaw, Keene; W. Bro. J. Hunter, Millbrook; R.W. Bro. H. Turner, Millbrook; V.W. Bro. J. Hull, Lakefield; W. Bro. Geo. Cochrane, Lakefield.

The remedy which most successfully combats malarial disorders, is Ayer's Ague Cure. It is a purely vegetable compound, and contains neither quinine nor any other dangerous ingredient. Warranted to cure chills and fever.

CRICKET MATCH.

The Town and County Players Meet and the Townsmen Win.

Cricket teams representing the town and county played a match on the P. A. A. A. grounds on Tuesday afternoon. An interesting game was played, which resulted in a victory for the town, the result being a score of 169 to 81. The playing was very good, and although there was but one innings on each side, the match lasted several hours.

The townsmen first went to the bat, and S. Ray made another good score, running up 34 before his wicket fell. Five threes and a four swelled his score. Stratton played a splendid game, and added 65 to the tally before he retired to Rogers' bowling. Kincaid also made a good stand and had scored 28 runs when he fell to Day. W. Green played well for 12.

The county players went in with a score of 169 to face. Two wickets fell for nothing, but before the third went out a score of 38 had been made. M. Hamilton played a good game and made 25 runs, when his wicket fell before Baker's bowling. Day added a double figure—10—to the score, and Logan made a stand to the end for 20. The side retired with 81, leaving the townsmen the winners by 88 runs.

The following is the score:—

CORRESPONDENCE.

While correspondents will be allowed space to discuss questions of public interest, the Review does not hold itself responsible for the opinions expressed.

The Steam Whistle.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—At a meeting of the Town Council, held on the 23rd of July, the Mayor said that "he had received satisfactory assurances that the whistling by the railway locomotives had ceased."

These "assurances," from whatever source they emanated, may have appeared "satisfactory" to His Worship, but inasmuch as the "whistling" certainly has by no means "ceased," we who suffer from the nuisance side with Councillor Moore who disagreed with the Mayor on the subject, and who did not scruple to express such disagreement. Then Councillor Hartley declared that "he was well satisfied, as he had not heard any noise from this cause during the last month." Now I don't know where the latter Councillor lives, but this I know, that if he resided at the south end of the town he could not have ventured upon such a statement.

I do not mean to say that the whistling nuisance is quite as bad as it was, but I maintain that their is still a great deal too much of it, especially at night and during the early hours of the morning. A few nights ago I heard four distinct whistles between one and two o'clock a. m., and a fifth between two and three, and the whistling was loud enough to awaken me. Frequently, too, the whistling commences between four and five o'clock a. m. This very morning one of the loudest and most protracted whistles I ever heard, sounded at a little before 6.

I am inclined to the opinion that the only effectual way to prevent some of these drivers from perpetrating such a nuisance is to implict a fine upon them for their refusal to comply with the regulations of the authorities. I trust that Councillor Moore will not let the subject drop, but will bring it again before the notice of the Board.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should be always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

REVIEWS.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE.—The quality and quantity of illustrated articles in this popular monthly for August are well kept up. Among those of chief interest in the present number are those on "Round About England," "The Land of the Pharaohs," "Landmarks of History," and an ably written paper by the Rev. R. Walter Wright, on "The Life of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow," with fine portrait. The first of these is devoted entirely to walks about London. The graphic pictures and vivid descriptions enable one to realize very accurately the various aspects of the world's metropolis. The other articles are of much interest. The engravings are of a very high order of artistic merit; the literary quality is of no less value. We would call special attention to a thoughtful, scholarly and eloquent paper on "Christianity and Other Faiths," by Rev. Prof. Wallace, of Victoria University, formerly of Peterborough. It is a most instructive and broad-minded study of comparative religion. There is also a most interesting paper on "The Triumphs of the Cross on Historic Grounds," by the Rev. F. W. Moore. The usual amount of lighter articles is furnished; also a vigorous paper on "After the Scott Act—What?" Toronto: William Briggs.

"Iget your idea," said Mr. Balltop to his wife "Your reasoning is quite correct. Your experience is a safe guide. Quite so, decidedly so. You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. I'll attend to it after Canton drill, this afternoon."

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

It was a relief to Mona to be alone, but it oppressed her to be within doors. She got her hat, and threw a plaid round her shoulders, intending to commune with her own heart in the fresh, sweet air.

"I must put away this deplorable weakness. Where is my pride, that I cannot resist this overwhelming tenderness for a man who does not care about me?"

"If the gentlemen return and ask for me, Jessie," she said to the housemaid, who was doing some extra dusting in the hall, "I shall be by the wood, at the big oak-tree seat."

"Here's ane coming, mem," said the girl, and Lisle came up the steps as she spoke.

"Going to walk," said the man cheerfully; "may I come, too?"

"Will you not have some luncheon first?"

"No, thank you; I had luncheon early with Finlstoun, who dropped me near this on his way to Balmufr. It is quite spring-like after the storm last night. It kept you awake I suspect. Your eyes—those load-stone eyes of yours—droop."

"I did not sleep much certainly. Then, if you will not have any luncheon, we will go to my favorite point of view, and look at the sea; it will be very fine to-day."

"By all means!"

They walked on in silence for some little way, and then Lisle exclaimed—

"I never was so amazed in my life as when I saw Waring with you! It seemed as if he was to be your fate! What possessed him to come here to singe his wings again, poor devil?"

"Your compassion is wasted," said Mona, a slight smile curling her haughty mouth. "Mr. Waring is much improved, and seems quite fire-proof."

"If he is, why he deserves to be called, in your uncle's parlance, 'a varra remarkable person.'"

"Pray leave my uncle alone," said Mona, smiling in spite of herself.

"Very well. Where is everyone. Are you all alone?"

"Yes, just at present. Kenneth and Mr. Waring have gone to the fisher village, my uncle and Mary to the town."

"Then the fates are at last propitious!" cried Lisle. "I have been singularly unlucky as regards yourself of late. Now pray sit down," (they had reached the rustic bench) "and hear me. You have slipped from my grasp over and over again; you must hear me to-day."

Mona cast a troubled look around, and then suddenly took courage, resolving to make an end of the matter.

"Yes," she said, nervously, and somewhat louder than usual, "I will hear you, Sir, St. John."

She sat down, and he placed himself beside her.

"Of course you know what I am going to say. You know—you must know—that I loved you from the first hour we met, and that although in justice to you I made the unselfish effort to recommend your marrying Waring, when poor Mrs. Newburgh met with such losses, I do not suppose you can form an idea of what it cost me to make such a sacrifice!"

"I am sorry to have caused you pain," said Mona, in a low, clear tone. "I am sure your advice was disinterested."

"It was indeed. I confess I was surprised at the worldly tact with which you adopted my suggestion."

"I was carefully brought up in a good school," said Mona, demurely.

"No school on earth could have given you the indescribable charm nature has bestowed!" cried Lisle, passionately. "I never loved any woman as I love you! Mona, do hear me! Cast away this cold sweetness, that is enough to madden any man. Give me your love, give me a right to it!" He seized and kissed her hand, which she withdrew. "There was a time when your hand trembled in mine, and—"

"My nerves are much steadier now," she said, calmly. "It is treachery to let you say more, when I have nothing to give in return, and it pains me infinitely to pain you, but I cannot be your wife."

"Then there is some infernal mystery at the bottom of it. First you throw Waring over in the most unaccountable manner; now you reject me! You prefer the awful seclusion of this wild place, the society of these uneducated plowmen, to the world my wife could command? Mona, you cannot be indifferent to such passionate love as mine, unless you love someone else."

"That does not follow," she returned, uneasily, and very anxious to get rid of him.

"Who is it?" persisted Lisle, who was raging with mortification and disappointment. "Can it be that the hero of the rejected addresses has found favor in your eyes after all?—a great overgrown schoolboy, who is weak enough to let himself be robbed and plundered by professed gamesters and designing promoters, and then skulks off to hide himself in the wilds of California, like other defeated desperadoes. Your first instinct was right, when you rejected a man who was unfit to be your protector."

"Stop!" cried Mona, moved by a sudden generous impulse to do justice to the man she loved. "Your judgment was right. My instinct, if it was instinct, was wrong. Mr. Waring deserved my love, and he has it! You are again right, you see. He has shaken off the early feeling which made him so eager to throw himself between me and the ruggedness of poverty, and I have learned to know him when it is too late! Your confession deserves confidence on my part. I feel I can trust my secret to the loyalty of a gentleman; and though I am not the woman to throw myself at the feet of one who is indifferent to me, as Leslie Waring is now, I am not ashamed to own that he has my gratitude, my respect, my heart, and in it there is no room for another."

The tone in which she uttered these words, the indescribable dignity and tenderness of her air, of the slight gesture of the hand with which she emphasized her speech—touched and silenced Lisle.

"You are an extraordinary girl," he said at length; "and if Waring does not love you (I suppose you must know), it seems incredible. Well, if he does not, I do not despair. You are worth winning. I will not trespass on you any longer; but I will not say good-bye—I shall seek you again when the sea rolls between you and the most unlucky dog I have ever known or heard of. To be loved by you, and not to know it. What irony of fate! For the present—sweetest and most provoking of women—farewell."

CHAPTER XXVII.—"THE LAST STATE OF THAT MAN."

"I dinna ken what's come to ye," said Uncle Sandy, in very discontented tones, as he pushed away his plate and held out the tea-cup he had just emptied, to be replenished. "There canna be better or purer air than at Craigdarroch. It's aye west or south; yet there's Mona wi' a bad headache, wantin' her breakfast in her room, an' Mr. Leslie lookin'—nae, but ye look better than ye did yesterday," glancing at him, "only ye dinna eat. What's a bit haddie an' a-mouthfu' o' toast to stay a mon's stomach i' the mornin'?"

"Oh! I am all the better for my ramble with Kenneth yesterday."

"You are well-nigh yoursel' again; but I was feared ye'd be goin' too far when I heard ye hadna come back at tea-time."

"I left Kenneth because he was going further on. I came back by Monkscleugh and the oak-wood. I hope Miss Craig's headache is not very severe."

ANNUAL INCOME OVER	$1,600,000

The continued steady increase of the Company's business NOW EXCEEDING THE AGGREGATE OF ALL THE OTHER CANADIAN COMPANIES, and being more than a fourth of the entire Life Assurance business of the Dominion, its favorable mortality; its moderate expenses, and the high character of its investments, afford good grounds or highly favorable and satisfactory profits to its assurers and EXPLAINS THE CAUSE OF THE UNPARALLELED SUCCESS OF THE COMPANY FOR THE LAST 41 years.
Intending Assurers should, in their own interests, examine the rates and profits of his OLD RELIABLE and Successful Institution, before insuring elsewhere.

BANKERS.—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce
SOLICITORS.—Dumble & Leonard.

TO DEPOSITERS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.
TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.
The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223.69, and on securities of at least double that value.
By the Laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.
TO BORROWERS.—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate Security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest. The Mortgage may be paid by yearly instalments or otherwise, as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amount paid on account of the sum borrowed. Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or any of the Agents.

BRAMPTON, Mar. 28, 1887.
MR. S. PERRIN,
DEAR SIR,—Your cough remedy, PINE TAR CORDIAL, has worked wonders here. It is the only thing that relieved my daughter of a most distressing cough and cold which settled on her lungs. I could sell it for you in this locality; would like to have the agency. Send along one-quarter gross.
Yours, JOHN FRANK.

TURNBULLS'.
New Goods received this week. Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets, Cretonnes, Fringes, Table Oilcloths. Ladies' Belts, Prints, Lawns and Dress Goods.
Among the New Goods that arrived during the week were some Art Muslins, or Peek-a-boo Curtain Nets in fancy colors and beautiful Designs, the correct thing to make a home cosy and attractive, at a small cost. Also a nice assortment of Cretonne Fringes, selling at ten cents a yard, Marble Oilcloths with gold and blue veins in the best qualities. The gold has not been much shown but is particularly desirable Ladies' Belts, a full range in cloth and leather, and to our already attractive stock of Prints we have added some entirely new lines in navy and cream, navy and gold, navy and cardinal and brown and gold in checks, stripes and sprays, White Lawns and all over Embroideries at all prices. Dress Goods. Owing to the large drain on Dress Goods Stock some of the best shades were sold out, but we have been able to repeat them and are now showing a full range again. Value always right. We have also on our Dress Goods counter a range of 25 pieces of All Wool and Bradford Goods which we are selling at 10c. a yard. We are confident that these are the best value being offered at the price.
Just to hand light and dark Seersuckers in desirable patterns, probably one of the newest and most popular goods we are showing for children's wear in navy and cream colored estamine with navy and cream and cream and navy; anchor trimming to match. Mothers should see these goods.

J. C. TURNBULL.

MANITOBA & THE N.P.R.R

THE DETAILS OF THE ARRANGEMENT MADE PUBLIC.

The Government to Guarantee 5 per cent on $6500 per Mile for 25 Years—The Legislature to Meet Aug. 28.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—The details of the deal between the Government and the Northern Pacific are published and pretty much cover the ground already stated. The N.P. agrees to build an extension to Portage this fall and to Brandon next year. The Government agrees to complete the Red River Valley to Assiniboine, and the N.P. furnishes and equips it. A guarantee of five per cent. on $6,500 per mile for 25 years is to be given and as this is above the sum mentioned in the Aid Act the Legislature meets Aug. 28 to pass the necessary legislation. No arrangement is made regarding branch lines. The guarantee of a maximum rate to Duluth on wheat, etc., which was the great bone of contention, has been given by the company.
Work commences at once in the name of the Manitoba Government, but really by the N. P., until the necessary legislation to form a new company is passed. The Government has bought rails for the Portage extension, which will be taken over by the N. P., as will also any other material on hand.
Negotiations were opened for the purchase of the charter of the Great Northwest Central but a clause giving running powers to the C. P. R. caused them to be abruptly broken off. The N. P. has made arrangements by which an independent connection with the Eastern Provinces can be secured over the Grand Trunk, Wisconsin Central and N. P., affording the first named road an entrance into Manitoba.
It is now said that Mr. Dewdney will run for Eastern Assiniboia, Mr. Perley being elevated to the Senate. Two meetings were held at Edmonton, one to endorse and the other to condemn Mr. Dewdney's appointment.
The Kamloops woman who eloped last April with a conductor, died repentant in Michigan after her husband visited and forgave her.
Two hundred and fifty Icelanders arrived to-day.

FLEECED BY SHARPERS.

The Bogus Check Racket Played on an Illinoisan at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—A Scotchman named John McLennan, resident in Douglas County, Ill., returning home from attending the deathbed of his aged father at St. Remi, was accosted at Bonaventure Station to-day by a stranger, who, after taking a glass of beer with him, invited him to go for a walk. They had not gone far when a big rough-looking man ran after them and accosting the stranger charged him with having left his hotel without paying his board bill, and told him that he must not leave town till he had done so. The stranger felt his pockets, protested that he had no cash but that he had a check on the Bank of New Brunswick for $350. He then turned to Mr. McLennan and besought him, as they were both going the same way to advance him $100 and take the check for security. McLennan at once assented, counted out the money and took the check without examining it. The strangers then both disappeared.

Fresh Victims of an Old Swindle.

PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 1.—Edward Edwards, a Canadian passenger on the Grand Trunk Railway bound for Denver, this morning fell into the hands of a grey-haired confidence man who got $75 out of him on the freight bill dodge. A companion named Christian Walper was also swindled out of $15. Both men are left destitute.

A BIG BLAZE NEAR OTTAWA.

Skead's Mill and 15,000,000 Feet of Lumber Burnt—Loss $250,000.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—About 2.30 this afternoon fire started in Skead's mill, about four miles from the city, and burnt with great rapidity owing to the high wind which was blowing at the time. The mill was quickly consumed and then the flames spread to the immense piling grounds where fully 15,000,000 feet of lumber was piled up, the whole of which was destroyed together with a large quantity of slabs, edging and cordwood. The fire raged fiercely for about five hours.
The loss is estimated at $250,000, insurance $80,000 on mill, $50,000 on lumber, pretty well scattered amongst all the companies doing business in Canada. The mill was built many years ago by the late Senator Skead at a cost of nearly $100,000. It was bought a few years ago by E. B. Eddy for $45,000 and was being run by the Eddy Manufacturing Company.
The fire was one of the greatest ever seen in Ottawa, the space burnt being over two miles in circumference.

Incendiary Fire at Palmerston.

PALMERSTON, Aug. 1.—At 11.40 last night a fire was discovered in the rear of what is known as the Oddfellows' block, owned by H. McEwing, and occupied by Lewis Knott & Son, hardware merchants, the hall above being used by the I. O. O. F. and R. T. of T. lodges. The G. T. R. and town fire brigades were quickly at the scene of the fire and set to work with a will, and, with the assistance of the hook and ladder company, succeeded in confining the flames to the one block. Knott & Son's loss on the stock by fire and water is between $5,000 and $6,000; insured for $4,000. Their loss on the building is about $300; covered by insurance. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary, as it was started in precisely the same part of the building as the one which originated in Lynch's hardware store some three weeks ago, both fires being discovered in the rear where the coal oil and varnish was stored.

LATE LONDON CHRONICLES

THE BITTER FEUD BETWEEN PARNELL AND CHAMBERLAIN.

The Irish Leader's Brief but Sensational Speech—The Debate on the Commission Bill Resumed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—The Times' London special says: "The feud between Parnell and Chamberlain is the sensation of the hour. No man on the Conservative side is hated with anything like the bitterness with which Irishmen look upon Chamberlain. This is due partly to his political character, the member for Birmingham being most unscrupulous in his political warfare, and partly to the feeling that Chamberlain, who was formerly an extremist of the Radicals, has tricked and betrayed them. They know, as everybody else knows, that the foundation stone upon which the Liberal-Unionist party rests is keeping Gladstone out of the premiership, and that, whatever may be the feeling of his followers, Chamberlain is fighting Home Rule from purely personal motives. Ever since the discussion of the Parnell Bill begun, dormant dislikes and sleeping hatreds have been more and more plainly manifested in the House. The debate has been characterized by an unrestrained acrimony that has passed all bounds.
Chamberlain arose in some anger last evening after the two preceding speakers—Mr. Reid and Sir George Trevelyan—had maliciously quoted his own words in support of a motion then before the House to restrict the scope of the commission. He was brilliantly bitter on Sir George, but failed to answer Mr. Reid's thrusts. He could not deny his own words, but he talked generally for some time against the motion and sat down.
Then Mr. Parnell arose at 11.55 o'clock and put more sensational language into the five minutes that remained than has been heard in Parliament for years. Taking Chamberlain's change of front as a basis, he charged him with political cowardice and generally with selfish treachery to his colleagues. He finished by saying:—"And after he became Minister my principal recollection of him is that he was always most anxious to betray to us the secrets and counsels of his colleagues in the Cabinet, and to endeavor while sitting by the side of those colleagues and while in consultation with them, to undermine their councils and their plans in his own favor. If this inquiry be extended into these matters, and I see no reason why it should not, I shall be able to make good my words by documentary evidence which is not forged."
In the sensation which his speech caused, it was remarked that Gladstone stared at Chamberlain in rapt astonishment, and the light in which Parnell's charge put the ex-Premier's trusted Cabinet Councillor was an ugly one to say the least.

A HOT DEBATE.

More Talk in the House Over the Parnell Commission.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—On the resumption of the debate in the House of Commons today on the Parnell Commission Bill Mr. Balfour said that the speech of Home. Sec. Matthews last night, in which he said the judges already had the power to select such of the charges as they deemed worthy of an inquiry contained what the Government had all along stated.
Sir Lyon Playfair (Lib.) contended that Mr. Matthews had extended the scope of the bill to an enormous extent. Mr. Matthews now said the inquiry was into an organization which induced crime, whereas the House had been led to believe that the bill was intended to enable certain members to clear their character.
Mr. Bradlaugh declared that Mr. Matthews had made out an absolutely new case.
Mr. Chamberlain repeated his statement that he would have been glad if the range of the proposed inquiry had been limited, but he said he had never suggested a limit regarding persons.
Mr. Gladstone said the Government's covenant had been entirely and absolutely changed.
Mr. Balfour said that Mr. Gladstone on the eve of an inquiry had pronounced the letters forgeries.
Mr. Gladstone: "I said I was justified in concluding that there was a motive for the remarkable way in which the letters were thrown into the shade."
Mr. Balfour said that Mr. Gladstone's remarks were most improper.
Mr. Reid offered an amendment that the commission enquire into the charges only so far as they bear upon charges and allegations against members of the House. In support of his amendment Mr. Reid said that Mr. Smith claimed the inclusion of outside persons in the inquiry was irrelevant. Mr. Smith's friend, Mr. Walter, had not insisted that other than members be included until he visited Mr. Smith, when he saw that the only chance of escaping disgrace and averting the ruin of The Times was to get a roving inquiry regarding persons over whom members had no control.
Mr. Matthews said the inquiry was not into the conduct of members but into their capacity as members of an outside organization. Mr. O'Donnell in a published letter had said that Frank Byrne was only the agent of guiltier and wickeder persons.
Mr. T. P. O'Connor: "Does the gentleman insinuate that O'Donnell meant us?" [Cries of "Order" and "Hear."]
The Speaker called Mr. O'Connor to order.
Mr. Mathews said his remark conveyed an intimitation against no one.
Sir. Wm. Harcourt said the Opposition was at last beginning to detect the real meaning of the bill. The object was not to give the Parnellites a chance to clear themselves but to inquire into a political organization.
Mr. Healey said he believed the changes in the bill were the result of Mr. Walter's visit to Mr. Smith.
Mr. Balfour admitted that the Cabinet at its meeting on July 11 had decided to include the words "and others." If Mr. Smith, in announcing to the House the reference of the matter to a commission, did not read those words it was doubtless due to inadvertence.
Mr. Gladstone thought the omission of the words when Mr. Smith announced the commission deserved the censure of the House.
An animated debate was continued for some time when the chairman interposed and advised a cessation of recriminations.
The amendment was rejected, 241 to 194.
Mr. Goschen said that Mr. Smith was absent owing to a domestic affliction. If the bill were not passed to-morrow evening he would remove the remainder of the clause.
The Parnellites will meet to-morrow to take action in the matter of the remaining clauses.

A large number of men with the necessary utensils and machinery arrived at the farm of the late Mr. Mandeville yesterday morning and proceeded to gather and house the crops. Hundreds of persons cheered them from the highway.

Drowned While Bathing.

INGERSOLL, Aug. 1.—While Benjamin Cable aged 14, son of Night Policeman Cable, was bathing with a number of others in King's mill-pond last night, he was seized with cramps and sank in about 20 feet of water. Those on the spot dived but could not find him. The body was recovered in two hours.

NOT FAR FROM SHEOL.

How a German Scientist is Frightening the People of Findlay, O.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 1.—Dr. Ernst Weissenbacher, professor of geology in Heidelberg University, has arrived here after making a visit of scientific inspection to the natural gas well at Findlay, O. The professor says that about 1200 feet below the city of Findlay lies an immense cavern several miles long and in some places more than half-a-mile deep. This is crowded full of gas which is under a pressure almost inconceivable. Then come several strata of rock, perhaps a mile in thickness, and then the great internal fire.
The last of the layers which lies directly over the fires is melting away. About ten miles from Findlay on either side it is of great thickness, but as it nears the town it grows thinner, the furnace beneath disintegrating and ever lessening the barrier. From the tremendous cracking which is to be heard by the sound instrument it is almost certain that disintegration is going on with great rapidity, and the professor seems to think that an early catastrophe is not only possible, but probable.

A SUICIDAL EPIDEMIC.

An Unsuccessful Attempt at Montreal—Two Self-Murders at Buffalo.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—Kate Slicer, aged 22, a poor orphan without work, was brought before the Recorder to-day charged with attempting her life. She was arrested last night when acting strangely, but while in the cells during the night the girl took off her shoes and one stocking and fastened the latter tightly around her neck. The constable on duty took no notice of a slight noise until he was startled by a heavy thump on the floor. He then had the cell opened when the girl was discovered strangling, her tongue protruding and she lying prostrate. The stocking was at once unwound and the girl recovered. Both stockings were taken away, but ten minutes later the girl made a similar attempt with a lace that she had in her possession. She was remanded for eight days.

By Different Routes.

BUFFALO, Aug. 1.—Edward Gavin, a keeper in the Erie County Penitentiary, committed suicide about 7 o'clock this morning by shooting himself in the heart. Gavin was 33 years of age and had lived in Buffalo all his life. His wife states that they had always lived happily together and that she knew of no cause for the rash deed. The coroner was summoned, but decided not to hold an inquest.
Joseph Loamer, of 115 Jefferson-street, suffered from a very severe attack of typhoid fever recently and his mind was said to be deranged after his recovery. Yesterday afternoon he was found hanging by a rope to a rafter in the attic. Life was extinct. He was 41 years old and leaves a widow and four young children.

THE CROPS.

THE harvest is always a subject of interest to everyone—to the farmer, who looks to the fields for the fruits of his labor, and to the business men because upon the yield the agriculturist receives the activity of business largely depends. For this reason late last week the REVIEW sent out a number of circulars with a view to learning the facts regarding this year's harvest. The questions were sent to men engaged in the work of farming, because reports from those who are cutting and harvesting the grain would be accurate and trustworthy.

A large number of replies have been received and published and they are no doubt interesting. The tenor of the reports—without attempting to give a digest—is that, almost without exception, the yield of fall wheat is good, and the exceptions are counterbalanced by a few sections in which it is an extra good crop. Spring wheat, also, is a fair crop almost throughout the county. But after these two classes of grain are counted, the reports are not cheering. Barley, in a few sections, is an average crop, but on the whole is light, while there is a depressing sameness in the reports regarding peas and oats, which are not good crops this year. The prospects are, also, that potatoes and other roots will be short, while hay will be scarce and other fodder not plentiful. The short and light straw will tell on the fodder supply. There is yet a chance that the root crop will improve if rain should come.

We remember hearing a veteran farmer from Smith, in a speech last winter, in a meeting at which the previous poor harvest had been referred to, saying that the people had much to be thankful for, because, though the harvest had not been a good one, there was plenty for all to eat and no fear of a famine. Those who take this philosophical view of the matter can have the same comfort this year, and a little more. The reports indicate that, though the harvest is most unfortunately a poor one, and the farmers will not be ill-rewarded for their labor, it is in advance of last year's. One gentleman, who, too, has long been a resident of the county, reports from his district that the harvest is poorer than any he has a recollection of, but in other sections there is an improvement on last year.

An epitome of the reports would not be as satisfactory for the reader as reading each report for himself, and we therefor will not further try to summarize them. We desire to return the thanks of the REVIEW to those who so kindly furnished us with the information asked for, a service which will be appreciated by our readers as well as ourselves.

THE CROPS.

Further Reports from Different Parts of the County.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

BAILIEBORO, July 28.

Fall wheat, fairly good yield, about 20 to 25 bushels per acre. Spring wheat, very good yield, from 15 to 20 bushels per acre. Oats, not so good as might be, but better than worse. Peas, not much good; hardly worth pulling. Rye, none grown. Hay is very good for those who had any meadows. Potatoes will, I think, be a fair crop. Other roots present a very good appearance at present. Fruit, nothing extra; the wind blew a lot off. Rain is necessary for a good crop, and as we have had very little, the crops are only middling.

ASPHODEL.

NORWOOD, July 31.

Fall wheat, good; will average 20 or 22 bushels per acre. Spring wheat, light, not more than 10 to 12 bushels. Barley, medium, may run 16 to 20 bushels. Oats, generally light; 20 to 25 bushels. Peas, early sown, light; late, better; below the average. Rye, below the average. Hay, very light; one third less than last year. Potatoes with rain might be an average crop. For turnips the prospects are good. Fruit, light and small. On the whole the crops are light and feed will be scarce.

BELMONT.

BLAIRTON, July 31.

Fall wheat, good yield and good quality. Spring wheat, very short crop. Barley, small crop. Oats, very poor. Potatoes, good if we have fall rains. Other roots uncertain, not good. Fruit—apples are a fair crop, but there is little small fruit. Crops to the north are a good deal better than in this neighborhood.

BELMONT, July 31.

Fall wheat, extra. Spring wheat, middling. Barley, light. Oats, light. Peas, very light. Rye, middling. Hay, about half a crop. Potatoes, an average crop. Other roots, fair. Fruit, scarce. The weather has been dry; only a few local showers. The prospects are rather better than last year.

Camping Parties.

A few more left for the camps this morning. Mr. E. H. D. Hall left for Stoney Lake for a short outing. As this was the regular weekly excursion day a number went up to Stoney Lake to spend the day and several more who came from a distance will spend a few weeks around the lakes.

Progressing Rapidly.

Several new buildings which have been under construction for some time, are being finished now with great rapidity. The new block on Water-st, south of Charlotte, will soon be in the hands of the plasterers and also the block next the post office. Snowdon's new hotel is going up rapidly, Halpin's block on Hunter-st. and several others are now in the hands of the bricklayers and the work will be pushed.

The tonic and alternative properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla are too well known to require the specious aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of the marvelous cures effected by this preparation are to-day living in every city and hamlet of the land.

THE NEW MINISTERS.

POSTMASTER-GEN. HAGGART TO BE SWORN AT ONCE.

Mr. Dewdney to Contest East Assiniboia—Mr. Perley Called to the Senate—Meeting of the Military Board.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—Hon. John Graham Haggart, the new Postmaster-General, will go to Quebec immediately to be sworn in. Hon. Edgar Dewdney, the new Minister of the Interior, is still in the Northwest and may not come east to be swarn in until after his election. It is understood that he will run for East Assiniboia in place of Mr. Perley.

The appointment of Mr. Hayter Reed as Indian Commissioner in the Northwest will probably appear in next Saturday's Gazette.

The Postoffice Department has arranged to resume the steam mail service between Victoria, B.C. and San Francisco, in accordance with the terms of the postal union.

Lieut.-Col. Maunsell, D.A.G., commandant of the Fredericton Military School, has telegraphed the Militia Debartment offering the services of the school for Skeena River and also offering to raise a provincial battalion for the same service. There is not the slightest chance of need of such assistance.

The Marine Department is advised that the new steamer now building at Glasgow for the winter service between Prince Edward Island and the mainland will be completed in November. The vessel will perform the ferry service.

The military board, consisting of Lieut.-Col. Straubenzie, Lieut.-Col. Lewes and Capt. Gourdeau, met at the Russell this morning and enquired into the claim of Sergt. Hurrell, late of the Ninetieth Battalion, for compensation for disease contracted while in active service in 1885. The militia regulars have laid down certain rules under which compensation is to be granted if the claim is a good one. The recommendation, which is understood to be favorable, will have to be sanctioned by an order-in-council.

The Postoffice Department has issued an elegant postal map of New Brunswick. The map of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island is now in the printers' hands and maps of the other provinces will follow.

It is understood that the vacant office of Brigade Major of the Sixth Military District at Montreal, which Chief Hughes of the Montreal police used to occupy, will not be filled on the ground that the office is an unnecessary one.

THAT DUNDAS ELOPEMENT.

The Male Participator Fined $10—An Old Man Sunstruck at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Aug. 1.—An old man named Hutton was sunstruck at the crystal palace this morning.

The body of the young man Walter Lawrence, who was drowned off the yacht Volunteer, was found to-day.

After hearing the evidence in the elopement case at Dundas yesterday afternoon, the prisoner, Holly, was fined $10 or 30 days in jail. The girl was very penitent, and on promising to lead a better life she was taken back to the house by the matron. Holly's young wife was left by him totally unprovided for, and with hardly any food in the house. She is very young and has a small child.

Dr. Ryall, medical health officer, has issued a circular announcing to the city milkmen that he will now cancel the licenses of all dealers whose milk does not show 3½ per cent. of fat, and will prosecute dealers whose milk is adulterated.

Judgement was reserved by the Police Magistrate this morning in the test case brought to determine the right of farmers to allow their wagons to stand in the streets in the vicinity of the markets.

THE JESUITS AND LAVAL.

The Latest Feature in Connection with the Fight for the $400,000.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The fight between the Jesuits and Laval University over the possession of the famous $400,000 voted at the last session of the Legislature as compensation for the former's estates is progressing with marked intensity. The latest feature in connection with this matter, is a new petition to the Pope, similar to the one already forwarded by a large number of the members of the Local House, asking His Holiness that the lion's share be given to Laval. This new petition is being signed by Roman Catholic judges of the district and province and it is claimed by the promoters that they have all signed, Chief Justice Sir A. A. Dorion at their head.

It is rumored in connection with the University dispute that efforts will be made at Rome to have the decision of the Pope ordering all Catholics to patronize and favor Laval rescinded, so that those in favor of an independent university for Montreal may have full liberty to argue the whole question on its merits.

BOTH WENT OVERBOARD

Capt. Irving of the Spartan and a Drunken Indian Take an Involuntary Bath.

KINGSTON, Aug. 1.—This morning as the steamer Spartan was about leaving Swift's dock a drunken Indian named Louis attempted to board her over the gangway rail. Captain Irving who was there at the time took hold of the Indian and attempted to keep him back. Louis fell between the boat and the wharf and as he hung on to the captain both went overboard. The wheel of the steamer had made just one turn when the accident happened so that the men received quite a hustling in the eddy. Both were rescued.

It is said that over fifty desertions have occurred from A Battery since the beginning of the year.

It is understood that Rev. J. W. Sparling, B.D., of this city will accept the presidency of Wesley College, Winnipeg.

EMANCIPATION DAY.

The Demonstration at Hamilton a Great Success—A Fine Parade.

HAMILTON, Aug. 11.—Fifty-four years ago to-day was the date fixed for the emancipation of slaves in the British West India Islands. The bill was introduced in Parliament by Earl Derby, the father of Lord Stanley of Preston, the present Governor-General of Canada, and though the cost of that excellent act came high, $100,000,000, it came cheaper in the long run than the American mode adopted some years later. Ever since that time the colored people have celebrated the anniversary, and in this country they are usually assisted by their friends across the border.

The demonstration here to-day was under the auspices of Mount Brydges Lodge, G.U.O.O.F., and was participated in by a throng of visitors from Toronto, London, Windsor, Chatham, Cleveland, Buffalo and other cities and towns on both sides the line. An immense crowd of citizens turned out to witness the parade, which was one of the liveliest, most gorgeous and most musical ever held in the city. The route of march was about five miles. The procession reached the crystal palace about 2 o'clock, and the afternoon program began. It consisted of a band competition, games and a ball match. At night there was a concert and dance in the palace rink.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. No trouble to show Goods. It will pay you to look through our Immense stock. We will give you a Pointer or two worth dollars to you. We have still a few pairs of those Cheap Pants left, everybody is talking about them.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Light to moderate variable winds. Fine weather, not much change in temperature.

Never Mind the Weather.

Nature evens things up nicely. While the thermometer stands high and exertion becomes somewhat laborious, man or woman kind can coolly walk to fair's and buy prints, parasols, summer dress goods and all lines, including camping blankets, at frigid prices.

Sunday in the Park.

The following letter has been received by the Chief Constable. It speaks for itself:—

PETERBOROUGH, Aug. 1st, 1888.

To the Chief of Police, Peterborough:

At a recent meeting of the Peterborough and Auburnham Horticultural Society, it was resolved that no meetings of any kind or musical entertainments be permitted to be held on Sunday in the Court House Park. Please see and assist the Society in carrying this out.

J. H. ROPER, President,
JAMES STEVENSON, Vice-President.

Lacrosse Notes.

At a meeting of the Judiciary Committee of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association at Toronto on Wednesday, James, of the Shelburnes, was expelled for playing with more than one club. James played here.

The President, at the same meeting, named August 29th as the date for the postponed Peterborough and Bradford match of July 12th.

The Riversides and Y. M. C. A. clubs have a practice match to-night.

The Riverside Lacrosse Club met last night. Not much business was transacted, but they took some steps towards making arrangements for a match with the Ontario's on the 13th.

Good Wishes.

At the last regular meeting of the Royal Templars of Temperance the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—"We the members of Peterborough Council No. 97, sincerely regret the removal of Sister Jessie K. Munroe, who next week will leave us to take up work as mission teacher in the far off land of Japan. While Sister Munroe's connection with us practically ceases, we trust that the same zeal which characterized her labor in the interests of the Council and among the children of the Band, may find fuller scope in the new sphere to which duty is calling her. We unite in best wishes for a safe and pleasant journey, and in prayer that abundant success may crown her work."

Farewell Service.

Previous to the service in the barracks last evening the Salvation Army marched down George-st. and held an open air meeting on the market square. There was a very large attendance and the army turned out in full force. After the open air they marched to the barracks, where Captain Woodgate and Lieutenant Stalliker gave their farewell addresses. Both spoke for some length of time and thanked the people of this town for their kind assistance in a good cause. The Captain goes to Guelph and the Lieut. to Lindsay under Captain Cook from Kingston. There has been a general change of officers throughout Canada. The new officers who will have charge of this station will arrive to-day and a grand welcome service will be held in the barracks this evening.

The remedy which most successfully combats malarial disorders, is Ayer's Ague Cure. It is a purely vegetable compound, and contains neither quinine nor any other dangerous ingredient. Warranted to cure chills and fever.

Drowned in the River.

The body of the lad Walter Johnston, son of Mr. James Johnston, was found in the river on Wednesday evening at about 9 o'clock. The boy, who was seven years old had been missing from Tuesday at noon, and as it was feared that he had been drowned search was kept up in the water for him. On Tuesday evening the water was lowered and again on Wednesday evening the stop logs at Hazlitt's dam were taken out. Thus aided the body was found under a boom, near Goose Island, by a brother of the lad. There was a cut on his face, probably made by an implement used by the searching party. The boy had evidently gone out on the logs, which are in the river at the back of his home, to play and fallen in. The funeral took place this afternoon. The parents have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

Royal Templar's Notice.

There will be no meeting of Peterborough Council No. 97 on Monday next, Aug. 6th. All the members are requested to attend the valedictory for Miss Monro, held in the George-st. Methodist church that evening.

Doing Business.

An iron casting weighing 3,500 lbs. was turned out at Peter Hamilton's works yesterday. It was the frame of a machine used in bridge works for bending iron. There were about three tons of iron converted into castings at that establishment yesterday.

Farmers Want Help.

Several farmers were in town yesterday looking for men to work in the harvest field. There seems to be a scarcity of help in the country and farmers find it difficult to get men. Under such circumstances there should be no idle men around here.

Missionary Spirit.

The International Royal Templar says:—"Rev. S. J. Thompson, of Peterborough Council (of Royal Templars), Ont., has gone to British Columbia as a missionary, and Miss Jessie K. Monro, of the same Council, a P. C., is going as a mission teacher to Japan. The missionary spirit has made itself felt in Peterborough Council."

Wanted at Lindsay.

John Powers, a young man who got off at the Police Court the other day, on the ground that he was not drunk, but was suffering from a fit, was arrested at Mr. Jos. Redmond's this morning, by Chief Rozel, on informations from Lindsay, where he is wanted for the larceny of a watch. Chief Bell came down on the noon train and took his bird back with him.

Festival Thursday Evening.

Remember the Fruit Festival in the grounds of the George-st. Methodist church, on Thursday evening, Aug. 2. Refreshments, consisting of berries, iced cream, cake, etc., will be served in the lecture rooms. The Band will play in the grounds. Admission to grounds 10cts. Refreshments extra. 2d26

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

The Schools.

The Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Education has made a demand on the Town Council for the sum of $11,500, divided as follows:—Public schools $7,240, Collegiate Institute $4,260. In addition to the above $1600 will have to be raised this year to purchase the lot for the new school in the Fourth Ward and $4,000 for repairs to the Collegiate Institute will have to be placed on the roll of 1889.

Ready For Trade.

With better facilities than ever we will open out in our new store. Hampered for room at the old stand this difficulty has been removed. The new store is on the direct line of trade. It is handsome and well lighted. There is ample room for keeping and displaying stock. We shall give increased attention to millinery and at greater convenience to ourselves. Customers will find us fully ready for business. A well arranged moving such as ours has been, does not put things out of joint at all. New goods brought in to replace well sold lines, new goods that are in demand; prices right and always right. Remember the new stand—Alexander's old stand, George-st. H. S. GRIFFIN & Co.

Personal.

Rev. P. Clifton Parker arrived home yesterday afternoon, having been on a trip to the Atlantic sea coast.

Mr. M. Tierney arrived home this morning. He has been spending a short time around the Thousand Islands and in Rochester. He reports having had a pleasant trip.

Mr. H. Davidson, of Smith, attended a meeting of the Grange Trust Insurance Company at Port Hope on Wednesday.

Mr. J. E. Flewwelling, editor of the Belleville Ontario, will sever his connection with that paper in a few weeks, to take a position as assistant manager and editor of the Canadian Lumberman, Peterborough.

Mrs. Jas. Stewart leaves to-day for Rochester to meet Mr. Stewart on his return from Scotland.

Mr. V. Halliday, son of Dr. Halliday, who studied at the Collegiate Institute, has passed the examination for matriculation in Arts at the Toronto University.

Mr. M. J. O'Leary, who has resided is Peterborough for some time, left this morning for Toronto.

Mr. Robt. Sylvestr, of the firm of Sylvester Bros., Lindsay, was in Town yesterday on business.

BOOM AT THE BRIDGE WORKS.

A New Building, Additions to the Machinery and a Large Contract.

Mr. W. H. Law, of the Central Iron and Bridge Works, has returned from Montreal, where he has taken a large contract from the Canadian Pacific Railway. The contract is for roofing the train shed for the new Windsor depot in that city. The span of the work is 91 feet and 500 feet in length. It will require trusses, purlines, etc., of steel and will be covered with slates and glass. The weight of the steel in the structure will be 200 tons. This contract will give a large amount of work at the works here and the staff of men will be largely increased.

Business at the Central Works is growing to such an extent that Mr. Law finds that he requires more room. A new building will be put up at once. It will be 90x30 feet and will be situated on the east side of the works, near the railway siding. This building will be used as an erecting shop, in which the work will be set up ready to be placed on the cars.

Considerable additions are being made to the machinery in the works. A large air compressor, manufactured in Brooklyn, N. Y., has been put in. Portable riveters are used in the shops and air from the compressor will be conveyed in pipes, so that riveting can be done in any part of the building or yards, which will be a convenience and facilitated the work greatly. A new machine for making rivets and bolts, made by the National Manufacturing Co., of Tiffin, Ohio, has also been added, and hereafter Mr. Law will make the bolts and rivets used in his works and will also add the manufacture of these articles for the public to his business. The same firm is also making a punching machine for Mr. Law, and a large and very powerful machine for bending, straightening and upsetting iron will be add to the plant in a short time.

In addition to this, an automatic saw sharpener is being built at the works, for sharpening the saws used in cutting the iron. The additions to the machinery necessitates other additions, and 100 feet of extra blast pipes will be put in, and also more elevated tracks and shafting. Pipes will be laid all around the works in which to convey the compressed air to the different parts of the building.

When these improvements are completed the Central Works will be well equipped for turning out work rapidly. The cost of the additional machinery and improvements will be upwards of $6,000.

Things will be lively at the shops this fall and winter, as with the contracts on hand and the work in view the prospects are that they will have all the work they can handle. The material to be used in the Montreal contract is expected in a few weeks, and the staff in the shops will then be doubled and for a few months the hum of the machinery will be heard night and day. Besides the men who will be employed in the shops, about 40 or 50 men will be required on the work at Montreal.

On Wednesday two car loads of bridge material were shiped from the works to Wingham.

A LITTLE CHILD SHOT.

A Sad Accident in Ennismore, by which a Child Lost its Life.

A very sad accident happened in Ennismore at about five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, by which a little daughter of Mr. John Scollard lost her life. A brother of the child, Mr. P. Scollard, the postmaster at Ennismore, hearing of several burglaries lately, and especially of the one at King's Wharf, Emily, borrowed a revolver. The weapon was always left unloaded until on Tuesday night when, through a lamp being about to explode and being blown out hurriedly, the revolver was not put away. Mr. Scollard intending to do so in the morning. Next morning, after attending to the mail, Mr. Scollard went to his father's place, about a mile from the Cross, to help him. Two of his sisters, Lizzie, aged about 11, and Maggie, about 7 years old, while playing about the house found the revolver. As they were handling it a cartridge was exploded while it was in Lizzie's hands and the bullet struck the smaller child on the head, penetrating her forehead. The report was heard and assistance at once came. Messengers were sent for Father Keilty and for a physician. Dr. Kincaid and Dr. Bell were at Bridgenorth and were met by the messenger, and in about half an hour after the accident they arrived. They were, however, unable to save the life of the little sufferer, though they gave her relief, and she lingered until about ten o'clock, when her life passed away. The funeral took place at four o'clock this afternoon.

The child was a very bright and winning one and was a general favorite. For this reason, and the esteem in which the family is held, the accident caused a great deal of excitement, and the father and family have the sincere sympathy of the whole community.

Medical.

Dr. Goldsmith, of Campbellford, who has just returned from Europe after taking a special course there, has decided to locate in Peterborough and has purchased the residence of Mr. J. B. McWilliams, on Brock-st., and will take possession on the 25th August. Dr. Goldsmith has been in practice over 20 years, in the county of Northumberland, and was a successful practitioner as well as a highly esteemed resident of Campbellford.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Crescent-st. Cribbing

In order to facilitate the work of cribbing Crescent-st., Mr. R. B. Rogers, the Superintending Engineer, has given instructions to have the water lowered at the locks as much as it can be done without interfering with navigation. By this means the water will be kept a couple of feet lower during the day time and the work will be pushed forward.

Brevities.

—A good many are complaining of the hot weather.

—The air was quite thick with smoke last night, probably bush fires.

—A party from Belleville was among the northern pilgrims this morning.

—The Salvation Army held a farewell tea on Tuesday night. About 200 were present.

—Excursion day on the northern lake route is appreciated, judging by the number that went up this morning.

—Capt. Howell, of London, and Cadet Hewitt, of Lakefield, are the new Salvation Army Officers at this station.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pentland will go north on Saturday morning to join the Wee-mis-ki-too-sea-wa-sis camping party.

—There is a fire in Mrs. J. Dixon's woods, at the quarry, and this afternoon there were fears that it would spread to the buildings.

—The Grand Trunk station at Cobourg was robber of $26 on Tuesday evening at the time the night and day clerks were changing. A tramp is suspected.

—The body of Paul Guerin, a young man who formerly lived here, was brought home for burial this morning from Rochester, N. Y., where he died of consumption.

—The regular monthly match of the Peterborough Rifle Association will take place on the Otonabee rifle range at half past five o'clock this evening.

—The street numbering plans may be seen at the town clerk's office. They are three in number, one each for the first and fourth wards and one for the second and third wards.

—Dr. Goldsmith, of Campbellford, who is coming to reside in Peterborough, has purchased the residence of Mr. J. B. McWilliams on Brock-st. The price paid, $7,000, is an indication of the value of property in town.

—Our Lakefield correspondent tells a fish story that bangs Baumagar entirely. A fisherman captured a lunge and took to land to haul him in. The water in the lake, it is said, sank two feet when the fish was hauled out the steamer Cruiser ran aground while the Mary Ellen was left high and dry. A deputation waited on the fisherman and the fish was thrown into the lake, improving navigation so that the boat got off. Phew!

—A returned canoeist from the A.C.A. camp stood off the accusation that the Peterborough Canoe Clubs we poorly represented with the reply that Peterborough was away ahead in tents and instanced the fine tents supplied by Turner, the tent man, to Col. J. Z. Rogers and Mr. F. Cox and party. The latter is one of the new compartment tents, large, roomy and comfortable. It was greatly admired by the Toronto people and will likely be sold before it leaves the ground.

"Iget your idea," said Mr. Balltop to his wife "Your reasoning is quite correct. Your experience is a safe guide. Quite so, decidedly so. You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. I'll attend to it after Canton drill, this afternoon."

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. B. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"She's more tired like than in pain. She wants quiet. Aweel, she went to bed airly enough," quoth Uncle Sandy, "to get it."

"I dare say she will come down soon. Jessie says there is a new brood of chickens out, Mr. Craig," said Mary. "Twelve wee birdies, all strong and lively."

"Ay, that's varra good. Now, there's anither fast early train to Glasgow, we'll dispose o' good pairt o' the poultry varra profitably. I'd go down and look at the chuckies, if Mona were here."

"And wouldn't you take my arm, Mr. Craig, for want of a better?" said Mary, blushing very sweetly.

"Yes, I will, my bairnie," said the old man, looking at her indulgently. Sandy Craig had a great liking for a pretty face. "We'll go and have a crack wi' the henwife."

Later, Mona, thinking from the profound stillness that she had the house to herself, came from the seclusion of her own room to the drawing-room. She had been greatly agitated by her interview with Lisle, and greatly distressed, on reflection, to think she had trusted the secret of her love for Waring to a man whom she could not help considering an enemy. Yet she did not quite wish her words unsaid. She wished to honor the man she preferred, in the eyes of the rival who despised him; but she hoped and prayed that the knowledge of this admission might never reach Waring. Perhaps—indeed probably—he had formed some fresh attachment, which held his heart against her. "After all," she thought, as she stopped to look at herself in a long glass at the end of the room, and saw the long straight folds and close-fitting bodice of her dark-blue serge, with the broad band and buckle that showed the easy roundness of her waist, the scarf of old lace round her throat, the soft wavy masses of her reddish gold hair, became her well—"after all, I am not worse looking than I used to be; but that does not matter."

With a sigh she opened the piano, and began to play dreamily. How fast the days were slipping away! To-morrow would be his last at Craigdarroch, and then good-bye forever.

"Is the headache quite gone?" said Waring, coming up behind her.

Mona started and changed color.

"Yes, nearly gone. You startled me! I thought you were out."

She met his eyes as she spoke, and something of indescribable tenderness in them made her heart stand still. She rose and went to the window.

"It is cold and raw to-day," she said, with a slight shiver.

Returning to the fire, she leaned against the mantel-piece. Waring put his arms on the top of a high-backed chair opposite her, and said, with a quick sigh—

"The days cannot be too dark and dreary to suit my spirit. I cannot gather courage enough to think of Monday!"

"It is coming very fast!" said Mona, softly, and keeping her eyes fixed on the fire, but feeling that Waring's were fastened on herself.

"Will you think me weak, selfish, worthless, if I cannot leave you without saying how dearly I love you! To think how near I came to calling you my wife; and now we are but strangers to each other. Don't you see how bitterly hard it was? Oh! you were right to break with me, if you could not love me. It would have been misery to us both if you could not have loved me. But it was all utter despair at the time. To think that you preferred poverty and the desertion of your relatives to me, and all I could have given you then."

"Ah, Mr. Waring!" cried Mona, covering her face with her hands, "can you forgive me?"

"I do not reproach you," he returned. "I was not worthy of you, or I should not have gone to the bad as I did, because I was disappointed. But when I came back to life from that terrible fever, I felt another man. I felt I had a duty to myself that forbade this unmanly abandonment, and I have been stronger ever since. I was even getting over the painful longing for you. And now we have met, and I am worse than ever! And you, you seem sweeter than ever! I feel as if I could not leave you!"

He pushed the chair from him, and came to stand beside her, his eyes full of love and sorrow, his plain face beautified by the spirit that animated him.

The fire of heaven seemed to Mona to have descended on her heart, and filled it with joy unspeakable. She let her hands drop, and, quivering from head to foot, she almost whispered—

"Then do not leave me."

"Ah, Mona!" said Waring, drawing close to her, "do not tempt me to a renewal of suffering! I am too desperately in earnest to be played with; and I dare not hope that you, who rejected me when I could have given you a life of ease, would share my wild, uncouth home with me now. Sweetest, how dare I hope!"

He drew her gently into his arms.

"Take me with you," said Mona, raising her eyes to his, and letting him read in them more than words could say.

"My darling! it is more than I can believe! Mona, in our short engagement I do not believe you ever gave me a kiss. If you will give yourself to me now, put your arms round my neck and kiss me of your own free will."

There was an instant's hesitation, and then her arms stole gently to his neck, and her lips were pressed to the brown cheek he bent to them, but for a second, before his lips were on hers, clinging to them softly, passionately, as if he drew his soul's life from that sweet mouth.

"No, not yet: I cannot let you go yet! Tell me, when did you learn to love me?"

"I cannot tell, Leslie. I have never been indifferent to you since—since I refused to marry you; and when I saw you, I soon began to think I should like to atone to you."

"Then it is only pity, perhaps?"

To be Continued.

WHY HE KILLED HIMSELF.

The Richelieu Hotel Suicide—A Y. M. C. A. Treasurer but a Defaulter.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The body of Henry C. Holbrook, who committed suicide at the Richelieu Hotel on Monday, was claimed today by A. H. Bartholomew, a director of the Ansonia Savings Bank, and M. C. Hitchcock of the Knights of Pythias at Ansonia, Conn. Both visited the morgue and identified the body. Mr. Bartholomew states that Holbrook had been assistant cashier of the Ansonia Savings Bank for the last three years as well as tax collector for the fourth school district and treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. of that place. He moved in the best society and was very popular.

On Friday evening last he suddenly left Ansonia and as he did not turn up on Saturday morning, his books were immediately looked into by experts, who found a shortage of $2,000. They have not finished their examination yet. The school district books also showed a deficit of $228 and other concerns claim to have lost by him.

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

THE TAIL TWISTER TALKS.

RIDDLEBERGER'S RANT ABOUT THE FISHERIES TREATY.

The Virginia Fire Eater's Voice is Still for War—Senator Morgan of Alabama Speaks to His Resolution.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—In the Senate today Mr. Sherman moved to proceed to the consideration of the Fisheries Treaty in open executive session. The motion was agreed to, 24 to 22, a strict party vote, and the Fisheries Treaty was taken up, the question being on Mr. Morgan's (Dem., Ala.) motion to postpone its further consideration till December next.

Mr. Riddleberger (Rep., Va.) said that the vote just taken settled conclusively the only question that could possibly be in controversy from this time on in reference to the treaty, and that was the Republican party of this country was opposed to the ratification of the treaty, and that the Democratic party was in favor of it. It was being considered as a party question on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, and it was proposed to consider it as such on this side. When he offered the resolution some months ago to consider the treaty in open session he had in his hands documents which gave him the right to judge that this was a representative English or pro-English Government.

He quoted from Sir Charles Tupper's speech in the Canadian Parliament a statement, which he said had never been denied, to the effect that Mr. Bayard had assured him that if the fisheries irritation were allayed there would be no obstacle to arranging for a free interchange of the natural products of both countries in accordance with the policy of the Democratic party. That meant that the Fisheries Treaty was to lead up to free trade.

He arraigned the Administration and the Democratic party which backed it, as a pro-English organization and he proceeded to read extracts from English periodicals to prove that the Mills bill and the President's tariff message were in the direction of free trade, and that the presidential election contest was a conflict between free trade and protection, and nothing else.

He read an extract from the speech of S. S. Cox in the House, speaking of protectionists as robbers, rascals and plunderers, and said he was not surprised at that sentiment when he read a book published by the same gentleman many years ago, entitled, "The Buckeye Abroad," in which such sentences as this occurred: "Old England: God bless her! With tears in my eyes I beseech Heaven's best benison upon her. I remember her only as the land of noble deeds and generous hearts." He (Riddelberger) knew Mr. Cox had pleaded the "baby act" in reference to that book and he supposed he would plead dotage in reference to his later utterances.

In conclusion Mr. Riddelberger declared that we could never be a national government until we had whipped England for the third time.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) proceeded to address the Senate. The remarks which he proposed to submit were, he said, in reference to the plan of the case covered by his resolution declaring, that in the opinion of the Senate, the treaty has been properly authenticated and is lawful and valid and that the time has not passed for negotiating on the subject of the fisheries. The country was already aroused by the action of a caucus of the Republican party that the treaty was doomed to defeat, and the purpose of his resolution was to save to the Government of the United States as good an attitude as possible after the rejection of the treaty. If he were opposed to the treaty and believed it to be a sacrifice of the honor of the people of the United States he would nevertheless insist on the adoption of his resolution for the purpose of disembarrassing the future diplomatic or other relations of the United States with Great Britain and providing the means by which the two Governments could get in accord. He could not conceive a more unfortunate situation than for the Government of the United States to make the declarations as proposed in the majority report of the Committee on Foreign Relations, first, that the fisheries relations of the two countries were not a fit subject for negotiation, and secondly that the time for negotiations had passed. He did not believe in either of these statements. The country would receive such a declaration with very serious doubt. He desired, by a vote of the Senate, to free the question from any such embarrassment as that. If it was decided to reject the treaty in solido, without attempting to improve it or to reform it by amendment, let it be so rejected, but let that rejection be accompanied with a declaration, made necessary now by the majority report, that the time for negotiations had not passed and that the subject was a proper one for negotiation.

If the declaration proposed by the majority of the Committee on Foreign Relations were made by the Senate, what reply could Great Britain be expected to make in regard to these Northwestern fisheries which it was now so necessary should be regulated by treaty agreement?

Proceeding to discuss the question in detail and coming down to the treaty of 1818, he was asked by Mr. Hoar, "Do you think that the treaty of 1818 would have been improved if it had contained a provision that the trial of our fishermen, (while exercising their own right,) should be before Canadian tribunals with the burden of the proof on our fishermen?"

Mr. Morgan: "I think the treaty of 1818 is greatly improved by the present negotiations."

Mr. Hoar: "That is not an answer to my question."

Mr. Morgan: "Perhaps not, I do not propose to answer any irrelevant question."

"Mr. Evans: Suppose the treaty of 1818 were abrogated by the United States or by Great Britain what would be the subsisting arrangement between the two countries respecting the fisheries?"

Mr. Morgan: "Inasmuch as ours was a perpetual renunciation of fishery rights except as to a certain area, I judge that we should have no rights in respect to the fisheries and that was the great misfortune with the treaty of 1818."

Mr. Evans: "I understood the Senator to say the other day that he was in favor of abrogating the treaty of 1818."

Mr. Morgan: "I said and I say now that when a bill is brought here to abrogate the treaty of 1818 and to assert the rights which our negotiators then abandoned arising under the treaty of 1783, and which were the gift of the revolutionary war, I would join the Senator from New York, although I know in would lead to war, in voting for and receiving our rights, resulting from the revolutionary war."

Mr. Evarts: "Then it is worth while to fight for our revolutionary rights but not for our rights under the treaty of 1818."

Mr. Morgan: "It is not worth while to fight about a matter which you intend to give up. It is better to try to amend the conditions and live under them. If we have to wear a yoke let us put something soft under the collar."

GAMBLERS IN STOCKS.

The Men Arrested at Hanrahan's in Toronto Heavily Fined.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—The nine men arrested in Hanrahan & Co's office on July 20 were brought to trial at the police court yesterday. The defendants were charged with unlawfully playing in a common gaming house—Logan, the manager with being the keeper of such a house, a count being added against three of the accused charging them with making a contract for the purchase of certain shares of railroad stock in which no delivery of the stock was intended or made "with the intent to make profit by the fall of the price in such stock," the prosecution being under Senator Abbott's "Bucket Shop Bill," passed at the last session of Parliament.

Inspector Archibald who was in charge of the squad which made the arrest testified that when he entered the office Logan was writing and on the desk beside him was this paper:

No. 21. Report— BUFFALO, N. Y., July 19, 1888.
Margin, $50. Stop order limit 80⅞.
You have this day bought 5000 of Dec. wht. at 81⅞ on margin as above, subject to conditions now posted in our office.
To F. NE. HANRAHAN & Co.,
H. R., Toronto. Per R. L.
Cut your losses short. Let your profits run long.

There was a "ticker" and a blackboard in the next room where the other defendants were found.

Detective Reid testified to buying stock in the office of Hanrahan & Co. and being "wiped out," that is, he lost the money which he put up as a "margin."

Fitten, one of the defendants, was discharged and called for the prosecution. He testified to six or seven "deals" in stocks and oil on which he lost about $60.

No evidence was given for he defendants. The contention of the defence was first that the defendants were being tried under one act, the Gaming Act, for carrying on transactions which another act, the Stock Act, declared illegal, secondly that the certificates and other papers seized were not "instruments of gaming," under the act, and third that the contracts were made not in Toronto but in Buffalo, and that the Canadian law had therefore not been broken.

The magistrate after summing up the case, said: "I consider the charges proved and I fine Murphy, Padden and McCoppin $20 and costs or 30 days imprisonment; Logan the keeper $100 without costs, or 60 days; Nelson $20 and costs, or 30 days; Barton, Cornell and Brisbane, $50 and costs, or 50 days.

Notice of appeal was given by all the defendants.

Drowned While Rescuing a Dog—A Wholesale Firm Call a Meeting of Creditors.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—White, Joselin & Co., wholesale dealers in laces and embroideries, decided yesterday to call a meeting of creditors, which will be held at Nottingham, Eng., Aug. 24. The liabilities amount to $175,000, of which $75,000 are indirect, and the assets are placed at $100,000.

Yesterday afternoon John Avison, a carpenter, was drowned in the Don close to the railway bridge. Mr. Avison went out for a walk, taking with him a favorite dog belonging to Mrs. Davis, his mother-in-law. Whilst walking by the river the dog got into the water, and Mr. Avison, it is supposed, overreached himself in trying to get the animal out, fell in, and before aid arrived was drowned. Mr. Avison was about 44 years of age and leaves a widow and four children, all under 11 years of age.

The Rossin House has changed ownership. Mr. Mark Irish, the well-known proprietor, has sold out to Abner Scott of Nova Scotia.

A blaze occurred yesterday morning in the rear of Mr. Framton's bakery, at 120 Queen-street west, Parkdale. The bakehouse as well as Mr. Greenshield's stables, were burned. The horses were rescued. The loss aggregates $1600, which is partially insured.

On Thursday next in Shaftesbury Hall the eleventh annual session of the High Court of Ontario, Independent Order of Foresters, will be opened. It is expected that there will be 300 delegates in attendance.

BLINKEY MORGAN HUNG.

The Drop Falls at 1.22 this Morning—A Hideous Death.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Charles S., alias "Blinkey", Morgan, the chief of the notorious Ravenna rescuers, was hanged in the penitentiary annex this morning, the trap being sprung at 1.22.

Morgan passed the day without incident and ate heartily at supper-time. The small execution room would hardly hold the people.

The doomed man was led out by Warden Coffin, and after the death warrant was read was asked whether he had any statement to make.

He shook his head in the negative without making any audible reply, and stood indifferently eying the crowd.

An enthusiastic friend whom he had invited to be present persisted in objecting to the execution and was removed from the room, but came back again at the warden's leave.

Morgan met his fate with stoical indifference, the only words uttered being: "Goodbye, Nellie," just as the black cap was pulled over his head. The Nellie in question was his mistress in Cleveland.

The drop failed to break his neck and he struggled hideously for several minutes before he was relieved by death which occured in 27 minutes.

Morgan left a written statement, copies of which were given to the local papers. He simply asserted his innocence and declined to make any statement implicating any one else in the notorious crime.

Legare's Large Claim.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—J. L. Legare, of Wood Mountain, N.W.T., will arrive in Regina in a few days with witnesses to meet an officer of the American Government. The officer will examine the witnesses in reference to the capture of Sitting Bull, for which Legare's large claim for indemnity has been disputed by the American Government. Legare says he was authorized by the American Government to capture Sitting Bull at any cost. He inveigled the whole band of Indians into Canada by rationing them at a large cost in order to make the capture. The case attracts great interest.

Mr. Shea's Version and Views of the Controversy—Patrick Egan Says He is Willing to Meet a Fair Investigation.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Mr. O'Shea writes to The Times in regard to the interview between Mr. Parnell and Mr. Chamberlain. He says: Both are right; but, full of horror as Mr. Parnell was on the day after the Phœnix Park murder, it is not astonishing that he has forgotten when he asked me to arrange an interview with a minister he then considered his benefactor. It is quite true that he went with Mr. McCarthy after I left Mr. Chamberlain. I only wish that those who believe Mr. Parnell cognizant of crime had seen him on that day. Innocence never showed itself more clearly under a terrible ordeal. Wild as his attack may appear, I know that for a long time he has been imbued with the fixed idea that Mr. Chamberlain divulged Cabinet secrets. The last time I spoke to Mr. Parnell, shortly before the division on Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, he threatened to publish the charge, and I advised him to make up his mind that Mr. Chamberlain could not object.

In regard to local government Mr. Parnell's memory is curiously at fault. The scheme was altogether Mr. Parnell's own. Mr. Chamberlain hesitated, and only adopted it because it was Parnell's. Why he now repudiates it is a mystery. Surely also there is some mistake about the renewal of the Coercion Act. Mr. Chamberlain must have in his possession a draft of the Coercion Act amended in Mr. Parnell's own hand into the form in which he proposed it should be passed, with just enough show of opposition in Parliament to satisfy those concerned.

Egan Interviewed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 2.—Patrick Egan, in an interview on the Parnell Commission and its effect upon the Irish party, expressed himself as willing to meet a fair and impartial investigation. He declared the letters published by the London Times to be forgeries. Regarding the charge made by Parnell on Tuesday against Chamberlain, Egan said that during the whole time Chamberlain was communicating a Cabinet secret to the Irish party Chamberlain's object was to undermine Gladstone. In reply to an enquiry he said that if Chamberlain would demand an investigation, he (Egan) knew where the evidence could be got to sustain Parnell's charge. Some of this evidence was in writing and in the hands of their friends. Egan further said that the information which Chamberlain secretly divulged to the Irish party was of "considerable importance from time to time."

The Parnell Commission Bill.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—In the House of Commons last night a number of amendments to the Parnell Commission Bill were rejected. The remaining clauses were carried without a dinsion and the House adjourned at an early hour this morning, the report stage being fixed for Monday.

Emin and Stanley.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Despatches from Zanzibar state that two native messengers who were captured from one of the early expeditions by tribes in the Ugandi district bordering on the Albert Nyanza and escaped last April have arrived there. They report that the situation of Emin Bey is very difficult, provisions being scarce and the feeling of discouragement among his troops very great. In April Emin received a summons from the Mahdi, dated at Khartoum, to surrender or disband his followers. He also received a letter from Lupton Bey advising him to submit to the Mahdi's terms in order to save the lives of the Europeans at Khartoum and Wadelai. The reported advance of the Mahdi's forces being confirmed, Emin decided to surprise him. He considered the Lupton letter a forgery and the non-arrival of Stanley disturbed him greatly. Emin was then in receipt of reports that Stanley was hemmed in between the Maboda country and the Albert Nyanza country, and also that he had been compelled to direct his course to an unknown route.

To Meet in the Autumn.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The newspapers here announce that the Emperor of Germany, Emperor of Russia and the Emperor of Austria will meet at some point on the Austrian frontier in the autumn.

STORMS IN THE STATES.

School Girls Struck by Lightning in Indiana—Minnesota Casualties.

JEFFERSON, Ind., Aug. 2.—Julia Whalen, aged 14, and Alice Fleming, Mamie Hayes and Mamie Glasgow were on their way home from school last evening when a bolt of lightning descended, killing the Whalen girl and rendering the others unconscious. The Hayes and Glasgow girls quickly revived but it was some time before the Fleming girl was restored. She is still suffering much and talks incoherently. The physicians think her reason has been dethroned. The body of the dead girl a few minutes after the electric current prostrated her was as black as ebony.

Terrible Thunderstorm in Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 3.—Specials from St. Cloud and Sauk Rapids, Minn., state that a most terrific thunderstorm occurred Wednesday night, and torrents of rain fell. Many houses were struck by lightning, but there was no loss of life. Whole fields of wheat are under water. A St. Cloud party going to a funeral was overturned in a washout and barely escaped drowning. Two persons were struck by lightning at Sauk Rapids but recovered. Twenty-one houses were struck by lightning at St. Cloud. Two of Mrs. Klengert's children will die from the effects of the bolt that struck her house. Two horses were also killed. Three passenger trains on the Manitoba road are in the yards at St. Cloud unable to proceed.

A Disastrous Hailstorm.

BROWN'S VALLEY, Minn., Aug. 2.—A hailstorm passed over the Sisseton reservation Tuesday and ruined all the crops in its wake. The swath it cut was over a mile wide and ten miles long. Great loss of property is reported. Near Rosemont, Minn., a young man named Cummings was killed by lightning.

The Lake Gives Up Its Dead.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 3.—The body of a young man was washed ashore at Sodus Point last night. From papers in the pockets it is supposed to be the body of W. J. Orr of Toronto, missing since July 7.

Quicksilver Mine Near Golden.

CALGARY, Aug. 2.—About three miles up the Kicking Horse from Golden, A. Vachon and Hugh McDonald have what they think is sure to be in time a quicksilver mine. The claim is called the Ebenezer, and is developed by a 5x6 tunnel of 80 feet. Assays from picked samples give returns as high as 84 per cent. mercury and $9 to $14 in silver to the ton. Dan Graham declares that he has discovered a ledge within a mile of Golden that gives free milling returns of $7.50 to $14 to the ton.

Forty Per Cent Off Their Wage.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 2.—When the post-office officials here were paid their monthly salaries they received forty per cent less than the usual amount. Forty per cent above the usual regulation wage has always been allowed this province on account of the greatly increased cost of living.

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

THE OLD BECOMING NEW.—The "Blakely House" is receiving a thorough overhauling, has been newly shingled, new verandah posts and flooring, and is to receive a number of coats of paint. The old house will once more become new and be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. No, not forever, but until wanting repainting and repairing again.

HORSE DROWNED.—Messrs. Strickland had a horse drowned of a drive of logs near Young's Point last week.

BUILDING.—The brickwork is all done on Mr. J. C. Sherrin's house, and about half finished with Mr. Lillicrap's. Dr. J. R. Fraser's place is nearly ready for bricking.

ANOTHER NIMROD.—Your correspondent left out a young gentleman's name in that "bear hunt" which took place at Stoney Lake, reported in last week's REVIEW, one who took a very active part and was very anxious to become a hero, that is, he had a great deal to inspire him to distinguish himself on this special occasion. Therefore, Mr. Willie Arnot warmed up in the greatest excitement and exclaimed, "My hair shall be greased with that bear's grease all the rest of my life." Taking deadly aim he fired, that is, he fired his zeal off, when he also discovered "only a black log." He was so much disappointed he wanted to cast himself into the wet, but was informed by his companion, that he looked as though the wet from above was enough for him, that if he took any from below he might soon become water logged. We sympathize with you, my boy, we have been there ourselves.

A LOSS.—Mr. Donald McLean, miller, lost a valuable horse last week.

THE BY-LAW DEFEATED.—The vote on the Water Works By-law came off on Tuesday, the result being thirty-one of a majority against the by-law. So endeth the water works scheme. We hope the advocates of the steam fire engine, will be more sucessful and give the village protection from fire.

PICNIC.—The Methodist Sunday School will hold their annual excursion and picnic on or about August the 16th inst.

EXCURSION.—The Orangemen of Lakefield are talking of having an excursion in the near future. They intend chartering a steamer and make the trip through to Lindsay.

FISHING.—Fishery Inspector Moore has made a trip of the back lakes and sold a great many fishing permits. He remarked that the fishing is extremely good this year.

PISCOTARIAL FEATS.—The Lakefield camping party who were connected with the "bear hunt" were more fortunate in the fishing line. During their camp out they took 32 large maskinonge, some weighing as high as fifteen pounds and none less than five to six, besides a large number of good size bass. They all say the fishing has not been as good for years past as 1888 has proved to be. Gentlemen who are fond of rod and reel could not do better than take a run up to Stoney Lake for a few days.

FIRE.—On Tuesday a fire broke out in the rear of Messrs. Graham & Son's dry goods store. A number of packing cases and barrels piled up in a shed, by some unknown means got on fire, the flames rose at a great height, if they had not been detected at the commencement a disastrous fire would have swept the business portion of the village out of existence. Messrs. Graham & Son have a powerful force pump in the yard back of the store, which did good execution and extinguished the fire, in ten minutes after the alarm was given the firemen with hook and ladder and the small engine were on the spot, but were too late as the fire was out. Messrs. Graham & Son are to be coegratulated on their escape, also the rest of the merchants.

A SWEARER CHECKED.—Constable McIlmoyle ran in a young man from Warsaw on Tuesday, for using profane language on the streets. The cooler had the desired effect in about two hours, the young man going home with his mind made up that Lakefield would not put up with any such conduct, and we hope others will take the hint.

PERSONAL.—Dr. Douglas has gone to Lake Couchiching to attend the meet of the A.C. A.... Miss Clara McEwen has returned home from Ottawa.... Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hopkins of Omaha, Neb., were, for some time, the guests of Lawyer Crickmore.... Miss Walton, of St. Paul's Mission, has returned home after being away for five years and seems very much delighted to see her brothers and sisters, who have moved to a farm near Lakefield since her departure to the west. She says, of course, Lakefield is quiet compared to St. Pauls or Peterborough, but still for a village it would be hard to surpass it. We also are of the same opinion.

PRACTICAL HOSPITALITY.—Your correspondent with four other gentlemen called on Mr. Douglas, foreman on one of the drives belonging to Mr. Irwin. It being dinner time we were invited to partake, which we all gladly accepted. It was remarked by the M. D. that if all the men lived as high on the drives as they did at this cookery, he felt very much like clinging to the winds his pills and squills, and join one of the camps. Your humble servant heartily acquiesced in that sentiment, and so did Johnnie, Willie and Daddy. After heartily partaking of dinner, which was so ably served, we all remarked that Mr. Campbell must be a professional cook, the bread cake, pastry and pudding being proof positive, that he was no novice in the art.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Fred Sherin, wife and family are the guest of Mrs. J. C Sherin.... We're much pleased with a call on Wednesday from Mr. Appleby, of Cobourg.... Miss McLean, Mrs. Dinwoodie's sister, is home from the States.

OFF FOR A HOLIDAY.—Your correspondent has taken the Stoney Lake fever, and expects it to take about two weeks in that delightful spot to break it, the fever, up. Unless he can provide a substitute, Lakefield column in the REVIEW will be vacant for that time, but if anything special turns up at Stoney Lake the scribe will be heard from. He has a good fish story, but does not anticipate being able to tell so good a story as our friend Mr. R. Q., who caught a maskinonge in Clear Lake and had to go to Sandy Point to land him. When he pulled Mr. Fish out the water in the lake sank two feet and the fast running steamer Cruiser going past at the time got grounded on the bottom. The captain had to apply to Mr. R. Q. to put his fish back in the water so he could get his vessel down to the Point. Mr. R. Q. being a very obliging gentleman put the fish back, and the craft passed on. Mr. R. Q. considered, if by taking his fish out again, it was going to do so much damage to navigation, and prevent the boats running, he would let his fish go, so any person wishing to try his hand for this monster of Clear Lake are at liberty to do so, but please put him back in again and not injure navigation.

The Trent Valley Canal.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I wish to make a few remarks on Mr. Laidlaw's letter, lately published in the Globe, to the Trent Valley Canal Commissioners in answer to their circular. Mr. Laidlaw remarks: "How the vessels are to be lifted from Lake Simcoe to Balsam Lake over the height of land between these two without damming up either lake to a great height and drowning out half the country, I do not understand." I am perfectly unacquainted with the topography of the country beyond Balsam Lake. I have relied entirely in my advocacy of the building of the canal on the reports of the engineers with regard to the sufficiency of the water supply. Mr. Tait's report is very elaborate on this subject, and Mr. Rubidge told myself, when he was about commencing his survey, that he had satisfied himself on the water supply more than thirty years before. I lay stress on this fact, namely, that Mr. Page, the Chief Engineer of the Dominion, if not hostile, has never favored the scheme, and, if he could have reported any such defects and difficulties as referred to by Mr. Laidlaw, to the Government, he would have gladly done so, as being fatal to it. He has made no such report. I have not a copy of Mr. Tait's report by me, but if I remember rightly it contemplates the raising of the water in Balsam Lake four feet, without material injury to the surrounding country.

"Regarding finance," Mr. Laidlaw says, "if the canal was to be built it must be built with public money as a public work, or upon borrowed money from private individuals in Great Britain, and the misery that followed the building of the Grand Trunk would be little in comparison to that which would follow private investment in the Trent Valley Canal." Why! The Grand Trunk has never, I believe, paid the shareholders any dividend and the Trent Valley Canal could not do less. And besides, the same enormities that were committed in the building of the Grand Trunk need not be repeated in the building of the Trent Valley Canal. Every man on the Grand Trunk construction, if he could claim the rank of an officer of any kind, if only in charge of half a dozen men working with wheelbarrows, had a horse and buggy for his own use, with a man to take care of them, and all sorts of extravagance in accord, making the expense of construction $50,000 when $25,000 properly expended would have been ample. Although extravagance has not altogether disappeared from our public works, it is on the wane, and the Grand Trunk folly will never be repeated.

Mr. Laidlaw compared his supposed cost of the T. V. C. with the expenditure on the construction of the Grand Trunk. But a comparison with the cost of the original Welland canal would be much more to the point. I purpose, therefore, in answer to Mr Laidlaw's $75,000,000 cost of the T. V. C., to give a short historical sketch of the original Welland Canal, and the cost thereof. The Welland Canal was not a Government measure, but that of a private company. It was built in opposition to the scheme of the British Government, with a single eye to the building up of St. Catharines. The scheme of the British Government was to open the Trent waters and make them a continuous canal connecting with the Rideau, by which gunboats could be taken from the Ottawa river at Bytown (now Ottawa) to the upper lakes by inland navigation. With this object in view the British Government had the route partly surveyed by Mr. Baird. It granted a bonus for its inception, mentioned in Mr. Baird's report, built a fort at Penetanguishene and established a military depot there for the protection of the mouth of the canal intended to be built, which station was kept up many years without anything to defend. Whilst the British Government were haudling their red tape, they found themselves forestalled by Canadian enterprise, and the canal nearly built, before they opened their eyes to the fact. The Trent Valley scheme was then allowed to drop. No British engineer, having any knowledge of military strategy, would have located a canal where the Welland is, in the very maw, as it were, of a then very hostile nation. It would have been like as if the Queen, when the matter was referred to her, had made Trenton or Cobourg the capital of the Dominion, instead of the inland, and easily defended, town of Ottawa. The original Welland Canal Company, incorporated on the 19th day of June, 1824, with a capital stock of £40,000 or $200,000, in $50 shares, consisted of George Keefer, Thomas Merritt, George Adams, William Chisholm, Joseph Smith, Paul Shipman, John Decow, William H. Merritt and others. The work was begun on the 30th of December, 1824, and was not discontinued for a single day during five years until two vessels passed from lake to lake, 106 miles. The Welland was about the same length of time under construction that the T. V. C has been under survey.

The report of the Directors, in 1829, after the first two vessels had passed through from lake to lake, contains the following remark:—"To show the Government and the stock-holders that their money has been economically expended, the following statement is presented:—

TOTAL COST OF THE WELLAND CANAL.

Amount paid contractors, on the estimate of the engineers	£243,000
Awards and real estate	4,853
Duties to Government and interest to Bank U. C.	8,804
Thos. Proctor, agent, New York	3,428
Contingencies, including salaries &c., making nearly 5 per cent. on the outlay	12,710
	£272,795

The canal was 106 miles of solid cutting, about twice as much as there would be on the T. V. C., and accomplished for the sum of £272,795, or $1,363,975. Now what has been done once I contend can be done again, and especially when we have such powerful mechanical appliances, for the accomplishment of the work, which were not known to the contractors of the Welland Canal. The pick, the shovel, the wheelbarrow and blasting materials were the implements on which they chiefly depended. The extent of the work is thus described in the report:—

Length of ship canal from Lake Erie to Ontario	28 miles.
From Port Robinson to mouth of the river Welland	9¼ "
From river Welland to Fort Erie	18 "
From Port Maitland to Dunnville	5 "
From Dunville to Cayuga	15 "
	75¼ "
From Junction to Dunnville	30¾ "
	106 miles.

The ascent, 358 feet, was surmounted by forty wooden locks—three harbours were constructed, Port Dalhousie, Maitland and Colborne—an aqueduct over the river Welland 365 feet in length and 24 feet in width, represented in the report as the "best wooden structure in America, designed and built by Marshall Lewis"—a dam and embankment over the Grand river, nearly one mile in width, and fifteen feet deep in the channel—" and one and three-quarter miles of the deepest cutting in America, averaging from thirty to fifty-six feet." I regret very much to have to differ in opinion from Mr. Laidlaw, but I formed my conclusions from the study of facts, which are stubborn things, and cannot be got over. I will accept Mr. Laidlaw's margin between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000, and furnish men to build the canal, provided Mr. Laidlaw is wrong in his statement about the water, and certainly it is at variance with all that has been scientifically reported.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you tou may depend upon this for certain.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

Dr. Ryerson has returned after a three month's trip to Europe. During his absence he re-visited the principal hospitals in London, Berlin, Vienna, Munich and Paris. He feels greatly benefitted, mentally and physically, and has renewed his practice with renewed vigor.

To the North.

There was the usual exodus northward this morning. Sheriff Hall and family, Mr. W. F. McIntyre, of Belleville, and Mr. A. Stewart went up to spend some time. Among others who went north for a trip were Mr. J. P. Hurley and a party consisting of Messrs. H. LeBrun, T. Dolan, P. D. Doran and Jas. Dolan.

Mr. H. A. Mulhern's flour mill is being greatly enlarged and is undergoing other improvements. An addition 32 by 60 feet, constructed of stone, is being erected on the east side and is now two storeys high. It will be run up above the present building and topped with an elevator. The machinery in the mill is being changed for the new patent, the Cochrane rolls, and water wheels put in. A carload of new machinery arrived for the mill this week.

John Powers, who was arrested yesterday by Chief Roszel, was taken to Lindsay the same evening by Chief Bell, of that town. Powers is the man whose eccentric actions in a jewellery store were told of by a local insurance agent and published in the REVIEW. His host pursued him and got the timepiece.

Miller & Freeman's Monster Railway Shows.

The amusement going public will remember with favor this model amusement enterprise, the most acceptable of tented exhibitions that visited us last season, and which more than pleased enormous patronage. This year it comes to us with largely added attractions, and double its former capacity of canvas, presenting among its list of riders the superiors of the profession and among its gymnasts, athletes, tumblers and aerial artists, the most celebrated performers before the public. Among the new accessions to its wondrous roll of novelties is the fearful parachute descent from the clouds of Professor Ned Hathaway, which takes place at the exhibition grounds every morning at 11 o'clock. As this exhibition is given outside the canvas, it is, of course, free to everybody. It may be well to remember that the show gives its exhibitions under canvas at prices much reduced from regular rates. The exhibition will be in Peterborough on Monday, the 6th of August.

Fruit Social.

The fruit social held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society at the George Street Methodist church on Thursday evening was, owing to the large number of persons being out of town, not so largely attended as it otherwise would have been, but there was a fair attendance. The grounds were decorated by Chinese lanterns of different colors, which were hung in the branches of the trees and bushes, and gave the place a very inviting aspect. The Fire Brigade band was in attendance and rendered some very fine selections. They played several selections in the lecture room and also gave an open air concert on the church lawn. At an early hour in the evening the refreshment tables in the basement of the church were surrounded by customers, and it was some time before any of them were allowed to stand empty. Ice cream, lemonade, cake, and many other dainties were served by the ladies, and a number of them were kept busy during the longest part of the evening. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves greatly in various ways. The elder people were contented to sit in some quiet place and listen to the band, while the younger people strolled around. The social was enjoyable, the excellent band music and social conversation filling up the time.

Repealed.

At a recent meeting of the Cobourg Town Council the grocers' early closing by-law was repealed, to take effect on September 1st.

Campbellford Cheese Market.

At a recent meeting of the Campbellford cheese board there were 390 boxes boarded. Offers of 9 cents for selections and 8¾ for the board were made and refused. There were only four buyers present.

The Sale of Alexander's

Bankrupt Stock is still going on in Dawson Bro's. old stand, Hunter-st. The prices of the Goods have been still further reduced from prices of former sale and decided bargains can be relied on. d26

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

St. Leon Water.

The marvellous results from the use of St. Leon Water in Rheumatism, Constipation and all diseases arising from a torpid liver is testified to by hundreds of grateful drinkers of the water. References are kindly permitted to N. T. Lapiant, Frank Bell, Rev. Father Lynch and many other prominent citizens. Sold by the glass and gallon or aerated by Taylor & Macdonald, Druggists, sole agents. d140-w25

Building an Addition.

An addition is being erected at Mr. D. Belleghem's furniture factory. The new part, which is about 40 by 50 feet and three storeys high, is between the factory and the warerooms. The ground floor will be used for storing the hearses and the second and third floors will be used for the furniture business. The new building is in such a place that the front of the old factory and the side of the block on the east will form part of two walls to the new structure.

To Road Overseers.

Chap. 202 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Sec. 2, enacts that "that it shall be the duty of every owner of land or occupant thereof to cut down or destroy all the Canada thistles, oxeye daisies, wild oats, ragweed and burdock, growing on his land so often each and every year as is sufficient to prevent the ripening of their seed." Sec. 9 extends the Act to the highways of any municipality and Sec. 10 makes an owner liable to a fine of not less than $5 for violation of the Act, and an overseer of a highway to a fine of not less than $10 for neglect.

Ready For Trade.

With better facilities than ever we will open out in our new store. Hampered for room at the old stand this difficulty has been removed. The new store is on the direct line of trade. It is handsome and well lighted. There is ample room for keeping and displaying stock. We shall give increased attention to millinery and at greater convenience to ourselves. Customers will find us fully ready for business. A well arranged moving such as ours has been, does not put things out of joint at all. New goods brought in to replace well sold lines, new goods that are in demand; prices right and always right. Remember the new stand—Alexander's old stand, George-st. H. S. GRIFFIN & Co. 1d28

Charged with Forgery.

The Toronto Mail of a recent date contains the following:—"Toronto is having much trouble at present from people who would rather run the great risk of defrauding hard-worked merchants than earn an honest living. Detective Burrows is credited with being successful in securing a conviction in nearly every case he handles, and on Saturday night he arrested John Miller, alias Walker, on a charge of forging the name of Henry O'Hara on two different occasions and swindling two merchants on Yonge and King streets. Mr. O'Hara is manager of the Temperance and General Life Assurance Company, and Miller had been in the employ of the company as an agent for some time, the manager having great confidence in his honesty and integrity. He is alleged to have passed a forged cheque on Wm. East in payment for a trunk, and a cheque for $20 on W. Rutherford, manager of the Oak Hall clothing store, receiving good bank bills for the amount of change coming to him in both cases. Both discovered that the paper was worthless on presentation at the bank, and also on being shown to Mr. O'Hara. The prisoner recently came from Peterborough, and it is stated that he was once in the United States army. He is a smart, good-looking man, with dark hair, and a very assertive manner. 'What do you plead?' said Ald. Baxter. 'Not guilty on both charges,' replied the prisoner, and his counsel asked for a remand for a few days. It was granted, and John G. Miller started down the stairway. 'Here, where is that man going? Bring him back. Bring him up this time as John G. Walker,' said the magistrate, and John G. poked his head up the hole once more. 'What is your name, now?' 'My name is John G. Miller,' the prisoner ejaculated in a loud tone. The examination on this case was also adjourned, and Miller disappeared again down below with a defiant look on his face." Mr. O'Hara, however, says the man was not employed by his company. He visited the Police Court to see him, but had no recollection of ever having seen him before. Miller, or Walker, is believed to be a man who was, with his family, for a time in Peterborough this summer and who was known as Mellor. Mellor came here from Lindsay. He acted for a time as insurance agent under another agent in this town, who would be as well satisfied if he had not met him. His family was destitute and he received assistance from various persons, in some cases receiving it as loans, but whether loans or gifts it has been all the same. He was given permission by the agent of the Temperance and General Life Company here to canvass for the company, but he did no work for it.

Shorthand Society.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Shorthand Society will be held at Toronto on August 15th. The business meeting will be held in the morning, and during the afternoon and evening addresses will be delivered by well known stenographers.

A Peculiar Accident.

A farmer's horse, while standing in front of a store this morning, was bothered with flies and in driving them away fell down. It had to be unharnessed before it could be got on its feet again. A shaft and the crossbar were broken.

Baseball.

The Millbrook Reporter says:—"The Garden Hill Baseball Club intend playing in Peterborough some time next week, with the first nine there, and have asked Mr. R. H. Kells, of Millbrook, to umpire the game for them, on account of his very fair and impartial decisions on the occasion of Millbrook playing Garden Hill."

Riversides vs. Y. M. C. A.

Last evening a practice match between the Riversides and the Y. M. C. A. lacrosse clubs took place on the Riverside park, resulting in a score of 4 to 1 in favor of the Riversides. All the members of the teams were not present, and several outsiders played to make them complete. The Riversides had the advantage all through the game, and had the rubber in their possession most of the time. The playing was rather careless and several were badly bruised. R. Henderson had his thumb cut to the bone and had to discontinue his playing before the game was finished. The ball was faced at about half past seven and the game lasted a little over half an hour. The first two games were taken by the Riversides, Begley scoring both times. The first game was taken in one minute and the second in two minutes. The third game was taken by the Y. M. C. A. in four minutes, Armstrong scoring. After five minutes more playing Phelan scored a game for the Riversides, and he also scored the fifth game in eight minutes. Time was called in about ten minutes more, as it was too dark to see to play, and no other games were scored. There was considerable slipping and falling on the field owing to the dryness of the ground in some places.

From the Canoeist's Camp.

During the last three days of the meet the races have been prosecuted with vigor and several surprises resulted. Tuesday brought wind enough to satisfy the hardiest sailor in the fleet. Those who had been grumbling at the light breezes had cause to reflect that a stiff breeze is as nearly ruinous to average sailing as no wind at all. During the morning a crowd of excursionists came up from Peterborough and Lindsay and strolled around camps, looking up friends and fraternizing generally. The sailing race for the challenge cup, presented by Mayor Thompson, of Orillia, was run up. Seventeen canoes started and great was the casualities. The distance was three miles. So strong was the wind that fifteen of the canoes were blown over and several masts were broken off short. There was a lively time picking up the skippers. The race was won by Mason, of the T. C. C., with Colin Fraser, U.C.C., 2nd. The feat performed by Fraser in sailing the race in an open canoe in such weather, is remarkable, and clearly proves him the best sailor in camp. A sailing race, each canoe to carry the skipper and one passenger, was won by W. G. MacKendrick, T. C. C.; 2nd, W. S. Lister, Lakefield C.C., who made a very close run for first place. The combined sailing and paddling race, to windward and back, for the Gibson cup, was taken by H. MacKendrick, T. C. C. An open canoe paddling race was taken by H. MacKendrick, 2nd, D'Arcy Strickland, L.C. C. A capital race was that of club fours in 19 feet canvas. The Toronto Club brought out a capital team just aching for a race and they polished off the field in grand style, with a Lakefield C.C. team in 2nd place. The hurry-scurry was taken by H. MacKendrick; 2nd, S. Britton, L.C.C.

In the evening the annual election of officers took place. The whole camp convened in the large pavillion. The report of the nominating committee was read, recommending the officers to be appointed. With one change the elections were made as follows: Vice-Commodore, Robert Tyson, T.C.C.; Rear-Commodore, S. S. Robinson, Orillia C.C.; Purser, Colin Fraser, U.C.C.; Executive Committee, F. S. Rathbun, Deseronto C.C., and J. G. Edwards, Lindsay C.C.

Ex-Commodore Edwards and ex-Commodore Rogers spoke in strong terms of the services of Mr. Tyson, and of the zeal of the Toronto Canoe Club. Mr. R. Grant Dalton, who had been recommended for rear-commodore by the nominating committee, in a graceful speech retired in favor of Mr. Robinson, of Orillia, whose efforts to make the meeting a success were generally acknowledged. After speeches by the officers-elect, Judge Dartnell proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring officers. Mr. E. B. Edwards and Mr. E. J. Poker, in view of the general camp being in the Northern Division next year, moved that it should be along the river St. Lawrence or in the Bay of Quinte, so as to accommodate the members from the United States. The meeting then adjourned to the ladies' bay, when the Orillia band, which had come over, played several times, and the officers elect were introduced. On Wednesday morning a tandem paddling race (double canoe) was run off with the following results:—1. S. Britton, Bobcaygeon C.C., and H. MacKendrick, Ubique C.C. 2 D. B. Jacques and H. Wright, T.C. C. 3. P. T. Strickland and D'Arcy Strickland, Lakefield C.C.

In the evening the grand ball given by the citizens of Orillia in the Agricultural Hall was attended. The event was a successful one in every respect. The decorations about the hall were very handsome. Music was provided by a string band engaged from Toronto. Flannel suits were considered full dress on this occasion, while canoeists who were not thus attired shed their coats and danced in boating costume. The ladies wore fascinating costumes of calico and light summer dresses. Altogether the affair was very much enjoyed, and the camps vote the Orillia citizens as people of exceedingly good judgement and discretion in the matter of entertainment. The camp breaks up in a few days, possibly by the end of the week.

The remedy which most successfully combats malarial disorders, is Ayer's Ague Cure. It is a purely vegetable compound, and contains neither quinine nor any other dangerous ingredient. Warranted to cure chills and ever.

Cricket Match.

A cricket match was to have been played this afternoon between those under 30 and those over 30, but the rain may interfere.

From Baalbek to Jernsalem

On Tuesday evening next, the 7th inst., in St. Andrew's Church, the Rev. D. Tully, M.A., D.D., of Media, Penn., will deliver his great lecture, "A Ride from Baalbek to Jerusalem." Commencing at 8 o'clock. Admission—silver collection at the door. 4d28.

A Feather in English's Cap.

The recent contests at the A. C. A. camp have resulted very much to the credit of Mr. W. English, our local canoe builder. In the principal contests his canoes were sailed and invariably won the race. In particular an open canoe of his build was sailed during the high wind of Tuesday, and lived during a gale that swamped checked canvass by half dozens.

Salvation Army Notes.

Two of the three new officers of the Salvation Army are now in town, and the captain is expected this evening. Lieutenant Omerod comes from Cobourg and Cadet Barth from Lakefield. In speaking of the Salvation Army officers the Cobourg World says:—"To-day Capt. Sharp, of the Salvation Army, goes to Toronto for orders and Lieut. Omerod becomes Capt. Howell's assistant in the Peterborough station. These young men have creditably acquitted themselves in the discharge of Army duties in Cobourg, where they have many friends who wish them God speed in their noble work."

A service of welcome was held in the barracks last evening. There was a large turnout and consequently a good meeting.

The apartments in the rear of the barracks are now occupied by the Army, and there is plenty of room for those who will stay there.

Canton and Oddfellows.

Members of the Canton Peterborough No. 10, and brother Oddfellows, who propose visiting Barrie should call at the REVIEW office and secure some of the handsome Society Calling Cards. Many styles to select from, and prices very low. New stock just imported. 3d28

Personal.

Mr. A. E. Mosley, Peterborough, left this morning en route for New York, where he will take the steamer City of Berlin, of the Inman line, for England. He will leave New York at about 12 o'clock to-morrow and he will probably be away two months.

Mayor Stevenson returned last night from Buffalo, where he has been on business.

Mr. H. T. Lewis, who was a student at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, passed the recent examinations for matriculation at Victoria College, Cobourg.

Noticing the change in the proprietorship of the Rossin House, Toronto, the Empire says:—"Tourists, travellers and patrons of the Rossin House will be glad to learn that they will continue to face the genial chief clerk, Mr. Alex. B. Crrig is a young gentleman with a host of friends in Ontario and the neighboring States."

Mr. John McKee is in Toronto attending the semi-annual meeting of the Druggists' Council.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For Consumption, Throat affections and Bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thos. Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Brevities.

—There were no cases at the police court this morning.

—The hands on the east side of the town clock are still detached and do not tell the time.

—Brockville has purchased the Belleville baseball franchise in the Eastern International League.

—The rain this afternoon was welcome. If it was general, roots will improved and it may help oats.

—The Peterborough Gun Club will hold their regular weekly shoot this evening on the Riverside park.

—Several canoes from the A. C. A. meet passed through this morning. Some of them went to Lakefield.

—A by-law to raise $1,500 to purchase a fire engine, was voted down in Bobcaygeon. There were eight votes in its favor.

—A case for allowing a horse to run at large and an assault case are down for hearing at the Police Court to-morrow.

—Giving an account of tableaux at Newnham, Haliburton's summer resort, the Independent says that "the leading lady was Mrs. Smith, of Peterborough."

—Bobcaygeon's civic holiday will be on August 15th, Peterborough's and Lindsay's on the 16th and Campbellford's on the 17th. There will be an excursion from the latter to Sturgeon Point as well as from here.

—Cobourg Sentinel-Star:—"At present there is quite a small colony from Port Hope at the car works. It would be a good idea for the most of them to bring their families to town also. Between Lindsay and Cobourg, Port Hope looks like a ship struck by lightning." Port Hope must be in a bad way if Cobourg can crow over it.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth it relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, it soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

CHANDOS.

VALUABLE MINING LAND.—The Campbellford Herald says:—Mr. C. P. Cameron, of Colborne, is in possession of land on lot 32, in the 2nd concession of Chandos township, in the neighborhood of Coe Hill, which may prove to be very valuable to him. He called at the Herald office while on a visit to Campbellford on Monday last, and showed us a letter respecting samples of hematite iron ore and silver ore which he recently sent to Toronto to be essayed. They were shown to Mr. Hamilton Merritt, geologist and essayist, of that city, who says the hematite is good, and would be found in paying quantities lower down in the deposit from which the sample was taken. Another expert who saw it, has the same opinion respecting it, while Mr. E. Gauzon, of Belleville, pronounces it A No. 1 for the surface. Another lead of ore sent to Mr. Merritt is said by that gentleman to contain silver.

Rifle Association Match.

There was some good shooting done at the regular monthly match of the Peterborough Rifle Association on Thursday evening. The weather was favorable and the marksmen took advantage of it. Darkness, however, put an end to the shooting before the match was finished. The 400 and 500 ranges were fired, and the other ranges will be shot at some future time.

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1888.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"I do not know what it is," said Mona, with a sigh, as she rested her head against his shoulder; "I only know that you must not leave me."

"And all this time of delicious torture!" cried Waring, "when I ruled myself with a rod of iron lest I should show you the love that was burning my heart out, you imposed upon me with iciness of mere friendship. No man could have dreamed that there was any warmth under such an exterior."

"How did you come to speak to me at last?" asked Mona, with a smile.

"It was an inspiration," said Waring. "I do not know how many kisses you owe me for the miserable moments I have had here."

"No more now, dear Leslie," she said, in a low voice, her cheek growing pale, her frame trembling, as he drew her to him.

"Not one?" he whispered, and he released her, while his heart beat with the glorious consciousness that she loved as passionately as he did himself. "I am afraid, Mona," he resumed, after a delicious silence, "that your uncle will not like to let you come into the wilds with me. But the place is not really bad; it has been cleared for a considerable time, and—"

"Poor Uncle Sandy," she interrupted. "I think he would be willing to give you the best he had; and I am by no means sure he considers me that."

"Needs must. He will miss you dreadfully."

"Then will be the opportunity to suggest Mary as my successor."

"Exactly. Shall I ask Kenneth to join me in making a double demand? You are the ruling spirit here."

"That would be too much. But, pray, speak to my uncle to-day. He deserves to be told at once."

* * * * * * * *

Dinner was got through somehow. Both Kenneth and Mary instinctively felt that something or other had taken place, the former had a shrewd idea what.

About a couple of hours after the family meal, a knock was heard at the door of Mona's room, where she had intrenched herself till the awful explanation with her uncle had been accomplished.

"Your uncle wants to speak to you, Mona," said Waring.

"Oh, Leslie! How is he?"

"The glass is at fair weather. Come along."

Uncle Sandy was looking pale, and was sitting unusually upright in his arm-chair in the library when Mona, with down-cast eyes, and the air of a culprit, came in, closely followed by Waring.

"Aweel," he said, in a solemn and somewhat tremulous tone, "I have been hearing what the grandson o' my auld maister has to say. Noo, Mona, my bairn, are you willing to tak' this mon to be your wedded husband?"

"I am, uncle," she said, softly and clearly.

"If ye are, nane has a right to withstan' you. I would be weel content if ye had not to gae sae far awa'; and I'll feel your loss sair, but ye maun follow the husband you've chosen."

"Dear uncle," said Mona, the tears hanging on her long lashes, "it will grieve me, too, to leave you; you have been a father to me, and I thank you."

She knelt beside him and kissed his thin hand.

"An' a father I'll be to ye, my lambie. Mrs. Leslie, my niece, shall have ten thoosan' pounds to her tocher; and it's glad I'll be that some of my hard earnin's go to the son of the hoose by which I earned it. But I'll be a lonely mon when ye leave me."

"You need not be, unless you choose. You can have a niece to read to you and write for you, and take care of you. Think of it, uncle, dear! Make Kenneth as happy as—as I am."

"Yes, uncle—for you must let me call you so. There could not be a better or more suitable wife found for Kenneth than the one he has found for himself!" cried Waring.

"Aweel, aweel, I will think of it; but, my lad, ye maun promise me you'll bring Mona back to see me ance mair before I die."

"I do promise you, Uncle Sandy; faithfully promise you."

The dramatic taste of moderns will not permit that minute distribution of fortune to each character which all well constituted readers ought to demand. None of ours came, however, to any tragic end, nor was Lisle's confirmed bachelorhood very detrimental to his happiness.

For the satisfaction of that estimable but diminutive portion of the public who would "ask for more," the curtain shall go up for a few minutes on the last tableau.

* * * * * * * *

Winter and summer had come and gone three times, and a glowing autumn sun was gilding the hills and deepening the purple heather, when Mona and her husband strolled together once more to the seat by the big oak tree.

"After all, Leslie, I believe I love this view the best of any."

"I am quite sure I do," said Waring, a smile stealing into his brown eyes and spreading over his healthy, happy face.

"Why are you so fond of it?" asked Mona, settling her head comfortably against his shoulder.

"Because—well, I will tell you a secret, the only one I have had from you."

"How dare you, sir? Confess at once!"

"Well, I don't think you'll mind now. The day before you deigned to accept me, I had been roaming about with Kenneth and got tired of everything, life included, so I left and strolled up the hollow there till I found myself beside those big stones, where the bracken still grows so high, and I threw myself down among them and thought what an unlucky devil I was, when I heard Lisle's voice close by, and before I could stir, you were both seated here. I hesitated, and lost my chance of appearing, until I heard too much to make it advisable to show myself. Then I listened, and if ever a fellow was lifted into the highest heaven of pride and delight, I was that day."

"What! did you hear everything I said?"

"Every word! So that I did not know how to behave myself like a rational creature, and pretended all the evening to be tired. You see, it would never have done to let you know. But if I had not heard from your own lips that you liked me—well, better than Lisle—I should never have broken silence?"

"Is it possible? I understand though! It is well you kept the secret. I should have been so awfully vexed."

"Yes; I know that."

"Just imagine my ever having hidden things from you, and being a stranger, and fearing you should look into my heart and see what a goose I was. We could never misunderstand each other now, we have grown so like."

"'As the husband, so the wife is—thou art mated to a clown!'" quoted Waring, laughing.

"Hush!" she interrupted; "you shall not say impertinent things of my guid man! But it is nearly half past four, we must go back. Mary ordered the carriage for us to go and meet General and Mrs. Fielden at five, and you know what a punctual little house-mother she is."

"Very well; but first you might give a fellow a kiss for the sake of old times."

"Yes; for past and present both, my own dear."

THE END.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowiede of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by grocers, labelled thus:

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1888

THE CANADIAN RAILWAYS

A CAUSE OF ALARM TO UNITED STATES SENATORS.

Mr. Cullom of Illinois Moves for an Investigation—What the Late Secretary Manning Did.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Cullom (Rep., Ill.) offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Interstate Commerce to ascertain and report whether any United States railroad lines are owned and operated or controlled by the Grand Trunk or Canadian Pacific or any other Canadian railway company, also whether commerce originating in the United States is diverted from American to Canadian lines, to what extent and in what manner; also whether any discrimination is practised in the charges for tolls against American vessels in the Welland Canal, to enquire into the position of the regulation of commerce carried on by railroad or waterways between the United States and Canada; the committee to report what legislation is necessary for the protection of the commercial interests of the United States and to promote the enforcement of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Mr. Cullom said he would not undertake to say in advance what the situation was fully but he had investigated the subject enough to satisfy him that the commercial interests of the United States, and he might almost say its honor, demanded that something should be done to protect American interests against the encroachments of Canadian corporations. The Canadian Pacific Railroad ran from Halifax and Quebec, skirting the St. Lawrence river and the northern border of the United States to Vancouver on the Pacific and was reaching into the United States by the purchase and building of railroads in this country. In addition the British Government or the Canadian Government had recently subsidized a line of steamers to China and Japan for the purpose of securing the commerce between those countries and the United States and Europe. Whatever might be the exact facts in these matters all senators would agree that whatever could be done consistently with the relations between the two Governments and under the constitution of the United States ought to be done so that the commerce between China and Japan and the United States shall be carried on American roads instead of Canadian roads. The purpose of the recent subsidy of £60,000 a year to a line of three steamships on the Pacific to the western terminus of the Canadian Pacific was to give the Canadian Pacific the business which would naturally come to the Union Pacific or the Northern Pacific or the Southern Pacific, and the result so far had been that 42 per cent. of the tea consumed in this country was carried by the Canadian Pacific.

Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.) said that in 1884 the late Secretary Manning investigated the question of the transportation of goods in bond through American territory and came to the conclusion that there was but one way to settle the trouble between the British Government and ourselves and that was to strike out these transportation acts. That done, Mr. Manning said, we would get all the rights demanded for our fishermen and all that was required for the railroads interested, and he absolutely, by an order, prohibited the transit of the goods, but when the law officers came to examine the question they advised him that he had no right to prevent the transit. The Senator referred to the C. P. R. extension through Maine, which, he said, would give them an advantage over the American roads of two days between Liverpool and Japan, which meant a monopoly of that trade. Mr. Gorman also alluded to the fact that the Republican candidate for Vice-President, Levi P. Morton, was a director of the C. P. R.

Mr. Edmunds (Rep., Vt.) replied to Mr. Gorman and the debate was closed by Mr. Cullom, after which the maolon was carried without a division.

The Senate then took up the Fiheries Treaty in open executive session and was addressed by Mr. Teller (Rep., Col.) in opposition to its ratification.

Incendiary Fires at Fredericton.

FREDERICTON, N. B. Aug. 3.—There is intense excitement here over several incendiary fires which occurred last night and early this morning. Five places, one of them the engine house, were set on fire together. Two houses were burned. There is no clue to the indendiaries.

William's Best Thanks.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—On leaving the fleet on his return from his tour, Emperor William signalled that he was perfectly satisfied with the manner in which the officers and men had performed their duty during the voyage. He concluded the message with "my best thanks." The message was received with vociferous cheers. While at Friedrichsruhe the Emperor allowed himself to be photographed with the Chancellor.

The Italian Government's Threat.

ROME, Aug. 3.—The government, in a circular to the Catholic missions in Asia and Africa, threatens to withdraw the subsidy to them unless they accept the patronage of King Humbert, and permit a government inspection of their curriculum and books.

In the Wild West.

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 3.—The governor being satisfied that the civic authorities of Stevens county are unable to preserve the peace, has ordered the Second brigade and Second battery to proceed there at once.

Scott Act Cases in Ontario County.

UXBRIDGE, Aug. 3.—Hotelkeeper Frank Webb was fined $100 with the alternative of 60 days, by Police Magistrate Hornie to-day for violation of the Scott Act. Cases against John Bascom and Simon Allcock, also hotelkeepers, were dismissed.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A TERRIBLE HOLOCAUST.

Thirteen Persons Burnt to Death in a New York Tenement House.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Thirteen people were burned to death in a six-story brick building in the rear of 197 Bowery this afternoon. Six more, burnt so badly that they will probably die, were removed to various hospitals.

The house was a ramshackle hidden in the middle of the block, the only entrance to it being a narrow alley from the Bowery. In front of it was a four-story building, on the first floor of which was a saloon called the White Elephant. Adjoining this is Harry Miner's People's Theatre. In rear of the burned building were two houses hemming it in on the Christie-street side. In this caged-in building lived about 150 people. Each of the six floors was occupied by a single family the head of which was a tailor who made clothing for the cheap wholesale clothing houses and employed from fifteen to twenty men, women and children in addition to his own family in making up the clothing. They were all Polish Jews and the employers and the employed worked, ate and slept in the rooms of the dingy tenement.

About 4.15 o'clock this afternoon, while all the occupants of the building were busily at work in the closing hours preceding their Sabbath eve flames broke out in the lower floor. The fire had already made such headway that it was in full possession of the stairway and escape by it seemed impossible. Many of the frightened inmates, however, rushed through the flames into the narrow court with clothes ablaze. Six of them were so severely burned that they were taken to the hospital and may die. There were fire escapes on front and rear of the house, but before any of the inmates had time to escape by them the flames had ascended through the house and were rushing from the windows, so that descent by the fire escape was impossible. One man, already half burned to death, escaped from a front story window and fell a mass of mangled flesh in the little courtyard. Others jumped from the second story windows and escaped with bruises.

A. H. Sheldon, manager of the People's Theatre, on discovering the fire sent out an alarm and the firemen responded, but when they arrived the flames already had complete possession of the house and nothing could be done to save it and little to save its inmates. Chas. W. Norman, property man of the theatre, with several of his comrades ran to the roof of the theatre, carrying a ladder which they stretched over to a window of the burning building. A woman with her hair and clothing already ablaze appeared at the window and Norman called to her to cross over on the ladder. She cried back that she could not leave her two children. Norman tried to cross over on the ladder, but the flames drove him back and he could not save her. Afterwards the charred bodies of the mother and two children were found in the building. Three men, however, availed themselves of the ladder and escaped to the roof of the theatre.

When the firemen had at last drowned the flames so that they could enter the house, they searched floor by floor, as they ascended and on the third floor they found the burned bodies of a man, a woman and a boy; on the fourth floor they found five bodies so badly burned that it was impossible to tell whether they were men or women; on the fifth floor no bodies were found but on the sixth there lay on the floor five more bodies and they also were burned so that it could not be told whether they were men or women. This made thirteen bodies found in the building, that of the man who leaped from the fifth story window increased the list to fourteen, while it is feared the deaths of some, if not all those in the hospitals, will make the number greater.

PRICES AND PROSPECTS.

Significant Signs Appearing Which Predict a Revival of Trade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show unexpectedly early signs of a revival in several lines of general trade. In some lines the improvement has already begun, notably in dry goods, woolens and cottons and boots and shoes. The greatest relative increase in the volume of general trade has been at Boston and Philadelphia, Louisville, Chicago and at the Northwest.

The crop outlook through the Ohio Valley is said to be excellent. Crop reports elsewhere are in the main quite favorable.

Mercantile collections are slow, and do not promise an immediate gain, as funds are still going from interior financial centres to the country to pay for and move the crop.

The New York stock market continues narrow and professional, but strong and advancing on the crop prospects and expected improvement in railroad earning. Bullish feeling is inceased by the settlement of the cable rate wa.. The demand for investment bonds is steady and improving.

Money at New York is easy on call, but slightly harder for commercial paper. Call loans are quoted at 1½ per cent. Foreign exchange is weak on free offerings of both grain and security bills. Demand sterling stands at 4.87½ and 4.87¾.

Our monthly report of stocks of wheat in the United States and Canada, east of the Rocky mountains, covering nearly 1000 points, shows a total of 30,101,951 bushels, nearly 3,500,000 bushels less than were held on July 1, and about 10,000,000 bushels less than were held on June 1, 1888. The price of cash wheat advanced from 92½c, delivered, on Tuesday week, to 97½c, delivered. The leading cause is rainy weather in Europe and prospective deficient crops in England and France.

Mr. Raines Will Take Notice.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—United States detectives left this city for San Francisco on Sunday to arrest Mr. Raines, alias Raymond, alias Colby, a Baptist minister, spiritualist, gambler and train robber, for whom they have been searching since 1877. He is now playing the role of slate writing medium.

France's Poor Crops.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—The President of the French Agricultural Society has made a report regarding the losses caused by the recent rains. He says hay has been destroyed and that the peasants have been compelled to kill their animals, being unable to feed them. He also says that corn cannot ripen, that potatoes are rotting and that the vintage this year will be inferior. He estimates the loss to agriculture at half a milliard of francs, and says if the bad weather continues a month longer the crisis will extend to enormous dimensions.

The Tennessee Election.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Returns are coming in slowly. The indications are that East Tennessee has gone Republican by the usual majority and that there are Democratic gains in Middle and West Tennessee.

Mortuary Statistics of Canadian Cities.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—The mortuary of the chief cities of the Dominion for 1887, compiled by the Department of Agriculture, have been issued. The following table shows the death rate per thousand of population in each city furnishing statistics:

Montreal 30.74, Toronto 19.34, Quebec 28.34, Hamilton, 17.94, Halifax 18.17, Ottawa 21.96, St. John, N.B. 20.95, London 16.15, Winnipeg 24.55, Kingston 16.86, Charlottetown 11.98, Brantford 15.99, Victoria, B.C. 17.08, Hull 41.91, St. Thomas 1.77, Guelph 15.98, Belleville 20.12, Three Rivers 25.21, Sherbrooke 24.25, Peterboro' 17.08, Chatham, Ont. 11.86, Woodstock, Ont. 18.18, Fredericton 16.42, Sorel 35.89, Galt 16.72, St. Hyacinthe 27.10.

M.P.'S AT A WHITE HEAT

PEOPLE OUTSIDE THE HOUSE NO COOLER.

Violence of the Debate Against the Parnell Commission—Tremendous Imputations Flung Lightly About.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Mr. Parnell, his friends and allies are fighting against the commission as if it were a question of life or death. The Irish leader has the unflinching support of Mr. Gladstone, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Morley and the whole Gladstonian wing of the Liberal party. They have, nevertheless, carried resistance to a point which spoils their Plan of Campaign. Mr. Parnell still intends to offer to bring an action for libel against The Times as an alternative to the inquiry before the commission. The offer will be in vain. The Government have resolved to proceed with a common action or no action. When they first made their proposal for an inquiry by judges it was open to Mr. Parnell to accept or reject it. He declined to do either. If he now seeks to go back to that offer, he will be told it is too late. He had the option and refused it. The offer was not a continuing one, is not now open to him, and will not be renewed. The situation, indeed, has changed in several respects for the worse. The Government and the House of Commons have steadily rejected every amendment and refused every concession demanded. Their bill remains what it was, a bill for unlimited inquiry into every charge made by The Times against everybody in connection with "Parnellism and Crime."

Mr. Parnell's counter charge against Mr. Chamberlain has, at least for the present, broken down. The debate on the amendments has been so violent that on neither side is there now any disposition to give quarter. The most tremendous imputations are flung lightly about and the language is such as has rarely been heard in the House of Commons in its worst days. Mr. Parnell, once the coolest of men, has been at a white-heat all the week. Twice over has he accused his opponents of using poison and dagger. In his passionate peroration of Tuesday night, he protested against the miserable dodges of the Ministry, and cried out: "Oh! it is poor; it is cowardly; it is leading the dice; it is poisoning the dagger." Mr. Labouchere says unrebuked on the floor of the House: "It is conspiracy." Sir William Vernon Harcourt observed that the Government made themselves "a mere conduit pipe for the foul water of The Times." Then changing the metaphor, he said they had to deal with "the slimy web of calumny woven by The Times and its counsel, and to wallow in this slime," whereupon the Solicitor-General for Scotland reminded Sir William it was he who once described the Tories as "stewing in Parnellite juice."

Mr. Healy, whose invective amuses the House in its most serious moments, improved on Sir Wm. Harcourt's "slimy web of calumny." The Irish members, according to him, were "drenched from the hose of the Attorney-General's liquid measure tank" and shot at by "Ministerial moonlighters from behind a hedge with blackened faces." The Home Secretary, whose conduct of his share of this business has been even less adroit than Mr. Smith's, insinuated as Mr. O'Connor cried out, that Byrne was directed by abler, wickeder men than himself, meaning the Parnellites. This Mr. Matthews promptly denied. Mr. Morley declared that if Mr. Redmond's story about himself and The Times was true, The Times had been guilty of the deepest infamy in suppressing Mr. Redmond's letter. This morning's issue prints Mr. Redmond's letter verbatim. Mr. Morley offers no explanation. Mr. Gladstone, whose words are in common times studiously moderate, accuses the Ministry of shirking, of surreptitiously shifting the issue. Mr. Goschen attacked Mr. Gladstone with a vehemence all the more bitter because his words were quoted. An animated wrangle went on across the table on the point whether Mr. Gladstone did or did not believe Mr. Smith's word of honor. "I do," retorted Mr. Gladstone, but straightway he qualified his assurance by insisting that the assertion he was called on to believe must be rational and intelligible. When the Home Rulers laughed at Mr. Goschen he exclaimed: "Oh, I have nothing to do with the members below the gangway who langh." "Nothing to do with them," replied Sir William Vernon Harcourt, "yet they represent a nation."

Nor are people outside the House cooler than those inside. The Times itself describes Messrs. Parnell, Healy, T. P. O'Connor and Sexton as pouring out a flood of blackguardism, and Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Harcourt as entering into competition with the foul-mouthed oratory of the Parnellites.

The most serious of all the many accusations against the Ministry are two. The first is that they inserted—for that is what it comes to—the words "other persons" in the bill under pressure from Mr. Walter. This has been denied again and again by Mr. Smith, Mr. Goschen and other Ministers, but their opponents will not accept these denials. The second is that Mr. Matthews has blundered out that the real or primary object of the commission is not as alleged to inquire into The Times' charges, but into the history of the "Land and National Leagues." This is what Mr. Gladstone meant when he charged the Government with having broken the solemn covenant into which they had entered.

Mr. O'Shea's letter to The Times is another candid friend's contribution to this dispute. Mr. O'Shea was formerly Mr. Parnell's right hand man in his negotiations with the Liberal leaders. Having quarreled with him he now comes forward to confirm Mr. Chamberlain's account of the interview between him and Mr. Parnell after the Phœnix Park murders. Mr. O'Shea arranged, he tells us, that interview. So of the National Council scheme, it was Mr. Parnell's very own and exists in his own handwriting. Mr. Parnell, however, has long had, according to Mr. O'Shea, a fixed idea that Mr. Chamberlain did divulge Cabinet secrets and had long threatened to accuse him.

"The best advice I ever gave him," says O'Shea, "was that Mr. Chamberlain would not object to his doing so at Charing Cross." But the sting of this letter is in its tail. It is astounding to hear that Mr. Parnell assented to, even prepared, in 1885, a Coercion Bill. Mr. Chamberlain has Mr. Parnell's draft. It is a copy of the original act altered, says Mr. O'Shea, by Mr. Parnell's own hand into the form in which he proposed it should be passed with just enough show of opposition in the House of Commons to satisfy those concerned. Mr. Parnell's evening organ in the London press makes no reference to this letter. G. W. S.

Hamilton Notes.

HAMILTON, Aug 3.—The arrangements made so far for the lecture to introduce the inebriate asylum movement in Central Church on Monday night are very satisfactory, and strong hopes are entertained by the promoters that the affair will be a decided success, and that there will be a great gathering of people.

Two tugs arrived at the canal this morning with a Government dredge. She will commence work immediately.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The business failures occuring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 191 and for Canada 23, or a total of 214 as compared with 221 last week and 228 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the failures numbered 183, made up of 163 in the United States and 20 in Canada.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1888.

THE NEW MINISTERS.

It was to be expected that the Opposition organs would assail the new members of the Cabinet, Messrs. Dewdney and Haggart—because they have assailed every Conservative Minister and would attack any Conservative who was selected for such an office. It is noticeable, however, that Mr. Haggart's appointment has been approved of even by Liberal papers, one of the ablest newspapers opposing the Government endorsing his selection for the portfolio.

The attacks upon Mr. Dewdney, however, are bitter. Stale charges that were threshed out and refuted during the last election contest are again brought forward as though they were knew discoveries. At the time of the last political campaign official reports were garbled in the most extraordinary manner to make out a case against the Government and especially the Indian Department and Mr. Dewdney, and the charges based on these garblings and misrepresentions are now being rehashed. But the people of the North-west, where Mr. Dewdney has been Lieutenant-Governor, and who know him better than these eastern critics, are not only satisfied but pleased with the appointment. They asked for his appointment, both through the press and by public meetings. A meeting was held in Calgary, Alberta, N. W. T., on June 21st, at which resolutions asking for Mr. Dewdney's appointment to the Ministry of the Interior were unanimously adopted. The Tribune, the Liberal paper at Calgary, says that there was a large attendance and that "great enthusiasm was displayed." The first resolution was moved and seconded by Liberals, one of whom was a Liberal candidate at the Dominion elections. The Tribune itself and other Liberal papers recommended Mr. Dewdney for the office.

In view of these facts the attacks on Mr. Dewdney will have little weight. The new Minister of the Interior has had considerable experience in public affairs. He was a member of the British Columbia Legislature in 1869-69, and represented Kootenay, B.C., in the House of Commons from 1872 until 1879, when he was appointed Indian Commissioner. In 1881 he was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the North-west, Mr. Dewdney is thoroughly familiar with the Northwest and its requirements, with which he will especially have to deal, and also knows and understands the Indians of that country. His experience will be of great service in the Interior Department.

Mr. Haggart, the new Postmaster-General, was for several years Mayor of Perth. He has been member of the Commons for South Lanark since 1872. He is a man of good business capacity and large Parliamentary experience, and is well qualified for the office for which he has been selected.

REPLYING to a remark made by the Montreal Witness—not an original one—that "the day of canals is over," the Hamilton Spectator says:—"Talk about railways killing canals! If it were not for the ditch below Montreal, that city would be a hamlet to which no number of railways could give life. The Erie canal is in direct competition with many railway systems, and it finds all the work it can do. It is maintained at vast expense by the Government of the State of New York, and the people would look upon the closing of the canal as a national calamity."

IT is a pity, however, that a political campaign could not be conducted without raking up forgotten offences, many of which were doubtless long since condoned.—London Advertiser.

True. It was not a manly act that Sir Richard Cartwright did when he attacked that one-legged man last session.

Religious Services.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.

Temperance Meetings.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In your issue of Thursday, there is a notice to the effect that no meetings are to be held in the park, and asking the Chief of Police to assist them to carry out the resolution of the committee. All we have to say is, we are law abiding citizens, and do not require police to compel us to respect the rights of others, but thought we had equal right with those dog-fighters, ball-players, and stone-throwers that took possession of the park several weeks before. We held a meeting there, and our meetings did not prevent flowers blooming or grass growing, nor yet break young shoots of newly planted trees, like I saw a lad trying to toss a hat for fully twenty minutes on the top of one of these trees.

Now, Sir, we do use strong language about men, but were not aware that temperance could hurt grass, trees or flowers, so we have decided to hold our meetings on the market square from 4 to 5 every Sunday afternoon. We remain yours truly,

H. BOSSITER,
R. HOLLAND.

OMEMEE.

A RASCALLY TRICK.—Some days ago Mr. T. Eisom, of Emily, had a valuable horse shot and killed, by some scoundrel. The animal was found early in the morning with a bullet hole through it. It is a pity the person who committed this rascally trick is not known so that he could be punished at once.—Herald.

Cricket Match.

A cricket match was played on the P. A. A. grounds by members over and members under thirty. The "overs" scored 181 and the "unders" 99 with three wickets to fall when the play ended. The result was, therefore, a draw. The following is the score:—

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Oatmeal Millers' Association to be Wound Up—Swindled Italians.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—At a meeting of the Ontario Oatmeal Millers' Association yesterday afternoon it was decided that the association would wind up its affairs on Sept. 1, and thereafter cease to exist. The present prices will be maintained until the new oats come on the market.

The Industrial Exhibition Association are negotiating for the loan of the great $100,000 Munkaczy painting, "Christ before Pilate," for their art gallery during the approaching fall.

An Italian named Alfonso De Santi pleaded not guilty before the police magistrate yesterday, when charged with having by false pretences obtained $7 from Vincenso Bastone. The Crown Attorney said that defendant and his brother had shipped a number of Italian laborers to Toronto. From each they collected $7, and for each fare they paid $3, retaining $4 for themselves. The Italians did not get work here as promised by the Santis, and were now in a starving condition, dependent on charity. De Santi was remanded for a week.

John G. Miller was sent for trial at the assizes on three charges of forgery.

Three burglars named Joseph McFarlane, George J. Daves and Thomas Smith were sentenced br the police magistrate yesterday to five, three and two years respectively in the Kingston Penitentiary.

DESERTED BY THEIR PARENTS.

Three Little Girls Turned Out into the Streets of Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Three pretty little girls were brought to the Central Police Station to-day by Sergt. Murphy, who found them on Centre-street last evening at 11 o'clock without a home and without food. The eldest, Marie Cunningham, told the Recorder that their father left them and their mother some months ago, and a few days ago their mother also left them and last evening they were put on the street by their landlord, whose name they did not know. They were very hungry, she said, she and her two little sisters Celia and Gracie, twins, 3 years old. The Recorder instructed Chief Hughes to arrest the father and mother. Meanwhile he would try to have the children brought to the Providence Asylum.

Provincial Appointments.

TORONTO, Aug. 4—The administrator of the Government has made the following appointments: Eernando Edward Titus, of Brighton, County Northumberland, barrister-at-law, to be a notary public; James Sutherland Robertson, of St. Thomas, County Elgin, barrister-at-law, to be a notary public; Frederick Weir Harcourt, of Toronto, barrister-at-law, to be a notary public.

A Fatal Fall.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—A young lad named John Todd fell down the hoist in R. H. Holland & Co's, on St. Paul-street, this morning and broke one of his arms and ancles, his leg in two places above the knee, one of his knee caps, and one of his ribs. He will not recover.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 3.—The Richardson gold mine is reported to be yielding at the rate of $27 per ton.

Bush fires are causing great damage. Mr. Graham's farm buildings in Huntingdon and two cars of the Central Ontario Railway at St. Ola have been burned.

Mr. Ambrose Roles, aged 80, died in the hospital yesterday.

This afternoon the Oddfellows decorated the graves of their departed brethren. There were about 2000 persons present to witness the ceremony.

Big Phosphate Finds on the K. and P.

KINGSTON, Aug. 3.—There is considerable excitement along the line of the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, owing to phosphate finds. Boyd Smith's mine at Eagle Lake has turned out to be the largest now known in the Dominion. A vein 20 feet wide has been discovered from which 100 tons per day are being shipped. There is nothing in the Buckingham district to equal it, and as the excitement is spreading prospectors are actively engaged in all directions.

A Stratford Man Killed by Lightning.

STRATFORD, Aug. 3.—Thomas Rice, butcher, was instantly killed by lightning to-night. Mr. Rice had sought shelter from the rain in his barn, and not coming in to tea at the accustomed hour, one of the family went to search for him, when to their horror they found Mr. Rice dead. His hat was torn to shreds, but he was not disfigured.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come str aight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh winds mostly east and south; fair weather, with local showers or thunderstorms by night.

Prospects Brighter.

The splendid rain of Friday night brings brighter prospects to farmers. The root crops will receive great benefit. This combined with low prices for goods at the golden lion will make life worth living.

A Canine Rip Van Winkle

A few days ago a resident of McDonnel-st. drowned a small pup in a pail of water and then buried it. A short time afterward the mother dog exhumed her offspring and restored it back to life again. At last accounts it was in a flourishing condition.

The Matriculants.

Mr. Vernon Halliday, who matriculated at Toronto University, was prepared in mathematics by Mr. E. Duff, having taken lessons from him since January. Mr. Duff has been successful in preparing students for matriculation, as the two young men who studied with him both passed.

Valedictory.

A farewell service in connection with the departure of Miss Jessie Munroe to the mission work in Japan, will be held on Monday evening next, August 6th, in the George-st. Church. Addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Messrs. Shorey, Wilson and others. The chair will be taken by the pastor at 8 o'clock. A collection to be presented to the missionary to assist her in the work, will be taken up. Miss Munroe leaves for Japan next Wednesday.

To Barrie on Tuesday.

Canton Peterborough No. 10, accompanied by the band, go to Barrie on Tuesday next and will take part in the demonstration in that town in connection with the Oddfellows Grand Lodge there in session. The Canton as a body is sure to create a very favorable impression and will no doubt gather in complimetary opinions on their handsome appearance. They leave on Tuesday by the 6.40 G.T.R. train via Port Hope to Toronto, and via northern line to Barrie, which will be reached by 1 p.m.

Obituary.

On Wednesday last one of the oldest pioneers of Ops passed away to his reward, the Lindsay Post says, in the person of Mr. William Shine, of lot 16, 3rd concession. Mr. Shine emigrated from Ireland with his father about 1825 and settled in Smithtown, near Peterborough, where they purchased a farm and resided upon it for thirty-three years. After the death of his father Mr. Shine, who had been happily married in the meantime, moved to Ops and settled on the homestead, which at that time bore little trace of its present appearance of prosperity. Here by incessant industry he gathered a fine property. At all times to the front in movements calculated for the public good, he became widely known and universally esteemed by a large circle of friends. He brought up a family of thirteen children, of whom ten survive, most of them married and all well and comfortably situated.

Tried to Commit Suicide.

Yesterday afternoon Police Magistrate Dumble held court at the gaol, when the family of Browns from Dummer were committed as lunatics. The family consists of Jane Brown, aged 40, and her daughters, Deborah, aged 18, and Hildah, aged 13. They were first committed to gaol under the vagrancy act in May of last year by Magistrate Kidd. At different times since they have been confined in the gaol they have tried to commit suicide by butting their heads against the stone walls. They are easily excited, and when they become excited they are quite dangerous. They have at times broken pails, dishes and other articles in the corridor and need watching. They have clearly shown that they have not sound minds, and the unhappy trio, as they have been adjudged lunatics, may be removed to a place where their cases can receive such attention as they require.

The tonic and alternative properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla are too well known to require the specious aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of the marvelous cures effected by this preparation are to-day living in every city and hamlet of the land.

Autumn Exhibitions.

Peterborough Central, at Peterborough, Sept. 25th, 26th and 27th.

East Peterborough, at Norwood, October 9th and 10th.

Industrial, at Toronto, September 10th to 22nd.

Agricultural and Arts Association, at Kingston, Sept. 10th to 15th.

Bay of Quinte, at Belleville, September 25th to 28th.

Manvers, at Bethany, Sept. 28th and 29th.

Lindsay Central, at Lindsay, Oct. 2nd to 4th.

Enlarged.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Mr. Joe. Daly, the genial proprietor of the well known hotel of that name, has been forced by increasing business to cast about for more accommodation, and has been so fortunate as to secure the rooms over the stores of S. Baker & Co. and S. J. Petty. These will be fitted up for sample and bedrooms, and will be convenient, as the entrance door is not ten feet from the hotel. A five year's lease of a large stable and yard adjoining the present one has also been secured."

The Hespeler Mills.

Mr. Brodie, of Brodie's woollen mills, Peterborough, has purchased the Hespeler mills, which are supplied with machinery for manufacturing woollen and cotton goods. These mills were closed some time ago, and Mr. Brodie has concluded the purchase of them from the Bank of Montreal. The original cost and the outlay on these mills has been about $300,000 and they are of large capacity. Mr. Brodie will remove from Peterborough next May or June. In the new mills he will have enlarged scope for the business capacity and energy which has built up his business here and made it a success. Mr. Brodie's removal from Peterborough will be regretted, as the places of such men of business are not easily filled, and he and his family will be missed from local circles.

Good Words for a Good Show.

We wish to say to every newspaper publisher within the limits of our exchange that the Miller & Freeman Circus and Menagerie, which recently closed its engagement here, is eminently worthy of public patronage. The exhibition is among the largest and best on the road, and the performances have all the essentials of novelty, variety and excellence. The riders are the best that have visited us, and the gymnastic performances are wonderfully clever. As a clown, Mr. James Murray is the most brilliant in the ring, and his services would be an acquisition to any circus. The perilous parachute descent of Professor Ned Hathaway was witnessed by thousands of spell-bound spectators, who expected to see him dashed to the earth in a shapeless mass, but who cheered to the echo when he landed safely and unharmed.—Exchange. This show will be here on Monday.

An Omission.

In the list of public school promotions the name of Willie Connal was inadvertently omited. He passed from Mr. Walkie's room to Mr. Smith's, and stood tenth in Mr. Walkie's class.

Teachers' Examinations.

Sixty-two candidates for teachers' certificates wrote at Peterborough, 43 of whom wrote for the third class. The following were successful:—Second class—S. Brown, E. Cameron, R. Armstrong, W. Carruthers, E. Middleton, A. Smith, J. Sullivan. Third class—H. Bennett, K. Nelson, W. Wood.

From Bailbek to Jerusalem.

On Tuesday evening next, the 7th inst., in St. Andrew's Church, the Rev. D. Tully, M.A., D.D., of Media, Penn., will deliver his great lecture, "A Ride from Bailbek to Jerusalem." Commencing at 8 o'clock. Admission—silver collection at the door. Organ solos by Mr. Carter during the evening. 4d28

Journalistic.

The Toronto Globe has issued a mammoth board of trade edition. It is embellished with portraits of the members of the Council of the Toronto Board of Trade and also illustrations of many business places. It is well printed and well got up, and a credit to the office of publication.

Our Market.

There was a fair attendance at the market this morning. The prices asked were as follows:—Butter 22 and 23c. per pound, eggs 15 and 16c. per dozen, potatoes 20 and 25c. per peck, peas 10c. per quart, apples 25c. per peck, celery 50 to 60c. per dozen heads, raspberries $1.25 per pail and carrots, onions, etc. 5c. per bunch. There was a wagon load of beautiful flowers at various prices.

Stone Approaches.

The wooden approaches to the Grand Trunk bridge over the Otonabee, at the locks, have been removed and stone approaches constructed. The material was brought from Foxboro at is large and heavy stone. This work will be more durable and also will be more solid for the trains to run over. There is a large amount of traffic on this line, heavy freight trains passing east on the Grand Junction at almost every hour of the night as well as day.

A Packet of A. C. A. Notes.

The Orillia Packet's A. C. A. notes this week are as racy and interesting as those of the previous week. We take the following from them:—"Mr. E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough, is an ex-Commodore of the Association.....Dr. Douglas is entitled to wear the Victoria Cross, awarded only for conspicuous bravery before the enemy.....Judge Weller, of Peterborough, arrived in the beginning of the week, to share with Judge Dartnell the honor of representing the Bench.....The Otonabee's black cat always keeps its back up, but when it comes to caterwauling at a race, for the encouragement of a confrere, there is at least one good-looking member of the Ubiques who can discount it.....The veteran canoeist, Dr. Douglas, V. C., of the Lakefield Club, came on Friday, in good time for his duties as a member of the Regatta Committee, and has since given a good account of himself in the races .....There are thirty-six lady honourary members of the A. C. A., and among them the following Canadians:—Mrs. Edward Leigh, Toronto; Miss Mary E. Burnet, Miss Sophie Burnet, Mrs. E. B. Edwards, Miss G. Hall, Miss T. Hall and Miss B. Hall, Peterborough.....The press is represented by Mr. Toker, a well known member of the Empire's editorial staff; Mr. F. H. Dobbin, of the Peterborough DAILY REVIEW; Mr. Richard Lees, Toronto Mail, and Mr. R. Tyson, Toronto Globe and World. Mr. McLean, of the Canadian Grocer, is also of the Company.....A Peterborough man was observed a day or two ago, giving swimming lessons to a friend; "Now put that paddle under your chin," said he; "imagine yourself a mule, with some fool tickling your heels, and kick like thunder. It will come quite natural, you'll find!" Perhaps no personal reflection was intended, but the pupil seemed doubtful.....Mr. Percy Strickland, of Lakefield, whose name figures conspicuously among the winners, is one of crack canoeists of the continent. As a paddler the veteran Dr. Douglas pushes him hard (sometimes beating him, as he did last year, at the A.C.A. meet), and the speed at which he propels his canoe, sitting comfortably on the bottom, apparently marking no exertion, is simply marvellous.....In the lady and gentleman's tandem race Mrs. Melville Millar paddled with Mr. S. S. Robinson, and they came in wonderfully close to the winners, considering that Mrs. Millar had not had a paddle in her hand for twenty years previously. Compliments were showered upon her from all quarters, Miss Ida Boate entered in the same race with Dr. Powell, and did remarkably well for a contestant who then took a paddle in her hand for but the fourth time."

The remedy which most successfully combats malarial disorders, is Ayer's Ague Cure. It is a purely vegetable compound, and contains neither quinine nor any other dangerous ingredient. Warranted to cure chills and fever.

Still Burning.

A fire started several weeks ago on the bank on Water-st., at the Goose Pond. The gully at that point has been filled up several yards deep and rubbish has been thrown in and covered with gravel. The fire has been smouldering ever since and is eating along under the gravel. Showers of rain have fallen upon it and it seemed to have been quenched, but last night it was still burning.

The Town Clock.

Mr. R. W. Muncaster, the caretaker of the town clock, complains that the wire guards, which cover the face of the clock, have become very loose and frequently catch the hands and in consequence he has been obliged to stop the hand on the east side until the guards are fixed. He suggests that they be either re-arranged or removed altogether, the latter being preferable as he cannot see that there is any use for them at all at present.

Shocked by Lightning.

Last evening while the thunder storm was passing over here Mrs. T. Robinson received a shock from one of the first flashes of lightning. She and two others were standing on the back porch when she received the shock, and she ran into the house where she fainted and remained unconscious for some time. Medical aid was immediately summoned, but it was found that no serious results would follow. Mrs. Robinson had some metal articles in her hands and her fingeres are slightly singed. She will be confined to her bed for a short time.

Camping Notes.

Mr. E. B. Edwards has returned from the A.C.A. camp. Col. Harry Rogers and Judge Weller returned last night.

Mrs. J. A. Hall went north this morning to join the Sheriff at Stoney Lake.

Mrs. G. J. Early came down last night from Sturgeon Point, where she has been spending some days.

A party went to Bridgenorth this morning and will spend a week cruising and fishing about the lake. It consisted of Messrs. J.D. Craig, C. Rotherford, H. Evans and S. Sharp.

Mr. L. Sherlock and Mr. W. Thompson and families went down the Otonabee this afternoon to live under canvas for a week.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Personal.

Mr. Jas. Stewart reached town from the Old Country to-day, accompanied by Mrs. Stewart, who met her husband at Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Stewart looks hale and hearty and has gained in weight. The climate across the pond he reports as not satisfactory, having had to wear his winter clothes while away.

Mr. John Kennedy of Lindsay was in town to-day on business.

Mr. S. Cornell, of Lindsay, was in town yesterday on business.

Miss Etta Harper, shorthand teacher, Peterborough, has gone home to spend a few weeks. Her classes will be resumed about 1st of September.

Canton and Oddfellows.

Members of the Canton Peterborough No. 10, and brother Oddfellows, who propose visiting Barrie should call at the REVIEW office and secure some of the handsome Society Calling Cards. Many styles to select from, and prices very low. New stock just imported. 3d28

Brevities.

—Millbrook wants a new railway station.

—The ballast train is at work on the Chemong Lake railway.

—A Stratford physician always travels on a bicycle when visiting patients.

—Millbrook defeated Port Hope at lacrosse yesterday, by three straight games.

—There will be a regular meeting of the Board of Education next Tuesday evening.

—The town clock was stopped this morning, but was started again all right before ten o'clock—all but the east side.

—A milkman had one of his large measures rattled out of his waggon this afternoon by starting his horse rather suddenly.

—A car loaded with coal was run off the end of the Grand Trunk siding at McBain's storehouse. One truck of the car left the track and rested on Charlotte-st.

—Darkness came too quickly for the members of the Gun Club last night, and their regular practice match had to be postponed.

—Mr. James Johnston desires to publicly return thanks to Mr. T. G. Hazlitt for letting the water off at his dam and otherwise assisting to recover the body of his little son who was drowned.

—The rain last night was a refreshing shower. The thunder was loud and the lightening sharp. It was very general and will do root crops and late oats good and may help to fill out spring wheat in some cases.

—It beats all the conveniences that are got together now adays. W. G. Bain & Co. have just made for Canton Peterborough a a prettily shaped canteen, which is to be ornamented in appropriate colors by Mr. H. W. Watson. The canteen, carried by a cantoneer, will hold iced water for refreshments of members on the line of march.

—Lindsay Post:—"Mr. Joe. Daly's flyer, Eastie D., will now be put into active training at once, so as to be in condition for the coming races on the 16th (civic holiday), and other events. Her fine colt by Phil Rysdyk, was weaned last week, and a more promising youngster at less than four months old it would be hard to find. He stands 12 hands and 1 inch high, and at four months will go an inch better."

FROM MILLBROOK.

A Flood Breaks a Dam and Does other Damage—A Fire.

By Telephone to the Review.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 4.—The rain fell heavily here last night. It came down in torrents and swelled the streams until the dam at Mr. G. McIvor's mill gave way. The water poured through and carried away a large portion of the dam. Some feed was also washed out and injured. The water overflowed the banks and the cellars of a number of houses were flooded, but it did not rise high enough to do other damage. Mr. McIvor's loss will be about $500.

A fire was discovered in the school building this forenoon. It started in a desk, but had made no headway when noticed. The brigade was called out, but the flames were easily extinguished.

Keller Goes for Trial.

The Toronto Empire of to-day says:—"John G. Mallar, alias Walker, was committed for trial for forgery by Col. Denison in the police court yesterday. A prima facie case was made out and the prisoner was taken over the Don, as the magistrate refused to accept bail. Mallar called at Oak Hall a few weeks since and bought clothing to the value of $13. He tendered a cheque purporting to have been signed by H. O'Hara, of the Temperance and General Life Assurance Co., for $20, and was paid the difference, $7. Mr. O'Hara repudiated the signature and the case was reported to the police. No trace of Mallar could be had at that time. Two weeks later he purchased in the store of Richard Baker at Yonge and Shutter sts. gents' furnishings to the value of $21.54, for which a cheque for $30 bearing Mr. O'Hara's name was tendered. The forger received $8.55 in change and then attempted to work off another cheque with a spurious signature on Wm. A. East, 336 Yonge-st. Mr. East accepted the cheque, but without losing any time he instituted enquired and discovered that the signature was a forgery. Mallar's arrest was soon followed."

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

CLOTHING!

You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and limit an order to Wilson. A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

THE WRIT FOR LANARK.

NOMINATIONS ON AUG. 15 AND POLLING ON AUG. 22.

Notices from The Gazette—Inland Revenue Receipts for the Fiscal Year Ended June 30—Isle Perrot Light House Burnt—Personal Notes.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—To-morrow's Canada Gazette will contain the following appointments:

Judge Olivier, County Court Judge of Prescott and Russell, to be the Local Judge of the High Court of Justice for Ontario.

L. W. Sicott of Montreal to be a commissioner to take and administer oaths under the Naturalization Act.

Edward Merrill of Picton, Ont., barrister-at-law, to be Deputy Judge of the County Court of Prince Edward County during the absence of Judge Jolliet.

Letters patent of incorporation have been issued to the Dominion Mercantile Company to purchase the business of the Georgian Bay Consolidated Lumber Company.

Letters patent have also been issued to the Lake Superior Tug Company.

Notice is given of application to Parliament for an act to incorporate the Canadian Live Stock Insurance Company with its chief office in Montreal.

A meeting of the shareholders of the St. Lawrence and Adirondack Railway Company is called for Aug. 21 at Valleyfield.

The Halifax Bankug Company have declared a half-yearly dividend of three per cent., the Union Bank of Halifax of 2½ per cent. and the People's Bank of Halifax of 2½ per cent.

Notice is given of a meeting of the Chignecto Marine Transport Railway Company at Edgwood House, London, Sept. 3, for the election of directors.

The board of examiners of Dominion land surveyors will meet for examination at Ottawa, Aug. 4.

The statement of Inland Revenue receipts during June shows the total excise to have been $529,557 which with the revenues from canals, public works and other receipts gives a total of $564,089.

The following is the statement of Inland Revenue receipts for the fiscal year ended June 30:

Spirits	$3,099,010
Malt	493,028

Grand total revenue	$6,496,337

Postmaster-General Haggart was in the city to-day and received the congratulations of his friends. The writ for the new elections in South Lanark has been issued. Nominations will take place on Aug. 15 and polling on Aug. 22.

No further news has been received from the Skeena River and it is not expected any will arrive for two or three weeks.

The Public Works Department has let the contract for the experimental farm buildings at Nappan, N.S., to Rhodes, Curry & Co., of Amherst and the contract for farm buildings at Indian Head, N.W.T., to J. R. O'Flynn. In both cases the work was let to the lowest tenderer. It is understood that the buildings on the experimental farm at Brandon, Man., and Agassiz, B.C., will not be proceeded with at present.

The Customs Department has been advised of the seizure at Coaticooke, Que., of a two-horse-power threshing machine, for undervaluation, and two horses at Athleston, Que., smuggled into Canada from the United States.

The Department of Marine has been advised that the light house at Isle Perrot was burnt on the night of July 31. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

It is understood that Mr. H. J. Beemer has succeeded in floating the bonds of the Lake St. John Railway in France, and that he has sailed from Havre.

One hundred and eighty-seven patents were issued by the Department of Agriculture last month.

Hon. Mr. Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals, returned to the city last night, greatly improved in health. He will leave for the country again in a few days.

Hon. C. H. Tupper left this afternoon for the maritime provinces. Before returning it is possible he will investigate the sawdust question in connection with certain rivers in the County of Cumberland, in so far as it affects the fisheries.

Drowned at Teeswater.

TEESWATER, Aug. 3.—Last evening Thos. G. Reid, a farmer living four miles north of Teeswater, went bathing in the river, and getting beyond his depth was drowned. His two little boys, who witnessed the sad occurrence, went to their mother, passing several people, who might have rendered timely assistance. But they did not mention it until they reached home, nearly half a mile from the river. It is supposed he was taken with cramps. He leaves a wife and six small children.

Fatal Accident in Chatham.

CHATHAM, Aug. 4.—Last night about 9 o'clock, two young men, W. Graham, a journalist in The Planet office, and Geo. Curran, a carpenter, together with several other young men, all members of the Twenty-fourth battalion, were in the drilling room, when the point of Graham's foil penetrated Curran's brain, entering near the right eye. He died about midnight. Deceased came here from Florence, Ont., and was about 26 years of age. It is thought that during the bout the button on the foil was knocked off, leaving the point entirely bare. The two young men roomed together, and were fast friends.

OFFICIALLY PUBLISHED.

Manitoba's Agreement With the Northern Pacific—Enterprising Boy Burglars.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—The agreement with the Northern Pacific is published officially to-day. The Government agrees to pass legislation incorporating the Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway with five directors, one of whom shall be the Railway Commissioner of the Province and another named by the Lieut.-Governor. The Government is to sell the Red River Valley Railway completed to Assiniboine to the company for $720,000, to be paid by first mortgage bonds, maturing in 25 years, bearing 5 per cent interest. The Government is to pay for the construction of the bridge over the Assiniboine at Winnipeg and another at Portage. The Government is also to advance $400,000 for construction and equipment of the Portage extension, to be repaid before May 1 next year, when the Government convey the extension to the company. The company covenants to construct a railway from Morris to Brandon before Nov. 1, 1889, and to construct twenty miles of it before Dec. 1 next. The Government will guarantee 5 per cent for 23 years to the extent of $6400 per mile.

The gross earnings of the company are to be applied first in paying the cost of operation and maintenance, second in paying interest on guarantee bonds retained by the Government and third in paying interest on guaranteed bonds. The company is not to pool or amalgamate with the Canadian Pacific Railway or the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway and is to be exempt from taxation until the earnings pay expenses, not to exceed twenty years. Running powers are allowed to all roads over the lines except to the Canadian Pacific Railway and the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba. The Government has power to fix rates.

Three Winnipeg youths have been captured at Emerson with several watches and $1500 on their person. They had burglarized both here and at Riverville.

There were 965 applications for laborers at the Dominion immigration sheds in July.

Dr. Duval was inducted pastor of Knox Church to-night.

A Brace of Boodlers.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Three witnesses from Baltimore have arrived and gave evidence to-day in the Bergin case. They are A. C. Evans, who cashed the checks, W. C. Foster, his employer, and Charles C. Davis, deputy clerk of the Criminal Court, Baltimore. Judge Church committed Bergin for extradition.

Arguments on the application to have the warrant executed against Pitcher at once or else withdrawn took place this morning and the case was taken in delibre until Monday.

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

A STREET CAR TIE-UP.

Great Excitement at Greenpoint, L.I.—Rioting Among the Strikers.

GREENPOINT, L.I., Aug. 5.—Not since the great sugar house strike and riots two years ago has there been so much excitement in this place as has prevailed since 7 o'clock this morning. The streets have been crowded with men, women and children hooting and yelling while the striking employes of the Cross-town Railroad Company have engaged in rioting and in barricading streets to prevent the running of cars. The cause of the excitement was a tie-up on the three lines controlled by the Cross-town Railroad Company, the Hunter's Point and Erie Basin, Calvary Cemetery and Oaklands-street and Park-avenue. The tie-up was entirely unexpected by the officers of the road. The causes which led to the sudden movements of the men are said to be the discharge of certain employes upon frivolous charges, the importation of green drivers under contract and favoritism on the part of one of the starters

No car left this end of the routes to-day. Six cars were started with "scab" drivers from Erie Basin, and the strikers here upon learning by telephone of the fact prepared to stop their progress. A detachment of the strikers started off to Diggs-street, near the Manhattan Beach crossing, where they waited for the appearance of the cars, meanwhile placing large blocks of stone and other heavy obstacles across the tracks. About 11 o'clock, car No. 28 crossed the bridge over Bushwick Creek and as it came in sight the strikers and a large crowd of men and women which had followed them set up a howl. Some of the men jumped on the car and pulled off the driver and the conductor, while others cut the traces and let the horses go. The strikers tried to induce the driver and conductor to join them and on their refusal beat and kicked them. A detachment of police from the 7th precinct arrived with a patrol wagon at this time and made short work of the fighting strikers and arrested two of them.

The car was not moved until after 1 o'clock, when a fresh team having been taken up from the stables under a strong police guard it was started for the stables. All the way from Greenpoint-avenue to India-street it was greeted with shouts and hisses and but for the strong force of police it would have been thrown from the track.

At 2 p.m. the strikers were holding a session in their hall when word was received that car No. 11 was on its way from Grand-street under a guard of 20 policemen. Occupants of the car were hooted all the way down Manhattan-Avenue.

In the meantime the Executive Committee of Assembly 5173 had issued orders that this car must be stopped and thrown from the tracks at all hazards and that the coal boxes and stone wagons should be placed on the tracks at Huron-street. This order was carried out as the force of policemen had been depleted by detachments being sent to other points. When the car arrived midway between India and Huron-streets there were on board, besides half a dozen policemen who stood on the platform, several ladies but regardless of this fact the strikers made a rush for it as it was brought to a stop by a couple of huge stones lying across the track. The police charged the crowd with their clubs, and then sticks and stones began to fly. The driver of the car was knocked senseless on the floor of the car by a large stone thrown by one of the strikers, which hit him on the side of the head. Sergeant Rob Reid, of the seventh precinct, who stood beside the driver was also struck on the right temple with a smaller stone and a dozen other policemen were seriously wounded in the same way. The fighting was hot and heavy for over two minutes, resulting in the strikers being routed. Six arrests were made at this time. All the prisoners are drivers.

The Democrats' Hope.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Fisheries Treaty in open executive session promises to absorb the attention of the Senate during the present week. The pending question is the motion of Senator Morgan to postpone further consideration until December. No doubt is entertained that it will be decided adversely, after which the treaty will come formally before the Senate, article by article, for amendment. It is inferred from some utterances of Democratic senators in debate that efforts will be made to amend the treaty considerably in the hope that it may finally command the support of some Republicans.

To Send Autographic Messages By Wire.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Professor Elisha Gray, of Highland Park, Ill., has obtained letters patent, dated July 31, 1888, for a combination of instruments called the telautograph, consisting of a transmitter and a receiver, and designed for transmitting messages by wire between distant points by the sender, in his own handwriting, thus doing away with skilled operators. The invention is based on the discovery of a new principle in controlling the electric current, whereby a pulsatory current is produced, all previous attempts to transmit handwriting having been based on the use of a variable current.

A Missing Telephone Manager.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 4.—A. J. Enyart, manager of the Telephone Exchange, is missing and the office is in charge of J. J. Wilson, who came from Chicago to straighten matters up. Enyart left here a week ago, having in his possession money and valuables belonging to the company, and is supposed to be sojourning in Canada. The amount of the defalcation is not known.

A Maine Murder.

LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 6.—Last night John Lehey and James Connors were seen walking with two other men. Shortly afterwards cries for help were heard and Lehey was found dead and Connors insensible from stab wounds. Jerry and Michael McGillicuddy and James Connors have been arrested on suspicion but deny any knowledge of the affair.

THE NAVAL MANŒUVRES.

OBAN CLEVERLY CAPTURED BY THE CALYPSO.

A Ransom of £100,000 Imposed for the Release of the Town Provost—Mr. O'Shea's Straight Blow.

LONDON, Aug. 6r—The naval manœuvres have suddenly become exciting. The Calypso of the enemy's North of Ireland fleet, cleverly took the coast guard station at Oban, cut the telegraph wires and marched her mariners and sailors into the town. The provost of the town was asleep in bed and was summoned to appear before his captors. This he did, when a ransom of £100,000 was imposed for his release. At about the same time the Iris, Hero and Severn ran the blockade of Ballantry Bay in the fog and will probably retaliate for the acts committed by the Calypso by capturing several Irish towns.

Mr. O'Shea, in an interview yesterday referring to his recent letter in The Times relative to the meeting between Mr. Parnell and Mr. Chamberlain immediately after the Phœnix Park murders, said: "I do not hesitate to characterize as insincere the Parnellite lamentations over my writing to The Times as a gratuitous act, etc. It was a straight blow in return for the wild one aimed at me by Mr. Parnell in Parliament on Tuesday last. From 1880 to 1885 I sat on the opposite side of the House to Mr. Parnell and was elected for Galway in 1886 without having given pledges to any political party whatever."

Sir Charles Esmonde arrived at Kingston from England last night. This is the first time he has been in Ireland since his return from America. He met with a cordial reception and was presented with addresses by the Kingston Commissioners and the South County Dublin Registration Society.

Lord Claude John Hamilton, M.P. for the West Derby division of Liverpool, has resigned his seat. He is a Conservativt.

HE WILL GO TO ENGLAND.

A Change in Emperor William's Itinerary —Bismarck Expected to Accompany Him.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Emperor William's monarchical itinerary since his interview with Prince Bismarck at Friedericksort has been modified in most important directions. It was supposed that the Emperor, in accordance with a family arrangement, would pay his respects to the Queen of England during her projected stay at Baden. The Queen, however, intimated through the German embassy at London that she did not intend to go to Baden or any other place on the continent. Yesterday a formal note was sent by Prince Bismarck through the English embassy asking that the Queen receive Emperor William who, the note states, intended to visit England. If the plans of Prince Bismarck are executed the Emperor will arrive in London in November during the session of Parliament. Under the circumstances His Majesty's visit to England will be a state and not a family affair and the Queen must meet him either in London or Windsor. Foreign Office officials believe that Prince Bismarck intends to accompany Emperor William to England, for the purpose of conferring with the Queen on affairs relating to the late Emperor Frederick.

Nothing is settled regarding the Emperor's proposed interview with King Humbert. Dr. von Schlotzer arrived at Friedrickshrue to-day, bringing, it is surmised, the Papal ultimatum. The Pope has been asked, i the Emperor goes to the Vatican and remains as the guest of the Pope for a day prior to his reception at the Quirinal, whether he will withdraw his objections. Mgr. Galimberti is understood to have replied that the Pope must maintain his temporal rights. The nuncio continues to urge the Emperor to forego his visit to King Humbert unless the meeting takes place at Milan or Turin.

Communications are passing between Prince Bismarck and Signor Crispi, the Italian Prime Minister, on the subject of the marriage of the Duke of Aosta with the daughter of Prince Napoleon. The French Monarchists expect that the alliance will divert Italy from Germany and assist in resuscitating Bonapartism. Signor Crispi is understood to repudiate any responsibility for the match.

King Milan, of Servia, with the Crown Prince, arrived at Vienna to-day. He wires here to say that he will remain in Vienna until to-morrow night when he takes the Crown Prince to some place in Southern Bavaria. The King himself goes hunting with the Prince Regent.

The eldest son of the Regent, Prince Rupprecht, has got into trouble through an amour with the daughter of a wealthy citizen of Munich. He wants to marry the girl, but her friends refuse to allow him to see her unless the Regent assents to a formal betrothal.

The Berlin police have seized 15,000 volumes of immoral French novels and 2000 photographs. The booksellers concerned in the selling of the novels and other prohibited works demand a trial.

A band of masked Anarchists attacked the postoffice at Neu Kausel, near Pressburg. The officials fought and repulsed the robbers, but the latter secured the cash box and took that and their wounded away with them.

Favor a National Organization.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—A meeting of the general council of the British-American Association has been held here and among other business transacted was the adoption of resolutions favoring the formation of a National British-American Association. The secretary of the Illinois Association was instructed to communicate with the associations of other States with that object in view.

An Earthquake in Scotland.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt at Kilsyth, northeast of Glasgow on Saturday.

The Burlington Strike.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 4.—The hearing of the rate cases by the State Board of Transportation has been adjourned to September. Secretary Mason of the board has filed a 250 page type-written report on the Burlington strike, which is concurred in by the board. In conclusion it states that the strike of the Brotherhood of Engineers on Feb. 27 and their attempt to dictate whom the railroad company should employ was clearly illegal and the brotherhood was liable for conspiracy and for damages sustained thereby.

Politics at a Picnic.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 4.—At a picnic at Leatherwood Edward Shafer and Josiah Smith, old enemies, got into an altercation because Smith hurrahed for Cleveland. Shafer attacked Smith with a knife, stabbing him brutally. Smith's sister interfered, when Shafer attacked her, stabbing her in the head several times. Both Smith and his sister are fatally hurt.

A Disastrous Storm in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 6.—Advices from Zacatecas state that during the prevalence of a storm there several persons were killed and much damage was done to property by lightning.

A Smuggling Preacher.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A preacher of Rice County, Minn., arrived here from Rotterdam yesterday. He told the Customs officers he had no dutiable goods, but a false bottom was found in his trunk where 5000 cigars, an Indian shawl and a lot of cutlery, ladies' and gentlemen's underwear and a sealskin cape was stored.

DEATH OF "LITTLE PHIL."

The Hero of Winchester Passes Away at 10.10 Last Night.

NONQUITT, Mass., Aug. 5.—Gen. Sheridan died at 10.10 to-night of heart failure.

THE DEAD GENERAL'S CAREER.

Philip Henry Sheridan was born at Somerset, O., March 6, 1831, of Irish parentage. Aspiring to become a student at the West Point Military Academy, he wrote to the member of Congress for the district in which he lived, asking for the appointment, and got it at 17 years of age. A good, but not one of the best scholars, he allowed his high spirit to lead him to flog a cadet who insulted him, and was set back a year in his graduation. At 23 he left the Military Academy and on the border he was seasoned for the great work he was later called to perform. When the war broke out he was a first lieutenant, and when he was made a captain, standing sixty-fourth in the list, it was his reasonable hope that he might win a major's commission before the war was over. In three years he was a major-general, in five years more he was lieutenant-general, and fifteen years later he assumed the command of the army in which he had been so brilliant and successful a leader.

In the war of the rebellion he fought all over the State of Tennessee. He was in the big battles about Chickamauga and Chattanooga, took part in the terrible Wilderness conflict, led the brilliant Shenandoah raids, and when he had cleaned the valley out he followed up the army of Lee, brought him to bay and sent him to Grant to give up his sword.

Brilliancy was Gen. Sheridan's leading characteristic. But military critics valued quite as highly his determination and readiness of device, his personal courage, sympathetic power and strategic ability. His fine presence in battle fired his soldiers though his prudence had little of the Celt in its composition. As Livy said of Hannibal, nothing that was going on among the enemy escaped him, and like the Carthagenian soldier, from his first arrival he drew the whole eyes of the army upon him.

In personal appearance Little Phil was very short and each year seemed to add to the rotundity of his pudgy figure. When I saw him i nthe lobby, says a recent correspondent, he wore upon the back of his round, bullet head a very slim, high, old-fashioned silk hat of a style that was very popular about the time of the close of the war. It was about two sizes too small. His short iron-gray hair stood out from under the rim of his hat at nearly right angles with it. His red weather-beaten face did not show any new lines of advancing age, but his grizzly iron-gray moustache and imperial were whitening very fast. He wore a short, light, yellow-gray overcoat which had only two buttons, and they were nearly ready to fly off from the undue strain of Sheridan's round figure. The coat, like the hat, appeared to have been long out-worn. The trousers were a gray plaid and fitted very snugly to the General's fat legs. His boots were thick-soled and unblacked. He wore no gloves. The side and rear views of the General suggested a low comedy man who had walked off the stage all made up for a funny part, but when you came to look the General square in the face its stern, solemn, composed lines were enough to make one forget his grotesque figure and careless dress.

Gen. Sheridan leaves a wife and four young children—three daughters and a son.

THE COMMAND OF THE ARMY.

The bill recently passed for Gen. Sheridan's promotion enacted "that the grade of Lieut.-General of the Army is hereby discontinued, and is merged in the grade of General of the Army of the United States, which grade shall continue during the lifetime of the present Lieut.-General, after which such grade shall cease, and the President of the United States is hereby authorized to appoint, with the advice and consent of the Senate, a General of the Army of the United States." Consequently, with General Sheridan's death, both grades lapse. For the present, therefore, the senior Maj.-General will take the command of the army. The senior officer is General Schofield.

The Maddening Cigarette.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Augustus Mulford, a well-known fireman of Elizabeth, aged 22, is a raving maniac from excessive cigarette smoking, combined with the effects of a slight injury he received while running to a fire.

DEATH OF JUDGE COURSOL.

His Long Illness Ended—Brief Sketch of His Life.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—C. J. Coursol, M.P., died at St. Thomas, Montmagny, at 11 o'clock this morning. He was 58 years of age.

[Charles Joseph Coursol, Q.C., was born at Malden in 1820; he had a creditable career at college, studied law, was called to the bar of Lower Canada in 1841. During the Trent Difficulty he raised a dashing regiment known as the "Chasseurs Canadiens" and in 1866 Mr. Coursol put himself at the head of his battalion and marched to the frontier to repel the Fenian invaders. He was afterwards appointed Judge of Sessions. In 1871 he was elected mayor of Montreal without opposition and since 1878 has represented Montreal East in the Dominion House. In politics he was a Conservative. Mr. Coursol was ill during the whole of last session.]

Death of Mr. James S. McCuaig, Ex-M.P.

PICTON, Aug. 4.—Mr. James S. McCuaig, ex-M.P. for Prince Edward, died this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. McCuaig has been confined to his room for some six weeks but was thought to be improving till Thursday night when a change for the worse took place and he sank rapidly. For the last 35 years Mr. McCuaig has been a prominent figure in this country in political and business circles. In politics he was a Conservative.

A Lucky New Yorker.

MONTREAL, Aug. 5.—A New Yorker whose satchel was accidentally carried off by the man who occupied the room in a leading hotel here previous to him has recovered the satchel which contained $23,000 in cash.

Scots Wha Hae.

BUFFALO, Aug. 6.—Among the winners at Saturday's games of the St. Adrew's Society were Donald Smith of Woodstock, Archie Scott of Brussels and R. Currie of Toronto.

Accident to a Toronto Traveler.

WINDSOR, Aug. 6.—About 3 o'clock yesterday morning, a guest of the International Hotel awoke the clerk and informed him that he had heard a pistol shot in the room next to his, followed by groans. The clerk ascertained that the room was occupied by Lewis Allin, traveling agent for the Heintzman Piano Company, of Toronto, and repaired thither at once. Repeated knocking brought no response and the door was then burst open. Mr. Allin was discovered lying on the bed, speechless and with a ghastly wound over the right eye, from which the blood streamed over the bed clothes. Mr. Allin at length, in a feeble voice, explained that he had been taken suddenly ill and, while groping for the gas jet, fainted. In falling he must have struck his head against the marble top of the bureau, Dr. Coventry was hastily summoned and pronounced the wound deep, but not serious, and Mr. Allin will be out again in a few days. The affair gave rise to an absurd rumor that one of the guests of the hotel had attempted suicide and that an effort was being made to hush the matter up.

EAST ASSINIBOIA ELECTION

NOMINATIONS ON SEPT. 12 AND POLLING ON SEPT. 20.

The Rumor of a Deal Between the North-west Central and the Northern Pacific Denied—A New Phase of the Foot Guards' Trouble.

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—The writ for the election to fill the vacancy in Eastern Assiniboia, caused by calling Mr. Perley to the Senate, was issued yesterday. Nominations will take place on Sept. 12 and polling on Sept. 20. Hon. Mr. Dewdney, the new Minister of the Interior, will be the Government candidate, and it is possible that he may not be opposed.

Senator Clemow, President of the North-west Central Railway, denies the rumor that there have been negotiations with the Northern Pacific for the sale of his road. He also states that it is not true that the Canadian Pacific Railway has running powers over the road.

A man named McCullough, from the Nation River district, came to the city Friday with $300 and had a time with some of the boys. Yesterday he complained to the police that he had been robbed of his money in a Lower Town hotel.

Mayor Blacklock of the Fifth Royal Scots is here making arrangements for the opening of the Province of Quebec Rifle Association matches at Rideau rifle range on Tuesday next. It is expected that about 150 riflemen will be present.

The Foot Guards matter has assumed a new phase: Lieut.-Col. McPherson has sent notices to all the officers, requiring them to turn in all arms, uniforms and other Government stores before he forwards their resignations to headquarters. Several of the men who were spoken to on the subject say they will not obey the order, as they entered for three years and are not aware of having committed any offence. They regard the order as a step in the direction of disbandment and if the uniforms are taken from them will not join again.

Death of a St. Catharines Tobacconist.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 5.—Mr. C. Steinberg, the well-known tobacco merchant of this city, died suddenly this evening. He was walking along Church-street when he was seen to fall. Dr. Dangan and several others who happened to be near by at the time ran to his assistance, but he died about three minutes after he fell. The deceased was about 60 years of age. Heart disease is said to be the cause of his death.

Burglary at Tilbury Center.

TILBURY CENTER, Aug. 4.—Burglars broke into the jewelry store of R. E. Smith, of this place, last night, securing about $300 worth of goods, consisting of watches, chains, brooches etc. No clue as yet.

Cut to Pieces by a Saw.

GRAVENHURST, Aug. 4.—A man named Thomas Bailey was instantly killed to day in Lambert Love's saw mill, at Port Sandfield. Bailey was tail sawing and was caught on the carriage and dragged on to the saw. He was cut to pieces. Bailey had lived in Port Carling for a number of years and leaves a wife and family.

Tortured to Death.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—Advices from Sitka, Alaska, say a woman of the Takon tribe gathered certain herbs and administered them to the wife of the second chief, Yato Hok, from the effects of which she died. After her death Yato Hok gave orders that the woman should be put to death, and accordingly a system of torture was inaugurated by heating stones red hot and placing them in her mouth. When life was almost extinct he had her hanged. He also gave orders to have her husband hanged, but when the latter was suspended in the air he got his hands in the noose and prevented strangulation. While in this position the chief cut his hand with a knife, but failed to make him remove his grasp. Other Indians then interfered and the poor fellow was saved. Yato Hok was arrested and brought to trial at Sitka but it turned out that the village was in British Columbia and the prisoner had to be discharged. It is likely that the Dominion Government will bring the fiend to justice.

Found Drowned.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 4.—This morning the body of a man named Michael Russell was found in the old Welland Canal near the White Mill. It is not known whether it is a case of suicide or whether Russell lay down in the vicinity to sleep and rolled over into the water. He was found upright in the water. There was no mark of violence and in his pocket was $2.63 in money. He was a man of dissipated habits and was discharged from the axe factory a few days ago. He was fifty years of age or over.

Two Babes Burned to Death.

KINGSTON, Aug. 4.—A very sad calamity befell the Evans family, who live at the back part of Verona. Yesterday, while Mrs. Evans was away some quarter of a mile, milking, she left two children in the house, aged 3 and 5 years. On returning in the course of about fifteen minutes, to her horror she found the two children by the bed, on the floor, burned to death. It is supposed they got some matches to play with, hence the fire.

A Little Boy Drowned in a Cistern.

WELLAND, Ont., Aug. 4.—The five-year-old son of Mrs. Topp, of Brookfield, was found drowned in the cistern yesterday. The little fellow had been missed since the day before, but it was supposed he was over at a neighbor's and no uneasiness was felt until the neighbor happening in reported he had not been there.

A Quebec Schooner Wrecked.

CHATHAM, Mass., Aug. 5.—During the southwest gale of last night the schooner Quoddy of Quebec, coal laden for Boston, went ashore on Handkerchief Shoal and will probably prove a total loss. The crew was rescued by wreckers from Monomy.

Swindled by a Worthless Check.

MONTREAL, Aug. 5.—Another sharp confidence game was played at the Windsor Hotel last evening. A Mr. Dunham from Halifax, N.S., came to the Windsor and was met in one of the passages on the first floor by two well-dressed young men who managed to get into conversation with him. "By-the-way," said one of them after a while, to his friend, "have you any money on you? The banks are closed now and I must have cash this evening." The other pulled out a few bills but not enough for the wants of his friend. The Nova Scotian thereupon pulled out a large roll of bills and said he could help him out. The confidence man offered him a check for $750 and asked Dunham to cash it, which, however, the latter was not willing to do. He said: "I'll give you a hundred or so till to-morrow morning and I'll keep your check for security." He gave him $120 in good cash and put the check into his pocket arranging to see Watson, as the confidence man had introduced himself, next morning. As the latter did not turn up this morning Dunham went to a bank here and offered the check but found that it was worthless.

The Timber Raft Making Progress.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 4.—Captain McKay, of the steamer Olivette, at this port to-day from Bar Harbor, reports that at 9.40 o'clock last night when eight miles north by east from Matinicus, he passed the Joggins timber raft in tow, making probably five miles an hour.

CATTLE TRADE PROSPECTS.

Upon this interesting topic the Trade Review of a recent date has the following article:—"Last year the United Kingdom imported from Canada 65,154 head of beef cattle and 90,812 from the United States, its total import from all sources being 596,679. Considering the special advantages possessed by Canada, her cattle not being obliged to be slaughtered so soon as landed, it would appear possible for this country to do a much larger trade with the mother country. One feature of the special advantages which we possess has already been availed of by British graziers, and is this year to be made additionally available. We refer to the opportunity that exists for the English, Irish and Scotch farmers to purchase half meated Canadian stock and fit them for their own market. It is to be noted that the Dundee commissioners have applied to the Privy Council for the privilege of a landing place for foreign animals, the object being to secure imports of Canadian cattle similar to those at Aberdeen. The Aberdeen Canadian Cattle Company has completed its import plans for the season, and six or seven cargoes of cattle are to leave Montreal in the autumn to be prepared for the market in Scotland. This can, no doubt, be done quite as economically as here when we consider the extra amount of fodder that is required to keep up mere animal heat in this country. Moreover, the animals when fatted will not be subjected to the chances and disadvantages of an ocean voyage, and it will be the question of a few hours' journey only between the feeding place and the slaughter house. Great Britain, as the figures show, can dispose of far more fat cattle than we now send there, while the market for stores that exists in Great Britain is sure to be a large and increasing one. Surely out of a total import of 596,679 head of cattle Great Britain can take from us, with all our advantages, more than 65,154 head."

THIS IS CIRCUS DAY.

Short, Sharp, Breezy Chat With an Old Timer.

This morning our sanctum was visited by a well known pencil pusher—and graduate of that great school—the printing office, Alex. Jacques. After the usual greeting, the veteran remarked:—"Peterborough has made some strides since '41, that was my first visit, and what is better your progress looks solid. Where am I stopping? At the Grand Central, with that pleasant Joe Daly. As one who has gone pretty nigh all over this continent, and naturally have had some hotel experience, let me tell you Mr. Daly is a hotel man. That class of men ain't grown on the huckleberry bushes. Oh, no! they are born to the biz and Mr. D. is just one of them. Yes, you are right. We do strike some tough ones, but the Grand Central is A 1, coppered bottom, no barnacles there. Yes, I'm with Miller & Freeman's shows- and now make a note of it, we are positively the only tented show from America that comes to Canada this summer, sure. No, Barnum, nor no one else comes. They can't afford it. The duty all round is pretty near a shut out. Paper is especially high. That is where the N. P. is a boon to the printers. The duty (15c. per lb. scale weight, and 25 per cent. on invoice) runs it up high. Then there is the local license, ground rent, bill-boards, railroad, hotel, livery, grocer, baker, butcher and dealer in hay and oats. Why, before the show touches a 10c. piece their expenses run away up to fully $2,000. There is one item more—I don't like to refer to it—had it been put on in the Quebec country, I should not have been surprised. What is it? Why, it's that infinitesimally small trick, of an attempt to extort $20 for our show to make a street parade. I had thought, under the British flag, the Queen's highway was free, open to all wayfarers. How can you get rid of it? That is no tough one. You newspaper men wield the weapon that, when you write, can wipe out a government, let alone a petty extortion like this. Go at them, and fire hot shot. No. Mr. Miller will not pay $20, nor 20 cents, just to utilize the streets for 20 minutes. We took that park lot because it is central, and best for our purposes. Although show folks, we are human—just as much so as can be found. Look at our stock—see the great rest, water and every convenience they get here. Yes, you are right, the press of my country, Canada, speaks well of our performance, and I assure you it's good. No three rings—all in one ring—just the same as those we used to see in the good old days; such as the Equicuvicium, L. B. Lent's; Dan Rice's, Myers', and Maddigan's, I. A. Van Amburg's; J. J. Nathan's, Andy Haight's Great Eastern. All these were good, but none better than Millar and Freeman's. Come and see us and if our performance ain't worth patronage, say so. How is Ottawa? Well, it's alive—and going to be in the near future one of the prettiest cities in our Dominion. Oh, say, Ottawa, nor no other city or town has been so piggish as to put on a tax for a street parade." The "Old Man" shook his head, and a sneer of contempt flitted o'er his face as he exclaimed, "Go at it—wipe it out—its a disgrace to the intelligence of Peterborough."

We would like very much to oblige the "Old Man," but are sorry we cannot in this case.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Off For Barrie.

The 57th Battalion Band and Canton Peterborough, No. 10, leave town on Tuesday morning via G. T. R., at 6.40 a. m., for Barrie, to attend the Oddfellows' Demonstration in connection with the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, I. O. O. F. The boys will create a favorable impression. The Canton will meet for drill this evening at the rink.

Camping Notes.

A large number boarded the Lakefield train this morning and there was a lively time loading tents, canoes, boxes, bales, and all the camping equipment. Mr. A. E. Dixon headed a large party, the "Crescent Camp," among whom were Mrs L. J. Dixon, Misses F. Dixon, L. Dixon, V. Dixon, B. Gillespie (Hamilton), M. Nattrass (Port Hope), E. Harvey (Woodstock), E. Stenson, S. Cameron, M. Greene (Woodstock), F. Clarke (Toronto), and Whyte (Campbellford), and Messrs. W. Pakenham, L. W. Allingham, A. Hutchinson (Norwood), C. E. Clarke (Toronto), J. E. Kelso (Rochester), Harry Smith (Hamilton), and W. E. McCamus. Mr. W. H. Hill joins them later. They will camp on Anchorage Island.

Another party consisted of Messrs. W. A. Sanderson, A. E. Thompson, R. Tate and W. E. Lech, who in a day or two will be joined by Mrs. Sanderson, Miss J. Bradburn and Miss Kirby (Ottawa.)

A third party was composed of Mr. R. McWhinnie, Mrs. McWhinnie and family, Mr. W. Brownscombe, Mr. W. Brownscombe and Mrs. Brownscombe and family (of Port Hope).

On Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. George Hatton, Dr. E. F. Hatton, Col. J. Z. Rogers, Mr. R. B. Lundy and Mrs. Lundy, Mr. A. I. Wright (Lakefield), Mrs. D. C. Edwards, Miss Roper and the Misses Hall returned from the A. C. A. camp at Lake Couchiching. When crossing to Orillia on Saturday the scow filled with water and all the luggage on it was soaked with water. The loss to the ladies, especially those from Lindsay, will be considerable.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Out-Booming American Booms.

Americans are too often credited with originating booms, but enterprises of that class have always existed. Even take Germany, that home of conservatism, you will find times when the people were crazed over all sorts of bombastic schemes. Strassbourg, the famous European railway builder, swindled his countrymen out of $80,000,000 in lines of railway that he projected to gridiron Roumania and Austro-Hungary, connecting with the German-Turkish and Russian system. American daring was surpassed, and construction gangs were pitched into a naked wilderness without population, savage or civilized, and no prospect of ever raising enough food to sustain the smallest hamlet. Strassbourg built for the sake of building, as every mile represented a greater issue of stock and bonds. How far he would have gone can never be estimated. His methods were exposed in the reichstag, creditors clamored for money, bonds couldn't be given away, and the crash came. The respective governments then took the lines, which have been operated at a loss ever since.—Globe-Democrat.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether rising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!
IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price.

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do theBusiness!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come str aight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. A Camper's Experience.

The mosquito is a buzzing example of what energy and industry can accomplish. He never fails to get in his work. He is hospitable; the first to welcome the arriving camper; the last to bid him a reluctant and painful farewell. His attentions never lose interest. He will not be ignored He can be endured during daylight, but at night his persistence in striking up an acquaintanceship is at times positively annoying. The best way to secure peace is to slay him. The only good mosquito is a dead one. Close your tent for the night. Close it tightly. Wet a towel. Mark your mosquito. Squash him. Squash his friends. Squash the whole tribe. Leave not one to torment you, and then slide under a pair of Golden Lion camping blankets and snooze the night out in peace.

For Vagrancy.

On Saturday evening about 11 o'clock, a young man named Thomas Hare, was brought from the Township of Otonbee by some of his relatives and handed over to the chief constable as a dangerous character. The Chief took charge of him only on the conditions that the relatives would pay for his meals on Sunday and lay a charge against him on Monday morning at ten o'clock. These they agreed to. However, they failed to file an appearance, and the man was committed to gaol for one month as a vagrant, on the information of Officer Adams.

Captured.

Late on Sunday night Mr. H. W. Kent found a team of horses standing in front of his residence. Both animals had long ropes around their necks and they had every appearance of having run a long distance, as they were utterly fagged out. Mr. Kent secured them and telephoned for Officer McGinty, who took them in charge and placed them in the Balmoral stable to await an owner. They were claimed this morning by a gypsy, one of a family who are camped on the line of the G.P.R. a short distance west of the town. They lost three horses at the same time, the animals having been stampeded by an approaching train. The other horse has not yet been found.

Presentation.

On Sunday afternoon at the close of the usual Sunday school service, the teachers and officers of the George-st. Methodist Sunday school gathered in the large Bible class room, with the object in view to present to Miss. Jessie K. Munro, who is leaving town to take a position as mission teacher under the special auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary, some slight token in remembrance of her long connection with the school. Mr. H. S. Griffin, Superintendent, gave a short address and spoke very feelingly of the valued assistance which during the last few years Miss Munro had been to the school and to her earnestness in the work. The regret felt at her departure was tempered by the pleasing reflection that the school felt proud that one of its teachers should be a missionary in Japan and engaged in a great and noble work. The school would watch with large interest the future of Miss Munro, and its best wishes and prayers would go out for her success and welfare. Mr. Griffin then handed to Miss Munro handsome copies of the Bible and hymn book, lettered with name on the side and with a suitable inscription on the fly leaf of each volume. Miss Munro was quite overcome and briefly thanked the teachers and officers for their valuable gifts, and which would be an ever present reminder of many pleasant years spent among them. Short prayers were offered by several teachers and the meeting closed with the benediction.

Church Notes.

This evening a farewell service to Miss J. K. Munro will be held in the George-st. Methodist church.

The Rev. Mr. McCrea, of Cobourg, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church on Sunday at both services.

On Sunday evening the service at the George-st. Methodist church was of a special character in consequence of the departure for the mission field of Miss J. K. Munro, one of the teachers of the Sunday School. Rev. Mr. Pearson, pastor, preached an appropriate sermon.

Street Rows.

About three o'clock on Sunday morning a disgraceful street brawl took place on Bethune-st., near the corner of Sherbrooke. Six young men, all of them under the influence of liquor, participated in it and considerable blood was spilled. Frequent complaints regarding such affairs are heard from the outskirts.... The attention of the police is also directed to the fact that a number of young ladies congregate nightly around the electric light at the corner of Smith and Water-sts. and annoy the residents in that vicinity by their loud talk and bolsterous play. Their language is not by any means of the choicest character and an interview with Mr. Dumble would have a good effect.

A Retreat at St. Peter's.

A retreat will commence at St. Peter's Cathedral this evening at seven o'clock. It will be conducted by the Rev. Father Connelly, a Jesuit from Montreal. The following clergymen are in attendance:—The Rev. Fathers McEvay, Chancellor of the Diocese, Peterborough; Vicar-General Laurent, Lindsay; Vicar-General Browne, Port Hope; J. Bloem, North Bay; C. S. Bretherton, Lindsay; D. Casey, Campbellford; M. Connelly, Emily; P. Conway, Norwood; W. J. Kelly, Eamismore; C. Dube, Peterborough; M. Larkin, Grafton; M. Lynch, Peterborough; W. J. McCloskey, Victoria Road; McGuire, Bracebridge; H. Murray, Cobourg; D. O'Connell, Douro; T. B. O'Connell, Brighton; M. O'brien, Fenelon Falls; J. O'Connell, Bowmanville; J. Quirk, Hastings, and J. Sweeney, Burnley. The retreat will continue until Saturday morning.

Sunday on the Market Square.

Soon after four o'clock on Sunday afternoon Messrs. H. Rossiter and R. Holland appeared on the market square to conduct a meeting. They sang a hymn together, which collected a small crowd. As they prayed and began speaking their audience increased in numbers. Mr. Holland spoke first, dwelling on the evils of intemperance and his experience and what he had seen. As soon as he commenced shouts were heard, such as "Rats," "Another crank," "Put some hair on your head," etc. When Mr. Rossiter began his address the interruptions became more pronounced. Hooting, catcalls, cheers, groans, rooster-crowing and hisses at times drowned his voice. But he spoke on. The crowd began to draw in closer to the two speakers, and soon they were enclosed in a circle. Remarks were addressed to them, and frequently Mr. Rossiter replied. The circle became so animated that Chief Roszel, who had been attracted by the noise, pushed in and stood at the inner side of the circle. Pushes were given on the outside and those near est the speakers fell against them. This occurred several times, and the voice of the Chief was heard, "Hist! Quiet." But there was no quiet there. When Mr. Rossiter ceased speaking, Mr. Holland knelt on the ground. Over him bent those who made the interruptions and their remarks were continued. "Look, he's trembling." "This is the other crank," and similar expressions were heard. Then they sang the doxology, pronounced a benediction and ended their meeting. As they moved out cheers and groans arose, but were cut short by the uplifted cane and the voice of the Chief. "Now, disperse," was the Chief's order, and it was obeyed. Thus ended probably the noisest hour that was ever witnessed on the square on a Sunday afternoon.

KNOCKING AT THE DOOR.

Sermon in St. Andrews Church by Rev. Dr. Tully of Pennsylvania.

At the services in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning the sermon was preached by the Rev. D. Tully, M.A., D.D., of Media, Pennsylvania. Dr. Tully is a native of Peterborough and was, many years ago, a member of St. Andrews. He chose as his text Rev. iii., 20:—"Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him and he with Me." Part of this letter was addressed to one of the seven churches of Asia Minor. It was wealthy and prosperous, but spiritually it was lukewarm, and the Lord said He would spue it out of His mouth. The Master presented Himself in a very familiar form. He stood at the door of the heart and called in loud tones, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock." They ought to be as ready to make a response to Him as to friends who knocked at their doors. It was not proper to keep friends waiting; they would hasten to the door and invite them in, and it was wrong to keep Christ waiting. Christ was speaking to them in three ways—In nature, in Providence, and directly in the word of God. Everything around them spoke of God. The goodness and benevolence of God was taught in nature. He created the world and made everything in it, and he gave man dominion over everything. They knew very little of the vast resources the earth contained for them. The works of nature, from the lily to the mountain, proclaimed the glory, power, wisdom, and benevolence of God, and men must be blind who did not see God speaking to them everywhere. All nature was vocal with the praises of God and was speaking to the people of Him. They need not be alarmed at the providences of God among nations and in their homes, for He would be with them always. Had He not been in their homes speaking to them? Sometimes He came when there was joy and gladness; and He spoke to them in the days of mourning and sadness. Afflictions benefitted them, and sometimes an affliction was the last invitation from God. Christ suffered humiliation for them, and he could make them triumphant over affliction. He had stood on the side of the city to which these words were addressed, and now all was desolation. They should be warned against lukewarmness. They were drawn upward and homeward by afflictions. Christ was revealed as He spoke to them in the Bible. They could not make themselves fit to enter heaven. They should not wait to make themselves better before opening the door. His blood made atonement and would wash away their sins. It was important that they should open the door at once and find peace and salvation. Christ spoke to each one individually. "The spirit and the bride say come."

At the conclusion of an able and well delivered sermon, Dr. Tully said that he saw very few faces before him that he had seen there fifty years ago. Where were they? They had gone to the city of the dead. This thought affected him deeply. He was a boy then and now he had reached the age of three score and ten, and he felt that his days were drawing to a close. He had never regretted that when a lad he had given his heart to God in this place. He had had a long experience, and his message to them was to come to Christ.

A CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY.

Mr. James Kendry, Manager of the Auburn Woollen Mills.

The Canadian Manufacturer, of Toronto, is publishing a series of portraits and biographical sketches of Canadian captains of industry. In the number of Aug. 3rd, there is an excellent portrait of Councillor James Kendry, which is a credit to The Manufacturer and its artist. Accompanying the portrait is the following notice:—"James Kendry, manager of the Auburn Woollen Company's mill at Peterborough, Ont., was born at Oshawa, Ont., in March, 1845, and during his boyhood and until thirteen years of age received such schooling as the public schools afforded. In 1858 he commenced working in the woolen mills of Messrs. Barber Brothers, at Streetsville, Ont., where he remained until that establishment was destroyed by fire in 1866. He then obtained a situation in the woollen mills of Messrs. Robinson & Howell, in Galt, Ont., going from there to the Hunt & Elliot woollen mills, in Preston, Ont. After remaining in these places a short time he left Canada, going to New England, where he worked for about five years in one of the largest woollen mills in the Nangatuck valley, Connecticut. He returned to Canada, and being then proficient in his business, in 1874 was entrusted with the management of the Clyde Woollen Mills at Lanark Ont. In 1876 he left Lanark and took charge of the Glen Tay Woollen Mills, at Glen Tay, near Perth, Ont., where he remained until 1879, when he accepted the management of the Auburn Woollen Mills at Peterborough, which position he now holds, being one of the stockholders and general manager of the Auburn Woolen Company.

"Mr. Kendry is emphatically and in all respects a self-made man, who has turned to good advantage all the favorable opportunities of his life. Left at an early age to depend upon his own efforts for his welfare, he devoted his energies to acquire a thorough practical knowledge of all the details of the business of manufacturing woolen cloths; and it may be truthfully said that his adaptability to the business, and his mechanical skill and artistic tastes, have enabled him to absorb and appropriate to his own use and advantage about all that was to be learned in the very best woollen-mill practice in Canada and the United States. Being now but in the prime of life, his active mind is quick to seize upon any new ideas advanced by which the styles and quality of the products of his mills may be improved, or the cost of production lessened, and the high favor in which the goods manufactured by him is held throughout the Dominion attests this fact.

"Modest and retiring in disposition his ambition has always led him more along the lines of his business than to seek political or civic honors, although the citizens of Peterborough have kept him occupying a seat in their town council continuously for the past six years, and a member of their Board of Education for the same length of time.

"Mr. Kendry has always been a vigorous supporter of Canada's National Policy, and he is always keenly alive to all that affects the welfare and prosperity of the Dominion. These impulses naturally led him to become an active and interested member of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association; and he has been such for years; and a member of its executive committee; and a member of the Textile Fabrics section of the association's tariff committee."

CLERGY AND LAITY.

A Protest from the George-st Church Regarding the Stationing of Ministers.

A meeting of the Quarterly Board of the George-st. Methodist Church was held on Friday evening last. Routine matters were attended to, after which the subject of the pastorate came up. A long discussion, frankly and quietly conducted, ensued. The Board was dissatisfied with the action of the Stationing committee in not sending to this church the Rev. James Allen, M.A., whom they had invited, and as a protest against what they considered the high-handed action of the committee the clergyman's salary was reduced $200. The following resolution was also moved, seconded and unanimously adopted:—

"That the existing practice of the Stationing Committee of ignoring the expressed wishes of the Quarterly Boards as to their choice of ministers to serve in the pastorates, and the arbitrary and unappealable exercise of power by a body of men legislating largely for themselves, and consequently not disinterested, is one that must be modified in order to retain that loyal support of the laity and that harmonious unity which has heretofore characterized the Methodist Church.

"That the division into small conferences in a measure limits the supply of available ministers, creates a narrowness of view as to the supposed right of the ministers of the particular conference, and leads to selfishness in the action of Stationing Committees which gives rise to friction between the churches and the ministers and alienates the love of a loyal people who are peculiarly democratic and liberal in spirit and unwilling to submit to any system of ecclesiastical government which ignores the laity as an element to be consulted in the stationing of ministers."

The members of the Board expressed their intention to work for the church along with the present pastor, and not allow any injury to be done to the church, but to work for a change in the method of stationing the ministers as expressed in the resolution.

From Bowmanville.

The Methodist Church of Bowmanville holds its annual excursion on Thursday next, and the excursionists will come to Peterborough for their outing. They have arranged to picnic at Inverlea.

In British Columbia.

The Rev. S. J. Thompson has reached his field of missionary labor at North Arm, British Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were given a cordial reception by the people and they like their new field very much.

For Manitoba.

Police Magistrate Dumbje leaves for Manitoba for a couple of weeks to look after his landed interests in the Prairie Province and at the same time spend a well earned holiday. County Police Magistrate Edmonson will dispense justice at the old place during his absence.

For the Lumber Gangs.

Turner, the tent man, is a thorough disciple of benevolence. His tents shelter all alike, the plain and handsome, the sturdy and weak. He is now filling an order for 7 large shanty tents, received from Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, and which will be forwarded to camps in the lumbering district. 1d30

A True Fish Story.

On the first of August Mr. J. H. Rowan, of Toronto, who is spending a holiday at Burleigh, caught with a line a black bass weighing 5½ pounds. On the following day the same gentleman hooked another monster of the same variety tipping the beam at 5¼ pounds. Mr. George Cochrane, Fishery Inspector, weighed both fish and is prepared to vouch for the figures given.

The Gymasium.

The committee of the Board of Education have received tenders for the work of building a gynasium at the rear of the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Lisle has been awarded the contract for the building, the figure being about $430, and Mr. Edward Thompson the contract for making the necessary excavation. The earth excavated will be used to boulevard the street in front of the school and otherise improve the grounds.

Ten Out.

A very verdant individual from one of the neighboring townships undertook to solve the mystery of the pea and the shells manipulated by a circus follower on the grounds this afternoon. He quit ten dollars out and then came to the police station to enter a complaint against the fakir. He was politely informed that our officers have no jurisdiction in Ashburnham, where the tents are, and was referred the Chief Craig.

Tennis Notes.

A return match between the Peterborough Lawn Tennis club and the Osgoode Hall club is being arranged, and will probably be played at Toronto on August 16th.

A match is also being arranged with the Ottawa club.

Representatives from Lakefield came down on Saturday and played with Peterborough representatives. The singles were played as follows:—R. C. Strickland, (Lakefield) vs. J. H. Burnham (Peterborough), Lister vs. Ratallack, and Brown vs. Macdonald. The doubles—Strickland and Lister vs. Ratallack and Burnham, Brown and Lister vs. Carlon and Macdonald. The Lakefield representatives were beaten all around.

C. L. R. R.

From the G. T. R. depot to the spot where the Chemong Lake Railway strikes the Lake is said to be a distance of about nine miles. The tracklayers an ballasting gang are hard at work an the steels are laid for a distance of four and one half miles, half way. About one hundred men, many of them Italians, are engaged in the work and now that the ballast train is running, they are rapidly pushing the road through. There are a very large number of culverts and the men building them have to push things in a lively manner to keep ahead of the tracklayers. It is impossible to say yet when the road will be ready for regular trains, but those who are the best posted expect that two months more will see things in good running shape.

Brevities.

—A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held to-morrow evening.

—The circus band will give an open air concert in front of the Grand Central hotel this evening.

—Mr. J. J. Magee, B.A., has been appointed mathematical master at the high school, Port Hope.

—Mayor Stevenson, M.P., is up at Lindsay to-day looking after his property interests in that burg.

—The circus tents on the Riverside Park were visited by large numbers on Sunday afternoon and evening.

—A charge for desecrating the Sabbath by selling goods on Sunday is on the Police Court calendar for to-morrow morning.

—A young partridge was captured on Water-st on Sunday afternoon. The youngster had evidently strayed too far from its nest.

—The sound of breaking glass was heard on Water-st. on Sunday night. A citizen accidentally smashed a large pane in his own house.

—A boulevard is being laid down around the Central School and Collegiate Institute. It will add much to the appearance of the grounds.

—The financial district meeting for this district of the Methodist Church and a Sunday school convention will be held at Millbrook to-morrow.

—For removing dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded and gray hair to its original color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives a beautiful, glossy and silken appearance.

—A meeting of the West Riding License Commissioners was held this afternoon to wind up the business of the last quarter, ending on July 30th, 1888.

—The Horticultural Park is a great resort for the public on Sundays. Yesterday people were there from six in the morning until eleven o'clock at night.

—A skunk found his way into town on Sunday night, which fact accounted for the strong smell which prevaded the atmosphere in the vicinity of the market square.

—An announcement of the Bowmanville excursion in the Port Hope Times says:—"Peterborough is one of the largest, liveliest and most flourishing towns in the Dominion, and has already gained for itself a high reputation as a picnic resort." In the same notice Inverlea is called "Ella Rhee Park."

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For Consumption, Throat affections and Bronchitis it is unequaled. Dr. Thos. Prin, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Personal.

C. F. Prescott, of "Court Queen City," and C. K. Rogers, of "Court Homewood," Toronto, are in town making arrangements for a monster excursion from Toronto to Peterborough on Toronto's civic holiday, Monday, Aug. 13th. The Canadian Order of Foresters are very strong in the Queen City and a large excursion may reasonably be expected.

Many friends will regret the approaching departure from town of Mr. James Alexander, who goes to Toronto, where he has accepted a position in the wholesale dry goods house of S. F. McKinnon & Co. Not only in a business sense, but socially as well, as a prominent member of several local societies, will Mr. Alexander be missed, while a large circle of friends will regret the departure of Mrs. Alexander and family. Always an active member of the Masonic order, W. Bro. Alexander has been honored with the highest position in the gift of the lodge to which he has belonged. Unlimited good wishes will follow for him and his family's happiness and prosperity in their new home.

"I get your idea," said Mr. Balltop to his wife "Your reasoning is quite correct. Your experience is a safe guide. Quite so, decidedly so. You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. I'll attend to it after Canton drill, this afternoon."

"Did n't Know 't was Loaded"

May do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 2? years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness, indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time re-established her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Convicts Brief Glimpse of Liberty—Drowned in the Bay.

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—In February last George Belmont was sent to the central prison for six months for stealing a handcar and was subsequently sentenced to 4½ years in the Kingston Penitentiary for breaking into a bonded car at Whitby, the second term to commence at the expiration of the first. The six months was up on Saturday and as there was no officer here from Kingston and the prison authorities were also remiss, the doors were opened for him to walk out. Later in the day he was seen on the street and was run down and arrested in the Public Library.

John Haight, an inmate of the lunatic asylum, poked a hole in his throat on Thursday with a pointed stick, and died on Saturday.

C. F. Bunbury and his 15-year-old daughter Alice of this city were upset in Mr. Bunbury's yacht Alliance on the way down from Hamilton on Saturday. They were picked up by the Macassa after being in the water 1½ hours.

A longshoreman named McMahon walked off the Yonge-street wharf into the bay on Saturday night and was drowned.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

There was an active demand for discount in London during the past week at hardening rates, quoted at 2½ and 1.

On the London Stock Exchange, business was dull during the past week owing to the holidays but prices were maintained.

The continental bourses were generally quiet during the week and prices firm.

At Paris last week there was a considerable rise in the price of flour and wheat.

Mrs. Mary McMahon, the oldest person in the Chemung valley, died at Elmira yesterday afternoon, aged 103.

Robbery at Sandwich, Ont.

SANDWICH, Aug. 6.—About 9 o'clock Friday evening two masked men entered the residence of Capt. John Boynton, opposite the store of John Spiers, and struck the captain two frightful blows on the head with a cudgel, one of which broke the bridge of his nose and the other cracked the skull. Capt. Boynton's daughter, who was out for a drive, returned about 10 o'clock and discovered her father lying insensible in the yard. A search revealed that the miscreant had taken $200 in cash from a bureau drawer and the captain's $150 gold watch and chain. Capt. Boynton is an old lumberman and well-known citizen. His injuries, while severe, will not prove dangerous.

A Point of Etiquette.

An all out at elbows poet, by some freak of fortune came into possession of a $5 bill. He called to a lad and said, "Johnny, take William, and get it changed." "What do you mean by calling it 'William?'" inquired the wondering lad. "Why, John," remarked the poet, "I am not sufficiently familiar with it to take the liberty of calling it a 'Bill.'"—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Valuable Invention.

"A new shoe lasting machine has been invented," said a machinist to his wife as he laid down his paper.

"Well, John, for gracious sake," replied the good woman, "get a half dozen and let's try them on the children."—Washington Critic.

The Wrong Diagnosis.

Good Minister—What! weeping! I have come just in time. You are experiencing a change of heart.

Unregenerate Girl—N-o, my heart hasn't changed, but, boo, hoo! his has.—Omaha World.

A Terrible Explosive.

Chloride of nitrogen is said to be an explosive vastly more terrible than dynamite or meliinite, and Dr. Gotterman, of Gottingen, says that he has got it into a controllable shape.

Of all our infirmities, vanity is the dearest to us. A man will starve his other vices to keep that alive.—Benjamin Franklin.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THOU ART NOT NEAR.

Thou art not near me, but I see thine eyes
Shine through the gloom like stars in winter skies,
Pointing the way my longing steps would go,
To come to thee because I love thee so.

Thou art not near me, but I feel thine arm
Soft folded round me, shielding me from harm,
Guiding me on in the days of old,
When life was dark and all the ways were cold.

Thou art not near me, but I hear thee speak
Sweet as a breath of June upon my cheek,
And as thou speakest I forget my fears,
And all the darkness of the lonely years.

O love, my love, whate'er my fate may be,
Close to thy side or never more with thee,
Absent or present, near or far apart,
Thou hast my love and fillest all my heart.

—Cassell's Magazine.

A Fusible Plug for Boilers.

A fusible plug in a boiler never fails to indicate. The plug will fuse every time, and melt out whenever the water boils down below it. It secures safety to life and limb. The glass indicator may fail to indicate when the water foams briskly, but it is not a little thing like that that will interfere with the indication of a fuse. Rivermen all use them. The hissing sound that reaches the ears of the engineer when the plug fuses makes him leap to his feet, and, alarmed, he gets promply and prevents an explosion, and, perhaps, saves his own life by shutting down. The plugs are made of different metals. There is no question in my mind but that they add greatly to the security of life. Very few tube boilers are made now. I should say not one boiler out of every ten made now is a tube boiler. Don't use the words flue and tube interchangeably. A flue and a tube are two different things—Councilman Rohan in Globe-Democrat.

Didn't Like to be Floored.

"Say, Cholly, I was weally floowed today, don't cher know?"

"How's that, Gussie?"

But the stupid fellah couldn't gwasp my, awguments, don't cher knaw. Fwightful lack of mental powaw in Washin', poaw fellah."

"Hard lines, that's a fact, Gus. If you'd only tried to convince him you were one you could have done it in two minutes."

"You don't say, Cholly! Do you weally think so? Then I'll endeavow to pwove that to him to-moaw. A fellah hates to stay floowed by such a fellah, don't cher knaw!"—Detroit Free Press.

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

THE CLOVEN FOOT SHOWN.

U.S. SENATOR BLAIR REVEALS THE REPUBLIC'S SCHEME.

A Joint Resolution Introduced in the Senate Requesting the Opening of Negotiations for the Political Union of Canada and the States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—In the Senate today Mr. Blair (Rep., N.H.) introduced the following joint resolution which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Resolved, That the President be requested to open negotiation with the Government of Her Britannic Majesty, in which the Dominion of Canada and the several political sub-divisions thereof shall be represented, with a view to the settlement of all differences between Her Majesty's Government and the United States, and especially to the arrangement of terms mutually just, honorable and satisfactory, for political union between the Dominion of Canada, or between any of the several provinces or sub-divisions of the Dominion of Canada and the United States, subject to the approval of the people of the Dominion of Canada, or of the people of any province or sub-division thereof who may be included in such arrangement, and to the ratification of the United States, in such manner as Congress may prescribe; such political union to be republican and in accord with the general system and the constitution of the United States, and the negotiations may embrace such further treaties, compacts and alliances as shall be deemed necessary for the future peace, happiness, security and general welfare of Her Majesty's Dominion and of the United States.

A HUSBAND'S BRUTAL ACT.

He Gouges Out Both the Eyes of His Wife.

ROCKAWAY BEACH, L.I., Aug. 7.—Wm. Bovas, a saloon-keeper, is locked up at police headquarters here for committing one of the most brutal crimes ever known at Rockaway. Bovas, whose saloon is on Fairview-avenue, is a hard drinker and is a perfect fiend when he is in liquor. Whenever he gets drunk he quarrels with his wife and abuses her terribly, even if he does not try to kill her. Several months ago, when he was in the ugliest condition of drunkenness, he drove his wife into a corner of their bedroom and, clutching her throat with his left hand, he gouged out one of her eyes with his right thumb.

The woman was terribly disfigured and sightless in one eye, but she refused to make complaint against her husband, and even before the wound had fairly healed she had forgiven him.

Bovas seemed to glory in his fiendish act and has often sneered at his wife's disfigured face. He frequently threatened to gouge out her other eye and, to use his own words, "make her as blind as a bat." He went to Brooklyn on Sunday and returned in the afternoon fighting drunk. He was evidently looking for a quarrel and began to curse and swear at his wife at once. For a long time she made no reply, but at last, driven beyond the point of endurance, answered him.

"Now I'll get your other eye!" the fiend yelled, and he sprang upon her as upon the previous occasion and in the same way gouged out the other eye. Then while the poor woman groped blindly for the door, nearly crazed with agony, he made his escape and was not captured until yesterday.

Physicians were hastily summoned, but one glance at the bleeding creature was sufficient to tell them that she was irretrievably blinded. She is now under medical attendance. The neighbors are very much enraged at Bovas, and threats of lynching are freely made.

MORTON AND THE C. P. R.

The Vice Presidential Candidate's Connection with the Directorate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Concerning Levi P. Morton's reported retirement from the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company inquiries at the office of Morton, Bliss & Co., made this afternoon elicited the statement that Mr. Morton was elected director about a year ago to fill a place temporarily in the board until a selection was made of a suitable Canadian director. Since that election he has never attended a meeting of the board or exercised any of the functions of a director. His resignation was forwarded to the board in the early part of the summer and his place will be filled at to-morrow's meeting in Montreal.

A General Shaking Up Predicted.

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—Despite Mr. Van Horne's denial, it is know here that Sir George Stephen is going to resign to-morrow and Mr. Van Horne will be chosen his successor. There is going to be a general shaking up of the officers of the road in order to better prepare for the fight with the United States roads which is now becoming inevitable.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Stables Burnt at Brantford and Seven Horses Cremated.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 7.—About 5 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the stables of Waddington & Co., carters, in which seven horses, a mule and a number of carts were burnt. There was no light or fire used in the stable, and the cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Waddington's loss is $2000, insurance in the Ætna for $1000. The adjoining buildings were damaged by fire and water. One of the horses lost belonged to Mr. Messecar of Burford.

A Warkworth Dwelling Burnt.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 7.—A brick house belonging to the Edward O'Rourke estate, the residence of J. C. Humphries, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Cause unknown. Loss $1000, no insurance.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

INCREASED TRAFFIC ON THE INTERCOLONIAL.

The Export Duty on Logs—The Papers in Forger Bergen's Case Received by the Department of Justice—Royal Military College Contributions.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—It is understood that the contributions in aid of the messing and education of cadets admitted to the Royal Military College will in future be $200 instead of $100 as heretofore.

Both passenger and freight traffic on the Intercolonial has increased very largely during the present season. The output of coal is exceptionally heavy, but the increase is not in this item as it applies as well to the general freight returns.

The Customs Department recently issued a circular to the collectors with reference to the export duty on logs. Some collectors it is believed, have interpreted the act to mean only saw logs, but it is pointed out that the duty of $1 on spruce and $2 on pine logs per thousand applies to spars, piles and all spruce or pine logs, no matter for what purpose they are intended or by what trade name they are known.

The Department of Justice has received the papers in the case of Bergen, the Baltimore forger now in jail at Montreal. Detective Hall of Baltimore had an interview with Acting Deputy Minister Power this morning and was informed that the usual fifteen days must elapse before Bergen could be removed.

The Marine Department to-day received information from the receiver of wrecks for the North Sydney District that the schooner Dustholm on July 23 picked up off the coast of Newfoundland about 500 pieces of deals supposed to have come from a wrecked Canadian vessel. Some of the deals were marked E.B.E.

Messrs. McMicken of Niagara Falls and Duncan of Toronto, two of the Wimbledon team, arrived here on their way home to-day, but will remain to take part in the provincial rifle matches.

Wm. Shore and John D. Robinson, members of the Ottawa Field Battery, were fined $5 each in the Police Court this morning for refusing to attend the annual drill at Gananoque. They pleaded that if they went they were likely to lose their situations, but the magistrate refused to recognize that as an excuse.

Sir Hector Langevin left this afternoon for Joliette, where he will lay the corner stone of the new postoffice to-morrow morning. In the afternoon there will be a political picnic and in the evening a banquet. Sir Hector returns to the city on Wednesday.

Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Railways, left this afternoon for his home at Cookshire.

THE MINING COMMISSION.

Considerable Evidence Taken—Promising Leads in the Manitoulin District.

LITTLE CURRENT, Manitoulin, Aug. 7.—The Mining Commissioners have left this place for Sault Ste. Marie, having completed their investigation of that part of the north shore of Lake Huron opposite this Island and of the Island itself. The commission assembled for the first time here last Monday week.

The duties of the Commissioners, as set forth by the Crown, are to enquire into and report upon the mineral resources of Ontario and the best measures for their development.

Two sittings of the Commission have been held and a good deal of evidence already obtained. This has been supplemented by personal inspection of a number of locations. It may be summarized as follows: The prospector wants more protection and desires to be able to locate or stake out claims, as is done under the Dominion, the British Columbia and the United States laws. The present Ontario law requires him to pay for the property at once on application or someone else may buy it over his head, while the laws above mentioned allow him some years before he pays for his claim, but obliging him each year to do so much work on his claim.

With regard to this district there appear to be promising leads of iron ore, copper, gold and silver, but practically no development yet done. Our prospectors are hopeful, confident, and their number has increased from a single one to some dozens this season.

BOODLER McGARIGLE.

The Clergymen Don't Take Teddy With Him—Dr. Brett Annoyed.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Dr. Brett of the Banff sanitarium, who had been on a visit to the city, expressed himself in an interview as being greatly annoyed at newspaper reports that have appeared in Chicago and elsewhere mixing up his name in connection with McGarigle. Nearly all the statements, he says, have been made up of whole cloth, and are entirely devoid of truth. He says that McGarigle is a gentlemanly sort of a fellow and has made himself agreeable at Banff, but he has not one cent of interest in the sanitarium nor was the doctor's visit to Chicago in any way connected with McGarigle or his affairs.

The doctor says he has noticed the letter purporting to have been written by McGarigle to a friend in Chicago. He says it is one of a series of letters that have appeared in the American newspapers, and that while they show some familiarity with Banff affairs, are evident forgeries. He gives an emphatic denial to the statement made in this letter that McGarigle and Rev. Mr. Williams and Rev. Mr. Christmas had taken toddy together. A more contemptible slander could scarcely be conceived. He thinks the object of writing these letters was to make the people of Banff hostile to McGarigle, because such statements affecting the clergymen in question would naturally be resented.

FOR DIPSOMANIACS.

A Provincial Inebriate Asylum Advocated at the Hamilton Meeting.

HAMILTON, Aug. 6.—At a largely attended public meeting to-night held in the Central Presbyterian Church to consider the question of establishing an inebriate asylum, Mr. J. M. Gibson, M.P.P., presiding, addresses were delivered by Mr. Adam Brown, M.P., Dr. Mullen and others strongly advocating the proposed institution, and favoring its establishment on a purely provincial basis, supported and controlled by the Provincial Government alone.

A resolution was unanimously adopted to the effect that evidence be collected showing the necessity of a provincial inebriate asylum and that such evidence be laid before the Government at an early day.

Rev. D. Sexton delivered a lecture on "Dipsomania," and on "Sleep and Dreams."

The Lumber Cut on the St. John.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Aug. 6.—There is an immense quantity of lumber in the booms and along the shores in the vicinity yet unrafted. The lumber cut of this season is far in advance of last year and for several years previous. The estimated cut on the St. John this year is placed at 140,000,000 feet, which is some 40,000,000 in advance of last season. When Connor's big drive reaches the booms, all, with the exception of a few millions of this large cut, will be in. The work of rafting is proceeding with vigor at the booms at present.

CONDUCTED BY CALUMNY.

Balfour Says That Is the Way the Irish Controversy Is Carried On.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Mr. Balfour delivered an address before 30,000 persons at Tunbridge to-day. He declared that the Irish controversy was conducted by calumny, instead of by argument. He had been told that the Parnell commission had been appointed to crush the Government's political opponents. He asked how this could be done if the accused men were innocent.

In the House of Commons this evening, Sir Jas. Fergusson, Parliamentary Secretary to the Foreign Office, stated that Mr. West, the British Minister at Washington, had been instructed to request the United States Government to postpone the sale of Port Townsend of four British schooners, pending an inquiry into the legality of their seizure.

Mr. Smith said the Government had received no information that Justice Day had resigned from the Parnell Commission.

Mr. Balfour, referring to the discharge of Magistrate Latchford, said it had nothing to do with the merits of the case, but was simply due to a technical error in the order of imprisonment.

Replying to Mr. Sexton's charge that Mr. Balfour was responsible for the death of Mandeville, the Chief Secretary said the prison rules had been adopted by the last Liberal Chief Secretary and he would never consent to draw a distinction between one class of offenders and another.

Discharged From Custody.

DUBLIN, Aug. 6.—In the case of a magistrate named Latchford who was convicted of the charge of rioting at Tralee, County Keray, the court here have declared that his sentence and imprisonment were illegal and has discharged him from custody.

O'Shea v. Parnell.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Mr. O'Shea, referring to Mr. Parnell's letter to The Times, says the matter of the letter is poor, but that the style is excellent. Mr. Parnell, he asserts, sent The Freeman's Journal a communication last week, in which he distinctly confessed that the Coercion Bill in question was his.

The British Wheat Crop Injured.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Mark Lane Express in its review of the British grain trade during the past week says: August opened with disaster to the agricultural interests of the whole country. The rainfalls have been unprecedently heavy and the damage done to the wheat crop is irreparable.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

A French Ruffian's Brutal Crime and Just Punishment.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The frequent repetition of murders in railway carriages during the last few years gives peculiar interest to a trial just concluded at Melun. A year ago the Melun Court Assizes sentenced a man named Andre to hard labor for life for assassinating a coachman in a train on their way to Troyes. Before this the mysterious case of M. Barreme, prefect, murdered in a first-class carriage near Maisons Lafitte, had excited the public, and now comes this trial of a ruffian named Pachimeny, who on April 3 last made a desperate attempt to assassinate M. Callin, a cattle dealer in a train a few miles from Laterte-Sous-Jomarre about 2 a.m.

M. Callim was travelling in a third-class carriage from Pantin to Neltan Court. In his pocket he had 8,000 francs, the proceeds of his day's business. The monotonous motion of the train soon sent him to sleep. He was blissfully dreaming of tremendous bargains in sheep and oxen when suddenly he was awakened by a terrific blow on the forehead. Though the blood was streaming down his face he had strength to get up and engage in a deadly struggle with his assailant. Pachimeny, the murderer, was armed with a heavy poker, but despite this advantage he was no match for his victim. Finding that he was likely to get the worst of the fight Pachimeny opened the carriage door, though the train was rushing along at full speed, jumped out and disappeared in the darkness. Meanwhile Callin had managed to pull the alarm signal and the train was stopped. Pachimeny was soon arrested by the local gendarmes and was recognised as a notorious criminal already condemned for two offences.

The jury at the Melun Court Assizes, taking the severest view of his new crime, refused to give him the benefit of the usual extenuating circumstances and found him guilty after a short trial. The ruffian was sentenced to death.

A HALLELUJAH WEDDING.

The O'Connell Celebration at Oakville—A Picton Skipper in Hard Luck.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—At the Salvation Army camp last night on Wells' Hill 5000 people attended the hallelujah wedding of Major Bailey and Miss Annie Salmon. The bridegroom is a Londoner, where he was educated and engaged in business. The bride is the daughter of Rev. John Salmon, a Congregational minister. She was a school teacher in the counties of Lambton and Oxford for seven years.

There was a big turnout at the demonstration at Oakville yesterday, under the auspices of the Emerald Beneficial Association, in recognition of the anniversary of O'Connell's birth. Branches from Hamilton, Dundas, Merritton, Oakville and Toronto were present and there were several thousand persons on the grounds. The Oakville Baseball Club played a match for $20 with the Bayside of Toronto, the former winning, and there was a well contested program of other sports.

The steamer Hastings brought nineteen plumbers to the city yesterday morning from the States. One of the strikers was on board, and soon the pickets were all over the city after the new arrivals, several of whom are said to have been captured and enrolled with the strikers last night. Both sides remain firm and express themselves as confident of ultimate victory.

Morney Ackerman, of Picton, owner and master of the schooner Nellie Hunter, was observed by Policeman Young about 10 o'clock last night loitering around a lane in rear of the Model Lodging House, and with him were two or three women. When Young approached the women fled, so the officer took Ackerman into custody. On the road to Police Headquarters the sailor told Young that he had been robbed of $300. At the station he reduced the amount to $78, and, finally, begging that he should not be placed in the cells, he stated that $10 only had been taken. He was locked up, however.

At the Police Court yesterday Charles C. Williams, cook of the steamer Chicora, pleaded not guilty to the charge of having feloniously wounded Fred Farragher, fireman, by stabbing him in the hand with a knife. It was stated that the injured man is still in the hospital and could not appear before Thursday, to which day Williams was remanded.

A number of years ago a Scotchman named Henderson, tired of his conjugal relations, left his native heather, his wife and son, an only child 2 years of age. He pitched his tent in Candas and prospered, marrying a second time. After a number of years his second wife and family all died. Whereupon he sent to Scotland for his brother and sister and their families and bestowed upon them his superfluous wealth. Yesterday his son arrived in Toronto under an assumed name bent upon discovering his long absent father and securing a share of the wealth he had accumulated here.

SENATOR VANCE'S STORY.

THE N.C. SENATOR SPEAKS ON THE FISHERIES TREATY.

His Explanation of the Republican Opposition to Ratification—They Had to Do Something—Why the Heathen Rage—The Debate Not Concluded.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The Senate resumed consideration of the Fisheries Treaty in open executive session yesterday and was addressed by Mr. Vance (Dem., N.C.) in favor of its ratification. He accounted for the remarkable heat exhibited by the Republicans against the treaty by telling a story of a fellow in North Carolina who was once caught with an extra "Jack" in his sleeve when playing a game of "old sledge" and who in reply to the fierce denunciation of his adversary said: "Bill, you know we were six and six and it was your deal, and I was obliged to do something." So, said Mr. Vance, the presidential election is coming on and the Republican party, which desires once more to get into power and whose chief joy is the flesh-pots of Egypt, knows the game stands six and six and that the deal is ours, and that they must do something.

He went on to say that owing to the stand taken by his friend on the other side of the Senate we presented to the world this spectacle of considering a treaty, not in the dignified way, not in a way respectful to the great power with which they treat, not in a way considerate of the interests of the 60,000,000 of our people, not in a way consistent with the dignity of this great and mighty nation, but as though the issue was to be decided by a ward primary.

Mr. Vance quoted at considerable length from a newspaper interview with Mr. Frye to the effect that American fishermen require nothing at the hands of the Canadians and said: If that be so, what is all this fuss about? Why do the heathen rage and desire the people to imagine a vain thing? He quoted Mr. Frye as saying that the remedy was a duty on salt fish and said: "You heard the senator from Maine (Frye) describe in words that burn, the tearing down of the American flag by Captain Quigley of the Canadian cruiser and you heard him taunt the senator from Ohio (Payne), shaking his fist in his face and telling him that he was apologizing for a man who tore down his country's flag. You heard all that, it created quite a ripple in the gallery, I thought I could already hear the shouts of the columns marching, and banners floating in the breeze, and could smell the powder burned to avenge the American flag, but the wounded honor of the senator can be amply atoned for by a higher duty on fresh fish."

Mr. Vance went on to describe the condition of the poor population along the Nova Scotia and Newfoundland coasts whose only source of support was fish in their bays, and said there was not a citizen of New England, who, if the conditions were reversed, would not find a hundred methods of repelling Canadian fishermen from trespassing on their rights. Bluster could not do any good though it might get some votes of those who could be controlled by such appeals.

It has been claimed for the Senate of the United States that it was one of the ablest and most dignified assemblies on earth. The present exhibition could not bear out those pretensions. It proved the fact that Senators were created of the same clay as other men, and that in the language of the Widow Bedott "Senators and representatives and what not were all poor critters."

No other Senator sought the floor when Mr. Vance took his seat, but Mr. Morgan intimated his understanding that several others did desire to speak on the subject of the treaty.

Return of Enck's Comet.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—A cable message received to-day from the European office of astronomy announces Enck's comet on its present return, at the royal observatory of the Cape of Good Hope, on Friday evening.

An International Riot.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—A despatch from Laon in the Department of Iser, says the Frenchmen engaged at work on the Brazil tunnel went on strike because of the refusal of the contractor to discharge an Italian. The contractor later assented to the dismissal of the man. The comrades of the Italian, 70 in number, thereupon made an attack upon the Frenchmen using revolvers. A severe encounter took place resulting in the death of one Italian and the wounding of several more. The Frenchmen afterwards sacked the canteen of the Italians. There were further conflicts between the strikers and the police and many prisoners were rescued by their friends.

Suicide at Welland.

WELLAND, Aug. 7.—Archibald Kilpatrick, an old man, committed suicide here on Sunday night by taking rat poison.

Against the Liquor Sellers.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Aug. 7.—In the Supreme Court yesterday, judgment was given affirming the validity of the Scott Act in Portland City. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Failure at Ailsa Craig.

AILSA CRAIG, Aug. 7.—Shackelton Hay, postmaster here and who also carried on a banking business under the name of Hay & Co., has made an assignment. The amount due depositors is $29,000. The Bank of Montreal is interested to the extent of $16,000, but is secured.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

It is semi-officially announced at Rome that Germany admits the occupation of Massowah by Italy.

The strike on the Cross-town Surface Railroad of Brooklyn still continues without change in the situation.

A disastrous storm visited the central section of Missouri yesterday morning. Great damage to crops was entailed and losses on town property are heavy.

Right Rev. Samuel S. Harris, Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Michigan, was stricken with paralysis at London, Eng., on Sunday.

The Customs duties collected at Port Arthur for July amounted to $14,835.

For the week ending Aug. 4,720 immigrants passed through Port Arthur for the Northwest.

Two Kerry cows, the first of the kind ever landed at the Levis quarantine, arrived yesterday for His Excellence the Governor-General.

Telegraphic reports received from many points throughout Ontario last night indicate that the crop outlook has considerably improved of late. The proceeds of the season's work for the farmers promise now to be much better than was at one time expected.

Dr. W. C. Carson, medical attendant at the Institute for the blind at Brantford died Sunday of heart disease.

At a meeting of the Orangeville Presbytery yesterday the call from Erskine church Torooto, to Rev. W. A. Hunter, of Orangeville, was sustained.

Winnipeg Wirelets.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—The Local Government offer three cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25 respectively for the best collection of seeds, grains and roots for exhibition at the Ontario fall shows.

Five hundred immigrants arrived during last week.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1888.

THE MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR.

The Calgary Tribune is a liberal paper. But it is not such a partisan that it will condemn everything done by the Dominion Government. It will not express disapproval of the appointment of Mr. Dewdney to the Department of the Interior. The Winnipeg Free Press is angry because the Northwest papers will not follow its lead, and tries to bully them into doing so, but the Tribune replies in this way: "The spleen of the Free Press against Mr. Dewdney seems to be unconquerably. Any newspaper that can see anything else but rotteness in the late administration of these Territories, in the estimation of the Free Press, is blinded by a desire to court favor, and thereby to obtain profitable patronage. When a good newspaper like the Free Press descends to such abject meanness of attack against a political opponent as this, it is simply pitiful. The Free Press for the past has done its best to besmirch the reputation of Mr. Dewdney, but we cannot recollect any charge that has been made that has been supported with the proof. We don't think any man could have occupied a position such as Mr. Dewdney has occupied having such autocratic powers attaching to the office, and undertaking to exercise those powers without receiving a very large share of the sort of criticism and abuse from his opponents that Mr. Dewdney has received. The very possession of those autocratic powers in a country like Canada, where the spirit of freedom born of democratic institutions exists to so large an extent, was calculated to excite suspicion and to challenge attacks of the very kind that have been made. Mr. Dewdney has been charged with administering his great office to his own pocket. It has been said that he was in collusion with contractors, and thus made large sums of money by debauching a public trust. It has been alleged that he trafficked in public lands, and made thousands out of those transactions. And still the fact remains and is everywhere admitted that Mr. Dewdney is to-day a poor man and he has never shown extravagance in his mode of living. Where then are the vast sums that he has made out of his office? The truth is these stories don't hang together, and every effort that has been made to prove them on the floor of the house of commons or elsewhere has totally failed. They are only the outcome of the suspicions of political opponents, aroused, as we have said, by the administration of powers, which in themselves contained the elements most likely to provoke suspicion."

The Tribune is right in asking for proof of charges against a man before believing them or condemning him upon them. But it will look in vain for proofs in this case. The Liberal papers—that is, the more bitterly partisan of them—are lamenting because an office ably filled by the late Hon. Thomas White should be filled by Mr. Dewdney. Mr. White ably filled the office; he was an able man. But it is not so long since the same papers declared that Mr. White's selection for the office was an unfortunate one—that "spoon-fed" White, as they then, with their usual elegance of style, called him, should not have been placed over the department. And the time may come when they will wish their attacks upon Mr. Dewdney forgotten.

A DIABOLICAL MURDER.

An Indian Girl Killed by Three Chinamen—Two of the Fiends Arrested.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 6.—A diabolical murder is reported from the mouth of the Fraser River. An Indian girl, 16 years old, was taken sick and three Chinamen passing claimed to be doctors. One guarded the house, while the others poured an inflammable liquid on the girl's wrist, fore the lingual artery, two small arteries in the throat and two veins. The girl bled to death in a few minutes.

The Chinese fled and information was not given for five days.

Two of the Chinese have been arrested, but the other is missing.

CORNWALL, Aug. 7.—Angus McPhee, 8 years old, was drowned here yesterday afternoon while playing in a boat in the Cornwall Canal.

Death of Rev. E. R. Stimson.

HAMILTON, Aug. 7.—Rev. E. R. Stimson died Sunday evening in this city, aged 64. He had been suffering for about six weeks from pneumonia. He was born in Connecticut in 1824 and entered the Anglican Church in the diocesse of Huron about 40 years ago, being afterwards transferred to the Toronto diocese. He ceased active service some ten years ago, when he received a letter of retirement from the late Bishop Bethune. He was for many years editor of The Church Herald.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

SKIN GRAFTING.

The Operation Successful in the Case of Maggie Pierce of St. John, N.B.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Aug. 6.—In the case of Maggie Pierce, who is now in the General Hospital here, the operation of skin grafting has been going on for some time, and, although necessarily slow, it would appear to have been fairly successful so far. When her scalp was torn off, it carried with it the flesh of the forehead, as well as the skin on the eyelids, and as far down as the bridge of the nose. Up to the present time the skin has been grafted on the nose, also on the eyelids and a small portion of the forehead. There are also grafts on other parts of her head, which have attached themselves. The grafts were taken from the arms of her friends and from some of the inmates of the hospital. The general health of the patient is fair. She spends the greater portion of her time in bed, and does not appear as anxious to get out as she was some time ago. What the ultimate result in her case will be the hospital physician cannot fortell, but so far as the grafting is concerned he considers that it has been attended with a fair degree of success.

QUEBEC, Aug. 6.—Hon. John Graham Haggart, Postmaster-General, was sworn in here to-day by His Excellency the Governor-General.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Prices of Produce Practically Unchanged—Butter and Cheese Markets.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—There was no business to speak of at the St. Lawrence market yesterday. The supply was small, and prices were unchanged. Butter was a little easier than on Saturday, pound rolls selling at 22 cents, and tub at 18 and 20 cents. Eggs brought 17 cents and lard 13 cents. Potatoes sold at $1.50 per barrel, or 25 cents per peck. Corn was 15, and cucumbers 10 to 25 cents per dozen. Tomatoes were a little lower, selling again at $1.25.

Only four loads of hay were offered, selling at $20 and $22. Straw sold at $10 and $11. No grain was offered.

On call 97 cents was bid for No. 2 fall wheat on the track; 89 for No. 2 spring and 96 for No. 1 Manitoba hard. The latter was offered at $1.

FRUIT.

Red raspberries were quoted at 8 and 9c a box; cherry currants, at 75c and $1.25 a basket; red currants, 75c a basket; black currants, $1.50 a basket; apples, $1.70 to $2.25 a barrel; peaches, 75c and $1.25 a basket; watermelons, $20 and $30 a hundred; lemons, $5.50 and $6.00 a case; and bananas, $1.50 and $2.00 a bunch.

HEAVY SHIPMENTS.

There has been a heavy reduction in stocks of wheat at Port Arthur during the past week, the decrease amounting to over 200,000 bushels.

Yesterday was a bank holiday in England and consequently there are no English markets.

CHEESE MARKETS.

The Utica cheese market showed a firmer tone and prices were ½c better than last week. Transactions aggregated 23,131 boxes as follows: 2000 at 8 3-8c, 6535 at 8¾c, remainder sold between 8 3-8c and 8 7-8c.

At Little Falls 58 lots sold at 8¾c, 44 at 9c, 1 at 9¼c; total sales 8399 boxes. Twenty packages of farm butter sold at 17c to 19c and 44 packages creamery at 20c.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

WHAT IS IT?

MARVELOUS, WONDERFUL,

MYSTERIOUS, PROFOUND,

It Is One of the Great Marvels of the World

It is called "Cosmos, the Great Oracle of Human Destiny," and something remarkable, and is creating great interest among scientists at the present day. The above cut is a fac-smile of a stone excavated from the Temple of Truth (so called) in Athens Greece, in the year, 1527, and placed in the British Museum in London, Eng.

This stone has been noticed without doubt by many residents of this town who have visited the museum. It stands in the "Corridor of Wonders."

The letters appearing on the cut above are in Hieroglyphics on the original stone, but were translated some years ago by Prof. Bartlett of the Howard University, who discovered that they had a hidden meaning, and there are positive proofs that the stone is thousands of years old, and formed part of the belief of the Chaldeans of Persia who were great astrologists, and from which our present knowledge of astronomy is mostly derived.

This wonderful combination of letters arranged in circles around the solar system will, in connection with the key discovered by Prof. Bartlett to read it by astonish and amaze you with the phenominal accuracy with which it answers questions that anyone may ask in regard to Business Enterprises, Love, Money matters, Destiny, and what every young lady and gentlemen who reads this advertisement is just dying to know about Love and Marriage. It is bound to create a sensation outside of the serious import which the replies of "Cosmos" gives. There is lots of fun and amusement in it, for the home circles, and as a parlor game, it will produce what we will call original fun in abundance. Everybody should have one.

We have been to large expense to obtain the copper plate to print copies of the letters on the wonderful stone for distribution, and although copies of Cosmos on handsome placques are being sold in the large cities for $1.00 each, we purpose as a novel way of advertising and as is our custom when we have anything good and interesting to do it in a liberal way, and to give the entire populace an opportunity to secure one. We shall give one copy with the directions to read it by free to each purchaser of any article in our store for the next 60 days, after which they will not be given free. No doubt thousands of people will avail themselves of this opportunity, but we have enough to supply the demand. Obtain a "Cosmos" and send one to your friends out of town and it will please them as much as though they had found a $10.00 bill. Ask for "Cosmos" at the store of

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh south to west winds; fair weather with local showers or thunderstorms; not much change in temperature.

A Comfort While Camping.

When you go camping don't think it a big virtue to rough it too much. There is reason in all things. The first day you will feel much as usual. The second day most awfully tired. The third day worse, if anything. Then you revive and get acclimatized, get used to the fare and water. Don't think it brave and a proof of your ruggedness to sleep on the ground. Take along a camp bed, say one of Turner's, and with a pair of Golden Lion camping blankets you will be more than comfortable.

To Stoney Lake.

The excursion to Stoney Lake on the Civic Holiday, under the auspices of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E., promises to be a huge success. Tea, sugar, and hot water will be supplied gratis by the management. Tickets can now be had of the committee. Adults 80c., children 50c. 1d31

The Tailors' Excursion.

The second annual excursion of the tailors of Peterborough is being held today. The Golden-Eye left the wharf this morning well laden with a merry party. As the weather is favorable they will no doubt have an enjoyable sail and a pleasant time at Jubilee Point.

A Mind Reader?

At the meeting in the George-st. Church on Monday evening the Rev. Mr. Shorey occupied a seat on the platform. He had never seen Miss Munro, but he looked over the audience and when speaking said that he had picked out a young lady who he thought was her. When the meeting was over it was found that he had guessed correctly, and the Rev. Mr. Pearson remarked that he must be a 'mind reader. "No; it was a guess," replied Mr. Shorey.

About Arranged.

Owing to the fact that the Secretary and Manager of the Home for Incurables, Toronto, have been absent from the city for some time, there has been considerable difficulty in arranging for transferring to that institution the man William Course, who is suffering from cancer at the gaol. However, it is probable that he will soon be removed, as the Home for Incurables will receive the sufferer for $3 per week, to be paid monthly by the municipality. As soon as possible he will be sent to Toronto.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

The Results.

Five students of the Collegiate Institute wrote for matriculation examinations this summer, and of the five three have been successful—two in university matriculation and one in law—and the result in the cases of the other two is not yet known. Fifteen tried in the examinations for second-class teachers' certificates and of these seven were successful. Twenty-three were sent up for the third-class examinations, and in addition eight or nine wrote who were not advised to do so by the staff, and three were successful.

Nipped by Sharpers.

One of the unpleasantnesses connected with a circus is always the band of sharpers and swindlers who follow it. On Monday and Monday night these swindlers were busy, and many were foolish enough to permit themselves to be done out of their money. The nut-shell men manipulated the mysterious pea with considerable advantage to themselves, and a sweatboard, a tin wheel and other contrivances were used in tricking money out of those foolish enough to try to beat a man at his own trick. One man in town ventured heavily, and dropped $150 to the sharpers, another lost $25, and others who lost various amounts complained of their misfortune.

Meteoric Displays.

The August nights from the 8th to the 12th will be enlivened by the display of meteors, which are sure to descend through the atmosphere in greater or less numbers. The meteors, as is well known, come from the great meteor zone whose perihelion is on the earth's orbit, and whose aphelion extends beyond the bounds of Neptune, the most distant planet in the solar system. The earth, about the 10th, plunges through the zone, the meteors are set on fire by the concussion of the earth's atmosphere and descend in the form of shooting stars. The radiant point of the August meteors is in the constellation Perseus, and they are therefore called Persids. Perseus rises on the 10th in the northeast about 9 o'clock, and observers who watch the sky in that direction will be rewarded by the sight of several hundred meteors as the hours of the night pass on. Many of them will be brilliant and as large as stars of the first magnitude, and many of them will leave trails of luminous vapor lasting several seconds.

Told to Go.

An elderly man, who was found sleeping in a doctor's barn last night, was in the Police Court this morning. He was advised to leave town, and on promising to do so, was allowed to go.

A County Constable.

His Honor Judge Weller has been pleased to appoint Chief Roszel a constable for the county. The Chief made the necessary declaration before the Police Magistrate this morning.

A Concert.

Arrangements are being made for a concert to be held in the grounds of the Murray-st. Separate School, on Tuesday evening next, under the auspices of the school, and in which the pupils will take part.

Sabbath Desecration.

A barber, who is also a tobacconist, was before the Police Magistrate this morning for selling goods on Sunday. He acknowledged having done so. The Magistrate said he would let him off easy and imposed a fine of $5 and costs. The Magistrate remarked that the officers would not allow any business to be done on Sunday.

Off for Barrie.

The Canton, accompanied by the band, left on the 6.30 train this morning for Barrie, via Port Hope. Several other Oddfellows, representatives to the Grand Lodge meeting, went on the same train. In all their were about fifty in the company. The Canton will take part in the Oddfellows' demonstration in Barrie, and its members and the band will no doubt carry off their share of the honors.

Accident at Bridgenorth.

On Monday evening Mr. Philip Crough, of Ennismore, was driving fast through the swamp on this side of Bridgenorth, and his buggy went over the culvert at the watering place. He struck on his head, and received a severe cut on the forehead, another on the lip and other injuries. He was taken to Fobert's hotel, where his injuries were attended to and then conveyed home.

The Circus.

Last evening Miller and Freeman's railroad show gave another exhibition on the Riverside Park. About eight o'clock the tent was filled to the doors and the performance commenced by acting on the horizontal bar, and some very good acting was done. Then followed daring swinging trapeze acts by Messrs. Sterk and Zeno, which brought forth loud applause from the audience. The leap for life was excellent and caused some of the ladies to scream. Miss Polly Lee gave some daring feats of horsemanship, as did Mr. James Stowe. Mr. James Murray, the clown, kept the audience in a continued roar with his comical antics and with the mule and the educated pig Pete. There was also some very good tumbling by a number of good tumblers. The menagerie was very slim, only a few animals being on exhibition. After the circus performance was over a concert was given, to which the biggest part of the crowd remained, but it did not amount to much.

Wished Publicly to Miss Munro, Mission Teacher to Japan.

A meeting was held in the George-st. Methodist Church on Monday evening, to bid farewell to Miss Jessie Munro, who is about to depart for Japan, as a Methodist mission teacher. There was a good attendance. The Rev. M. L. Pearson presided, and the Rev. S. J. Shorey, the Rev. A. C. Wilson, and Mr. H. S. Griffin, Superintendent of the Sunday School, occupied seats on the platform. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, the Rev. S. J. Shorey leading in prayer.

The CHAIRMAN read letters of regret from the Rev. Alex. Bell and the Rev. P. Clifton Parker. He said that this church had an honor conferred upon it by having one of their Sunday School teachers selected for this work, and it was especially an honor to the school.

The Rev. A. C. WILSON expressed his pleasure in being again closely connected in church work with the chairman. He said that an acquaintance with the missionaries gave them an additional interest in the mission fields. He eulogized Mr. Eby, now in Japan. He was glad to meet a young woman who had courage enough to leave her home and go to that distant land. There was an inspiration in such courage, and it would have an influence on others. He was glad to meet one who had got so near Christ as to give herself for the salvation of souls. He sympathized with her, and God would give her grace. It was worth a thousand lives to bring one man out of the darkness of paganism into Christianity. Miss Munro would be followed by prayers and sympathies, and he hoped God would prosper her.

The Rev. S. J. SHOREY said they had met to say farewell and to give words of cheer to the elect young lady who was going to the great empire of Japan. He congratulated her, and he took off his hat in all respect to missionaries. She would find opportunities almost as countless as the sands and work as ample as any power with which God had blessed her. This meeting meant that they felt an interest in and sympathy with her work, which should give her encouragement. Their presence evidenced faith in her and faith in God. Her first feeling in Japan would probably be of helplessness, but she would feel that God had called her and would leave all in His hands. She was going to one of the grandest works with which God ever blessed a young lady in the Methodist church. The church recognized that intelligence and zeal were required for this work, and Miss Munro's selection for it was a compliment to her and the church.

MR. H. S. GRIFFIN said that Miss Munro was one of their most valued teachers. He was glad she was going, as he knew she would do them credit and they would be proud of her. God had greatly honored their school. It was wonderful the number who had gone out from the school and taken prominent positions in Canada and in distant lands. He was sorry he had not a list to read to them, but he would mention the late Hon. Thos. White, who had been pupil, teacher and superintendent; Mr. Dundas, ex-M.P., of Lindsay; Dr. Ford, of Norwood, and his brothers who were in the ministry; the Rev. Mr. Rutledge, of Grace Church, Winnipeg; Mr. J. W. Flavelle, who would in a few years take a prominent position in Toronto; the Messrs. Flavelle, of Lindsay, and Dr. Emmerson, who had recently received his degree. He prayed God to bless Miss Munro. He spoke of her valuable assistance in the school, her clearness of mind and faithfulness. She had said that nearly all the inspiration of her life she had received at the school, and another was leaving it to preach the Gospel.

A collection was taken up, which was a liberal one, and the proceeds presented to Miss Munro. A hymn was sung and the Rev. Mr. Wilson pronounced the benediction.

At the conclusion of the meeting a large number remained and bade Miss Munro farewell.

Masonic Notice.

As many of the Masonic brethren as possible are requested to assemble at the lodge rooms, Water-st., at 8 o'clock, when some arrangement will be made regarding attending the funeral of the late W Bro. Doebler, at Port Hope, on Wednesday.

Civic.

A meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee is called for Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. The sidewalks in the centre of the town are in such a bad condition that it is proposed to tear them up and replace them with new planks throughout. The old planks when turned will do for walks in the outskirts.

Personal.

Mrs. Schofield, of Toronto, is in town visiting friends.

Mr. W. H. Dingle went up to Stoney Lake this morning.

Mr. John Green, barrister, leaves town to-night for a visit to Avon and Clifton Springs, New York. He hopes to have his health benefitted by a sojourn for some time at these popular resorts.

Mr. John Hillier, Edinburgh-st, leaves this evening on a visit to the Northwest.

Masonic Funeral.

The funeral of Mr. C. Doebler, of Port Hope, whose death is announced in another column, will take place on Wednesday, the 8th inst., at 3.30 o'clock p.m. The deceased gentleman was a prominent member of the Masonic order, and the funeral will be conducted by the fraternity of the town and district. Arrangements will be made, if such can be effected, to carry members of the Order who wish to attend the funeral from Peterborough to Port Hope and return for one fare.

A PROMINENT MASON DEAD.

By Telephone to the Review.

PORT HOPE, August 7.—Mr. Charles Doebler, one of the foremost merchants of Port Hope, died this morning after a short illness, in his 61st year. The deceased was a prominent and enthusiastic member of the Masonic Order, and had filled many onerous positions in the craft, among them W. M. of Ontario Lodge, Z. of Victoria Chapter, and Grand Supt. of Ontario district, R.A.M., for four years. Mr. Doebler was well known to the members of the fraternity throughout Ontario, and was deservedly held in high esteem. He leaves a wife and one daughter, who have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire population of Port Hope, as well as of many in Peterborough, where Mr. Doebler was well known and highly esteemed.

The funeral will take place under Masonic auspices on Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. A number of the Peterborough brethren are expected to attend.

Brevities.

—A number went north this morning to to spend the day on the lakes.

—A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening.

—Some of the streets are rather muddy and they would almost stand scraping again.

—A very pleasant lawn party was held at the residence of Mr. C. J. Leonard last evening.

—A cricket match between the over thirty and under thirty teams is being played this afternoon.

—The rain did good to the root crops and the late barley, and more of it would be appreciated by the farming community.

—A workman in Hamilton's foundry had a finger torn in the machinery this morning. Dr. Kincaid dressed the injured digit.

—The Canton "Goon," with his water tank and uniform, looked quite nobby this morning as he left for Barrie with the chevaliers of No. 10.

—The electric light which was suspended over George-st. at Simcoe, has been removed and new wires are being strung as far as Hall, Innes & Co's.

—The water in the river is remarkably low and in places one can easily wade across. At the Otonabee bridge the bottom can be seen all the way across.

—The Methodist district meeting, and a Sunday School convention, is held in Millbrook to-day. The Peterborough clergymen and delegates are in attendance.

—Major Bailey, of the Salvation Army, who was married at Toronto yesterday, was well known here. He had charge at the recent opening of the new temple here.

—The Miller & Freeman circus left town this morning for Lindsay, where they exhibit to-day. The attaches all conducted themselves in an orderly manner while here.

—The Foresters' Excursion from Toronto under the auspices of the Canadian Order, to Peterborough on August 13th, promises to be a huge affair. They will be accompanied by a band.

—A report on a system of waterworks for the town of Pembroke states that Peterborough is classed "C" by the insurance men. Our class is "B," and has been such for over a year.

—The camping parties from the north are commencing to break up, and each day the trains bring down detatchments, but their places are rapidly taken by others anxious to get health and pure air and catch lots of fish.

—George and Water-sts. from Lake to Smith have been numbered, and all the streets running east and west, between Smith and Lake have been numbered from the river to Park-st. The other streets will receive attention as soon as the numbers are ready for putting up.

"Did n't Know 't was Loaded"

May do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

JOHN DALE'S FAILURE.

John Dale was one of the richest men in Bondburg. He was still on the sunny side of 40, but gray-haired business men and financiers consulted him upon the most important matters, and whenever it was known that John Dale was connected with any enterprise the success of the project was assured.

Dale was lavish in his expenditures, and his beautiful wife did not try to restrain him. Mrs. Dale outshone the younger beauties and belles of the place, and her husband was proud of her.

In Bondburg the main staple of the talk was the Dales, their movements, their extravagance, their good fortune. Sometimes old men shook their heads, but everything that Dale touched seemed to turn into gold. The young speculator established a bank and built a railroad and took hold of a dozen other big enterprises. The entertainments at the Dale mansion were on a scale of magnificence never seen before in that part of the country. Among the invited guests were millionaires who traveled in special cars. It was a common thing for people to rush across the continent to see the Dales.

The financial crash of 18— was a terrible disaster. It was felt not only in the great cities but in the smaller towns as well. In Bondburg the oldest business houses went to the wall.

When a man is in trouble he finds out his real friends and enemies. The panic struck John Dale at a bad time. At first he was confident that he would come out all right. He borrowed right and left and made a brave effort to push his way through. He even called on Steele, but the old usurer told him that a loan was out of the question.

One day it was whispered that Dale would have to go under, and that he would be left several hundred thousand dollars in debt. That night there was a reception at his house, and many of the guests went simply out of curiosity. They wanted to see how the speculator would look on the eve of his failure. If these people expected to see a crushed man, they were disappointed. The entertainment was the most delightful of the season. Dale's bright and handsome face showed not the slightest trace of care, and his wife was in her most charming mood.

"They are frivolous people," said one of the guests to old Steele early the next morning. "I gave Dale credit for being a thoughtful man, but he and his wife seem to be too light-minded to appreciate the gravity of the situation."

"They will appreciate it to-day," said Steele, grimly. "I have got hold of a lot of Dale's paper, and I am going to close down. You will see my lord and my lady come to grief."

The news of Dale's failure created quite a sensation, but scores of business men remarked that they were not at all surprised, and that they had been looking for it all along.

"And he will have nothing left," said a merchant to Mr. Steele; "not a cent, will he?"

"No," replied Steele, "he will be worse off than a beggar, because he will be heels over head in debt. There will be a meeting of the principal creditors to-morrow, and the result may land Dale in the penitentiary."

"It will be a terrible blow to Mrs. Dale," said a leading society lady, "and it may kill her."

This was the general run of the talk about the failure. Very little sympathy was expressed. In hard times sympathy is a very scarce commodity.

On the same morning John Dale took his wife into the library after breakfast and told her all. Mrs. Dale was silent for a moment. Then she put her arms around her husband's neck and kissed him.

"At least we love each other," she said.

"But," exclaimed Dale, in some amazement, "you do not understand. We must give up our house. There will be nothing left. My creditors may pursue me all my life, and there is nothing but poverty before me."

Mrs. Dale gave him another kiss. "Do you think I care?" she said.

"My dear," said Dale, and his voice trembled, "I must tell you the worst. My success made me reckless, and if some of my creditors push me to the last extreme they will be able to send me to prison, although I had no criminal intention in my transactions with them."

"No matter what befalls you," said the beautiful woman by his side, "I will stand by you, and suffer with you, and will wait for better days."

Then, for the first time, John Dale shed a few tears. Later in the day he went to his office and devoted his attention to his business affairs.

"You will see him beg for mercy," said old Steele to the meeting of creditors. "I know these extravagant spendthrifts. Dale will come here and cry and plead. You must be firm with him."

Just then the object of his talk entered the room.

"Hello, Steele!" he said, with his customary carelessness. "Well, gentlemen, here we are. Now let us see what can be done about this matter."

Old Steele glared at Dale, and the others looked at him in astonishment. Dale did not look like a man who had been crushed by some great misfortune. He looked younger, brighter, and handsomer than ever, and there was a ring of triumph in his tones.

"Curse that fellow!" said old Steele. "I wonder what is up now."

"Gentlemen," said Dale, "before proceeding to business, I desire to say a few words."

Instantly there was a dead silence in the room. Dale then made a calm, straightforward statement concerning his various enterprises, and wound up with the admission that his liabilities greatly exceeded his assets. Then he told them of his interview with his wife.

"You will now understand," he concluded, "that this is no great misfortune after all. If my wife is satisfied to share my poverty, I am the happiest man on earth."

Dale looked around upon the group in such a frank and manly way that all were favorably impressed.

When the creditors consulted together in private, Steele was the only man who held out against a compromise. Then the others withdrew, and in a short time returned.

"It is all right," said the leader to Steele. "We will settle your claims and give Dale another chance. He is a good fellow, and he shan't be sacrificed."

"Well, if you will be fools," snarled Steele, "I have no objection."

John Dale did not have to give up his house, and there was no talk of criminal prosecution. His manly way of meeting his difficulties and the devotion of his wife rallied a band of strong friends around him, and in the course of a few days he was on his feet again.

Perhaps the Dales profited by their experience during the panic. At all events they did not rush headlong into a career of extravagance. They modified their style of living, and in the course of a few years they had the satisfaction of knowing that they were out of debt and again on the high road to fortune.

And yet it might have been very different. John Dale said one day to his wife—

"When I told you of my failure if you had broken down under the news it was my intention to go to my room and blow my brains out."

"Why, John!" exclaimed the little woman, "how could I have given you any other answer?"

And then Dale hugged her and kissed her.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Kingston Burglar's Attempted Escape.

KINGSTON, Aug. 6.—An 18-year-old lad named Robert McCarkell, who was arrested Saturday night for buglarizing the residence of B. M. Britton, Q.C., stolen jewelry, money and other articles being found in his possession and in his trunk, made a desperate attempt to escape from the cells, and when detected had succeeded in removing a portion of the masonry about six inches square. He demanded a jury trial at the Police Court this morning and was remanded for a week.

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

BICKERINGS IN BERLIN.

EDMUND YATES STICKS TO HIS DIARY STORY.

German State Papers First Published in a French Periodical—Salisbury's Promising Son—The Jubilee Juggling's Collapse.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Bitter squabbling is now going on in Berlin and Potsdam about the jointure of Dowager Empress Victoria, the allowances of her daughters and the will of the dead Emperor. Emperor William threatens to take steps to invalidate the will unless the diary is brought back from England and surrendered to him in order to be placed in the family archives at Berlin. I hear that the King of Saxony, Prince Albrecht of Prussia, the Grand Duke of Baden and Prince Bismarck are endeavoring to bring about an amicable arrangement between the Emperor and his mother, in order to avert a public scandal of the gravest kind.

The publication of State documents of a confidential character through hostile channels always excites widespread interest. That German State papers had first to obtain publicity in a French periodical makes the effect still more piquant. It is not surprising, therefore, that the publication in The Nouvelle Revue of what purports to be a confidential communication addressed by Prince Bismarck to Emperor Frederick should have attracted much attention in all the capitals of Europe. An analysis of the paper itself does not, however, justify the excitement which has been aroused. There is nothing in it which was not a matter of common report in Berlin at the time of the projected Battenberg marriage. Official character has, however, been given to the common gossip of the day by the dignified tone of the language and the formal style of writing. When the wife of the most popular feuilletonist in Berlin eloped a few weeks ago with the portly Adonis who represents a highly sensational French journal, revelations of a startling character, in which the use of the imagination was not neglected, were expected. It is only a matter of surprise that something more astonishing has not been fabricated.

Lord Robert Cecil, Lord Salisbury's third son, who is going to marry Lady Eleanor Lambton, Lord Durham's sister, is a barrister. He was called to the bar last January and is considered a young man of great promise and ability—the flower of the family. Lord Robert ought to succeed at the bar. He has a pleasant manner and appearance, is a good speaker and on his mother's side ought to have inherited the legal qualities of his grandfather, Baron Alderson, who was one of England's greatest lawyers. Lord Robert will be the first member of the aristocracy if he succeeds at the Bar who will have begun his career with the distinctive title of "My Lord." No one, I believe, has ever attempted a legal career in such circumstance, and I will be curious to hear how judges will address the noble lord when he is practising before them.

The Government can hardly feel happy or satisfied with the result of the debate on the Parnellite Commission. The whole matter has been a mistake from the beginning. Both parties have placed themselves in a difficult position. If the Government had been left alone they would probably have let the matter drop, but the feeling of the Unionist party and the young bloods of the Conservatives, who were determined to go into the whole subject, was such that they could not afford to disregard it. Mr. Parnell never expected that the Government would take him at his word and grant a commission, or he would instantly have begun proceedings, but with a curious mixture of audacity and hesitation which characterises all his conduct, he could not be prevailed on to make up his mind to adopt decisive steps. The leaders of the Liberal party were also very vacillating. Had he at once, on the passing of the second reading of the bill, announced his intention of bringing an action for libel against The Times he would have made it impossible for the Government to proceed with the bill. The case of The Times is undoubtedly very strong, but one can easily see that the proprietors would have preferred an action for libel to a commission.

An attempt to bring off a prize fight at Goodwood on Friday morning between two promising lightweights was in a measure frustrated by the police, who broke in upon the ring after two rounds had been fought. But Lord Dudley and Lord Marcus Beresford, who were among the interested spectators, each took a combatant up behind his saddle and galloped off to another part of the downs, where the fight was completed, much to the satisfaction of the two noble lords who had spirited the combatants away, leaving only one of the seconds to be arrested by the police.

The sensation of the week at Goodwood, apart from the weather and the downfall of so many favorites, was the collapse of a gentleman who for the last year or so has been known as the Jubilee Juggings. The ring would only bet with him in ready money at Sandown, and as he had failed to settle his differences, amounting to about £1,400 last Monday he was refused admission to the ring. On Tuesday his horse, Easton was not allowed to run for the opening race, and all his horses in training are to be sold shortly. The calculation is that he has got through about a thousand a day, Sunday excepted, since he took to racing, though I hear that he has lost more money at cards than on the turf. EDMUND YATES.

Fire at Marlbank.

TAMWORTH, Aug. 7.—During a heavy thunderstorm last night the premises of John Meson, a Marlbank merchant, consisting of a store, dwellinghouse and barn, were totally destroyed by fire. Two valuable horses were cremated. The loss is about $8000 with small insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

THE SHUFFLE IN THE C.P.R.

SIR GEORGE STEPHEN RESIGNS THE PRESIDENCY.

Mr. W. C. VanHorne Unanimously Elected His Successor—Senator Donald McInnes of Hamilton Chosen Director.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—Sir Geo. Stephen yesterday resigned his position as President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and was succeeded by Vice-President and General Manager VanHorne, who only on Monday declared that no changes in the board were contemplated. Perhaps he was correct, for the changes were in the executive. But it is a mighty fine distinction.

There was a full attendance of the Canadian directors at the meeting, which began at 10 o'clock and continued until nearly 5 p.m. The proceedings were very secret, and as a consequence all sorts of rumors were current, which proved on investigation to be as delusive as Mr. VanHorne's denial of Monday.

It was learned, however, from Secretary Drinkwater that after the resignation of Sir George and the election of Mr. VanHorne, the directors passed this resolution of regret at Sir George's step.

"Resolved, that the directors learn with extreme regret that Sir George Stephen feels himself compelled to relinquish the cares and responsibilities of the presidency of the company and desire to place on record their sense of the deep and lasting obligation the company owes to him as the head of its affairs from the time of its organization and of his great ability and foresight and his unfailing courage, faith and energy, to which the success of the enterprise and its high standing at home and abroad are chiefly due, and while feeling compelled to accept his resignation in compliance with his earnest wish the directors consider it a matter of congratulation that he remains a member of the board and of the Executive Committee and will continue to co-operate with them in furthering the interests of the company."

Sir Geo. Stephen has issued a circular note of farewell to the shareholders. It is chiefly interesting because it explains the reasons of the "shuffle" and gives the public the first official intimation of the important alliance with the Wabash by which the Canadian Pacific gets an entrance into Chicago. The circular says:

To the shareholders: From the time when I became a party to the contract with the Dominion government for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway and consented to accept the position of president of the company it has always been my intention to relenquish the active chief control of the affairs of the company as soon as the task which I then undertook should be completed. This task was partially finished when the line was opened for traffic through to the Pacific Ocean two years ago, but at that time so much remained to be done towards the firm establishment of the enterprise and its future development and success that in deference to the wishes of my colleagues I consented to continue for a time in office. Warned now by the state of my health attending that severe and constant strain which I have had to bear for the past eight years which has unfitted me for the continuous and arduous duties of an office in which vigor and activity are essential, feeling the increasing necessity for practical railway experience, and believing that the present satisfactory and assured position of the company offers a favorable opportunity for taking the step I have so long had in contemplation, I have this day resigned the presidency of the company which I had the honor to hold since its organization. In taking this step it may not be out of place to say that my pecuniary interest in the enterprise remains undiminished and that the welfare of the company is and always must be to me a matter of the deepest possible interest, and that as a member of the Board of Directors I will always be ready to aid and co-operate with my colleagues in everything calculated to protect and promote the interests of the shareholders.

In resigning the position of president of the company it is to me a matter of the greatest possible satisfaction to be able to say that in my successor, Mr. VanHorne, the company has a man of proved fitness for the office, in the prime of life, possessed of great energy and rare ability, having a long and thoroughly practical railway experience, and above all an entire devotion to the interests of the company.

In conclusion I cannot refrain from congratulating the shareholders upon the arrangement recently completed by Sir Donald A. Smith and myself, which will have the effect of securing the Canadian Pacific Railway the permanent friendship of two new and important American lines extending from Sault Ste. Marie to Minneapolis and St. Paul on one hand and to Duluth on the other, and reaching a traffic of importance which it would be difficult to overestimate.

It is also a matter for congratulation that arrangements have been practically settled with the Wabash Railway for a permanent connection between Detroit River and Chicago and the Southwest, and further, that the long pending negotiations with the Imperial Government for the establishment of a first-class steamship line between Vancouver, Japan and China have at last been concluded.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant, GEORGE STEPHEN.

Montreal, Aug. 7, 1888.

Sir George remains a member of the board and of the Executive Committee. The resignation from the board of Levi P. Morton of New York, which he had forwarded immediately after his nomination by the Chicago convention was also accepted and Senator Donald McInnes of Hamilton was chosen in his stead.

That is all the officials will say was done, but it is learned on what can be considered good authority that a great portion of the afternoon session was spent in drawing up a new plan of campaign to carry on the war with the American roads, who will probably find that they have greatly underrated the strength of the Canadian road.

PORT COLBORNE, Aug. 8.—S. D. Wynne, a resident of this place, lost his life by the caving in of a well in which he was working bricking up the sides. The people worked hard to save him, but life was extinct when they got him out. Wynne was about 50 years old and leaves a wife and several children.

CURRENT CAPITAL CHAT.

An Interesting Rumor Touching a Cabinet Minister.

OTTAWA, Aug 8.—Mr. Mann, Secretary of the emigrant fund of London, has had interviews with the officers of the Department of Agriculture with regard to emigrants of whom he claimed that some 300 had been aided by the society during the present year, all of whom had obtained employment here. It was pointed out to him that the Government had entirely abandoned giving any assisted passages to emigrants from other countries, that there was but little opening for immigrants who were not farm laborers or possessed of some little means to assist them in taking up land; and that in assisting emigrants to come to Canada he should be very careful, as undesirable settlers could not be admitted to the country.

A careful estimate places the number of hands employed during the summer by six leading lumber firms at the Chaudiere at nearly 6000, and the same firms employ in the woods during the winter 3800. The lumbermen say that only about 15 per cent. of the employes in the mills during the summer go to the shanties in the winter, the rest of their winter gangs are made up of outside men. Of the 3800 men who work in the shanties during the winter about 2000 live in Hull and about 1000 in Ottawa, the remaining 800 are strangers.

THE FISHERIES TREATY.

MR. SHERMAN SPEAKS IN OPPOSITION TO RATIFICATION.

He Says It Would Open New Controversies—Political Union between the Dominion and the Republic Predicted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The Senate resumed consideration of the Fisheries Treaty to-day and was addressed by Mr. Sherman (Rep., O.) in opposition to its ratification. He said he had made up his mind not to engage in the debate, but the remarks of the senators from Alabama and Delaware (Morgan and Saulsbury) referring to what had occurred in the Committee on Foreign Relations had made him change his mind. He denied their assertion that the course pursued by the Republican senators in declining to offer amendments was the result of a party caucus and assured those senators that so far as he knew there had been no caucus orders and no proceedings of a caucus to influence in the slightest degree the action of any senator as to offering amendments. The only subject of conference had related to the question of considering the treaty in secret or public session.

The charge made on the other side that the policy of the Republican party was to make an appeal to the Irish vote he considered one of the casual remarks made without any foundation. The contest about to be waged before the people of the United States would turn on other questions. They would be the same old questions talked about for twenty years: The duty of Congress to protect, first, the industries of the country from undue competition with the labor of Europe, and second, the rights of United States citizens at home and abroad. These questions would enter into the campaign and would probably control the result.

Opposition to the treaty was not a dernier resort on the part of the Republican party. That party needed no such resort, standing as it did on its record.

He regarded a controversy with Great Britain as infinitely more important and more injurious than a controversy with any other nation, for of all the people who inhabit the globe the people of the United States and Great Britain were the most intimately allied by every tie of consanguinity, of history, of faith, of institutions, of similarity of character and disposition, of ancestry and everything which tended to make ties between separate nations. Therefore he would have been glad to see in the pending treaty a settlement of the controversy, and had approached its consideration with a desire to find in it such a settlement. But the more he had examined it the more he had became satisfied that the treaty if ratified would open new avenues of controversy and lead to new irritations and therefore not accomplish its purpose.

He had a strong desire to maintain the most cordial relations with the Dominion of Canada. He looked upon the Dominion of Canada and the United States as twin sisters that had the same institutions, that were governed by the same ideas and that lay alongside of each other for 4000 miles. It would be impossible to establish a bar sinister between the two peoples. The people on either side of this border of 4000 miles were of the same descent, the same birth, the same ideas, the same aspirations and interests. The productions were alike. This was especially so as between the State of Ohio and the Province of Ontario, and their relations were as close as those between the States of Ohio and Kentucky. Citizens of Ohio had large interests in Canada where they owned mines and forests and other property amounting, perhaps, to hundreds of millions. Ohio sent its coal to Canada and exchanged with Canada a vast multitude of things.

He was willing and anxious to accomplish a public policy that would make more intimate the relations between Canada and the United States. The interest of both tended that way and nothing pulled them apart except the jealousy of local interests and the aspirations of leading men. Anything that tended to promote free commercial intercourse—nay, anything that tended to produce a union of Canada with the United States would meet his support. In his judgment the Dominion of Canada would be within ten years represented either in the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, or in the Congress of the United States and it would be in his opinion, the Congress of the United States. He therefore favored the policy of bringing about exchanges with Canada of the freest character possible, perhaps something in the nature of a zollverein which would relieve both countries from the necessity of establishing a line of custom houses and fortifications along the border.

He would vote against the treaty because he believed it tended to erect a barrier and to prevent the very purposes sought to be accomplished by it. He wished to proceed further with his disclaimer. He wished to say that he did not regard the treaty as a party question nor as a sectional question. It affected the fishermen on the southern coasts, in the Gulf of Mexico and on the Atlantic Ocean just as much as the fishermen of New England. Neither was it an Irish question nor was the opposition to it "fishing for Irish votes."

The fifteenth section of the treaty was a Siamese twin to the Mills Bill and both ought to be defeated together.

When Mr. Sherman finished his speech Mr. Frye stated that Mr. Ewarts would close the debate on the Republican side, tomorrow morning and he hoped Senator Morgan would close the debate on the Democratic side and let the Senate have a vote on the question.

Mr. Morgan said several other senators on the Democratic side desired to speak on the treaty and he did not propose to enter into any agreement about limiting the debate.

Mr. Frye reiterated his intention of pressing the matter in the Senate to-morrow.

M. Morgan said that Mr. Sherman's speech was on a plane so much higher than the other speeches on that side that he desired to see it in print before he undertook to reply to it.

Mr. Ewarts took the floor and the Senate proceeded to legislative business.

The Debate on the Commission.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—In the House of Lords last night Mr. Mathews moved to insert in the Commission Bill that if any person having been served with a summons under this Act shall fail to appear the Commission shall have power to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

An amendment, introduced by Mr. Clancy (Nationalist), empowering the Commission to report from time to time, was accepted by the Government and adopted.

Mr. Parnell moved to amend that any person refusing to make a full disclosure in all matters in respect of which he might be examined, should be liable to punishment by the High Court of Justice. The amendment was rejected.

A long discussion ensued on a proposal by W. A. Hunter to compel The Times to formulate its charges before the opening of the enquiry by the Commission. The proposal was rejected, 184 to 118. Mr. Healey moved that no accused member of Parliament should be detained in prison under the Crimes Act during the sitting of the Commons. Mr. L. H. Courtney suggested that Mr. Healy's object might be attained by means of a short proviso securing the attendance of accused persons. The Government leader accepted the suggestion and Mr. Healy withdrew his motion. Other new clauses were then debated and the House adjourned at 2.40 a.m.

AROUND THE CENTRAL SCHOOL.

No Meeting of the Board on Monday Night—What it will cost to Renovate the Heating Facilities—The Estimates for 1888.

Tuesday evening was warm. This fact was not one confined to the knowledge of a few people. Members of the board who got around sat on the back steps at the Central school building and discussed with democratic freedom the situation regarding school affairs generally. There was no eagerness expressed that a meeting should be held and the caretaker was'nt sent out with a hack to hunt up a quorum. Those of the Board who turned up, at irregular intervals, were Messrs. Stevenson, Kendry, O'Meara, McWilliams, Hill and Weir. Mr. Hughes and Dr. Burnham came up but the gathering had decided to disperse before the last comers reached the school.

It was disclosed by Mr. Kendry that money was needed to pay for the north Ward school site. $1,600 is the amount. Chairman Stevenson said he had received the papers and matters were, he believed, all right.

The fact was made public that one of the firm of Smead & Dowd, of Toronto, had been about the buildings during the day, looking over the heating and ventilating hindrances of the place. He pronounced the present state of affairs as being bad, very bad, a not unlooked for opinion when it is reflected that his firm sell heating appliances which if adopted in the present present case will cost the town something like $4,000. The boiler and pipes now in use must go. The present, we are told, is the era of improvement, and the Smead & Dowd system warms with heated air, not hot air, which is a very fine distinction. Some plan will be submitted to the Board in tangible form, possibly in time to do something this year. The ventilation is bad, or rather the want of ventilation is simply awful. A member advanced the opinion that if the ventilation was made good the present heating system might be made more efficient thereby. That member's head is level. No use cramming fresh air into a building with no escape for the foul air. $4,000 is a heap of money.

The new gymnasium is under weigh so to speak. The outbuilding which it is purposed to utilize will be raised four feet in height and dug out at the bottom about the same depth, and particularly so at the upper end. 'Twill make a 24x50 shelter in which the boys can climb and twist and break their trousers to their heart's content and despair of their parents.

The School Board of 1862 left a legacy to succeeding Boards in the shape of a vast hole in the west side of the yard. The material out of the subterranean section of the gymnasium is to be turned into the hole. This is a good idea. The old arrangement has provided at certain seasons of the year a lakelet in the school yard. This was a piece of reckless extravagance, as the regulations do not provide for any Government grant for such equipment, and if the lakeet is to be perpetuated the law needs to be altered. All the revenue that can be obtained can be successfully spent to advantage.

The Secretary, who had made a perilous journey from Stoney Lake to be present at the meeting, had brought in the books a copy of the estimates for 1888. This piece of statistical and expensive information, while not actually submitted to the Board, has been sent to the Town Council. Consequently it is, in a measure, public property. It is printed below, and will be found cool and refrigatorial reading for the dog days:—

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Sudden Death at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, Aug. 8.—Last night at the Albion Hotel here a young man named Frank Keene, lately from England, who has been boarding at the Albion, fell in a fit just inside of the door of his room and in a few minutes expired. The young man was about 19 years of age and was to-day to have started on his return to England. He had been subject to fits for some time, but he appeared to be in the best of spirits and health yesterday. He was of a quiet disposition and was nephew to Mr. James Mason, Q.C., M. P. for North Grey, who immediately communicated to his people the untimely fate of the young man.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

"Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For Consumption, Throat affections and Bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thos. Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

WHAT IS IT?

It Is One of the Great Marvels of the World

It is called "Cosmos, the Great Oracle of Human Destiny," and something remarkable, and is creating great interest among scientists at the present day. The above cut is a fac-smile of a stone excavated from the Temple of Truth (so called) in Athens Greece, in the year, 1527, and placed in the British Museum in London, Eng.

This stone has been noticed without doubt by many residents of this town who have visited the museum. It stands in the "Corridor of Wonders.

The letters appearing on the cut above are in Hieroglyphics on the original stone, but were translated some years ago by Prof. Bartlett of the Howard University, who discovered that they had a hidden meaning, and there are positive proofs that the stone is thousands of years old, and formed part of the belief of the Chaldeans of Persia who were great astrologists, and from which our present knowledge of astronomy is mostly derived.

This wonderful combination of letters arranged in circles around the solar system will, in connection with the key discovered by Prof. Bartlett to read it by astonish and amaze you with the phenominal accuracy with which it answers questions that anyone may ask in regard to Business Enterprises, Love, Money matters, Destiny, and what every young lady and gentlemen who reads this advertisement is just dying to know about Love and Marriage. It is bound to create a sensation outside of the serious import which the replies of "Cosmos" gives. There is lots of fun and amusement in it, for the home circles, and as a parlor game, it will produce what we will call original fun in abundance. Everybody should have one.

We have been to large expense to obtain the copper plate to print copies of the letters on the wonderful stone for distribution, and although copies of Cosmos on handsome placques are being sold in the large cities for $1.00 each, we purpose as a novel way of advertising and as is our custom when we have anything good and interesting to do it in a liberal way, and to give the entire populace an opportunity to secure one. We shall give one copy with the directions to read it by free to each purchaser of any article in our store for the next 60 days, after which they will not be given free. No doubt thousands of people will avail themselves of this opportunity, but we have enough to supply the demand. Obtain a "Cosmos" and send one to your friends out of town and it will please them as much as though they had found a $10.00 bill. Ask for "Cosmos" at the store of

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1888.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh winds, mostly south and west; very warm with showers and thunderstorms; somewhat cooler to-morrow.

Hurrying Home from Camp.

Two weeks of roughing it is about as much as the average young man wants of camping. To enjoy a longer stay depends upon the comfort of his equipment, and the quantity of flies in the sugar. If the sugar is boxed it may be all right. If the camper has equipped himself with a pair of fair's golden lion camping blankets he can enjoy a lengthy stay. Buy these blankets before you start out.

Scott Act Repeal.

A meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon at which preliminary arrangements were made for obtaining a vote on the repeal of the Scott Act.

Some Bad Boys.

There were no less than three complaints made to the police this morning, regarding the unruly actions of boys in the outskirts. These bad youths are getting to be an insufferable nuisance, and the police are bound to put a stop to their boisterous play.

Fixed.

After the recent rains a mud puddle was formed on Simcoe-st in front of the town buildings. Street Inspector Pope had his attention drawn to the matter and this morning he sent a man to get rid of the eyesore. A few loads of gravel and a small trench remedied the difficulty.

For Manitoba.

Police Magistrate Dumbie departed last evening on a trip through Manitoba and the Northwest generally, where he is interested to a considerable extent in farming and other property. He will be absent about three weeks.....Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fowler, of North Monaghan, also went in the same train. They will probably spend the winter with relatives in Manitoba, Mr. Fowler having rented his farm.

The Central Fair Prize List.

The Central Fair prize list has been finished by the printers, and is now being circulated by the Secretary, Mr. W. Collins. Copies will be mailed to prominent farmers in the county with the request that they distribute the same among their friends and neighbors. The list is large and varied. The prizes are valuable and useful. Call at the Secretary's office and secure a copy.

WHAT'S the racket? Those 5 lb. caddies of Tea at the Pantry, are the best thing in town. Try one. 32tf.

A Peculiar Case.

A rather peculiar case, the first of the kind ever tried in Peterborough will come before Police Magistrate Edmison to-morrow morning. A young man is charged with purchasing cigars on Sunday. It appears according to the legal authorities that the man who purchases goods on Sunday is equally guilty with the man who sells. This is very much the same as under the Crooks Act, by which a person may be fined for simply asking for liquor, whether it is obtained or not.

Everything Cut Below Cost.

Watch for the opening of the bankrupt sale at McNeil's old stand, No. 332 George-st. The stock has been bought by Mr. W. Reeves, of Kingston, who has only a few days in which to clear it out. If you value bargains look around. Stylish suitings to be sold at below cost. Gent's furnishings at less than the goods can be bought for wholesale. Bona-fide clearing out. Necessity compels the sale and it must be promptly done. There will be a rush to buy as the chance is a good one. Come around on the opening day, Thursday, and take your choice at almost your own prices. 3332.

The Tailors' Excursion.

The excursion under the auspices of the tailors of the town on Tuesday was largely patronized. The steamer Golden-Eye had a full load on the way to the popular Jubilee Point. The scow was occupied on the the way down by merry dancers, for whom grand music was furnished by Prof. Doucet's orchestra. At the Point a pleasant time was spent. Baseball, jumping, boating and other amusements assisted to pass an enjoyable afternoon. On the way up a couple of bands were knocked off the scow by boys, which prevented dancing from that time, but a few leading spirits gave exhibitions of clog dancing. The boat reached the wharf at about 10 o'clock. The picnic was an enjoyable one throughout and very successful.

Excursion North.

The Young People's Guild of St. John's church held an excursion to Stoney Lake to-day. Quite a number went up on the Lakefield train.

The Forester's Excursion.

Don't fail to attend the Forester's excursion to Toronto on Civic Holiday, Aug. 6th. A fast trip and pleasant time. Return fare good for two days, $1.75. 1d32

WE promise you fair treatment and fair prices at The Pantry store. 32tf.

To the North.

There was the usual exodus northward this morning. Among those who went to enjoy the fine breezes of Stoney Lake were Mr. W. H. Hill, Mr. W. E. Lech, Mrs. T. E. Bradburn, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Miss Menzies and others.

To Attend the Funeral.

By the noon train to-day a number of members of the Masonic order went to Port Hope to attend the funeral of the late Rgt. W. Bro. C. Doebler, of that town. Of the party were W. Bro. H. Rush, W. Bro. Brundrett, W. Bro. Davidson, V. W. Bro. C. Cameron, V. W. Bro. W. Patterson and several others.

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

Divided.

Police Magistrate Edmison was on hand this morning at the Police Court, prepared to dispense justice with an open and liberal hand, but his reign opened auspiciously, the chief reporting a clean sheet. Mr. Edmison will dispose of all the heavy cases, those requiring two justices of the peace, while his worship Mayor Stevenson will look after the smaller fry.

New Buildings.

Police Magistrate Dumbie is the owner of the plot of land between the parlor roller rink and the old Trennum block on Water-st. For many years it has been vacant and an eyesore, but the owner has decided to utilize it at last and has made arrangements for commencing at an early day the erection of a block of two storey brick buildings on it. They will be forty feet deep and both flats will be devoted entirely to offices.

Blew Away.

A guest at one of our hotels had a rather curious experience on Monday evening. He was sitting in one of the parlor windows and placed his hat, a straw one, on the window sill. A gust of wind suddenly carried it off and he saw it sail across the street. He went after it, but after searching high and low for upwards of half an hour, he gave up in disgust and procured another head covering. Any person who finds a stray hat can get an owner for it by applying at the Kennealy House.

Gone to Japan.

Miss Jessie K. Munro left this morning for Tokio, Japan, via Vancouver, B. C. There were a number of friends at the Canadian Pacific station to see her off. Miss Munroe has entered into an engagement to remain in Japan for five years as a mission teacher. Before departing she was presented with a handsome purse containing a tidy sum of money, as a contribution towards her expenses. She will, as the presentations and the public meeting on Monday evening testified, be followed by many good wishes.

Your Fate.

"The Mystery of the Oracle of Cosmos." This wonderful and most sensitive creation answers questions of the Present and Future, or whether you will be successful or not in affairs of Love, Business, Speculations, Marriage, Destiny, etc. It will entertain any company for any evening. With it any person can be their own clairvoyant, or act as such for other people, as the Oracle gives an answer every time, with all the phenomenal accuracy attained by the combined powers of clairvoyants, mediums, mind-readers, palmistry experts etc., etc. Read Wyatt & Turner's advertisement, and call at the store for a key to the above mystery. 2d31-1w32.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or otherwise, 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE HOLY LAND.

A Lecture by the Rev. Dr. Tully on his Travels in Palestine.

On Tuesday evening the Rev. Dr. Tully, of Media, Pa., delivered a lecture in St. Andrew's Church, on "From Baalbek to Jerusalem,"—a description of his travels from one end of the Holy Land to the other. There was a fair attendance. The Rev. Alex. Bell, of St. Andrew's, occupied the chair. Mr. Carter, choirmaster rendered excellent selections on the organ, and the chairman briefly introduced the lecturer.

Dr. TULLY said that Palestine was an interesting land to them, on account of its sacred associations. It stretched from Beersheba to Dan, and from the Mediterranean sea to the desert. It was 200 miles long and 75 miles wide—35 miles from the sea to the Jordan. It was a small land, but it was selected and made for a special purpose. The great civilized portions of the people lived in Egypt and in Syria, and the caravan route was through Palestine. It was selected as they selected a lighthouse, to give intelligence to all. The people travelling would come into contact with the knowledge of the true God, and thus that knowledge would be carried to all nations. The first thing that would strike them on visiting that land would be the great chasm from Mount Harmon to the Dead Sea. The stream was a very winding one, and there was a rapid fall all the way. The Dead Sea was the lowest sheet of water in the world. Though the waters of the Jordan and other streams emptied into it, it had no outlet. The water left the sea by evaporation, which was hastened by the intense stillness of the water and the hot air from the valley of Arabia. The sea was forty miles long and six wide. It contained no fish, but one could bathe in it with impunity, and they could not sink on account of the saltness of the water. The sea was 1312 feet deep, 1300 feet beneath the Mediterranean sea, and beside a range of mountains 1300 feet high. Limestone was found in the mountains. It was hard on the outside, but in the mountains was softer, and it was cut out for building stone and hardened after being put up. The land was cavernous on account of this rock. Jerusalem was built on the white rock and there were quarries under the city. Graves were cut out of the rock in the side of the mountains. The lowest part of the land was in Galilee, and from there they literally went up to Jerusalem. The people of different nationalities and religions inhabited different parts. It was the same in other eastern cities. The dogs, also, which belonged to no one and lived in the streets, occupied different quarters. The timber had been stripped off the land, though there were orchards of fig and olive trees and other fruits, and many of the trees referred to in the Bible were standing here and there. Bethlehem was a fair town and there were places of interest in it. There were other villages which were mere mud hovels Nazareth was a Christian city and the Jews would not live in it. Damascus, the oldest city in the world, had a population 200,000. It was a city in the time of Abraham. He gave illustrations of the crude way of doing things. The grain was placed on the ground and trampled out by horses or oxen or beaten out. The people would not allow reapers to be used, as they would displace labor. For the same reason there were no wharves at the seaports and the vessels were unloaded by small boats. At Damascus he saw the grave of St. George, who was the first Christian in the city. He saw nothing to compare with other parts of the civilized world in manufactures. He gave illustrations of the magnificence of the houses of rich Turks. Baalbek was an old town, and contained grand ruins. In the temples wonderful stones had been used. Two were 63 and 65 feet long and 14 feet square, and another 68 feet long by 14 x 18 feet. They could only guess how the stones were moved from the quarries, but were probably carried by many men and levers. The lecturer then followed on the map the route he travelled from Baalbek to Jerusalem, passing Sidon, Tyre, (where the prophecy of Ezekiel was fulfilled), German settlements, Mount Carmel from which there was a grand view), Cana of Galilee, &c. He referred to the customs of the people, among them that of paying taxes in kind, the taxgatherer estimating the quantity of grain and taking the tax. The cities upon which Christ had pronounced woe were obliterated. He passed Endor, Bethel, Jericho, and on to the Dead Sea. Then passing through the wilderness, Bethany was reached, which was a wretched hamlet. He described the physical surroundings of Jerusalem. Passing over that land, he said, with the Bible open, no man could leave it a skeptic. The Almighty's seal was stamped upon it. They were in the presence of the great facts of God's revelation and their influence was felt. In Jerusalem they felt that they were in the presence of facts in connection with the fulfilment of the prophecies of Christ. The people were of different religions, and Turkish soldiers were required to keep the different sects from fighting. Not being homogeneous, the people were governed with difficulty. He referred to the missionary work in Palestine. Their church had a college, with a medical department, a young lady's seminary and churches entirely filled with converted Greeks. The milk and honey, with which that land was flowered, was all gone. He could not get a quart of milk from Baalbeh to Jerusalem. The lecturer in conclusion offered to answer any questions.

The CHAIRMAN, on behalf of the audience, returned thanks to Dr. Tully for his instructive lecture.

Mr. Carter again favored the audience with a splendid selection on the organ, and the meeting was dosed.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Meeting of the Peterborough District at Millbrook—Sundry Business and Matters considered.

The Financial meeting of the Peterborough District of the Methodist Church was held in Millbrook on Tuesday, Aug. 7th. the President of the Conference, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, presiding. The Superintendents of the various circuits and missions in the district were present, and a lay representative, associated with each minister. After devotional exercises, the condition of missions were inquired into, and application made to the central board of missions for the amounts necessary for the support of the missionaries stationed on the same. On the district there are five missions, viz:—South Cavan, Hall's Bridge, Chandos, with which is connected the Indian Mission at Mud Lake, and Hiawatha. On these fields are laboring the Revs. A. L. Adam, S. Ferguson and E. Cragg. Chandos has not had a missionary since Conference, but Mr. W. D. Harrison, a young gentleman who is a member of the George-st. church goes this week to take charge of the work there.

The next order of business was the arranging for the missionary meetings on the districts. Deputations were appointed where it was requested and those circuits not asking for a deputation were left to make their own arrangements.

On account of the expected visit to the district of the Rev. Dr. Potts; no time was fixed for the Educational anniversary. A committee however was appointed, consisting of the President and Rev's. Shorey, Wilson and McCamus to prepare a plan of meetings, to be held when convenient for the general Secretary of the educational society to attend.

The amount allotted to the district to meet the claim of Rev. W. G. Weedings, was distributed among the different circuits and ordered to be collected before next conference.

In connection with the D. M. as required by the the discipline of the church, a sabbath school Convention was held. The 1st topic, was, "Who should teach on the Sunday," and was introduced by the Rev. S. J. Shorey. The 2nd was introduced by the Rev. F. Johnston, subject, "Helps and hindrance to S. S. Work."

At ten o'clock a mass meeting of the children was held. The singing of the children, under the direction of Mr. E. Weeks, was excellent, and everything about the gathering reflected great credit upon Mr. R. Clark, the able superintendent and his male staff of teachers.

The evening session was more largely attended, and great interest was manifested in the discussion of the questions introduced by the Revs. Burns, Pearson and McCamus.

The ministers and laymen all speak in the highest terms of the hospitality of the Millbrook Methodist people.

The Rev. Wm. Burns is the pastor of the church in Millbrook. He is very much beloved by his people and is attracting large congregations by his excellent sermons, and his cordial and christian demeanor, in moving in and out among his own people and others.

GRAND LODGE, I. O. O. F.

A Highly Satisfactory Report from Grand Secretary King at Barrie.

Through the courtesy of Grand Secretary King, of the I.O.O.F., and Mr. E. E. Henderson, we have been furnished with an advance copy of the Grand Secretary's report which will be presented to the Grand Lodge meeting at Barrie to-day.

The semi-annual statement, from January to July, 1888, given below, will give the outside public an idea of the great work being accomplished through the instrumentality of Oddfellowship:—

Brevities.

—The Police Court calender was a blank this morning.

—A car load of machinery for Mr. Muihern's flour mill came in this morning.

—To-morrow afternoon the Peterborough and Garden Hill baseball clubs meet on the diamond field here.

—A good view of the meteoric display to take place on Friday evening could be secured from the lake.

For removing dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded and gray hair to its original color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives a beautiful, glossy and silken appearance.

—There was a good turnout at the cricket field yesterday afternoon. There was no match, but a good practice was had.

—One of the rowers in Matthew's four-oared crew took an involuntarily bath in the river on Tuesday evening.

—Many enquiries are being made as to when there is a likelihood of an illuminated canoe parade taking place. Most of the canoeists are away camping just now, but there will probably be one in a week or two.

Mr Calcutt and his Park.

To the Editor of the Daily Review.

SIR,—I regret that Mr. Calcutt, in yesterday's 'Examiner," should have so quickly dispelled the notion that he was largely moved by a public spirit and a kindly feeling towards his fellow men, in throwing open Riverside park. That it was, from the first, a commercial adventure is the only deduction I can draw from his communication, and there can be no complaint that it should be such, only it would perhaps have been preferable that the citizens of Peterborough should have so understood it. It would have relieved, no doubt, from the imputation that our townspeople prefer to take all they "can lay their hands on gratis, and then want more" and that the town was guilty of "degrading and undignified greed."

It is quite true that the town claims a license free of $100.00 for a circus exhibiting in Peterborough but it is contrary to the fact that it wishes to keep such questionable concerns out of Riverside Park. Had Mr. Calcutt called on the Mayor, he would have learned that both the Howe "side show" and the last "aggregation of "wonders," including the "grand balloon ascension," were informed that they were not wanted here, that we had no suitable grounds for their great moral shows, and that the only place to be got in the vicinity was Riverside park. He would also have found that $20 was from the first, the sum asked for a parade, and that there was a memorandum in writing of it, and further that when the show that went into Monaghan some years ago, and which the town forgave the usual fee, as he says, to do him out of it what the town did, was to give the Agricultural Society the benefit of that fee.

We have not sought to obtain, but rather to exclude, every circus from the town, as the high license fee indicates, and late experience I am certain are not likely to make us zealous to secure their company hereafter, nor to increase our faith in the desirability of their presence.

Of the Howe crowd, one remains in our jail to be tried for murder, committed on the Market square. The management of the last great combination of marvels I know nothing of, but much of the "following" it had was indisputably a combination of gamblers and blacklegs, the equal of which I'm sure never entered the country, and who, with their thimble-rigs, sweat boards and whip swindle, lightened the pockets of the unwary, to the tune of hundreds of dollars.

If such things must be, and if circuses will come to the country, I don't say Mr. Calcutt will do wrong in having them at his park or that he should not get the largest fee possible from them, nor will the town I believe object to to them going there, but would suggest that the corporation of Ashburnham should, for its good name, in the future, lock up the rogues who are ever present at such affairs to swindle the public.

Yours truly,
W. H. MOORE.

You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. w do for a stupid boy's excuse; but at can be said for the parent who es his child languishing daily and fails recognize the want of a tonic and ood-purifier? Formerly, a course of tters, or sulphur and molasses, was the le in well-regulated families; but now intelligent households keep Ayer's arsaparilla, which is at once pleasant the taste, and the most searching and fective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., oston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 ars old, was in perfect health until a ar ago when she began to complain of atigue, headache, debility, dizziness, adigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated impure blood, and induced her to take yer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon estored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reestablished her former health. I find Ayer's arsaparilla a most valuable remedy for he lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

AT A TEA AUCTION.

HOW THE EXPERTS VALUE THE STOCK BEFORE IT IS SOLD.

Scene in a Salesroom—A Visit from Professional Tea Tasters—A Preliminary Test—The Aroma—Getting the Flavor. Quiet Purchasers.

A dozen or a score of tea importers may be represented in the stock of tea which a firm of auctioneers offer for sale on a given day. Two hundred or more different grades of tea may be in the consignment. A sample chest, half chest, or package of each grade is sent to the auction room for inspection and sampling by prospective purchasers. These are ranged in tiers about the auction room so that their distinctive names and marks may be seen. All these marks, and a queer lot of hieroglyphics they are, are reproduced in the catalogue, always large leaved, and with plenty of room for notes alongside the description of each lot of a particular grade of tea. The lots vary from a single package or half chest up to perhaps a hundred packages of the fragrant Oriental leaves. The small lots are usually particularly choice brands of tea, the large ones the cheaper and "standard" grades.

The distinctive marks on these chests aside from the Chinese figures are either figures or letters, sometimes standing alone, but oftener inclosed in a circle, a square, a triangle, an ellipse, or some other geometrical figure, and occasionally accompanied by an anchor or some similar figure that is a symbol of no one knows what exactly. Once in their places in the auction room, the sample chests are made ready for customers who wish to try the teas. And here is where tea auction sales differ from other auction sales. A purchaser may try before he buys. To enable him to try, big holes, an inch and a half or so in diameter, are cut through the chest and its wicker cover, so that the tea can easily be reached. The sample packages thus prepared, everything is ready for the sale.

PROFESSIONAL TEA TASTERS.

For two days before the sale young men with the big quarto catalogues and accompanied by a boy with small tin boxes visit the auction rooms and take samples for testing. These young men are usually professional tea tasters, and to the casual visitor to an auction room their methods are peculiar, to say the least. A wisp of the split bamboo, such as the network of matting that covers the packages is made of, is the sampler's weapon for attack on the tea chests about him. His catalogue is held in his left hand. With the right he thrusts his wisp of bamboo, doubled so as to make a sort of hoe, into the round hole in the tea chest, and from the chest hauls a handful of the tea on to the catalogue pages. The eye serves to tell him if the tea has been colored or bleached. That point settled, the necessary note is made in his catalogue. Then comes the preliminary test. The tea is dumped from the sampler's catalogue into his hand. Then, with the hand partially closed, the sampler blows vigorously into the mass of leaves, and at once applies the leaves to his nose. Thus he gets a fair idea of the aroma. As he has no further use for that particular sample, he throws it into a trough which stands at the foot of the rows of chests, and which is put there for the express purpose of holding these discarded samples and the particles that do not fall on the catalogue pages when the wisp of bamboo pulls the sample from the chest. And so the sampler goes the round of the long row of tea chests, eyeing and smelling, and once in a great while tasting a bit of the tea, and always throwing away two or three pounds during the course of his afternoon inspection.

All the observations of this expert as to color, aroma and quality are noted in his catalogue. Some samples are quickly disposed of, and the sampler marks in his catalogue the value of the particular brand of tea he has inspected. But there are some brands, usually of the finer grades, that puzzle him. He is in doubt as to the actual value of the leaves he has looked at and smelled of a half dozen times perhaps. So he instructs a youth who accompanies him to "take a sample." This youngster, using the same means as his companion has before him, hauls a liberal sample from the chest into a tin box, which is duly marked and labeled with the same hieroglyphics that are inscribed on the chest and in the catalogue. A dozen samples may be taken in this way for the expert's use outside of the auction room. These collected, his work among the sample chests is ended.

GETTING THE FULL FLAVOR.

Accompanied by the boy and his small tin boxes, the expert leaves the auction room and goes to his office to finish his valuation of the samples his boy carries. Seated at a round table, which turns on its standard at the slightest touch, he finishes his work with a speed which is little less than marvelous. A dozen French china cups and a samovar, or urn, of hot water help him to do this. Leaves from the sample tin boxes are put in the china cups and treated to a bath of the boiling water from the urn in the center of the table. There is a preliminary sniff at the aroma arising from each particular cup, and then a taste—just a sip—to get the flavor fully. This test settles the valuation of the tea in a moment, and the expert marks in his catalogue what he deems the samples thus treated to be worth. No one ever disputes that valuation, for the tea taster is in his line an autocrat, a despot whose decision no one dares question. The catalogue now marked is sent to the buyer of the house the expert represents, and with the latter there remains only the purely mechanical work of attending the sale and buying, if he can, at or below the figures fixed by the expert at the maximum value of the teas.

The auction sale itself is very like any other trade sale. A hundred men sit about the auction room in front of the stib tongued crier. Catalogue and pencil in hand, the crowd of buyers are a very quiet party, and let the auctioneer make all the noise. A pencil or catalogue raised in the air for an instant goes for a bid. Sometimes a nod of the head suffices to settle the ownership of a consignment of tea. It is very rarely that a word is spoken, except when the starting bid is made. When other spoken bids follow they are usually made by some out of town buyer. The auctioneer knows everybody in the room except these same out of town merchants, who are looking for bargains. So he quietly tells his clerks the name of the purchaser, and a stranger visiting the sale is left in mystery most of the time, not only as to who the buyer is, but also as to which one of the men in that very quiet but very business like crowd made the bid. Five thousand or 6,000 packages of tea may be disposed of in an hour or an hour and a half, and then the crowd of buyers melt away just as quickly as it had assembled itself for the sale.—New York Times.

Clad in Old Time Dress.

He was a millionaire at the mask ball of the Art association. He was a knight, and wore a sword, and had a gorgeous dress and shapely silk encased shanks. And as he went through the room his sword got caught in ladies' dresses, and kept dodging in between his legs, and every now and again some fellow in silk stockings would be hit on the shins.

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

BICKERINGS IN BERLIN.

EDMUND YATES STICKS TO HIS DIARY STORY.

Serious State Papers First Published in a French Periodical—Salisbury's Promising Son—The Jubilee Juggling's Collapse.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Bitter squabbling is now going on in Berlin and Potsdam about the jointure of Dowager Empress Victoria, the allowances of her daughters and the will of the dead Emperor. Emperor William threatens to take steps to invalidate the will unless the diary is brought back from England and surrendered to him in order to be placed in the family archives at Berlin. I hear that the King of Saxony, Prince Albrecht of Prussia, the Grand Duke of Baden and Prince Bismarck are endeavoring to bring about an amicable arrangement between the Emperor and his mother, in order to avert a public scandal of the gravest kind.

The publication of State documents of a confidential character through hostile channels always excites widespread interest. That German State papers had first to obtain publicity in a French periodical makes the effect still more piquant. It is not surprising, therefore, that the publication in The Nouvelle Revue of what purports to be a confidential communication addressed by Prince Bismarck to Emperor Frederick should have attracted much attention in all the capitals of Europe. An analysis of the paper itself does not, however, justify the excitement which has been aroused. There is nothing in it which was not a matter of common report in Berlin at the time of the projected Battenberg marriage. Official character has, however, been given to the common gossip of the day by the dignified tone of the language and the formal style of writing. When the wife of the most popular feuilletonist in Berlin eloped a few weeks ago with the portly Adonis who represents a highly sensational French journal, revelations of a startling character, in which the use of the imagination was not neglected, were expected. It is only a matter of surprise that something more astonishing has not been fabricated.

Lord Robert Cecil, Lord Salisbury's third son, who is going to marry Lady Eleanor Lambton, Lord Durham's sister, is a barrister. He was called to the bar last January and is considered a young man of great promise and ability—the flower of the family. Lord Robert ought to succeed at the bar. He has a pleasant manner and appearance, is a good speaker and on his mother's side ought to have inherited the legal qualities of his grandfather, Baron Alderson, who was one of England's greatest lawyers. Lord Robert will be the first member of the aristocracy if he succeeds at the Bar who will have begun his career with the distinctive title of "My Lord." No one, I believe, has ever attempted a legal career in such circumstance, and I will be curious to hear how judges will address the noble lord when he is practising before them.

The Government can hardly feel happy or satisfied with the result of the debate on the Parnellite Commission. The whole matter has been a mistake from the beginning. Both parties have placed themselves in a difficult position. If the Government had been left alone they would probably have let the matter drop, but the feeling of the Unionist party and the young bloods of the Conservatives, who were determined to go into the whole subject, was such that they could not afford to disregard it. Mr. Parnell never expected that the Government would take him at his word and grant a commission, or he would instantly have begun proceedings, but with a curious mixture of audacity and hesitation which characterises all his conduct, he could not be prevailed on to make up his mind to adopt decisive steps. The leaders of the Liberal party were also very vacillating. Had he at once, on the passing of the second reading of the bill, announced his intention of bringing an action for libel against The Times he would have made it impossible for the Government to proceed with the bill. The case of The Times is undoubtedly very strong, but one can easily see that the proprietors would have preferred an action for libel to a commission.

An attempt to bring off a prize fight at Goodwood on Friday morning between two promising lightweights was in a measure frustrated by the police, who broke in upon the ring after two rounds had been fought. But Lord Dudley and Lord Marcus Beresford, who were among the interested spectators, each took a combatant up behind his saddle and galloped off to another part of the downs, where the fight was completed, much to the satisfaction of the two noble lords who had spirited the combatants away, leaving only one of the seconds to be arrested by the police.

The sensation of the week at Goodwood, apart from the weather and the downfall of so many favorites, was the collapse of a gentleman who for the last year or so has been known as the Jubilee Juggings. The ring would only bet with him in ready money at Sandown, and as he had failed to settle his differences, amounting to about £1,400 last Monday he was refused admission to the ring. On Tuesday his horse, Easton was not allowed to run for the opening race, and all his horses in training are to be sold shortly. The calculation is that he has got through about a thousand a day, Sunday excepted, since he took to racing, though I hear that he has lost more money at cards than on the turf. EDMUND YATES.

Fire at Marlbank.

TAMWORTH, Aug. 7.—During a heavy thunderstorm last night the premises of John Meson, a Marlbank merchant, consisting of a store, dwellinghouse and barn, were totally destroyed by fire. Two valuable horses were cremated. The loss is about $8000 with small insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

THE SHUFFLE IN THE C.P.R.

SIR GEORGE STEPHEN RESIGNS THE PRESIDENCY.

Mr. W. C. VanHorne Unanimously Elected His Successor—Senator Donald McInnes of Hamilton Chosen Director.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—Sir Geo. Stephen yesterday resigned his position as President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and was succeeded by Vice-President and General Manager VanHorne, who only on Monday declared that no changes in the board were contemplated. Perhaps he was correct, for the changes were in the executive. But it is a mighty fine distinction.

There was a full attendance of the Canadian directors at the meeting, which began at 10 o'clock and continued until nearly 5 p.m. The proceedings were very secret, and as a consequence all sorts of rumors were current, which proved on investigation to be as delusive as Mr. VanHorne's denial of Monday.

It was learned, however, from Secretary Drinkwater that after the resignation of Sir George and the election of Mr. VanHorne, the directors passed this resolution of regret at Sir George's step.

"Resolved, that the directors learn with extreme regret that Sir George Stephen feels himself compelled to relinquish the cares and responsibilities of the presidency of the company and desire to place on record their sense of the deep and lasting obligation the company owes to him as the head of its affairs from the time of its organization and of his great ability and foresight and his unfailing courage, faith and energy, to which the success of the enterprise and its high-standing at home and abroad are chiefly due, and while feeling compelled to accept his resignation in compliance with his earnest wish the directors consider it a matter of congratulation that he remains a member of the board and of the Executive Committee and will continue to co-operate with them in furthering the interests of the company."

Sir Geo. Stephen has issued a circular note of farewell to the shareholders. It is chiefly interesting because it explains the reasons of the "shuffle" and gives the public the first official intimation of the important alliance with the Wabash by which the Canadian Pacific gets an entrance into Chicago. The circular says:

To the shareholders: From the time when I became a party to the contract with the Dominion government for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway and consented to accept the position of president of the company it has always been my intention to relenquish the active chief control of the affairs of the company as soon as the task which I then undertook should be completed. This task was partially finished when the line was opened for traffic through to the Pacific Ocean two years ago, but at that time so much remained to be done towards the firm establishment of the enterprise and its future development and success that in deference to the wishes of my colleagues I consented to continue for a time in office. Warned now by the state of my health attending that severe and constant strain which I have had to bear for the past eight years which has unfitted me for the continuous and arduous duties of an office in which vigor and activity are essential, feeling the increasing necessity for practical railway experience, and believing that the present satisfactory and assured position of the company offers a favorable opportunity for taking the step I have so long had in contemplation, I have this day resigned the presidency of the company which I had the honor to hold since its organization. In taking this step it may not be out of place to say that my pecuniary interest in the enterprise remains undiminished and that the welfare of the company is and always must be to me a matter of the deepest possible interest, and that as a member of the Board of Directors I will always be ready to aid and co-operate with my colleagues in everything calculated to protect and promote the interests of the shareholders.

In resigning the position of president of the company it is to me a matter of the greatest possible satisfaction to be able to say that in my successor, Mr. VanHorne, the company has a man of proved fitness for the office, in the prime of life, possessed of great energy and rare ability, having a long and thoroughly practical railway experience, and above all an entire devotion to the interests of the company.

In conclusion I cannot refrain from congratulating the shareholders upon the arrangement recently completed by Sir Donald A. Smith and myself, which will have the effect of securing the Canadian Pacific Railway the permanent friendship of two new and important American lines extending from Sault Ste. Marie to Minneapolis and St. Paul on one hand and to Duluth on the other, and reaching a traffic of importance which it would be difficult to overestimate.

It is also a matter for congratulation that arrangements have been practically settled with the Wabash Railway for a permanent connection between Detroit River and Chicago and the Southwest, and further, that the long-pending negotiations with the Imperial Government for the establishment of a first-class steamship line between Vancouver, Japan and China have at last been concluded.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant, GEORGE STEPHEN.

Montreal, Aug. 7, 1888.

Sir George remains a member of the board and of the Executive Committee. The resignation from the board of Levi P. Morton of New York, which he had forwarded immediately after his nomination by the Chicago convention was also accepted and Senator Donald McInnes of Hamilton was chosen in his stead.

That is all the officials will say was done, but it is learned on what can be considered good authority that a great portion of the afternoon session was spent in drawing up a new plan of campaign to carry on the war with the American roads, who will probably find that they have greatly underrated the strength of the Canadian road.

Cutting Down Expenses.

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y., Aug. 8.—The [illegible] horse railroad last night discharged all their drivers and employed new men. The new men are to get 50 cents less a day than the old drivers who were paid $2 for 16 hours' work.

Bridge Jumper Donovan Drowned.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A cable despatch received here from London states that Donovan jumped from Hungerford bridge yesterday and was drowned. He jumped from the Brooklyn bridge two years ago and was thought to be the best bridge jumper in the world.

Yellow Fever in Gotham.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Miguel Ramos, a sailor on board the bark Maria Louisa, which arrived at Brooklyn from Havana on July 28, died Sunday night of yellow fever. A passenger named Gonzales died last Friday night of what was called "pernicious intermittent fever," but which was doubtless yellow fever. The vessel has been taken to quarantine.

Killed by a Cave-in.

PORT COLBORNE, Aug. 8.—S. D. Wynne, a resident of this place, lost his life by the caving in of a well in which he was working bricking up the sides. The people worked hard to save him, but life was extinct when they got him out. Wynne was about 50 years old and leaves a wife and several children.

CURRENT CAPITAL CHAT.

An Interesting Rumor Touching a Cabinet Minister.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—Mr. Mann, Secretary of the emigrant fund of London, has had interviews with the officers of the Department of Agriculture with regard to emigrants of whom he claimed that some 300 had been aided by the society during the present year, all of whom had obtained employment here. It was pointed out to him that the Government had entirely abandoned giving any assisted passages to emigrants from other countries, that there was but little opening for immigrants who were not farm laborers or possessed of some little means to assist them in taking up land; and that in assisting emigrants to come to Canada he should be very careful, as undesirable settlers could not be admitted to the country.

A careful estimate places the number of hands employed during the summer by six leading lumber firms at the Chaudiere at nearly 6000, and the same firms employ in the woods during the winter 3800. The lumbermen say that only about 15 per cent. of the employes in the mills during the summer go to the shanties in the winter, the rest of their winter gangs are made up of outside men. Of the 3800 men who work in the shanties during the winter about 2000 live in Hull and about 1000 in Ottawa, the remaining 800 are strangers.

The Marine Department has been informed that the local Marine Board at Portsmouth, Eng., on July 14, suspended the certificate of Capt. Daniel E. Mahoney of the ship May Stewart, of Amherst, N. S., for misconduct and tyranny on the high seas on account of his ill treatment of First Mate Richard Ewald, who was suffering from dropsy and heart disease.

The Senate debates for the last session are being distributed. Indexing the Commons debates has not yet been completed.

L. C. Perevia, who was private secretary to Sir L. L. Macpherson and afterwards to Hon. Thomas White, has been appointed to the same position by Hon. Mr. Dewdney, and J. H. THE FISHERIES TREATY.

MR. SHERMAN SPEAKS IN OPPOSITION TO RATIFICATION.

He Says It Would Open New Controversies—Political Union between the Dominion and the Republic Predicted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The Senate resumed consideration of the Fisheries Treaty to-day and was addressed by Mr. Sherman (Rep., O.) in opposition to its ratification. He said he had made up his mind not to engage in the debate, but the remarks of the senators from Alabama and Delaware (Morgan and Saulsbury) referring to what had occurred in the Committee on Foreign Relations had made him change his mind. He denied their assertion that the course pursued by the Republican senators in declining to offer amendments was the result of a party caucus and assured those senators that so far as he knew there had been no caucus orders and no proceedings of a caucus to influence in the slightest degree the action of any senator as to offering amendments. The only subject of conference had related to the question of considering the treaty in secret or public session.

The charge made on the other side that the policy of the Republican party was to make an appeal to the Irish vote he considered one of the casual remarks made without any foundation. The contest about to be waged before the people of the United States would turn on other questions. They would be the same old questions talked about for twenty years: The duty of Congress to protect, first, the industries of the country from undue competition with the labor of Europe, and second, the rights of United States citizens at home and abroad. These questions would enter into the campaign and would probably control the result.

Opposition to the treaty was not a dernier resort on the part of the Republican party. That party needed no such resort, standing as it did on its record.

He regarded a controversy with Great Britain as infinitely more important and more injurious than a controversy with any other nation, for of all the people who inhabit the globe the people of the United States and Great Britain were the most intimately allied by every tie of consanguinity, of history, of faith, of institutions, of similarity of character and disposition, of ancestry and everything which tended to make ties between separate nations. Therefore he would have been glad to see in the pending treaty a settlement of the controversy, and had approached its consideration with a desire to find in it such a settlement. But the more he had examined it the more he had became satisfied that the treaty if ratified would open new avenues of controversy and lead to new irritations and therefore not accomplish its purpose.

He had a strong desire to maintain the most cordial relations with the Dominion of Canada. He looked upon the Dominion of Canada and the United States as twin sisters that had the same institutions, that were governed by the same ideas and that lay alongside of each other for 4000 miles. It would be impossible to establish a bar sinister between the two peoples. The people on either side of this border of 4000 miles were of the same descent, the same birth, the same ideas, the same aspirations and interests. The productions were alike. This was especially so as between the State of Ohio and the Province of Ontario, and their relations were as close as those between the States of Ohio and Kentucky. Citizens of Ohio had large interests in Canada where they owned mines and forests and other property amounting, perhaps, to hundreds of millions. Ohio sent its coal to Canada and exchanged with Canada a vast multitude of things.

He was willing and anxious to accomplish a public policy that would make more intimate the relations between Canada and the United States. The interest of both tended that way and nothing pulled them apart except the jealousy of local interests and the aspirations of leading men. Anything that tended to promote free commercial intercourse—nay, anything that tended to produce a union of Canada with the United States would meet his support. In his judgment the Dominion of Canada would be within ten years represented either in the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, or in the Congress of the United States and it would be in his opinion, the Congress of the United States. He therefore favored the policy of bringing about exchanges with Canada of the freest character possible, perhaps something in the nature of a zollverein which would relieve both countries from the necessity of establishing a line of custom houses and fortifications along the border.

He would vote against the treaty because he believed it tended to erect a barrier and to prevent the very purposes sought to be accomplished by it. He wished to proceed further with his disclaimer. He wished to say that he did not regard the treaty as a party question nor as a sectional question. It affected the fishermen on the southern coasts, in the Gulf of Mexico and on the Atlantic Ocean just as much as the fishermen of New England. Neither was it an Irish question nor was the opposition to it "fishing for Irish votes."

The fifteenth section of the treaty was a Siamese twin to the Mills Bill and both ought to be defeated together.

When Mr. Sherman finished his speech Mr. Frye stated that Mr. Ewarts would close the debate on the Republican side, tomorrow morning and he hoped Senator Morgan would close the debate on the Democratic side and let the Senate have a vote on the question.

Mr. Morgan said several other senators on the Democratic side desired to speak on the treaty and he did not propose to enter into any agreement about limiting the debate.

Mr. Frye reiterated his intention of pressing the matter in the Senate to-morrow.

M. Morgan said that Mr. Sherman's speech was on a plane so much higher than the other speeches on that side that he desired to see it in print before he undertook to reply to it.

Mr. Ewarts took the floor and the Senate proceeded to legislative business.

The Debate on the Commission.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—In the House of Lords last night Mr. Mathews moved to insert in the Commission Bill that if any person having been served with a summons under this Act shall fail to appear the Commission shall have power to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

An amendment, introduced by Mr. Clancy (Nationalist), empowering the Commission to report from time to time, was accepted by the Government and adopted.

Mr. Parnell moved to amend that any person refusing to make a full disclosure in all matters in respect of which he might be examined, should be liable to punishment by the High Court of Justice. The amendment was rejected.

A long discussion ensued on a proposal by W. A. Hunter to compel The Times to formulate its charges before the opening of the enquiry by the Commission. The proposal was rejected, 184 to 118. Mr. Healey moved that no accused member of Parliament should be detained in prison under the Crimes Act during the sitting of the Commons. Mr. L. H. Courtney suggested that Mr. Healy's object might be attained by means of a short proviso securing the attendance of accused persons. The Government leader accepted the suggestion and Mr. Healy withdrew his motion. Other new clauses were then debated and the House adjourned at 2.40 a.m.

AROUND THE CENTRAL SCHOOL.

No Meeting of the Board on Monday Night—What it will cost to Renovate the Heating Facilities—The Estimates for 1888.

Tuesday evening was warm. This fact was not one confined to the knowledge of a few people. Members of the board who got around sat on the back steps at the Central school building and discussed with democratic freedom the situation regarding school affairs generally. There was no eagerness expressed that a meeting should be held and the caretaker was'nt sent out with a hack to hunt up a quorum. Those of the Board who turned up, at irregular intervals, were Messrs. Stevenson, Kendry, O'Meara, McWilliams, Hill and Weir. Mr. Hughes and Dr. Burnham came up but the gathering had decided to disperse before the last comers reached the school.

It was disclosed by Mr. Kendry that money was needed to pay for the north Ward school site. $1,600 is the amount. Chairman Stevenson said he had received the papers and matters were, he believed, all right.

The fact was made public that one of the firm of Smead & Dowd, of Toronto, had been about the buildings during the day, looking over the heating and ventilating hindrances of the place. He pronounced the present state of affairs as being bad, very bad, a not unlooked for opinion when it is reflected that his firm sell heating appliances which if adopted in the present present case will cost the town something like $4,000. The boiler and pipes now in use must go. The present, we are told, is the era of improvement, and the Smead & Dowd system warms with heated air, not hot air, which is a very fine distinction. Some plan will be submitted to the Board in tangible form, possibly in time to do something this year. The ventilation is bad, or rather the want of ventilation is simply awful. A member advanced the opinion that if the ventilation was made good the present heating system might be made more efficient thereby. That member's head is level. No use cramming fresh air into a building with no escape for the foul air. $4,000 is a heap of money.

The new gymnasium is under weigh so to speak. The outbuilding which it is purposed to utilize will be raised four feet in height and dug out at the bottom about the same depth, and particularly so at the upper end. 'Twill make a 24x59 shelter in which the boys can climb and twist and break their trousers to their heart's content and despair of their parents.

The School Board of 1862 left a legacy to succeeding Boards in the shape of a vast hole in the west side of the yard. The material out of the subterranean section of the gymnasium is to be turned into the hole. This is a good idea. The old arrangement has provided at certain seasons of the year a lakelet in the school yard. This was a piece of reckless extravagance, as the regulations do not provide for any Government grant for such equipment, and if the lakeet is to be perpetuated the law needs to be altered. All the revenue that can be obtained can be successfully spent to advantage

The Secretary, who had made a perilous journey from Stoney Lake to be present at the meeting, had brought in the books a copy of the estimates for 1888. This piece of statistical and expensive information, while not actually submitted to the Board, has been sent to the Town Council. Consequently it is, in a measure, public property. It is printed below, and will be found cool and refrigatorial reading for the dog days:—

For changing and altering the present Collegiate Institute to comply with the Government requirements, (to be placed on the roll of 1889)	4000 00

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you too may depend upon this for certain.

Sudden Death at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, Aug. 8.—Last night at the Albion Hotel here a young man named Frank Keene, lately from England, who has been boarding at the Albion, fell in a fit just inside of the door of his room and in a few minutes expired. The young man was about 19 years of age and was to-day to have started on his return to England. He had been subject to fits for some time, but he appeared to be in the best of spirits and health yesterday. He was of a quiet disposition and was nephew to Mr. James Masson, Q.C., M. P. for North Grey, who immediately communicated to his people the untimely fate of the young man.

WHAT IS IT?

It Is One of the Great Marvels of the World

It is called "Cosmos, the Great Oracle of Human Destiny," and something remarkable, and is creating great interest among scientists at the present day. The above cut is a fac-smile of a stone excavated from the Temple of Truth (so called) in Athens Greece, in the year, 1527, and placed in the British Museum in London, Eng.

This stone has been noticed without doubt by many residents of this town who have visited the museum. It stands in the "Corridor of Wonders.

The letters appearing on the cut above are in Hieroglyphics on the original stone, but were translated some years ago by Prof. Bartlett of the Howard University, who discovered that they had a hidden meaning, and there are positive proofs that the stone is thousands of years old, and formed part of the belief of the Chaldeans of Persia who were great astrologists, and from which our present knowledge of astronomy is mostly derived.

This wonderful combination of letters arranged in circles around the solar system will, in connection with the key discovered by Prof. Bartlett to read it by astonish and amaze you with the phenominal accuracy with which it answers questions that anyone may ask in regard to Business Enterprises, Love, Money matters, Destiny, and what every young lady and gentlemen who reads this advertisement is just dying to know about Love and Marriage. It is bound to create a sensation outside of the serious import which the replies of "Cosmos" gives. There is lots of fun and amusement in it, for the home circles, and as a parlor game, it will produce what we will call original fun in abundance. Everybody should have one.

We have been to large expense to obtain the copper plate to print copies of the letters on the wonderful stone for distribution, and although copies of Cosmos on handsome placques are being sold in the large cities for $1.00 each, we purpose as a novel way of advertising and as is our custom when we have anything good and interesting to do it in a liberal way, and to give the entire populace an opportunity to secure one. We shall give one copy with the directions to read it by free to each purchaser of any article in our store for the next 60 days, after which they will not be given free. No doubt thousands of people will avail themselves of this opportunity, but we have enough to supply the demand. Obtain a "Cosmos" and send one to your friends out of town and it will please them as much as though they had found a $10.00 bill. Ask for "Cosmos" at the store of

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh winds, mostly south and west; very warm with showers and thunderstorms; somewhat cooler to-morrow.

Hurrying Home from Camp.

Two weeks of roughing it is about as much as the average young man wants of camping. To enjoy a longer stay depends upon the comfort of his equipment, and the quantity of flies in the sugar. If the sugar is boxed it may be all right. If the camper has equipped himself with a pair of fair's golden lion camping blankets he can enjoy a lengthy stay. Buy these blankets before you start out.

Scott Act Repeal.

A meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon at which preliminary arrangements were made for obtaining a vote on the repeal of the Scott Act.

Some Bad Boys.

There were no less than three complaints made to the police this morning, regarding the unruly actions of boys in the outskirts. These bad youths are getting to be an insufferable nuisance, and the police are bound to put a stop to their boisterous play.

Fixed.

After the recent rains a mud puddle was formed on Simcoe-st in front of the town buildings. Street Inspector Pope had his attention drawn to the matter and this morning he sent a man to get rid of the eyesore. A few loads of gravel and a small trench remedied the difficulty.

For Manitoba.

Police Magistrate Dumbie departed last evening on a trip through Manitoba and the Northwest generally, where he is interested to a considerable extent in farming and other property. He will be absent about three weeks.... Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fowler, of North Monaghan, also went in the same train. They will probably spend the winter with relatives in Manitoba, Mr. Fowler having rented his farm.

The Central Fair Prize List.

The Central Fair prize list has been finished by the printers, and is now being circulated by the Secretary, Mr. W. Collins. Copies will be mailed to prominent farmers in the county with the request that they distribute the same among their friends and neighbors. The list is large and varied. The prizes are valuable and useful. Call at the Secretary's office and secure a copy.

WHAT's the racket? Those 5 lb. caddies of Tea at the Pantry, are the best thing in town. Try one. 32tf.

A Peculiar Case.

A rather peculiar case, the first of the kind ever tried in Peterborough will come before Police Magistrate Edmison to-morrow morning. A young man is charged with purchasing cigars on Sunday. It appears according to the legal authorities that the man who purchases goods on Sunday is equally guilty with the man who sells. This is very much the same as under the Crooks Act, by which a person may be fined for simply asking for liquor, whether it is obtained or not.

Everything Cut Below Cost.

Watch for the opening of the bankrupt sale at McNeil's old stand, No. 382 George-st. The stock has been bought by Mr. W. Reeves, of Kingston, who has only a few days in which to clear it out. If you value bargains look around. Stylish suitings to be sold at below cost. Gent's furnishings at less than the goods can be bought for wholesale. Bona-fide clearing out. Necessity compels the sale and it must be promptly done. There will be a rush to buy as the chance is a good one. Come around on the opening day, Thursday, and take your choice at almost your own prices. 3d32.

The Tailors' Excursion.

The excursion under the auspices of the tailors of the town on Tuesday was largely patronized. The steamer Golden-Eye had a full load on the way to the popular Jubilee Point. The scow was occupied on the the way down by merry dancers, for whom grand music was furnished by Prof Doucet's orchestra. At the Point a pleasant time was spent. Baseball, jumping, boating and other amusements assisted to pass an enjoyable afternoon. On the way up a couple of bands were knocked off the scow by boys, which prevented dancing from that time, but a few leading spirits gave exhibitions of clog dancing. The boat reached the wharf at about 10 o'clock. The picnic was an enjoyable one throughout and very successful.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood. No other preparation so well meets this want. It increases the appetite and rejuvenates the whole system. Its record, for forty years, is one of constant triumph over disease.

Excursion North.

The Young People's Guild of St. John's church held an excursion to Stoney Lake to-day. Quite a number went up on the Lakefield train.

The Forester's Excursion.

Don't fail to attend the Forester's excursion to Toronto on Civic Holiday, Aug. 16th. A fast trip and pleasant time. Return fare good for two days, $1.75. 1d32

WE promise you fair treatment and fair prices at The Pantry store. 32tf.

To the North.

There was the usual exodus northward this morning. Among those who went to enjoy the fine breezes of Stoney Lake were Mr. W. H. Hill, Mr. W. E. Lech, Mrs. T. E. Bradburn, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Miss Menzies and others.

To Attend the Funeral.

By the noon train to-day a number of members of the Masonic order went to Port Hope to attend the funeral of the late Rgt. W. Bro. C. Doebler, of that town. Of the party were W. Bro. H. Rush, W. Bro. Brundrett, W. Bro. Davidson, V. W. Bro. C. Cameron, V. W. Bro. W. Patterson and several others.

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

Divided.

Police Magistrate Edmison was on hand this morning at the Police Court, prepared to dispense justice with an open and liberal hand, but his reign opened auspiciously, the chief reporting a clean sheet. Mr. Edmison will dispose of all the heavy cases, those requiring two justices of the peace, while his worship Mayor Stevenson will look after the smaller fry.

St. Leon Water

The marvellous results from the use of St. Leon Water in Rheumatism, Constipation and all diseases arising from a torpid liver is testified to by hundreds of grateful drinkers of the water. References are kindly permitted to N. T. Kaplan, Frank Bell, Rev. Father Lynch and many other prominent citizens. Sold by the glass and gallon or aerated by Taylor & Macdonald, Druggists, sole agents. d140-w25

New Buildings.

Police Magistrate Dumbie is the owner of the plot of land between the parlor roller rink and the old Trennum block on Water-st. For many years it has been vacant and an eyesore, but the owner has decided to utilize it at last and has made arrangements for commencing at an early day the erection of a block of two storey brick buildings on it. They will be forty feet deep and both flats will be devoted entirely to offices.

Blew Away.

A guest at one of our hotels had a rather curious experience on Monday evening. He was sitting in one of the parlor windows and placed his hat, a straw one, on the window sill. A gust of wind suddenly carried it off and he saw it sail across the street. He went after it, but after searching high and low for upwards of half an hour, he gave up in disgust and procured another head covering. Any person who finds a stray hat can get an owner for it by applying at the Kennedy House.

Gone to Japan.

Miss Jessie K. Munro left this morning for Tokio, Japan, via Vancouver, B. C. There were a number of friends at the Canadian Pacific station to see her off. Miss Munroe has entered into an engagement to remain in Japan for five years as a mission teacher. Before departing she was presented with a handsome purse containing a tidy sum of money, as a contribution towards her expenses. She will, as the presentations and the public meeting on Monday evening testified, be followed by many good wishes.

Your Fate.

"The Mystery of the Oracle of Cosmos." This wonderful and most sensitive creation answers questions of the Present and Future, or whether you will be successful or not in affairs of Love, Business, Speculations, Marriage, Destiny, etc. It will entertain any company for any evening. With it any person can be their own clairvoyant, or act as such for other people, as the Oracle gives an answer every time, with all the phenomenal accuracy attained by the combined powers of clairvoyants, mediums, mind-readers, palmistry experts etc., etc. Read Wyatt & Turner's advertisement, and call at the store for a key to the above mystery. 2d31-1w32.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or otherwise 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE HOLY LAND.

A Lecture by the Rev. Dr. Tully on his Travels in Palestine.

On Tuesday evening the Rev. Dr. Tully, of Media, Pa., delivered a lecture in St. Andrew's Church, on "From Baalbek to Jerusalem,"—a description of his travels from one end of the Holy Land to the other. There was a fair attendance. The Rev. Alex. Bell, of St. Andrew's, occupied the chair. Mr. Carter, choirmaster rendered excellent selections on the organ, and the chairman briefly introduced the lecturer.

Dr. TULLY said that Palestine was an interesting land to them, on account of its sacred associations. It stretched from Beersheba to Dan, and from the Mediterrannean sea to the desert. It was 200 miles long and 75 miles wide—35 miles from the sea to the Jordan. It was a small land, but it was selected and made for a special purpose. The great civilized portions of the people lived in Egypt and in Syria, and the caravan route was through Palestine. It was selected as they selected a lighthouse, to give intelligence to all. The people travelling would come into contact with the knowledge of the true God, and thus that knowledge would be carried to all nations. The first thing that would strike them on visiting that land would be the great chasm from Mount Harmon to the Dead Sea. The stream was a very winding one, and there was a rapid fall all the way. The Dead Sea was the lowest sheet of water in the world. Though the waters of the Jordan and other streams emptied into it, it had no outlet. The water left the sea by evaporation, which was hastened by the intense stillness of the water and the hot air from the valley of Arabia. The sea was forty miles long and six wide. It contained no fish, but one could bathe in it with impunity, and they could not sink on account of the saltness of the water. The sea was 1312 feet deep, 1300 feet beneath the Mediterranean sea, and beside a range of mountains 1300 feet high. Limestone was found in the mountains. It was hard on the outside, but in the mountains was softer, and it was cut out for building stone and hardened after being put up. The land was cavernous on account of this rock. Jerusalem was built on the white rock and there were quarries under the city. Graves were cut out of the rock in the side of the mountains. The lowest part of the land was in Galilee, and from there they literally went up to Jerusalem. The people of different nationalities and religions inhabited different parts. It was the same in other eastern cities. The dogs, also, which belonged to no one and lived in the streets, occupied different quarters. The timber had been stripped off the land, though there were orchards of fig and olive trees and other fruits, and many of the trees referred to in the Bible were standing here and there. Bethlehem was a fair town and there were places of interest in it. There were other villages which were mere mud hovels Nazareth was a Christian city and the Jews would not live in it. Damascus, the oldest city in the world, had a population 200,000. It was a city in the time of Abraham. He gave illustrations of the crude way of doing things. The grain was placed on the ground and tramped out by horses or oxen or beaten out. The people would not allow reapers to be used, as they would displace labor. For the same reason there were no wharves at the seaports and the vessels were unloaded by small boats. At Damascus he saw the grave of St. George, who was the first Christian in the city. He saw nothing to compare with other parts of the civilized world in manufactures. He gave illustrations of the magnificence of the houses of rich Turks. Baalbek was an old town, and contained grand ruins. In the temples wonderful stones had been used. Two were 63 and 65 feet long and 14 feet square, and another 69 feet long by 14 x 18 feet. They could only guess how the stones were moved from the quarries, but were probably carried by many men and levers. The lecturer then followed on the map the route he travelled from Baalbek to Jerusalem, passing Sidon, Tyre, (where the propheoy of Ezekiel was fulfilled), German settlements, Mount Carmel from which there was a grand view), Cana of Galilee, &c. He referred to the customs of the people, among them that of paying taxes in kind, the taxgatherer estimating the quantity of grain and taking the tax. The cities upon which Christ had pronounced woe were obliterated. He passed Endor, Bethel, Jericho, and on to the Dead Sea. Then passing through the wilderness, Bethany was reached, which was a wretched hamlet. He described the physical surroundings of Jerusalem. Passing over that land, he said, with the Bible open, no man could leave it a skeptic. The Almighty's seal was stamped upon it. They were in the presence of the great facts of God's revelation and their influence was felt. In Jerusalem they felt that they were in the presence of facts in connection with the fulfilment of the prophecies of Christ. The people were of different religions, and Turkish soldiers were required to keep the different sects from fighting. Not being homogeneous, the people were governed with difficulty. He referred to the missionary work in Palestine. Their church had a college, with a medical department, a young lady's seminary and churches entirely filled with converted Greeks. The milk and honey, with which that land was flowered, was all gone. He could not get a quart of milk from Baalbek to Jerusalem. The lecturer in conclusion offered to answer any questions.

The CHAIRMAN, on behalf of the audience, returned thanks to Dr. Tully for his instructive lecture.

Mr. Carter again favored the audience with a splendid selection on the organ, and the meeting was dosed.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Meeting of the Peterborough District at Millbrook—Sundry Business and Matters considered.

The Financial meeting of the Peterborough District of the Methodist Church was held in Millbrook on Tuesday, Aug. 7th. the President of the Conference, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, presiding. The Superintendents of the various circuits and missions in the district were present, and a lay representative, associated with each minister. After devotional exercises, the condition of missions were inquired into, and application made to the central board of missions for the amounts necessary for the support of the missionaries stationed on the same. On the district there are five missions, viz:—South Cavan, Hall's Bridge, Chandos, with which is connected the Indian Mission at Mud Lake, and Hiawatha. On these fields are laboring the Revs. A. L. Adam, S. Ferguson and E. Cragg. Chandos has not had a missionary since Conference, but Mr. W. D. Harrison, a young gentleman who is a member of the George-st. church goes this week to take charge of the work there.

The next order of business was the arranging for the missionary meetings on the districts. Deputations were appointed where it was requested and those circuits not asking for a deputation, were left to make their own arrangements.

On account of the expected visit to the district of the Rev. Dr. Potts; no time was fixed for the Educational anniversary. A committee however was appointed, consisting of the President and Rev's. Shorey, Wilson and McCamus to prepare a plan of meetings, to be held when convenient for the general Secretary of the educational society to attend.

The amount allotted to the district to meet the claim of Rev. W. G. Weddings, was distributed among the different circuits and ordered to be collected before next conference.

In connection with the D. M. as required by the the discipline of the church, a sabbath school Convention was held. The 1st topic, was, "Who should teach on the Sunday," and was introduced by the Rev. S. J. Shorey. The 2nd was introduced by the Rev. F. Johnston, subject, "Helps and hindrance to S. S. Work."

At ten o'clock a mass meeting of the children was held. The singing of the children, under the direction of Mr. E. Weeks, was excellent, and everything about the gathering reflected great credit upon Mr. R. Clark, the able superintendent and his male staff of teachers.

The evening session was more largely attended, and great interest was manifested in the discussion of the questions introduced by the Revs. Burns, Pearson and McCamus.

The ministers and laymen all speak in the highest terms of the hospitality of the Millbrook Methodist people.

The Rev. Wm. Burns is the pastor of the church in Millbrook. He is very much beloved by his people and is attracting large congregations by his excellent sermons, and his cordial and christian demeanor, in moving in and out among his own people and others.

GRAND LODGE, I. O. O. F.

A Highly Satisfactory Report from Grand Secretary King at Barrie.

Through the courtesy of Grand secretary King, of the I.O.O.F., and Mr. E. E. Henderson, we have been furnished with an advance copy of the Grand Secretary's report which will be presented to the Grand Lodge meeting at Barrie to-day.

The semi-annual statement, from January to July, 1888, given below, will give the outside public an idea of the great work being accomplished through the instrumentality of Oddfellowship:—

Brevities.

—The Police Court calender was a blank this morning.

—A car load of machinery for Mr. Mulhern's flour mill came in this morning.

—To-morrow afternoon the Peterborough and Garden Hill baseball clubs meet on the diamond field here.

—A good view of the meteoric display to take place on Friday evening could be secured from the lake.

For removing dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded and gray hair to its original color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives a beautiful, glossy and silken appearance.

—There was a good turnout at the cricket field yesterday afternoon. There was no match, but a good practice was had.

—One of the rowers in Matthew's four-oared crew took an involuntarily bath in the river on Tuesday evening.

—Many enquiries are being made as to when there is a likelihood of an illuminated canoe parade taking place. Most of the canoeists are away camping just now, but there will probably be one in a week or two.

CORRESPONDENCE.

While correspondents will be allowed space to discuss questions of public interest, the Review does not hold itself responsible for the opinions expressed.

Mr. Calcutt and his Park.

To the Editor of the Daily Review.

SIR.—I regret that Mr. Calcutt, in yesterday's "Examiner," should have so quickly dispelled the notion that he was largely moved by a public spirit and a kindly feeling towards his fellow men, in throwing open Riverside park. That it was, from the first, a commercial adventure is the only deduction I can draw from his communication, and there can be no complaint that it should be such, only it would perhaps have been preferable that the citizens of Peterborough should have so understood it. It would have relieved, no doubt, from the imputation that our townspeople prefer to take all they "can lay their hands on gratis, and then want more" and that the town was guilty of "degrading and undignified greed."

It is quite true that the town claims a license free of $100.00 for a circus exhibiting in Peterborough but it is contrary to the fact that it wishes to keep such questionable concerns out of Riverside Park. Had Mr. Calcutt called on the Mayor, he would have learned that both the Howe "side show" and the last "aggregation of "wonders," including the "grand balloon ascension," were informed that they were not wanted here, that we had no suitable grounds for their great moral shows, and that the only place to be got in the vicinity was Riverside park. He would also have found that $20 was from the first, the sum asked for a parade, and that there was a memorandum in writing of it, and further that when the show that went into Monaghan some years ago, and which the town forgave the usual fee, as he says, to do him out of it—what the town did, was to give the Agricultural Society the benefit of that fee.

We have not sought to obtain, but rather to exclude, every circus from the town, as the high license fee indicates, and late experience I am certain we are not likely to make us zealous to secure their company hereafter, nor to increase our faith in the desirability of their presence.

Of the Howe crowd, one remains in our jail to be tried for murder, committed on the Market square. The management of the last great combination of marvels I know nothing of, but much of the "following" it had was indisputably a combination of gamblers and blacklegs, the equal of which I'm sure never entered the country, and who, with their thimble-rigs, sweat boards and whip swindle, lightened the pockets of the unwary, to the tune of hundreds of dollars.

If such things must be, and if circuses will come to the country, I don't say Mr. Calcutt will do wrong in having them at his park or that he should not get the largest fee possible from them, nor will the town I believe object to to them going there, but would suggest that the corporation of Ashburnham should, for its good name, in the future, lock up the rogues who are ever present at such affairs to swindle the public.

Yours truly,
W. H. MOORE.

'Did n't Know 't was Loaded"

ay do for a stupid boy's excuse; but hat can be said for the parent who es his child languishing daily and fails recognize the want of a tonic and ood-purifier? Formerly, a course of itters, or sulphur and molasses, was the ile in well-regulated families; but now intelligent households keep Ayer's arsaparilla, which is at once pleasant the taste, and the most searching and ffective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., oston, writes: "My daughter, now 2l ears old, was in perfect health until a ear ago when she began to complain of atigue, headache, debility, dizziness ndigestion, and loss of appetite. I con.. luded that all her complaints originated n impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

AT A TEA AUCTION.

HOW THE EXPERTS VALUE THE STOCK BEFORE IT IS SOLD.

Scene in a Salesroom—A Visit from Professional Tea Tasters—A Preliminary Test—The Aroma—Getting the Flavor. Quiet Purchasers.

A dozen or a score of tea importers may be represented in the stock of tea which a firm of auctioneers offer for sale on a given day. Two hundred or more different grades of tea may be in the consignment. A sample chest, half chest, or package of each grade is sent to the auction room for inspection and sampling by prospective purchasers. These are ranged in tiers about the auction room so that their distinctive names and marks may be seen. All these marks, and a queer lot of hieroglyphics they are, are reproduced in the catalogue, always large leaved, and with plenty of room for notes alongside the description of each lot of a particular grade of tea. The lots vary from a single package or half chest up to perhaps a hundred packages of the fragrant Oriental leaves. The small lots are usually particularly choice brands of tea, the large ones the cheaper and "standard" grades.

The distinctive marks on these chests aside from the Chinese figures are either figures or letters, sometimes standing alone, but oftener inclosed in a circle, a square, a triangle, an ellipse, or some other geometrical figure, and occasionally accompanied by an anchor or some similar figure that is a symbol of no one knows what exactly. Once in their places in the auction room, the sample chests are made ready for customers who wish to try the teas. And here is where tea auction sales differ from other auction sales. A purchaser may try before he buys. To enable him to try, big holes, an inch and a half or so in diameter, are cut through the chest and its wicker cover, so that the tea can easily be reached. The sample packages thus prepared, everything is ready for the sale.

PROFESSIONAL TEA TASTERS.

For two days before the sale young men with the big quarto catalogues and accompanied by a boy with small tin boxes visit the auction rooms and take samples for testing. These young men are usually professional tea tasters, and to the casual visitor to an auction room their methods are peculiar, to say the least. A wisp of the split bamboo, such as the network of matting that covers the packages is made of, is the sampler's weapon for attack on the tea chests about him. His catalogue is held in his left hand. With the right he thrusts his wisp of bamboo, doubled so as to make a sort of hoe, into the round hole in the tea chest, and from the chest hauls a handful of the tea on to the catalogue pages. The eye serves to tell him if the tea has been colored or bleached. That point settled, the necessary note is made in his catalogue. Then comes the preliminary test. The tea is dumped from the sampler's catalogue into his hand. Then, with the hand partially closed, the sampler blows vigorously into the mass of leaves, and at once applies the leaves to his nose. Thus he gets a fair idea of the aroma. As he has no further use for that particular sample, he throws it into a trough which stands at the foot of the rows of chests, and which is put there for the express purpose of holding these discarded samples and the particles that do not fall on the catalogue pages when the wisp of bamboo pulls the sample from the chest. And so the sampler goes the round of the long row of tea chests, eyeing and smelling, and once in a great while tasting a bit of the tea, and always throwing away two or three pounds during the course of his afternoon inspection.

All the observations of this expert as to color, aroma and quality are noted in his catalogue. Some samples are quickly disposed of, and the sampler marks in his catalogue the value of the particular braud of tea he has inspected. But there are some brands, usually of the finer grades, that puzzle him. He is in doubt as to the actual value of the leaves he has looked at and smelled of a half dozen times perhaps. So he instructs a youth who accompanies him to "take a sample." This youngster, using the same means as his companion has before him, hauls a liberal sample from the chest into a tin box, which is duly marked and labeled with the same hieroglyphics that are inscribed on the chest and in the catalogue. A dozen samples may be taken in this way for the expert's use outside of the auction room. These collected, his work among the sample chests is ended.

GETTING THE FULL FLAVOR.

Accompanied by the boy and his small tin boxes, the expert leaves the auction room and goes to his office to finish his valuation of the samples his boy carries. Seated at a round table, which turns on its standard at the slightest touch, he finishes his work with a speed which is little less than marvelous. A dozen French china cups and a samovar, or urn, of hot water help him to do this. Leaves from the sample tin boxes are put in the china cups and treated to a bath of the boiling water from the urn in the center of the table. There is a preliminary sniff at the aroma arising from each particular cup, and then a taste—just a sip—to get the flavor fully. This test settles the valuation of the tea in a moment, and the expert marks, in his catalogue what he deems the samples thus treated to be worth. No one ever disputes that valuation, for the tea taster is in his line an autocrat, a despot whose decision no one dares question. The catalogue now marked is sent to the buyer of the house the expert represents, and with the latter there remains only the purely mechanical work of attending the sale and buying, if he can, at or below the figures fixed by the expert at the maximum value of the teas.

The auction sale itself is very like any other trade sale. A hundred men sit about the auction room in front of the glib tongued crier. Catalogue and pencil in hand, the crowd of buyers are a very quiet party, and let the auctioneer make all the noise. A pencil or catalogue raised in the air for an instant goes for a bid. Sometimes a nod of the head suffices to settle the ownership of a consignment of tea. It is very rarely that a word is spoken, except when the starting bid is made. When other spoken bids follow they are usually made by some out of town buyer. The auctioneer knows everybody in the room except these same out of town merchants, who are looking for bargains. So he quietly tells his clerks the name of the purchaser, and a stranger visiting the sale is left in mystery most of the time, not only as to who the buyer is, but also as to which one of the men in that very quiet but very business like crowd made the bid. Five thousand or 6,000 packages of tea may be disposed of in an hour or an hour and a half, and then the crowd of buyers melt away just as quickly as it had assembled itself for the sale.—New York Times.

Clad in Old Time Dress.

He was a millionaire at the mask ball of the Art association. He was a knight, and wore a sword, and had a gorgeous dress and shapely silk encased shanks. And as he went through the room his sword got caught in ladies' dresses, and kept dodging in between his legs, and every now and again some fellow in silk stockings would be hit on the shins.

"Well," said the millionaire, "I see now why they didn't have street cars in those old days."—San Francisco Chronicle "Undertones."

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

MURDERER HOPPE'S EXTRADITION DEMANDED.

Patent Office Statistics—More About the Alleged Enforcement of the Foreign Contract Labor Law at Port Huron.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The rumor which was current some time since as to the probable retirement of Mr. Collingwood Schrieber from the Railway Department to accept the position of engineer-in-chief of the Canadian Pacific Railway is revived and it is a matter of common report that the change will be made very soon. Several persons are mentioned as probable successor to Mr. Schrieber, amongst them Messrs. D. Pottinger, general superintendent of the Intercolonial, T. C. Keefer, Walter Shanley and Assistant Chief Engineer Archibald of the Intercolonial Application has been made by the United States authorities for the extradition of Max Hoppe now in jail in Lethbridge, N.W.T., on the charge of murdering John Adams in Montana on May 29. Adams and a companion who appear to have been horse-stealing were on their way to Canada and gave Hoppe a lift. On May 29 Adams' companion left Hoppe and Adams in camp together and on his return found Adams alone badly wounded. He took him to the nearest town where he died. In his ante-mortem statement he said that while he was lying under the wagon Hoppe came up and fired three shots at him and then made off. Hoppe reached Canadian territory and when arrested made a voluntary statement to the effect that he was riding in the wagon with Adams when the latter insisted upon his getting out and on his refusing to do so attacked him. Hoppe claims that he then fired in self defence and shot Adams.

It is expected that tenders for the new bridge to take the place of the Union Suspension Bridge, connecting Ottawa with Hull, will be called for in a few days.

The number of patents issued during the fiscal year ended June 30 was 2321, as compared with 2689 in the previous year, showing a falling off of 368.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., is in correspondence with the Department of Marine and Fisheries with a view to getting fishing for bass in the Bay of Quinte, with nets and lines, prohibited. It is stated that the bass are being exterminated owing to the use of nets by fishermen who consign the fish to the States under the title of "bull heads." It is recommended that the use of nets of all kinds should be prohibited during July and August.

The Collector of Customs at Sarnia, who is in the city, says that the stories about Canadian workmen who live in Sarnia and other ports on the border being prevented from crossing to Port Huron and other places in the States to work are gross exaggerations of facts. There was a protest against a colored band of Sarnia going to Michigan to furnish music, but on investigation it was found that almost all the members of the band had been born in the United States and had never become British subjects. The Collector says that the American Collector of Customs at Port Huron realises that the foreign contract labor law was not intended to apply to Canadians living on the border, and consequently there has been no interference with Canadian workmen employed in Michigan.

Capt. Colville, the Governor-General's secretary, says it is very doubtful whether His Excellency will return to Ottawa before the opening of the exhibition here.

Mr. W. Gibbons, for the last four years managing director of The Citizen Publishing Company, has resigned his position and will on Sept. 1 take charge of The Cornwall Standard, which, it is understood, he proposes to purchase.

Tenders for enlarging the St. Lawrence canals have been called and will be received by the Department of Railways and Canals until October 23.

THE WARD DIVORCE SENSATION.

Mr. Darrach Looking up Evidence at Montreal to Vindicate His Sister.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—Mr. John Darrach of New York, brother of Mrs. Arthur Ward, whose husband has given notice that he will apply to the Parliament of Canada at its next session for a divorce on the ground of adultery, desertion and other charges, is in the city looking after his sister's interests. This case, which has been disinterred after three years, has been sent broadcast over the whole continent, it being stated that Mrs. Ward had been arrested, charged with attempting to poison her husband.

Mrs. Ward (Miss Darrach) is at present engaged in New York as a telegraph operator, in an establishment where her brother is also similarly engaged. When this subject was again brought before the public it was feared that it might militate against the lady's prospects in her new sphere. Moreover it is claimed by the lady's friends that the story was and still is unfounded and that the different accusations brought forward are untrue.

In order to set the matter completely at rest Mr. Darrach came on to Montreal. He had an engagement this morning to meet Mr. Douclos, Deputy Clerk of the Crown, when the latter was to furnish him with an official certificate to the effect that no arrest had ever been made in the case and that no accusation had ever been formulated against his sister. Armed with this certificate Mr. Darrach will return to New York and take whatever steps he may deem necessary to vindicate his sister's honor.

On the other hand Mr. Duncan McCormack, solicitor for Mr. Ward, is preparing the divorce proceedings, which will go before the Senate next session. As soon as they are completed he will go to New York and serve them upon the respondent.

A large mass of most compromising correspondence written by Mrs. Ward to a young gentleman formerly of Montreal but now residing in the United States, will be put in evidence and some very racy devlopments are promised.

A BIG EXPRESS CO. DEAL.

THE NEW ARRANGEMENT ON THE G. T. R. WEST OF TORONTO.

The American Express Co. Turnsover that Portion of its Business to the Canadian Express Co.—The Lines Included in the Shuffle.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—The express business over the Grand Trunk Railway lines in Ontario west of Toronto has hitherto been divided between the American Express Company and the Canadian Express Company, an arrangement resulting in extra cost on matter passing over both sections, as each company charged their local rate.

The Grand Trunk Railway have for some years been desirous of consolidating the service over their lines and have now completed an arrangement by which the American Express Company turn over that portion of their business referred to to the Canadian Express Company, who will, in consequence, add about 150 offices to their list and increase their mileage over 1000 miles.

The new lines of the Canadian Express Company include the main line from Suspension Bridge to Detroit, the line from Fort Erie to Glencoe, the Hamilton and Northwestern, the Toronto and Hamilton, the London and Sarnia, the London and Port Stanley, the Wellington, Grey and Bruce, the London, Huron and Bruce, the Brantford and Tilsonburg and the Welland and Allanburg branches.

The fruit gardens and the produce centres of Ontario, the fishing stations of the Georgian Bay, Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario will now be on the lines of the Canadian Express Company which, in connection with the Intercolonial Express Company operating in the maritime provinces, reach every city and nearly all the towns and principal villages in the five astern provinces.

ODDFELLOWS AT BARRIE.

A Big Demonstration—Meeting of the Grand Lodge—Exhibition Drill.

BARRIE, Aug. 8.—To-day Barrie has witnessed one of the biggest Oddfellow demonstrations ever held north of Toronto, the occasion being the meeting of the Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. The town is handsomely decorated and excursions from all points brought in a large number of visitors in addition to the 500 Oddfellows now here. The display of the Patriarchs Militant branch of the order was a sight long to be remembered. Cantons are here from Bowmanville, Peterboro, Toronto, Hamilton and Newmarket, and bands from Peterboro, Newmarket, Beaverton, Stayner, Collingwood and Barrie.

The first session of the Grand Lodge commenced this morning, previous to which addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor Ross on behalf of the town and Bro. Fred Marr on behalf of the Barrie Oddfellows.

The session lasted till noon, and in the afternoon a monster procession proceeded through the town to the exhibition grounds, where an exhibition drill by the cantons took place. A lacrosse match was played between Barrie and Bradford, the former winning three straight games; an interesting program of races, etc., was carried out.

In the evening a procession of illuminated boats on the bay and a fine display of fireworks ended the day's proceedings.

FIENDISH CRUELTY.

A Hamilton Scoundrel's Dastardly Act—Reducing the Pastor's Salary.

HAMILTON, Aug. 8.—Centenary Methodist Church decided last night to reduce the pastor's salary to $1,800. The late Dr. Hunter received $2,500.

The engineer appointed to examine the roads of the Hamilton and Milton Road Company finds that the repairs have not been satisfactorily executed. As soon as the report is handed in no toll can be collected until the roads are put in good repair. It is likely that the toll will cease after Aug. 10.

John Brown, a lad shipped over from an industrial school in England, admitted at the Police Court this morning, the theft of $10 from Jacob Rymal of West Flamboro', for whom he has been working since May. The boy was remanded until Friday.

Robert Robertson and Wm. McAllister, school boys, the elder 11 years and the younger 9 years of age, were charged at the Police Court this morning with stealing four bottles of lager belonging to Mr. Frederick Beckman. They pleaded guilty and were remanded until to-morrow.

Stephen Clarkson, the Ancaster man who was arrested a couple of days ago for entering John Templar's residence in August, 1887, and stealing a silver cruet stand, cake basket and butter dish, together with a quantity of knives, forks and spoons, was brought up for preliminary examination at the Police Court this morning. The accused was committed for trial, bail being fixed at $400 and two sureties of $200 each.

About 9 o'clock last night a large dog made his appearance at the corner of Bold and Hess-streets, all ablaze. Somebody had poured coal oil on the poor brute and then applied a match. The cries of the dog were most piteous and a crowd of people were attracted by the horrible sight. Mr. Wm. Smith poured water on the burning animal and succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

The till of John E. Rikale's store, 170 King-street east, was tapped for $9 yesterday afternoon.

FIRES OF A DAY.

A Flour Mill and Residence at Wingham Totally Destroyed.

WINGHAM, Aug. 8.—Hutton & Carr's flour mill and Mr. Jackson's residence were burnt to the ground about three o'clock this morning. The fire started in the mill. There was about 4,000 bushels of wheat in the mill, besides a quantity of flour. The loss is estimated at about $35,000 on the mill and $3,000 on the dwelling. There was $8,000 insurance on the mill and $4,000 on the contents.

The Millbrook Schoolhouse Burnt.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 8.—A fire broke out in the public school building here at 12.20 this morning, and consumed the building. This is the second fire that has occurred in this building, one taking place last week. Both were evidently the work of an incendiary. Loss $5000. Insurance, in the Western, $2000 on the building; in the Fire Assurance Association, $400 on the contents.

Well and Not So Well.

PICKERING, Aug. 8.—Alex. Burrell went down a well to-day to blast some rock. He fired the fuse and made for the top of the well, climbing and being drawn up at the same time. The charge went off before he reached the top and the bucket kicked him, though he fortunately did not kick the bucket. In fact, though hurt, he was able to walk after the accident.

The Joggins Raft's All Right.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Aug. 8.—The big raft arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning after a seven days' passage from Joggins, N.S. It is in as good condition as when it started. It will proceed at noon to-day.

The High Court of Foresters.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The High Court of Foresters sitting at Reading has reconsidered its action touching American courts and has decided to readmit all those courts which apply for admission on condition that their action meet the approval of the next High Court.

DAMAGE $50,000.

Big Smash up on the Northern—Two Locomotives and 15 Cars Destroyed.

NEWMARKET, Aug. 9.—A big smash-up occurred about 7.30 yesterday morning at Ellerby's Mills, on the Northern three miles north of this place, and about a mile south of Holland Landing.

The accident was caused by two freights colliding on a single track, but the responsibility for the disaster has yet to be fixed. An investigation will be held immediately, at which all the train hands, and the despatchers will have to tell what they know to Local Superintendent Wragge.

The trains were in charge of Conductors Lewis and Haskett respectively, and the damage to rolling stock and freight is estimated at $50,000. Both locomotives have been put past further usefulness, fifteen freight cars have been reduced to kindling wood and about twenty others are more or less damaged, but no one was injured.

THE WALKERTON TOURNAMENT.

First Prize Taken by the Dominion Organ and Piano Co.'s Band.

WALKERTON, Aug. 9.—The tournament of the 32nd Battalion Band held here yesterday was a splendid success. The weather was fine and over 6000 people were on the grounds.

The Dominion Organ and Piano Co.'s Band of Bowmanville took first prize, $300, with 347 points; Massey Band of Toronto, second prize, $200, 326 points; Berlin Band, third prize, $100, 308 prints. The judges were Mr. Hiscott of London and Mr. Carry of Kingston.

The second class bands compete to-day.

THE TROUBLED TRADES.

A New Phase of the Toronto Plumbers' Strike—A Lunatic's Escape.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—Yesterday morning a large number of steam-fitters, all members of Powderly Assembly, K. of L., threw down their tools and left work. They have no dispute with their bosses and their action is simply to strengthen the hands of the striking plumbers. The steam-fitters say that they will not resume work and will remain out as long as the bosses refuse to accede to the plumbers' demands. The plasterers have also decided to strike whenever they are asked to work alongside of non-union plumbers and steam-fitters

G. M. Strathern, house furnishing; G. G. Kerr, builder, and Patterson & Co., fancy goods and millinery jobbers, are among the Toronto merchants reported to be in business difficulties.

Rev. Y. Hiraiwa, who has been on a visit to Canada to report on Methodist missionary work in Japan, left yesterday for his native country.

Mr. Harry, Webb the well-known caterer and confectioner, who has made an assignment, attributes his financial embarrassment to unprofitable speculation in real estate. He expects to liquidate in full if allowed time.

Mr. Charles Bell, for over fifty years a resident of Toronto, is dying.

On Tuesday night a mob of Orange Young Britons attacked the St. Nicholas Home, on Lombard-street, doing considerable damage to the windows and fences.

A $45,000 building is in progress of erection in Queen's Park in connection with the biological department of the university.

Mrs. Pritchard, a second-hand furniture dealer, was evicted from her house in Queen-street west on Tuesday night and with her three children slept under a wagon in the open air. Mrs. Pritchard makes some serious allegations against a barrister of this city, claiming that the legal light obtained a deed to the property by making Mr. Pritchard drunk and shipped him off in that condition to England where he now is.

There was a lively fight yesterday afternoon, between the police and a gang of roughs, the result being the incarceration of six of the latter at the Wilton-avenue station. The difficulty arose out of an assault committed by one of the gang.

Hon. Oliver Mowat has telegraphed to Acting Attorney-General Hardy that judgment in the Indian Titles case will not be given till November.

The police were informed last night that Miss Bym, aged 32 years, for the past two years an inmate of the Toronto Asylum, escaped from that institution at an early hour on Monday morning, and so far no trace of her whereabouts has been discovered.

Canadian Stocks in the London Market.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The news of Sir George Stephen's resignation of the presidency of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has little, if any, effect on the market.

The High Court has granted an injunction restraining the trustees of the corporation from parting with the moneys received in respect of the recent issue of debenture stock of the Western Counties railway of Nova Scotia until the trial of the pending action of the railway company and Plunkett v. Anderson and others.

Shares of Northwest land companies are rising on the excellent reports of the harvest.

Two Hamilton Weddings.

HAMILTON, Aug. 8.—Miss Clarkson Hoodless of this city and Mr. Clarence Herbert Porter of Cleveland, O., were married this morning at the residence of Mr. Joseph Hoodless, Rev. Canon Curran performing the ceremony.

Canon Curran officiated again in the afternoon at St. Thomas' Church, when Miss Louisa Brett Georgina Ryall and Mr. Charles Tinling were made one.

Colchester Nominations.

TRURO, Aug. 8.—Nominations for Colchester took place to-day at noon. Cyrus Eaton, Liberal Prohibitionist, Sir A. G. Archibald, Conservative, and Edward Fulton, Third Party Prohibitionist, were nominated in due form. A very large number of electors were in town and the afternoon was devoted to a triangular speech making fight between the candidates.

Naughty Nobbe.

DETROIT, Aug. 8.—Henry Nobbe, who kept a tailor shop in Brooklyn, N.Y., last March deserted his wife and children and went to Hamilton, Ont. Mrs. Nobbe ran the store for a month, sold out for $100 and took in washing to support the children. Nobbe changed his name to Nolan, got a good situation and made love to Annie Winkler, a respectable and very pretty girl who lived at 15 Main-street, Hamilton. Miss Winkler consented to be his wife and the day was set. The minister, however, became suspicious, advertised in the New York papers and sent Nobbe's photograph to a Brooklyn minister who recognized it at once. Mrs. Nobbe came to Hamilton but Nobbe had preceded her to Detroit. Mrs. Nobbe offered to cede all rights to Nobbe if Miss Winkler wanted him but Miss Winkler declined with thanks.

Mrs. Nobbe arrived in Detroit this morning and called upon Chief Borgman for assistance. An officer was detailed who at once arrested Nobbe at Lynch's tailor shop. Mrs. Nobbe, who looks much older than her husband, is at a loss to know why he fled as he always seemed inseparable from herself and children.

A Strike Threatened.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—The glassmakers of Lyons threaten to strike unless the firms of Mesmer and Joyet amalgamate and permit their employes to work in batches in rotation. If a strike occurs in Lyons it will in all probability extend to the glassworkers of the whole of France.

BADGERED AND WORRIED.

HOW CANADA HAS BULLIED THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. Evarts' Attack on the Fisheries Treaty—The New York Senator Caught Nodding—His Speech to be Concluded To-day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The Senate resumed the consideration of the Fisheries Treaty yesterday, and was addressed by Mr. Evarts (Rep., N.Y.) in opposition to its ratification. In his opening remarks he spoke of the treaty as being wholly incongruous with the just position of the two countries and with the attitude to be maintained between them.

As to this treaty leading to war, he said he had not heard a breath above a whisper from the United Kingdom or any of its departments in power and authority that a rejection of the treaty would be cause for umbrage. The nearest of anything in the shape of a definite statemnnt was the reputed reply of the Secretary of State as to what would follow the rejection of the treaty, that then chaos would come again.

The most noticeable circumstance in the debate was the position of the Democratic party. It showed a geographical division as well as a political division. It was that noticeable fact that first attracted the attention of the American people and that would most attract the attention of the people of Great Britain, but it would not frighten the people of this country and would not deceive the people of Great Baitain. The people of Great Britain know perfectly well when the patriotism of the American people was touched there was but one response from the heart of the people at large. Whatever obscuration, whatever perturbation might be effected by political adhesion or by party necessity, the people in their plenary capacity would judge for the United States and not argue for England.

Mr. Evarts went on to discuss at length and with much particularity the details of the treaty and the whole history of the fisheries controversy. He declared that the system of "worrying" was always brought into play by Canada and whenever United States asserted its fishery right Canada asserted its contravention in order to bring the United States to a departure from the fishing interests to the trading and commercial interests, and that the United States had thus been worried into the reciprocity arrangement in 1854.

He said that at every stage when the Dominion of Canada had undertaken to enforce the bay or headlands doctrine the British Government had declined to sustain it. Canada he said had proceeded on the philosophy of Hudibras, not by force of carnal reason but of indefatigable reasoning. What Canada has always been after was reciprocity and free markets. He ridiculed the idea of reciprocity between the illimitable market of the United States and the stinted consumption of Canada and was reminded by Mr. Gray (Dem., Del.) that under the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 the balance of trade had been on the side of the United States, that is, the United States had sold more to Canada than it had bought from Canada.

He was asked by Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) whether he also thought that the United States had been worried and teased into the treaty of 1871 as well as that of 1854, and said he was just going to enter on that question.

At this point, however, on the suggestion of Mr. Frye that the day was hot and that the Senator had now been speaking over two hours, Mr. Evarts ceased speaking and postponed the remainder of his speech till to-day.

THE DOMINION'S GREATNESS.

Alarms a U.S. Senator—Absorption of One Country by the Other Prophesied.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The Herald's Washington special says: Senator Cullom feels that the time is coming when Canada's presence on our northern border will be a standing menace to our peace and prosperity. The Illinois senator is not an alarmist, nor is he at all given to sensationalism. He is on the contrary one of the most clear-headed and conservative men in public life. But he thinks we have reason to fear Canada's growing greatness, both from a numerical as well as a material standpoint.

"It was for this reason," said Senator Cullom yesterday, "that I introduced my resolution on Friday last to investigate and report upon the number of railways in this country, which are owned or indirectly controlled by the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways. I think when the facts become known it will surprise some of our people to learn how much of the carrying trade to this country is diverted from its legitimate channels through these foreign agencies.

"Already, I am told, nearly fifty per cent. of the merchandise brought from China and Japan to America is carried by a line of subsidized English steamers to Vancouver Island. There it is transferred to the Canadian Pacific Railway and carried as far east as practical, and then reshipped to its destination by American lines. All this is working an injury to our transcontinental railways, and it ought to be remedied. These steamships and railway lines can underbid us. The are subsidized by the British Government, and if they can divert our commerce from regular channels they propose to do it until they have driven us out of the market, when they will remain masters of the situation. More than this, their influence with certain lines of American railways mainly, I suppose, because of their large interest therein, is such that they are able to freeze out new enterprises of this character, which might otherwise come into competition with them. This strikes me as carrying their impudence a little too far. It is these and kindred facts which we propose to thoroughly investigate.

"If Congress does not adjourn soon, our investigations will be necessarily postponed until next spring. I think we ought to begin at Halifax, and continue a trip along the Canadian border to San Francisco, gathering all the information we can regarding the matter under consideration."

"Why is it, Senator," queried the correspondent, "that you are afraid of Canada, with its meagre population of 5,000,000 people, which we can overshadow with our 60,000,000 of people?"

"It isn't the present," continued the senator, "it is the future I am considering. England is doing everything she can to build up the Dominion of Canada. How many years will it be, think you, before Canada's 5,000,000 people will become 25,000,000? Our interests are diametrically opposed to each other. Sooner or later they will clash, and when they do trouble will follow, for it is not in the nature of things that we can live on in harmony for ever. When that time comes Canada must either absorb the United States or we must absorb Canada, and I leave you to judge which of the two will be done."

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1888.

CANADIANS, HOLD YOUR OWN.

MR. BLAIR'S motion in the United States Senate and certain remarks made by Senator Sherman in his speech on the fishery treaty, are worthy of a passing notice. Mr. Blair's motion might be dismissed as an insult that merited only brief consideration but for a combination of circumstances that give it more point. The following is the resolution:—

"Resolved that the President be requested to open negotiations with the Government of her Britannic Majesty (in which the Dominion of Canada and the several political sub-divisions thereof shall be represented), with a view to the settlement of all differences between her Majesty's Government and the United States, and especially to the arrangement of terms mutually just, honorable and satisfactory for political union between the Dominion of Canada or between any of the several provinces or sub-divisions of the Dominion of Canada and the United States, subject to the approval of the people of the Dominion of Canada, or of the people of any province or sub-division thereof, who may be included in such arrangement, and to the ratification of the United States, in such manner as Congress may prescribe; such political union to be Republican in form and in accord with the general system and the constitution of the United States; and the negotiations may embrace such further treaties, compacts and alliances as shall be deemed necessary for the future peace, happiness, security and general welfare of her Majesty's Dominion and the United States."

Mr. Blair is not only willing to admit the Dominion into the Republic, but is desirous, if the country cannot be swallowed whole, to take it piecemeal. In this connection the following extract from Mr. Sherman's speech is interesting:—

"He was willing and anxious to accomplish a public policy that would make intimate the relations between Canada and the United States. The interest of both tended that way and nothing pulled them apart except the jealousy of local interests and the aspirations of leading men. Anything that tended to promote free commercial intercourse—nay, anything that tended to produce a union of Canada with the United States—would meet his support. In his judgment the Dominion of Canada would be within ten years represented either in the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain or in the Congress of the United States, and it would be, in his opinion, the Congress of the United States. He therefore favored the policy of bringing about of changes with Canada of the freest character possible—perhaps something in the nature of a Zollverein, which would relieve both countries from the necessity of establishing a line of custom houses and fortifications along the border. It would be the height of nonsense to establish such a line. Long before any need for fortifications would come, the good sense of the two peoples would lead them to meet and mingle with each other, having a common heritage, common ties and a common Government. This was the feeling with which he approached a consideration of the treaty."

We have been told again and again that public men in the United States did not desire the annexation of Canada. That assertion is refuted. Mr. Blair's motion and Senator Sherman's speech are proof positive of the contrary. But they long for possession of the country in vain. Canadians are patriotic; they are loyal.

And there are some points just here that patriotic Canadians should remember. Sherman and Blair are Republicans. They desire annexation, and they do not want the fishery treaty ratified. So far as the fishery treaty is considered the Liberal leaders in Canada were with them. They said they did not want it ratified, but they did not declare for annexation. Again, Mr. Butterworth and Mr. Hitt are advocates of commercial union or unrestricted reciprocity. Mr. Butterworth has introduced into Congress a resolution favor the latter and Mr. Hitt one favoring the former. Both these gentlemen are Republicans, both are opposed to the ratification of the fishery treaty and no doubt both are of the same mind as Messrs. Sherman and Blair. But though these Republicans favor continental free trade or a zollverein, they vote against the Mills bill, which would place a number of Canadian products on the free list. They do not wish to extend the free list in that way; they want annexation or a customs treaty that would lead to annexation. The advocates of unrestricted reciprocity in Canada tell us that we need not look for a reciprocal arrangement such as existed from 1854 to 1864. They wish us to believe that we must accept continental free trade or nothing—that Canada must combine with the United States against Great Britain. That far they are with the annexationist Republicans. Mr. Sherman and Mr. Blair have exposed the cloven hoof. Their collegues, Messrs Butterworth and Hitt, cannot hide it longer. But they can rest assured of this, that Canadians will not listen to their invitations to unite, and will not be led into a commercial arrangement that would fetter this country and bring about political union.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

COLLECTION OF RARE RELICS.

The Valuable Memorabilia in a Chicago Man's Possession—Lincoln Mementos.

C. F. Gunther, the candy man, has a collection of memorabilia of the world's great men which is probably unequaled in the United States. The elegantly decorated fireproof room forming the second story of his State street store is completely filled with rare relics. Besides these Mr. Gunther has enough more relics to fill five rooms of equal size. Many of these are too valuable to be exhibited, and an exhibition safe is now being built for them. They include all the deeds, etc., by means of which George Washington proved his ownership in Mount Vernon.

"Oh, you want to see the Lincoln collection," said Mr. Gunther to a reporter. "Well, here's a part of it. My Lincoln collection entire would fill a whole side of this room. Here you see is a well worn leaf from one of Lincoln's copybooks when he was a boy. You see he didn't make any mistakes even then. Here are several of his bills for legal services. That one you see is for only $5—not much like a modern fee. That pile there is the full text of the Lincoln-Douglas debate. They are in exactly the shape in which Lincoln left them after correcting them for publication. There are the muffler and the vest he wore on his inauguration trip to Washington. There are his spectacles—not much like those of our dudes now. That is the original manuscript of the act freeing the slaves in the District of Columbia. There is Lincoln's favorite poem written by himself. You see it begins: "Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" There are two original photographs taken before his inauguration. All these bronze, gold and silver medals commemorate events in his life.

"That manuscript there is one of the most valuable here. You know the original emancipation proclamation was burned in the Chicago fire. Well, this is a page from Lincoln's last message, written after Lee's surrender, in which he affirms the emancipation proclamation. You see it says: 'I repeat the declaration made a year ago that while I remain in my present position I shall not attempt to retract or modify the emancipation proclamation, nor shall I return to slavery any person who is free by the terms of that proclamation or by any of the acts of congress. It is the only document in existence in the original which proves Lincoln's acts in reference to the abolition of slavery. In connection with this you see this resolution of congress abolishing slavery here. It is the original document, engrossed on parchment and signed by Colfax, Hamlin and all the members of congress who voted for the proclamation.

"That deed of land made by the father and mother of Lincoln is very interesting. You see his mother had to make her mark. See how writing shows how a man is feeling at the time. That order for a pass through the lines shows that he was all worn out at the time he wrote it. But how long can you stay? Only two hours! Well, you can't even glance at all the Lincoln relics in that time."—Chicago News.

Faring Sumptuously Every Day.

I have in my mind several men, about 50 years of age, bachelors, men about town, who appear to have everything that God and creature can provide. They have money, they live in sumptuosity, their names printed among the elite of social gossip concerning their comings and their goings is frequent, and, if one might judge by appearances, they are happiness personified. They are bachelors; they go and come at their own whim and caprice. Here today, in the south of France to-morrow, quartered in the magnificent Ponce de Leon the next day, shooting on the boundless prairies of the far west later, back again for the caterings of the metropolis immediately thereafter.

They live for themselves.

They eat, drink, drive, shoot, walk, attend this, that or the other entertainment in search of what—contentment, comfort, pleasure, enjoyment.

Do they get it?

Apparently, yes. In reality, no. Follow them from the club to their own apartment. A valet undresses him and puts him into bed and leaves him. There he is alone. He goes to sleep, perchance to dream, of what? What has he done the livelong day to make himself happy? He has had enough to eat and to drink and to wear. He has done nothing for his kind, has thought of no benevolence, no humanitarian idea has crossed his brain, he has simply hugged himself, he has added another day to the delusive experience that he is popular because his name is properly spelled in newspapers as an attendant at a ball or a concert or an entertainment of some nature, and he snores as any pig snores, through the long watches of the night, and wakes to repeat the experience the following day.—Joe Howard's Letter.

Quite Willing to Oblige.

"Oh, Tom!" sobbed his wife, "you're intoxicated again. Why will you drink such vile stuff?"

"Well—hic—my dearsh," returned Tom, "it's—hic—the bestsh—hic—I can get. If—hic—you knowsh—hic—where they sell—hic—any better stuff—hic—I'll go there."—New York Sun.

Little Boy (lifting the cover of the basket with conscious pride)—Ashamed? Look at them.—Tid Bits.

Origin of Second Growth Forests.

Among the problems which have remained unsolved to the present day is the growth of a second forest upon the site once occupied by a forest which usually differed in character from the later growth. It has been supposed that the seeds from which the second forest sprang had been lying undeveloped in the ground for a great length of time, perhaps centuries, but the improbability of their retaining their vitality for such a length of time, and under the conditions to which they must have been exposed, makes the theory rather implausible, and besides, the origin of the seeds is not accounted for. A practical woodsman of Indiana supposes that the seeds from which the second forest arises are carried in great numbers and from long distances by birds and the small animals which are found in the forests, and supports his view by relating observations of incidents in which it was actually carried out on a small scale.—Globe-Democrat.

WHAT IS IT?

MARVELOUS, WONDERFUL, MYSTERIOUS, PROFOUND,

It Is One of the Great Marvels of the World

It is called "Cosmos, the Great Oracle of Human Destiny," and something remarkable, and is creating great interest among scientists at the present day. The above cut is a fac-smile of a stone excavated from the Temple of Truth (so called) in Athens Greece, in the year, 1527, and placed in the British Museum in London, Eng.

This stone has been noticed without doubt by many residents of this town who have visited the museum. It stands in the "Corridor of Wonders.

The letters appearing on the cut above are in Hieroglyphics on the original stone, but were translated some years ago by Prof. Bartlett of the Howard University, who discovered that they had a hidden meaning, and there are positive proofs that the stone is thousands of years old, and formed part of the belief of the Chaldeans of Persia who were great astrologists, and from which our present knowledge of astronomy is mostly derived.

This wonderful combination of letters arranged in circles around the solar system will, in connection with the key covered by Prof. Bartlett to read it by astonish and amaze you with the phenominal accuracy with which it answers questions that anyone may ask in regard to Business Enterprises, Love, Money matters, Destiny, and what every young lady and gentlemen who reads this advertisement is just dying to know about Love and Marriage. It is bound to create a sensation outside of the serious import which the replies of "Cosmos" gives. There is lots of fun and amusement in it, for the home circles, and as a parlor game, it will produce what we will call original fun in abundance. Everybody should have one.

We have been to large expense to obtain the copper plate to print copies of the letters on the wonderful stone for distribution, and although copies of Cosmos on handsome placques are being sold in the large cities for $1.00 each, we purpose as a novel way of advertising and as is our custom when we have anything good and interesting to do it in a liberal way, and to give the entire populace an opportunity to secure one. We shall give one copy with the directions to read it by free to each purchaser of any article in our store for the next 60 days, after which they will not be given free. No doubt thousands of people will avail themselves of this opportunity, but we have enough to supply the demand. Obtain a "Cosmos" and send one to your friends out of town and it will please them as much as though they had found a $10.00 bill. Ask for "Cosmos" at the store of Exhibition Notes.

The first entries for the Peterborough Central were received on Wednesday, when some 24 or 25 entries were made.

Secretary Collins had made arrangements with the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways to carry visitors to Peterborough during the time of the fair at a fare-and-third. On the 26th return tickets will be issued, at single fare, good to return next day.

Mr. Hill posted Kingston and Belleville yesterday, and went to Lindsay this morning.

Everything Cut Below Cost.

Watch for the opening of the bankrupt sale at McNeil's old stand, No. 382 George-st. The stock has been bought by Mr. W. Reeves, of Kingston, who has only a few days in which to clear it out. If you value bargains look around. Stylish suitings to be sold at below cost. Gent's furnishings at less than the goods can be bought for wholesale. Bona-fide clearing out. Necessity compels the sale and it must be promptly done. There will be a rush to buy as the chance is a good one. Come around on the opening day, Thursday, and take your choice at almost your own prices. 3d32.

Toronto Wheelmen Coming

The Toronto Empire says:—"Arrangements for the Peterborough, Rice Lake, etc., tour are progressing most favourably. Upon the arrival of the party at Peterborough they will be met by members of the club there and will be entertained by them. Arrangements have been made to make the Oriental hotel the headquarters during their stay there. At Rice Lake a steamer will be secured to take the riders for a sail on the lake. There has also been secured at Port Hope a reduced rate at the St. Lawrence Hall. Whitby has its Civic holiday Monday, the 13th, and the boys will have quite a time there. New names are being added to the list daily." The Wanderers are expected here on Saturday evening. They may stay till Monday, and an effort will be made for them to take a trip up the back lakes.

Lacrosse.

A practice match was played in the P.A.A.A. grounds on Wednesday night by the Y.M.C.A. and Shamrock lacrosse clubs, and the Shamrock's won by two goals to none. The teams were composed as follows:—

SHAMROCK.		Y.M.C.A.
J. J. Murray	Goal	E. Manning
J. McCabe	Point	F. Metheral
H. Meagher	Cover Point	R.H. Henderson
J. McDonough	Defence Field	T. Carter
M. Curran	" "	J. Gillespie
J. B. Corcoran	Centre Field	A Mooney
D. Kearns	Home Field	D. Davidson
A. Lipsett	" "	E. Pearson
J. McNamara	" "	F. Rubidge
A. Mitchell	Outside Home	G. Armstrong
W. McNamara	Inside Home	Hendricks
J. Begley	Field Captain	F. Fakenham
R. Begley	Umpire	J. Canning

Referee—J. Phelan.

The playing was lively from the commencement. The sides appeared to be pretty evenly balanced, and the struggle was an interesting and exciting one, but towards the close the Shamrocks got the advantage. After about twenty-five minutes play the Shamrocks scored a goal, and in about two minutes after play was begun again they won the second game, when darkness ended the match.

Drill and Calisthenics.

As will be seen from a card in another column, Sergt-Major Rundle will open private classes at the drill shed in the beginning of next month for instructions and exercises in drill and calisthenics. This will give an excellent opportunity for training in these health giving exercises. Mr. Rundle has also been engaged to give instructions in drill to the pupils of Mr. Duff's school.

A Large Funeral.

The funeral of the late Charles Doebler ook place at Port Hope on Wednesday afternoon, and was one of the largest ever seen in the town. All the places of business were closed while the cortege passed. Deceased was very prominent in Masonic circles, and a large number of the brethren of the mystic tie from all the neighboring places were present to pay tribute to the memory of their deceased brother. The Masons from Peterborough who attended were: Bros. H. Rush, W. Paterson, C. Cameron, Adam Dawson and J. J. Turner.

The Seabright.

To-morrow the Peterborough cricket club will try conclusions with the celebrated Seabright club of New York. The Seabrights are excellent cricketers who are now making a town of Canada and playing with the leading clubs. The Peterborough cricketers showed considerable commendable enterprise in securing them for a day in Peterborough, and a very fine exhibition of the good old game may be expected. In the evening the visitors will be entertained at the banquet, which will be held in the parlor roller rink and for which the tickets have been placed at $1.50. An excellent day's sport will thus be concluded by a pleasant social gathering.

Another Contract.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"We learn from Reeve Owen that Mr. Law, of Peterborough, has the contract for putting ew needle beams in the bridge in Campbellford. There will be sixteen of them and they will extend beyond the bridge on either side, under the sidewalk on the north and the same distance on the south, sufficient for the laying of a new sidewalk which is to be built there. The work will cost $800. Mr. Law will be here to do his work next month, and when it is completed the planks will be laid. Mr. Owen has been successful in his endeavor to secure the greater safety of the bridge and another sidewalk, and he deserves the public thanks for the convenience it will prove to our citizens."

The Bridges.

A meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee of the Town Council was called for seven o'clock on Wednesday evening. At the appointed hour, Chairman Langford and Inspector Pope were the only persons on hand. Afterwards Councillor Douglas turned up and the three journeyed to see the King-st. bridge. They were afterwards joined by Councillors Cahill and Yelland and thus there was a quorum present. The woodwork of the King-st. bridge has been finished and after some filling in is done it will be open for traffic. This bridge is built on the cantilever plan, and is the first of the kind ever erected in Peterborough. It is sixty-four feet wide, the full width of the street and the span over the creek is thirty-feet, amply sufficient to allow the water in the creek to run down, even when it is at its greatest height. The structure is remarkably strong and solid and it is expected that it will last for fully twenty or more years. The cost will be small when compared with the figures asked by contractors and it has been found that it pays the town well to do such jobs by day work under competent foremen. The Charlotte-st. bridge will next receive attention and work will be commenced as soon as possible. This bridge will be built on the same principle as the one at King-st. and will also be the full width of the street with a thirty foot span over the creek. The bridge at Brock and Aylmer-sts. is rapidly falling in and something must be done there speedily. The time for receiving tenders for the masonry, for it will have stone abutment instead of cedar like the others, expires on Monday next and the committee after discussing other minor matters adjourned to meet on the evening of that day.

Good for Two Days.

SUNDAY BUYING.

A Peculiar Case Disposed Of by Police Magistrate Edmison.

Mr. Geo. Edmison, County Police Magistrate, who is acting at the local temple of justice during the absence of Mr. D. W. Dumble, had a peculiar case before him this morning, the first of the kind ever tried in Peterborough.

A. Haskill was charged by Charles Legros, with purchasing cigars on Sunday last, contrary to the statute in that behalf.

The information was laid under the following clause, Chap. 203, Sec. 1, of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, page 2233:—

"It is not lawful for any merchant, tradesman, artificer, mechanic, workman, laborer, or other person whatsoever, on the Lord's Day, to sell, or publicly show forth, or expose, or offer for sale, or to purchase any goods, chattels, or other personal property, or any real estate whatsoever, or to do or to exercise any worldly labor, business or work of his ordinary calling, (conveying travellers or Her Majesty's mail, by land or by water, selling drugs and medicines, and other works of necessity and works of charity only excepted), R. S. O. 1877 c. 182 s. 1."

The defendant said that on the evening of the day in question he purchased and paid for seven cigars at the plaintiff's place of business. He knew that the plaintiff was selling on Sunday and he spoke to the chief constable about the matter. The Chief told him that if he handed in the names of some good witnesses, a prosecution would follow. His object was to secure a conviction when he purchased the cigars, and he handed the names of witnesses to the Chief, who secured a conviction against Legros for Sunday trading.

The P. M. asked defendant if, in purchasing the cigars, he did so under instructions from the Chief?

The Chief said no, and told the story as related by defendant.

The defendant said he was a barber employed in an opposition shop, and he felt bound to put a stop to Sunday business if he could. He had no idea he was breaking the law when he purchased the cigars.

The Magistrate said that there appeared to be a vein of spite under the whole transaction, but he was compelled to impose a fine. Under the circumstances he would make the fine $1, the lowest the law allowed, without costs, one half to be paid to the informant.

The penalties under the act run from $1 to $40 and costs, and among the other things prohibited are fishing, bathing and steamboating for pleasure, in addition to throwing dice and all kinds of games and sports.

Assaulted a Constable.

A man named Robert Ferguson, said to be from Peterborough, has been arrested at Orillia and committed for trial on a charge of having assaulted a constable.

New Sidewalks.

New sidewalks are to be laid down on the south side of King-st. from the bridge, west to Aylmer-st., and on Water-st. east, from Charlotte-st. to the new buildings near Denne's old mill.

Broken Into.

On Wednesday night some persons broke into Mr. McCabe's box factory and also into the Canada Lumberman office. Beyond a disturbance of articles in the factory and office, no harm was apparently done, as nothing has been missed.

Went Out.

About half past eight o'clock last night, the electric lights on the streets all suddenly went out, leaving the centre of the town in almost perfect darkness. The shut off was purely accidental, and in a short space of time they blazed out once more, greatly to the relief of pedestrians.

No More Trouble.

Mr. Peter Hamilton has dug a canal from the King-st. bridge south, for the purpose of carrying the water down the creek instead of running over on his property. When the channel is cleaned out as it is proposed to do, there will not be any more trouble from the creek in the spring.

No Shoot.

This was the regular day for the weekly practice of the members of the Rifle Association, and it was intended to finish the shooting at the ranges left unfinished last Thursday. Owing, however, to the fact that the fence builders on the Chemong Lake railroad are at work close to the targets, no match took place.

Cheap Cashmere.

Ladies who wish to buy Cashmere will be well pleased when they see the quality of all wool Cashmeres, yard wide, that are being sold for 20c. per yard at Dawson Bro's old stand, Hunter-st. Also some extra good values in Black. All other Dress Goods at half price until we remove to Griffin's stand, George-st., Sept. 1st. tfd33

Camping Notes.

Mr. T. W. Robinson, and Mr. E. S. Piper (Toronto) went to Stoney Lake this morning. Their families will follow later. Mrs. W. Bradburn, Misses Joe. Bradburn, Kirly, White and Russell (Pembroke) went to join Mr. W. A. Sanderson's camping party. Messrs. T. and R. Fitzgerald went up to Burleigh to enjoy a few days fishing. If they have their usual luck the fish will not enjoy their visit.

Fell In.

On Wednesday afternoon a small boy, aged about four or five years, while playing playing around the creek near the King-st. bridge, fell in. The water was quite low, but the youngster fell on his face and was unable to extricate himself. One of the workmen pulled the boy out and he soon recovered his breath and started for home.

Rain and Wind.

A gentleman who was down on the plains of Rice Lake on Wednesday afternoon, states that the wind in that part of the country was very strong, blowing a perfect gale in fact. Apples and other fruit were blown from the trees in large quantities and standing grain and other crops were flattened to the ground. Rain also poured down heavily for some time, thoroughly soaking the ground. Evidently Peterborough only got the tail end of the storm.

THE CROPS.

Another Instalment of Reports from the Townships.

SMITH.

SELWYN, Aug. 1

Fall wheat, full average. Spring wheat, average yield. Barley, below the average. Oats, below the average. Peas, very poor. Rye, fair. Hay, light crop. Potatoes, very poor. Other roots, middling. Fruit, scarce. If it had not been for some light showers about the 23rd of July there would have been little or no spring crop.

DOURO.

INDIAN RIVER, Aug. 1.

Fall wheat, good, 25 to 30 bushels to the acre; some winter killed. Spring wheat, ahead of last year; about 14 to the acre. Barley, about 20, fair average. Oats, light, as good, or better, than last year. Peas, not a good crop; an improvement on last season. Hay, one-third less than last year; ½ ton to the acre. Potatoes, about the same as last year; small crop. Other roots, rather poor. Fruit, not very good. Taking everything with the exception of hay, the crops are better than last year. Never had but one better crop in 20 years. Land wants to be clean, rich and put in early.

OTONABEE.

GRAYSTOCK, July 30.

Fall wheat, good crop and will yield well. Spring wheat, a very fair crop and will be about an average yield. Barley is short in the straw, but is pretty well headed. Oats will be an average crop. Peas is a very good crop and the yield will be good. Rye, very good and will yield well. Hay is a very light crop and will be below the average. Potatoes are rather small, and the prospects for a large yield are not very good. Other roots are not very good, as the summer has been too dry. Fruit, not very good. There was a little wheat winter-killed. The few showers we have had lately have helped the late crops considerable.

ASPHODEL.

WESTWOOD, July, 31st.

Fall wheat, summer fallow good, where not winter killed, pea stubble fair, only thin on ground. Spring wheat around this place is a very fair crop. Barley, pretty well headed, only very short. Oats, a very good crop; ripening a little fast. Peas, not much of a crop. Rye very good. Hay is a very short crop. Potatoes, pretty good around here. Other roots—turnips are a failure. Fruit—Apples will be a scant crop. No plums.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

BENSFORT, July 31st.

Fall wheat, a good average, 25 bushels to the acre. Spring wheat, not much sown in this vicinity; crop medium. Barley, crop very good but rather short in straw, about 20 bushels. Oats, well headed, but very short in straw. Peas, good crop of straw, but very light yield. Rye, not much sown. Hay, short and light; very much below the average. Potatoes are offering well; the prospect is very good. Other roots—Carrots are doing well, other kinds affected by drouth. Fruit—Apples and pears are offering well; other kinds a failure. Crop of all kinds have been seriously affected by the long continued drouth. The late rains, however, will help the late fruits, potatoes and root crops.

HARVEY.

LAKEHURST, July 30th.

Fall wheat, good. Spring wheat, light crop, about 5 to 8 bushels per acre. Barley, light. Oats, light. Peas, a total failure. Rye, middling. Hay, light. Potatoes, propects bad. Other roots, middling. Fruit, small. Grass burnt up.

Brevities.

—Old fishermen report that they never knew the fishing to be so good as it is this year.

—The river is clear of logs and the steamers find no difficulty in going up or down.

—The celebrated Seabright team of cricketers play on the P.A.A.A. grounds tomorrow.

—Repairers are going the rounds patching up the sidewalks where such is necessary.

—The regular weekly shoot of the gun club will take place at the Riverside Park to-morrow evening.

—The Horticultural Park, thanks to the recent rains, now looks better than it has at any previous time this season.

—Judging by the number of young men who are learning to ride wheels, the town will soon be flooded with cyclists.

—The stop logs at the locks have been taken up, which fact accounts in a great measure for the low water in the river.

—The one candidate who tried here for a first-class "C" teacher's certificate, failed to pass.

—The owners of property along the river bank south of Charlotte-st. want a channel dredged to get rid of the prevailing stench from the sewers, etc.

—The chief constable to-day received a postal order for a small amount from Farley's father, in Philadelphia, to hand to his son, who is held in gaol here on a charge of murder.

—Persons who have recently seen Farley report that he is greatly downcast and awaits with great anxiety the result of his trial for murder.

—Just before daylight this morning loud cries of "help" and "murder" were heard near the post office. The cause of them, or who they emanated from, is not known, and the police state is silent regarding the matter.

—The P. M. this morning instructed the police to keep a sharp lookout, and prosecute all who buy or sell goods on Sunday. Heretofore it has not been regarded as a crime to buy or sell cigars on the Lord's Day, but recent developments show that it is a punishable offence.

—Some of the dupes who lost money by the thimbleriggers, etc., while Freeman & Miller's circus was here, followed the show to Lindsay with a view of getting their boodle back, but they might as well have saved themselves the trouble and expense, as they returned empty handed.

—Every windy day flying paper is to be seen on the streets in large quantities. A couple of times a week the refuse was gathered up in a wheelbarrow and carried away, but for every piece picked up two apparently take its place. Just where it all comes from is a mystery to the police and the public, but the sweepings from stores and the billboards doubtless account for the greater portion of it.

For removing dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded and gray hair to its original color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives a beautiful, glossy and silken appearance.

Gospel Temperance Meetings.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of Monday last (6th) I see report of meeting on the market square on Sunday, 5th, conducted by Mr. Rossiter and myself. Said report seems to me to give the idea that the greatest part of the crowd collected were hooting and hissing and in reality there were only three tavern or hotelkeepers, some four or five bar tenders, two or three boys that could not stand erect, who appeared to have been primed for the occasion. I admit there was a hideous noise; some ten or twelve men and boys inflamed with whiskey can make a fearful noise, but the far greater part of the congregation were very attentive and I believe quite disgusted with the few. Where your reporter states Mr. Holland kneld down and preyed, it was said he trembles. Why not give a full account and say Mr. Cavanagh commenced to handle him rather roughly. But allow me to say I did not tremble, but never felt more composed and resigned to God's will. It has been communicated to me that the whiskey party are going to pelt us with rotten eggs if we go on the market square again. Well I don't mind rotten eggs or a few bruises if I can only save some of the young men that are being led away by this great evil. But when I remember that a man was shot on the market square on a Sunday a short time ago by another under the influence of drink and remember, too, that the Lord Jesus tells me not to cast pearls before swine lest they trample them under their feet and rend me, and as I have no particular wish to get shot or rent in pieces, I shall refrain from attending any gospel temperance meetings at present. Praying that God may have mercy on all supporters of whiskey. I had not the slightest idea until Sunday that whiskey and rowdyism had such a sway in Peterborough. I have many times held gospel temperance meetings in England both Saturday evenings and Sundays and was always treated with respect; have had 38 sign the pledge at one meeting. I have not seen Mr. Rossiter so I cannot tell what course he will take.

Yours truly,
R. HOLLAND.

From Bowmanville.

An excursion party from Bowmanville and other neighboring places under the auspices of the Young People's Association of the Bowmanville Methodist church, arrived in town, per the Grand Trunk, shortly after noon to-day. They numbered between 400 and 500, and occupied half a dozen coaches. The majority of the visitors left the train at the depot, while those who remained were taken up to the Smith' st. crossing, where they disembarked and proceeded to Inverlea Park, where they picnicked. The afternoon was spent in visiting the many points of interest in and around the town. The trains leaves at 6.30 o'clock this evening.

YOUNG'S POINT.

Correspondence of the Review.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. Joseph Young, of Detroit, Michigan, is here on a visit, the guest of Mr. W. J. Young....Mrs. James Young and three children, of Chicago, Ill., are on a visit to Mr. John Young.

APPOINTMENT.—The citizens of Young's Point and vicinity are pleased to learn that Mr. P. P. Young has been appointed slidemaster at this place. Mr. Young is eminently qualified for the position and will fill it capably, especially as it is connected closely with his other business.

OUR PEOPLE ABROAD.—The Amherstburg Echo says:—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Lee and daughter are visiting relatives and friends in this town. Mr. Lee returned east on Tuesday, but Mrs. Lee will remain for some time longer.

THE MILLS.—Both the shingle and saw mills are running in full blast with a full complement of hands.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood. No other preparation so well meets this want. It increases the appetite and rejuvenates the whole system. Its record, for forty years, is one of constant triumph over disease.

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

AN INCORRECT RUMOR.—Rumor says the fire in Messrs. Graham & Son's yard was started by boiling coal tar, which is incorrect, as there has not been any coal tar about the place for years. The cause is not known.

ALL ENGAGED.—All the steamers plying between Lakefield and Stoney Lake are engaged for Aug. 16th, Peterborough's Civic Holiday. We expect a large excursion from Peterborough on that date, all bound for the favorite resort, Stoney Lake.

THE VILLAGE COUNCIL.—Regular meeting of the city fathers on Monday night next; school board Tuesday night.

THE BAND.—Rumor says that Bandmaster Geo. Scrimager has resigned his position in the band. We shall all regret the loss of Mr. Scrimager, but hope that dame rumor is incorrect again, and that our popular bandmaster will remain for many years in the position he so ably has filled.

PERSONAL.—Mr. and Mrs. Nelity have returned from their trip, looking much better for their holiday....Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre and son Wallace, of Belleville, are the guests of Mrs. Wallace....Mr. J. V. Cox has gone to Rochester, where he has obtained a good position in a drug store with a good salary attached....Mr. Hay and two daughters, of Pennsylvania, with Mr. and Mrs. Emerson, of Mariposa, are the guests of Mrs. Peter Baptie....Mrs. Doctor Hodge, of Mitchell, is the guest of Miss Ray.

MARRIED.

BROWN—COOK.—At the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. Alex. Hell, on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 8th, 1888, MR. DAVID W. BROWN to MISS MELISSIA COOK, eldest daughter of the late John Cook, all of Peterborough.

THE LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET.

Lord Salisbury Speaks on Irish and Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The ministers were banquetted by the Lord Mayor this evening. Replying to the usual toast Lord Salisbury said that the great curse of Ireland was poverty. The Government was not able to diminish poverty or to enrich men, but it could enable men without interference to enrich themselves. The Government had been successful in lessening the tyranny which an association exercised over the Irish people and had increased the sanctity of contracts. If the Government of Ireland, he declared, were administered with the same judgment and firmness as now for a few years longer the liberty and prosperity of the country would be restored.

In Egypt, Lord Salisbury said, the expectation of the Government had been exceeded. When Egypt should be able to deal with her foes without help Great Britain would gladly leave that country absolutely. As to Bulgaria he hoped that the statesmen of the continent were being convinced that it would be best to leave her to herself. He believed that the Emperor of Germany appreciated the value of peace, especially to Germany. Nothing, he believed, was more desirable for the peace of the world than that the policy of Russia should become more parallel with the policy of Great Britain. All that had occurred in Europe recently had been in the direction of peace and England's efforts were always in the same direction.

The Parnell Commission Bill.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The bill providing for a commission to examine into the charges made by The Times against Mr. Parnell and other members of Parliament, passed its third reading in the House of Commons this afternoon by a vote of 180 to 164.

WILLIAM AND HIS MOTHER.

Labouchere Says the Relations Between Them are More than Strained.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The projected marriage between Princess Victoria of Prussia and Prince Alexander of Battenberg is far from being off and will certainly take place within the next year. As to the plans of Empress Victoria, she is obliged to live for a certain number of months in the year in Prussia and I hear that she will probably fix her summer residence on the Rhine, either at the Castle of Stalsenfels, near Coblentz, or at the Schloss Rheinstein, opposite Assmannshauser. The Empress is negotiating for the purchase of the Villa Firco at San Remo.

The relations between Emperor William and his mother are a good deal more than strained. Nothing but the influence of Prince Bismarck has prevented the Emperor from summoning the Hohenzollern family counsel for the purpose of formally declaring that the late Emperor's will and settlements are invalid, as his state of health should have disqualified him from ascending the throne last March. This step may yet be taken unless the Empress Victoria gives up the papers which were sent to England with the Queen and which are now understood to be deposited at Windsor. The result would be that while the public acts of Emperor Frederick would be unaffected, Emperor William would be placed in precisely the same position, so far as money goes, as if he had succeeded his grandfather, and his mother, Empress Victoria, would be reduced to the very moderate pittance of a dowager Crown Princess and her younger children would have their allowances greatly cut down.

I hear from a friend who has been staying at Copenhagen that the German Emperor was very coldly received there. Great crowds were in the streets, but there was no cheering and in some places vigorous hisses were heard. Only the public buildings were decorated and the residences of officials.

Zola's new novel, entitled "Le Rene," will be published in October. It is announced as a work so unexceptionable in moral tone that it can safely be placed in the hands of the most modest young girls and the most pure-minded women.

Great Depth of the Saguenay.

The river is probably the deepest stream in the world; excepting in a few places the general depth is from 600 to 900 feet; and the bottom of the Saguenay at its mouth is 600 feet below the bottom of the St. Lawrence. Thus a low point of rock at the shore or an island is really the top of a great hill, springing up steeply from the bottom; and many of the cliffs are not half oft of water. As the spring tides rise about eighteen feet, the currents of the river are violent and eccentric; in some places the ebb stream runs from four to six miles an hour; the eddies along the shore are like those on a rapid; and the undercurrents sometimes lay hold of a vessel and turn her about or hold her still in spite of a tow boat.

Before the use of tow boats, a vessel left helpless by a calm sometimes drifted against the rocks, lodged on a ledge, and when the tide fell capsized in deep water. As anchorage is very rarely found, large iron rings were let into the rocks, and vessels even now sometimes tie up to the cliffs and await a fair wind. The tide, for some unexplained reason, advances with extraordinary rapidity in the Saguenay; thus, notwithstanding the fact that the ebb current very rarely ceases to flow out of the river, yet high tide arrives at Chicoutimi only forty-five minutes later than at Tadousac—seventy miles. On the St. Lawrence the tide advances in the same time only from Tadousac to Murray Bay—about thirty-five miles.—C. H. Farnham in Harper's.

PRESIDENT.....A. G. RAMSAY, F. I. A.

CAPITAL AND FUNDS OVER	$9,000,000
ANNUAL INCOME OVER	$1,600,000

The continued steady increase of the Company's business NOW EXCEEDING THE AGGREGATE OF ALL THE OTHER CANADIAN COMPANIES, and being more than a fourth of the entire Life Assurance business of the Dominion, its favorable mortality; its moderate expenses, and the high character of its investments, afford good grounds for highly favorable and satisfactory profits to its assurers and EXPLAINS THE CAUSE OF THE UNPARALLELED SUCCESS OF THE COMPANY FOR THE LAST 41 years.

Intending Assurers should, in their own interests, examine the rates and profits of this OLD RELIABLE and Successful Institution, before insuring elsewhere.

BANKERS.—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce
SOLICITORS.—Dumble & Leonard.

TO DEPOSITORS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.

TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223.69, and on securities of at least double that value.

By the Laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS.—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate Security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest. The Mortgage may be paid by yearly instalments or otherwise, as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amount paid on account of the sum borrowed. Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or any of the Agents.

Head Office, George Street, Peterborough, Adjoining Bank of Commerce.

TURNBULL'S.

We have made extensive preparations in our Tailoring department for an Immense Fall Trade, and judging from the success of our Spring Trade and the way our numerous customers have been bringing in their friends to have a suit made by Mr. Wier, our Tailor, who is well and favorably known in Peterborough for a neat and perfect fit, we feel confident we will do it. Our Fall purchases of Canadian Tweeds have already arrived, which is much earlier than usual. They are exceptionally good value and are sure to please our customers. The styles of pattern are varied, comprising brown and grey mixed, diagonal twills, the old pepper and salt and pin head checks, neat, solid and broken checks; loud stripes are largely shown, but we don't shink they will become very popular. Our Scotch and Irish Tweeds, English Pilot Cloths and Beaver Overcoatings, we are expecting an invoice of daily. These Goods we have imported direct to insure our customers getting the best value and the genuine article, for in these days of imitation we want to be able to positively state that the goods are as represented.

During the past season we purchased small lots of Boys' and Youths' Clothing of each of the manufacturers besides our regular lines and carefully compared them as to style, quality of goods, the way they are cut to fit the neck, the length of sleeves and the proportion of pants to coat and vest and have placed large orders for the best makes in a variety of styles.

As we cannot keep this notice always before you, all would do well to remember that at Turnbull's you can get a first-class suit made to order, a ready-made suit for a youth or boy, a ready-made overcoat for a man or boy guaranteed at a price that is often paid for a very inferior article that does not wear three months.

THE FISHERIES DEBATE.

CONCLUSION OF MR. EVARTS' ADDRESS ON THE TREATY.

Other Speeches—President Cleveland Characterized by Mr. Blair as Recalcitrant, Pigheaded and Obstinate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Evarts (Rep., N.Y.) resumed his argument against the Fisheries Treaty. The position which should be taken by the United States was, he said, to insist that the United States had always rejected the headland theory and did not tolerate the claim of right on the part of Great Britain to make a bay by calling it a bay and to shut out of it American fishermen, and then there might be or there might not be an opportunity to find out what Great Britain meant. That would not mean war or fear of war

In conclusion he said that he would prepare a comment upon the terms of the treaty itself, and he hoped not an unfair one, but he would forbear to proceed with it at present.

The discussion then turning on President Grant's message to the Senate, with a proposed treaty on the same, was taken up by Mr. Morgan (Dem. Ala.) who declared that the President had on that occasion given counsel in favor of a true and wise policy and now spoke from the grave better than any senator had done in this discussion.

Mr. Frye (Rep., Me.) resented the manner in which the payment of duties on preserved fish is evaded; that is by having the fish frozen solid and introduced duty free as "fresh fish for immediate consumption," while in fact such frozen fish could be kept for months.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) said that the object of destroying the treaty at once was nothing more nor less than political and was connected with the presidential election. One of the senators from Massachusetts had pronounced him (Morgan) a silly man because he had alluded to the fact that war might grow out of the question. He might be silly, but he had seen enough of war to be afraid of it, perhaps the senator from Massachusetts had not.

Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) disclaimed having spoken of the senator from Alabama as silly. What he had said was that if he had not so much respect for that senator he should pronounce the suggestion that war with England might grow out of insisting on the rights of American fishermen as supremely silly.

Mr. Morgan said that the Democratic party had in it the backbone of Andrew Jackson, that it was not going to make a foolish quarrel, but that if the quarrel came it would stand by the country right or wrong. When the negotiations should fail, then the Democratic party meant as the President meant, that the Retaliation Act—which then and not before would become mandatory—would be obeyed, and yet, when it was expected that the law was to be obeyed there came a howl from the Fishery Association because the President would not pledge himself in advance to limit the retaliation to the fishery business.

Mr. Blair (Rep., N. H.,) whose resolution had been alluded to by Mr. Morgan, declared sarcastically that if there was to be no war with England or Canada until the discussion on the treaty ended war would be postponed until the destruction of the world by fire or till a deluge came again. He supposed that the object of the senator from Alabama in talking war was for effect in the political campaign at home. He did not know of any Republican who talked about war as a result of the rejection of the treaty. The resources of diplomacy are all open and had not yet been exhausted. A recalcitrant, obstinate and pigheaded executive was not going to take the responsibility of inflicting on the American people needless injury, mercantile distress and the destruction of business unnecessarily and simply because he had the power. When it was intimated to the Senate that the President was going further and would destroy the industrial fabric of the United States simply because he and his party were in a fret, it appeared to him (Blair) that the whole party might as well be banished from the country as being too ignorant, too foolish or too unpatriotic to exist properly under the protection of American laws.

Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.) criticised Mr. Morgan's position and that of the Democratic party on the treaty as being in the interest of free trade. There was no demand in any American quarter for free fish. It was only within the last year that a American administration was to be found that was willing to trample American interests under its feet and to make long homilies and have its friends in the Senate make long speeches in favor of "our enemies the British people." He congratulated the country on having seen in this debate what the animus of the Senator from Alabama was.

Mr. Morgan said that the senator from New Hampshire had spoken of President Cleveland as pigheaded and was not a fool. He had been wise enough to beat the Republican party every time he came in contact with it and he was going to do it again so easily that Republicans would not know how it happened.

Mr. Blair said he had used an unfortunate adjective, "pigheaded," in reference to the President's anticipated conduct as foretold and proclaimed by the senator from Alabama. He had no wish to qualify the expression. He did not want to interfere with the senator's adoration. That senator was at liberty to worship any fetish he chose and would naturally select such a god.

After some further interchange of like compliments between the two senators the day's discussion came to a close.

THE TROUBLE IN PARIS.

IS FRANCE ON THE EVE OF ANOTHER REVOLUTION.

The Gigantic Demonstration at the Funeral of the Late General Eudes—Comments of the Paris Press.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—All the elements of the social revolution, like the combustibles in a powder magazine, were in movement in Paris at Gen. Eudes' funeral and in the socialist centers—Lyons, Lille and Amiens. Fifty thousand men, under the guidance of professional revolutionists, and accompanied by fireating youngsters, paraded the streets singing, dancing, and making things lively. All the fashionable quarters were utterly deserted. The windows in the Faubourg St. Germain, the Champs Elysee and the Boulevard Malesherbes were closed with shutters. Hundreds of thousands of Parisians assembled in honor of the late Gen. Eudes, whose motto was "Ni Dieu, ni Maitre," and who declared almost with his dying breath: "Si Dieu existait je le ferais coller au mur."

Copies of L'Honne Libre, Eudes' newspaper, were scattered broadcast by the hundred thousand throughout Paris, sounding the trumpet note of the revolution. In great black letters printed around Eudes portrait, it thus invited people to the funeral. The central committee of the revolution, the former members of the commune, the editors of L'Honne Libre and the family and friends of the citizen, Emile Eudes, invited the entire population of Paris to come to his funeral:

"We, the undersigned, old members of the commune and of the central revolutionary committee, appeal to all the men who fought in 1871 to accompany the remains of Citizen Eudes, who died while speaking for the cause of the commune and the revolution. All societies throughout France should unite with the workmen now on strike. Let all the poverty-stricken proletarians, all the pariahs of society, all those who wish the true republic of the people, join us in a supreme effort to end their misery."

Royalist papers like the Figaro and the Gaulois say: "This time we are surely on the eve of a social convulsion. Paris ne s'amuse plus, la revolution n'est pas loin."

The Figaro calls upon the Government to overwhelm the strikers with masses of troops, seize the gredins and imbeciles, agitators, and in 48 hours put an end to a plaisantrie that positively dishonors Paris and lowers the Floquet ministry au des sous de rien.

The Republicans and Radicals and even revolutionary papers like L'Intransigeant and La Lanterne accuses the Royalists of conjuring up a phantom of revolution to inspire a general panic and serve their own ends.

Rochefort says: "If the police do not provoke us, all will be quiet; but if M. Floquet wants to excite the workmen and have his petite journe and afterward telegraph all over France saying that he has 'sauve la societe,' why, then there will of course, be trouble."

M. Clemenceau publishes in Justice a note calling upon all good citizens to remember that disorder can only serve the aims of the enemies of the republic.

Commenting on the day's doings, Charles Laurent, editor of Paris, writes: "The Royalists, Bonapartists and Boulangists, three heads wearing the same cap or crown, may now take back the uncalled-for prize they would have been so happy to bestow on the cabinet. The expected grand field day so confidently discounted at Sheen house, Brussels, and in the Rue Dumont d'Urville, leaves the republic as steady as ever, as determined to defend itself against its real enemies on the right, and as able to make itself respected by the instigators of violence, whoever they may be."

The firmness of the authorities has told, and orderly citizens, who form the great majority of Paris, are warmly congratulating the government on its victory.

The Labor Exchange Closed.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Another meeting of the Cabinet was held yesterday. M. Floquet informed the members that the Labor Exchange had long been used for purposes other than those for which it was instituted. It had therefore been closed by the Government. The approaches to the exchange are guarded by police. The strikers attempted to assemble at the exchange yesterday but were dispersed.

A NAVAL BATTLE.

The Guard Steamer Samaria Captured by a British Cruiser.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 10.—The British squadron off Bantry Bay and Queenstown harbor is causing much excitement. The fast cruiser Sandfly, 5255 tons burden and 300 horse power, belonging to the British squadron, which escaped from Bantry Bay to this harbor, proceeded to sea and, after capturing two steamers, sighted the Cunarder Samaria from Boston with 107 passengers on board, about four miles southwest of the harbor. Immediately the Sandfly dashed at full speed after the liner, steaming at the rate of twenty-one miles an hour. Attacking the liner she fired at her repeatedly and at length succeeded in capturing the steamship after a hard engagement, causing great excitement among the passengers of the liner, who knew nothing of the naval mobilization.

The Allan liner Caspian, from Liverpool, en route to St. John's with 200 passengers, was also captured off the port, after which the Sandfly returned into harbor, and is now making preparations for the capture of the Brittanic and Nevada, both due off the coast from New York.

Thinks the Dice are Loaded.

DUBLIN, Aug. 10.—United Ireland says the Parnell Commission Bill is the greatest fraud ever fashioned. The Parnellites did not reject it because their action would have been misinterpreted and did not accept it because it is a fraud and the tribunal will be packed. The Parnellites, however, will pass the ordeal earnestly and in good faith. Though the dice are loaded they feel that the game is theirs.

In the Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Parnell Commission Bill passed the first reading in the House of Lords to-night.

In the House of Commons the Oaths Bill passed its third reading, 147 to 60.

A Brakeman Injured at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 10.—As a freight train from the East was entering the station yard about midnight last night, Brakeman Thomas McDermott fell between the cars, but saved his life by hanging to the break-beam. One of his feet was so badly injured that it had to be amputated at the ankle. The injured man lives in Brockville.

THEY WILL FIGHT.

The Hamilton and Milton Road Co. Not Satisfied with the Engineer's Report.

HAMILTON, Aug. 10.—The solicitors for the Hamilton and Milton road company have appealed from the report of the engineer, and have given notice of arbitration as to the question of repairs required by the statute. These proceedings, they state, will leave the question of taking off the tolls to the arbitrators. They also state to-day the company will sue out a writ from the High Court of Justice to set aside, as null and void, all the proceedings of the engineer. They also state that the company will bring actions against all persons who may refuse to pay toll.

A. Marentette, who has been assistant weights and measures inspector for the counties of Essex, Kent, Lambton and Huron, has been transferred to Hamilton, where he will be inspector of the scale factories. His salary has been increased $200.

Mr. Thomas Buckingham reported to the police last night that some man had tried to induce his little daughter to go away with him by offering to get her candies. It is probable that this is the same man who was trying a similar game some weeks ago.

Proceedings at the Session of the Grand Lodge at Barrie Yesterday.

BARRIE, Aug. 9.—The Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows met again this morning at 9 a.m. and continued in session until nearly 7 p.m.

Grand Master Reid and Grand Secretary J. B. King presented their annual reports. The latter's showed that there are now in Ontario 215 lodges with a membership of 16,957, and the amount expended in relief during the year was over $52,000. The assets are over $591,000.

These officers were elected for the present year: Grand Master, E. R. Robinson, London; Deputy Grand Master, Dr. R. W. Bell, Peterboro; Grand Warden, John Ormston, Gananoque; Grand Secretary, J. B. King, Toronto; Grand Treasurer, Wm. Badenach, Toronto; Grand Auditor, Chas. Packer, Stratford.

STATE-AIDED EMIGRATION.

Mr. W. H. Smith Explains what the Imperial Government Will Do.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Sir Charles Tupper goes to Glasgow to-day to inspect the Canadian court in the International Exhibition, and afterwards proceeds to Skye, visiting the principal Crofter districts to ascertain how far this class of emigration, proposals concerning which are being pressed upon the Imperial Government, is likely to prove valuable to Canada.

Mr. W. H. Smith explained in the House of Commons to-night on behalf of the Government the course proposed in respect to State colonization. He said Natal was the only colony which had sent a favorable reply in respect to the scheme involving a joint Imperial and colonial guarantee of interest on money advanced by the public to the colonies. Seeing the reluctance of the other colonies the Government was unable to accede to the proposal that the Imperial Government should take immediate steps to promote emigration on the lines proposed. The Government thought it desirable to first learn how far success had attend the colonization schemes adopted in Canada and elsewhere. He intended therefore to move in the Autumn session for a select committee to enquire into the whole subject, as the matter was one of Imperial interest and concern.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The High Court of Foresters—A Priest Charged With Assault.

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—Yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the eleventh annual session of the High Court of Ontario, Independent Order of Foresters, was opened at Shaftesbury Hall. About 250 delegates attended. The High Secretary's report stated that since the last convention 41 new courts had been opened and that the total membership in Ontario was now 6,699, an increase of 1,858. The High Treasurer reported that the receipts had been $6,051.22, and subtracting the disbursements there remained a balance on hand of $1,281.61.

The Island residents propose to hold a water carnival on Aug. 25 for the benefit of the Sick Children's Hospital.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pritchard, the woman who was evicted from 912 Queen-street west, and who charges that her husband was induced to sell the property while he was in a state of intoxication, will soon be relieved from the necessity of sleeping in the open air. With the permission of Mr. Hunter of Parkdale, owner of the lot on which her goods are piled, a pine board building is being erected to shelter her until her husband, expected shortly, arrives in the city.

Forty-five plumbers arrived yesterday from the States by the Empress of India and were escorted by a number of policemen and detectives to the "boss" plumbers' headquarters. It is said that about twenty-five more came to the city by the G.T.R.

At the Police Court yesterday, Rev. Father O'Rielly, a priest stationed over the Don, was charged with having assaulted a young man named John Hopkins. Defendant pleaded not guilty, and the hearing of the charge was adjourned till Aug. 16.

Low Water in the Cornwall Canal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—Members of the Corn Exchange held a meeting at noon yesterday and passed a resolution, calling the Government's attention to the fact that two barges got stuck in the Cornwall Canal owing to there being only eight feet of water. It appears that when they entered the canal there was nine feet, but before they could get out it had lowered a foot, the water having been drawn by the mills.

Salvation Army Barracks Attacked.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—The Salvation Army barracks in the French quarter were attacked to-night by a gang of roughs who stoned the buildingr. They were driven off, however, by a posse of police, but not before Constable Reid was seriously injured.

Swindled by a Yankee.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—A horse dealer from Ontario was done by a Yankee confrere out of $100 yesterday. A bargain had been struck for $450, half of which was to be paid down. In paying the $225 the Yankee counted a $100 bill twice and immediately introduced his friend to a bystanding gentleman and left before the Ontario man had time to look at what money he held in his hand.

Two Montreal Failures.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—J. B. Raley & Co., grocers, have assigned with liabilities of $5,000. Clement & Portier, restaurant keepers, also assigned yesterday with $3000 liabilities.

Funeral of the late E. Clarke, M.P.P.

COLBORNE, Aug. 40.—The funeral of the late Richard Clarke, M.P.P. for East Northumberland, took place here yesterday afternoon at the Lakeport cemetery and was largely attended.

Laflamme v. The Mail.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—In the case of Laflamme v. The Mail, the defendant who had obtained leave of appeal to the Privy Council, has now decided to go to the Supreme Court only and D. Macmaster, Q.C., furnished yesterday the required security of about $13,000 for that purpose.

QUEBEC'S ABUNDANT CROP

FAVORABLE REPORTS TO THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Fisheries' Intelligence—The Sawdust Nuisance in the Ottawa River—Notes from the Capital.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—The Fisheries Department has received advices that the Government cruiser La Canadienne has returned to Gaspe after a trip to the Magdalen Islands and Labrador. Fishing on the North Shore is reported pretty good, the catch of cod is fair and there was a considerable run of large sized mackerel especially in the neighborhood of Bonne Esperance.

Postmaster-General Haggart has issued an address to his constituents and gone to North Lanark, where he will remain until after the election.

The Department of Agriculture has received reports from the Province of Quebec that the crops generally will be about the average. In Charlevoix and Portneuf they will be very abundant.

The council of the Dominion Rifle Association has decided to accept, for the Lansdowne Cup, the design of Hutton & Co. of Montreal. The cost will be about $100.

The contention of the Ottawa lumbermen before the sawdust committee last session that the spring freshets carried away all the sawdust in the channel of the Ottawa River is being daily knocked endways by the stubborn sawdust, which will stick in the river and refuses to be carried away by either theories or freshets. Last evening the tug Charlotte, while towing a raft of square timber, grounded upon the sawdust-bank opposite the Parliament Buildings, and with difficulty was got off. The raft swung round towards Nepean Point, and after much trouble was released. There must be at least thirty feet of sawdust, 300 feet long and 100 feet wide, between Pine Tree Island and the entrance to the locks, upon which the spring floods have had no effect.

The engineer of the Northern Light has been instructed by the Marine Department to proceed to Glasgow, where the new steamer for the service between Prince Edward Island and the mainland is being built, and oversee the construction of the engines.

The St. Hubert Gun Club, at a recent meeting, engaged the services of two men to protect the game on the Ottawa below this city until the opening of the duck shooting season. Wholesale slaughter of ducks near Rockland is complained of. Sportsmen guilty of illegal shooting will be arrested.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

Brakeman Brault of the M.C.R.R. Killed at Essex Centre With an Iron Wrench.

ESSEX CENTRE, Aug. 10.—A beastly affray occurred here at 5 o'clock Wednesday night. The particulars are as follows: The affair was between James Drummond, proprietor of a livery stable at Harrow, a village about fifteen miles from here, and Daniel Brault, a brakeman on a branch of the Michigan Central running to Amherstburg from here. The two, who were both under the influence of liquor, got into a quarrel and, after using abusive language to each other for a short time, Drummond walked into the American Hotel, in front of which the row occurred, and, picking up a heavy iron wrench, walked out and struck Brault a blow on the head, knocking him senseless. He was immediately carried into the hotel and medical aid procured. He remained unconscious until 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when he died. Both men have families, and are very quiet when sober. Drummond was immediately arrested and placed in the lock-up.

FIRE BRIGADES AND BANDS.

St. Kitts' Gala Day—Winners in the Various Competitions.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 9.—The opening day of the firemen's tournament has proved a gratifying success. There were about 500 firemen in the procession which comprised in addition to the bands, hook and ladder and hose companies from Merriton, Dunnville, Niagara Falls, Oshawa, Thorold, Smithville, Beamsville, Caledonia, Westfield (N.Y.), Tonawanda (N.Y.) and Dunkirk (N.Y.)

In the hook-and-ladder race Grimsby and the Phoenix boys of Caledonia were tied for first money, $75, in 44 seconds, the Cataracts of Niagara Falls making the run in 44½ seconds. Rather than run over for first money the Grimsby and Caledonia teams decided to accept first and second money, and it was accordingly divided between them.

The Protection Hose Company of Thorold carried off the purse of $100 in the hose reel race in 56 seconds, Dunnville second in 60½ seconds.

The Dominion Organ and Piano Company Band of Bowmanville was victorious in the first class band competition with 693 points, the Massey Manufacturing Company's Band of Toronto being a close second with 680 points. The third competing band was from Thorold, Ont.

The Walkerton Band Tournament.

WALKERTON, Aug. 10.—The competition at the second day of the band tournament yesterday resulted as follows: County bands—Hanover, first prize, $100; Durham, second, $50; Kincardine, third, $25. Second class bands—Brampton, first, $150; Port Perry, second, $100; Listowe, third, $50. The competition between Brampton and Port Perry was keen, the former winning by only one point.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

Rich Find of Gold and Silver in Nova Scotia—The Bellerophon's Cruise.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 10.—The flagship Bellerophon and fleet leave on Aug. 20 for a cruise to the St. Lawrence, going as far as Quebec.

Lewis Newel, an aged Micmac, has discovered valuable deposits of gold and silver at St. Mary's-road, Guysboro County, and has taken up 90 acres at the Mines' Office. A small quantity of quartz was sent to New York to be examined and has been reported on as containing about an equal quantity of gold and silver, about $350 worth of each metal to the ton of quartz.

RAILROAD RUMORS.

Manitoba and the American Roads—Sudden Death at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9.—The Government intends to push the agreement with the Northern Pacific through the Legislature and if unsuccessful will resign. It is asserted that a binding pledge has been received of a maximum rate on wheat to Duluth which will effect a large saving to the province. It is also reported that the Milwaukee and St. Paul road will push to the boundary and secure running powers over the Red River Valley road. The officials expected here several days ago have not yet arrived.

The mortality among the beavers on the Athabasca has been terrible lately and thousands died from disease, almost exterminating the animals.

Mrs. Whelan of the Whelan House died suddenly to-day of heart disease.

A number of Swedes going to Dakota have been induced to settle here.

At the fifth annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows, it was decided to ask the Sovereign Grand Lodge to meet here in 1890.

UNCONSCIOUS COMPLIMENTS.

The politicians of the United States are paying unconscious compliments to Canada in the anxiety they betray lest the trade and transportation interests of their country be seriously prejudiced by the young Dominion, says the Montreal Gazette. Incidents like the discussion in the American Senate on Friday last remind us that we are reaching out steadily and rapidly to a position of commercial strength without which no people can maintain their integrity. The success of the policy embodied in the phrase "Canada for the Canadians," finds exemplification in the alarm which has overtaken our friends across the line lest their great trans-continental railways should be crippled, their trade diverted, and their industries crushed by the competition offered from five million Canadians, even though it be admitted that the alarm is simulated for party or selfish interests. Ten years ago Canada was regarded by the American people as little better than a narrow strip of more or less fertile soil skirting their northern frontier, thinly populated, and devoid of the means of inter-provincial communication. The great North-west was to them a frozen zone, unfit for settlement for the most part and incapable of successful cultivation, while between the Pacific province and Eastern Canada no means of communication existed or was likely to exist, at least within the life-time of the present generation, except through the United States. The opinion expressed by Jay Cooke, not much more than a decade ago, that a railway north of Lake Superior was a physicial impossibility was shared by every American who gave thought to the subject, and was entertained, we fear, by not a few of our own people. To-day we see the extraordinary spectacle of the United States Senate appointing committees to devise means for preventing the Asiatic trade of the trans-continental lines of the country being diverted to the Canadian route, and for preventing the vast traffic between the Northwestern states and the Eastern states passing over Canadian railways. In ten short years the position has been so radically changed that whereas formerly the only existing and only probable communication between old Canada and the Northwest and British Columbia lay through the United States, the latter country is now casting about for means to check the diversion of its Asiatic trade and interstate commerce to Canadian routes. Assuredly no better vindication of the policy pursued by the Conservative party could well be afforded.

The Ottawa Citizen says:—"When Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Laurier address the Young Liberal gathering at Oakville next week, they will not tell their hearers that the chief organ of the party, in Nova Scotia, in advocating the claims of Mr. Eaton, the Liberal candidate in Colchester, urged his support as a protest against the 'unnatural trade with Ontario.'"

DEATHS.—Since writing my last the cold hand of death has been in our midst, taking some of earth's fair flowers. Those bereft have the sympathy of all.

STUNNED BY LIGHTNING.—A sudden and violent thunder storm passed over here on Friday evening with quite a shower. No damage was done so far as heard of yet to property. One young man was completely stunned by an electric current.

BUILDING.—The ring of the mason's hammer is heard in our village. The corner stone of another retiring farmer's residence is being laid without ceremony.

KNOCKS THEM OUT.—As fishing is a poor pastime in the river this year, we would have to get your Lakefield correspondent to send some fair sized fish before we could get beyond his fish story.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

Efficient Officers.

Says the Lindsay Warder:—"Messrs. Macklin, chief engineer, and Riddell, superintendent of this division of the Grand Trunk, were in town on Monday inspecting the company's work here. Both gentlemen are thoroughly alive to the company's interests, and are able, efficient men. It is not probable the passenger station will be erected this year; but next will doubtless see both the station erected and the grade lowered. With such officers and such men as the Grand Trunk now has it is no wonder the company yearly becomes more and more prosperous and powerful."

THE COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Annual Meeting at Montreal Yesterday—The Election of Officers.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—The Canadian Cotton Association held its annual meeting at the Balmoral to day and was in session all day. Among those in attendance were J. H. Parks, St. John, N.B.; W. Birkett, W. J. Findlay, James Young, John Harvey, Hamilton; W. Currie, Windsor; James McInnes, Kingston; Mr. Wilson, Kingston. D. A. Morrice, who usually takes a prominent and important part in all discussions of the body, is now in England. A. F. Gault presided.

The Gibson mill of St. John, N.B., announced by letter their intention to join the association, but the Chambly mill still keeps out.

After a long discussion it was decided to continue the association and these officers were elected: A. F. Gault, Montreal, President; J. H. Parks, St. John, N.B., Vice President; W. J. Finlay, Hamilton, Inspector; A. H. Plimsoll, Montreal, Secretary.

This evening the gray cottons section held a meeting at which it was decided that there should be no advance in prices.

The association will resume and conclude their business to-morrow morning.

Found Drowned in the Canal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—A. G. Elliott of the firm of John Elliott & Co., who assigned lately, has been missing since Monday. Last evening his body was found near one of the lock gates in the canal. He had some business across the canal and it is supposed that in returning across the lock gates, as he was of a nervous temperament, he fell in and was drowned.

MAXWELL TO HANG TO-DAY.

How the Murderer of Preller Received the News—An Affecting Interview.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—Governor Morehouse has refused to grant a further respite in the Maxwell case. The news was conveyed to the condemned man by his confessor, Father Fehan. Maxwell blanched and his lips trembled, but he soon recovered. Mrs. Brooks, mother of the condemned and Miss Brooks, his sister, had learned of the result at Jefferson City. They asked to be permitted to go within the screen to meet the son and brother and the request was granted.

When they reached the cell Mrs. Brooks rushed into Maxwell's arms and embraced him warmly, kissing him twice and crying out; "Oh! my poor hunted boy!" Then the sister embraced the doomed brother. Both ladies were in tears but endeavored to hide their emotion. Maxwell was deeply affected and for a time lost control of himself but soon rallied and presented an undisturbed exterior. In response to a question he said he would like to see his father before he died. When Mrs. Brooks and her daughter departed it was with the understanding that they were to be granted another meeting with the condemned man.

There was a great crowd in and about the jail and intense interest was manifested.

Why the Governor Declined to Interfere.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The Secretary of State received a telegram to-day from the Governor of Missouri in regard to the case of the English murderer Maxwell, sentenced to be hanged to-morrow. He says that so far as he can perceive there is nothing in the letter of the British Minister transmitting the request of the British Government for a respite that would justify him in delaying the execution of sentence, especially as it is not alleged that any new facts in connection with the case will be developed by the investigation said to have been instituted by the English authorities and in regard to which he has no information whatever. A copy of the telegram was sent to the British Minister.

The Montreal East Election.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—The coming election in Montreal East to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Mr. C. J. Coursol is attracting some interest here. The Free Press says Mr. L. O. David will probably be the Liberal candidate. If Mr. David decides not to run then, says The Free Press, Mr. A. Porrier stands the best chance of being the Liberal nominee.

A number of Conservatives are named as possible candidates, amongst them Senator Lacoste, Joseph Tasse ex-M.P. for Ottawa, Mr. O. M. Angers, Q. C., of Montreal and others.

The election is likely to prove the most exciting which has taken place since the general election, when Mr. Coursol, after having been a life-long Conservative, was elected as an Independent Nationalist, having bolted on the Riel question.

Doings at Dundas.

DUNDAS, Aug. 10.—Miss Laidlaw, who has been a teacher in the Dundas schools for the past 21 years, has resigned on account of ill health.

There is only one hotel at Hall's Corners now, the licenses of the other two being withdrawn.

The West Flamboro show will be held at Dundas on Oct. 5.

Three Dundas men have rented a part of the premises occupied by the Horse Shoe and Drop Forging Works, and will commence manufacturing carpet lining and stair pads.

Monday next will be the Dundas civic holiday.

with both heels on the high priced sharks who are under the thumb of the wholesale shoddy houses. We are going to fire a tirade of prices at them this month that will besiege our place of business with anxious buyers, and break them all up. Regardless of price we have decided to slaughter $15,000 worth of Clothing and Furnishing Goods.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE PRICES.

176 Serge Suits, warranted indigo dye, $2.90, former price $5

508 All wool Waterloo Tweed Suits, $3.75, sold elsewhere for $8

238 Scotch Tweed Suits - - - - $10.00 worth $18.00

327 Fancy Worsted Suits - - - - 6.90 do 13.00

2,200 pairs of Pants ranging in price from 17c. to 4.00.

We defy competition! we go farther, we challenge any wholesale house in Canada, taking cost into consideration, to duplicate our prices.

Gentle reader, do not get alarmed, our prices may knock you full of belief that Goughs are going to fail. One would naturally suppose that no legitimate dealer could sell goods at the prices we are selling without a bust. Rest assured, the Tireless, Sleepless, Wide-awake Goughs are looking for some big haul. They are not going to fail as you might suggest, although they candidly admit they want $15,000.

THE SECRET IS THIS!

We are on the trail of a tottering wholesale house who wants money. We made them a bid of 37½ cts. on the dollar, cash down, for 2500 Overcoats, and 1200 Suits; our offer, after hard fighting has been accepted, and as the money must be raised we have decided to run the greatest slaughter sale that was ever inaugurated. During Augustgoods will be sold at half-price, and buyers of Clothing can save 100 per cent on every purchase. Step in, and see our Men's Pants, all wool, for $1.05, the most brilliant sun-bright pageant in the bargain line that ever delighted human vision. We show piles upon piles of glittering Clothing, oceans of bewildering styles in Furnishing Goods, pyramids of rare and unique designs in all the leading styles in Collars, and Cuffs. In a word if you want to spend a few happy moments step into our Mammoth Clothing House, and wade through our massive aggregations of Bargains. We will show you stacks of goods, enough to make you dizzy, and at figures that knock high prices silly.

THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MEN, 377, GEORGE STREET.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

WHAT IS IT?

MARVELOUS, WONDERFUL, MYSTERIOUS, PROFOUND,

It Is One of the Great Marvels of the World

It is called "Cosmos, the Great Oracle of Human Destiny," and something remarkable; and is creating great interest among scientists at the present day. The above cut is a fac-smile of a stone excavated from the Temple of Truth (so called) in Athens Greece, in the year, 1527, and placed in the British Museum in London, Eng.

This stone has been noticed without doubt by many residents of this town who have visited the museum. It stands in the "Corridor of Wonders."

The letters appearing on the cut above are in Hieroglyphics on the original stone, but were translated some years ago by Prof. Bartlett of the Howard University, who discovered that they had a hidden meaning, and there are positive proofs that the stone is thousands of years old, and formed part of the belief of the Chaldeans of Persia who were great astrologists, and from which our present knowledge of astronomy is mostly derived.

This wonderful combination of letters arranged in circles around the solar system will, in connection with the key covered by Prof. Bartlett to read it by astonish and amaze you with the phenominal accuracy with which it answers questions that anyone may ask in regard to Business Enterprises, Love, Money matters, Destiny, and what every young lady and gentlemen who reads this advertisement is just dying to know about Love and Marriage. It is bound to create a sensation outside of the serious import which the replies of "Cosmos" gives. There is lots of fun and amusement in it, for the home circles, and as a parlor game, it will produce what we will call original fun in abundance. Everybody should have one.

We have been to large expense to obtain the copper plate to print copies of the letters on the wonderful stone for distribution, and although copies of Cosmos on handsome placques are being sold in the large cities for $1.00 each, we purpose as a novel way of advertising and as is our custom when we have anything good and interesting to do it in a liberal way, and to give the entire populace an opportunity to secure one. We shall give one copy with the directions to read it by free to each purchaser of any article in our store for the next 60 days, after which they will not be given free. No doubt thousands of people will avail themselves of this opportunity, but we have enough to supply the demand. Obtain a "Cosmos" and send one to your friends out of town and it will please them as much as though they had found a $10.00 bill. Ask for "Cosmos" at the store of

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1888.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Light to moderate winds. Fine weather, not much change in temperature.

A Few Left.

Summer Prints. Neat and stylish patterns. To clear out the lot will be sacrificed. No such value elsewhere as at the golden lion.

Out Again.

The street electric lights took another fit last night and all went out suddenly. Darkness prevailed for a short time only, but the lights at Charlotte and George and Aylmer and Charlotte did not loom up until some time after the others.

Cheap Cashmere.

Ladies who wish to buy Cashmere will be well pleased when they see the quality of all wool Cashmeres, yard wide, that are being sold for 30c. per yard at Dawson Bro's old stand, Hunter-st. Also some extra good values in Black. All other Dress Goods at half price until we remove to Griffin's stand, George-st., Sept. 1st. tfd33

The Bowker Sale at Lakefield.

The sale of the Bowker property at Lakefield took place at Lakefield yesterday. A large portion was sold at fair prices, somewhat lower than was expected considering the excellent character of the property. The homestead was not sold, bids not reaching the figure reserved. As Mr. Bowker has only a short time to stay the balance of the property will be disposed of at moderate prices.

The Pay Lists.

The regular fortnightly street and bridge pay lists were presented for payment this morning by Inspector Pope. They are reaching respectable dimensions just at present, totaling as they do $637.30 made up as follows:—

Streets and bridges (general)	$274 68
King-st. bridge	188 63
Crescent-st. cribbing	173 49

These amounts are all for labor and teams, the material is of course extra.

Simcoe-st. Bridge.

Mr. Edward Phelan, the owner of the Snowden House, complains, with good cause too, that the bridge over the creek in front of his premises is too high, and that it damages his hotel. The bridge is between two and three feet higher than the road and in the opinion of many practical men there is not the slightest necessity for the girders being deep as they are. The matter will come up before the Street and Bridge Committee on Monday evening next and it is probable that some action will then be taken.

Everything Cut Below Cost.

Watch for the opening of the bankrupt sale at McNeil's old stand, No. 382 George st. The stock has been bought by Mr. W. Reeves, of Kingston, who has only a few days in which to clear it out. If you value bargains look around. Stylish suitings to be sold at below cost. Gent's furnishings at less than the goods can be bought for wholesale. Bona-fide clearing out. Necessity compels the sale and it must be promptly done. There will be a rush to buy as the chance is a good one. Come around on the opening day, Thursday, and take your choice at almost your own prices. 3d32.

The Oddfellows Return.

The Cantoa and other Oddfellows and the 57th Battalion Band returned last night from the Grand Lodge meeting and demonstration at Barrie. They had a very good time there. The band and Canton led the procession, which, however, was not as large as the one here last year. The band received a telegraphic invitation from the Orillia band to return by that town, and they and the Canton did so. The Orillia band met them at the station and escorted them up town, and while there the Peterborough band were the guests of the Orillia musicians. They remained there four hours, and arrived home at nine o'clock.

Sent to the Central.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"John Powers, on 23rd July, stole a watch from his uncle, Thos. Powers, in Emily. He sold the watch to Mrs. Keeve for one dollar. He then returned to Mrs. Keeve's and was caught stealing a pocketbook. He again returned to Mrs. Keeve's to explain that he did not intend to steal the pocketbook, and at that time stole the watch case, the works being out, which he sold to Mr. Beall for $2.10. He then rode to the country with Mr. Peel, and while at his house stole a watch from Mr. Earle, of Omemee, a visitor at Mr. Peel's. Chief Bell laid three charges against Powers. He sent word to Chief Kessel, of Peterborough, to arrest Powers, which was promptly done. Police Magistrate O'Leary sentenced him to 18 months in Central Prison, six months on each charge. Mrs. Keeves and Messrs. Beall and Powers got back their property."

Sale of Excellent Lands.

Look out for posters announcing the sale of lands and property of Mr. A. I. Wright, Lakefield. Sale by auction on Wednesday, Sept. 5th, at the Stewart House, Peterborough. 1d34

Notice.

A special Cantonment of Canton Peterborough No. 10, P.M., will be held in Peterborough lodge No. 111 at 8 p.m., Saturday evening, Aug. 11th, of which all Chevellers will please take notice. R. J. Kidd, clerk.

Those Sunday Meetings.

We have received a letter from Mr. H. Rossiter, the substance of which is that, as Mr. Holland has withdrawn from the Sunday afternoon meetings, he will not hold them alone, but would be willing to continue them if four or five would join him.

A New Summer Hotel.

The Lakefield Chronicle says:—"We understand that a syndicate is about to build a summer hotel at McCraken's Landing. The location is a good one, being centrally situated for campers and supplies, and the hotel would supply a long felt want."

Direct from Lakefield to Lindsay.

"y reference to advertisement it will be seen that the steamer Dawn will commence on the 14th inst. every Tuesday leave Lakefield for Lindsay, and on Wednesday leave Lindsay for Lakefield on the return trip. This pleasant trip can be enjoyed to every advantage, in charge of Captain Eden. On other days will run from Lakefield as usual.

Don't blunder past The Pantry store, and get disappointed in bargains. 32tf.

Camping Parties.

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

St. Leon Water

The marvellous results from the use of St. Leon Water in Rheumatism, Constipation and all diseases arising from a torpid liver is testified to by hundreds of grateful drinkers of the water. References are kindly permitted to N. T. Lapiant, Frank Bell, Rev. Father Lynch and many other prominent citizens. Sold by the glass and gallon or aerated by Taylor & Macdonald, Druggists, sole agents. d140-w25

SUCCESSFUL.

It is often asked, "How is it that H. S. Griffin & Co. have been so successful in building up a first class trade in such a short time?" Strict attention to business, buying in the best markets and keeping a superior class of goods is the secret. Mr. Griffin's brother is at present visiting the English and French markets and shipping to H. S. Griffin & Co. the choicest goods that can be procured for the trade.

Notice of Visit.

Mr. P. H. Morris, from the establishment of B. Laurence & Co., the opticians of Montreal, will be at the drug store of Mr. John McKee, Peterborough, for two days only, Wednesday and Thursday, August 15th and 16th. Those requiring his services will remember the date. Mr. P. H. Morris is eminently qualified to adjust spectacles to every case where relief can be afforded, and as his visit is for the convenience of the public, no charge being made for consultation or any extra charge for the spectacles, advantage should be taken of it. 5d34

Personal.

By his unanimous election to the office of Deputy Grand Master, Dr. Bell's services to the Order of Oddfellows has met with recognition. He is a worker in the Order and, when elected Grand Warden last year, his promotion was expected.

Mr. Maddigan, of the Hamilton Bridge Co., who superintended the erection of the Grand Trunk bridge over the Otonabee, is in town.

The Kingston Daily Whig of August 9th says:—"Geo. A. Morrison, Peterborough, manager for Eastern Ontario Manufacturers' Life and Accident Insurance Company, is in the city. He reports business at the head office good. The company will write over $6,000,000 in the life department. He wants a special agent for Kingston in the accident department."

WE promise you fair treatment and fair prices at The Pantry store. 32tf.

Heavy Losses from Bush Fires.

The Norwood Register says:—"Notwithstanding the recent heavy rainfall the bush fires in this section of the country still continue to rage. About four miles northeast of this place the fires are devastating the country. Thousands of dollars worth of valuable timber, standing crops, barns, dwelling houses, cattle, etc., have been destroyed. Between Rotten and Round Lakes, in the townships of Dummer and Belmont, some five or six square miles have been laid waste. Extensive bush fires are also raging in the townships of Methuen and Douro. In this latter township, Mr. John Dwyer, jr., had one horse, one buggy, one waggon, several sets of harness, a barn and thirth acres of fall wheat destroyed. In Dummer the fires have been unusually destructive. Mr. David Kelly had eleven head of cattle burned so badly that it will be necessary to shoot the majority of them. Mr. Jas. Morrison's dwelling house on the 12th concession was burned to the ground and a large quantity of rails consumed. Messrs. H. Mustard (12th con.), M. Hannon (10th con.), George Ross (10th con.) and C. Simpson (11 con.) have all suffered heavy losses. Mr. Ross had a number of out buildings destroyed. Mr. Hannon had a large quantity of hay and sixteen acres of meadow consumed. Mr. Simpson has had over 1,000 rails burned. Quite a number of farmers in Belmont have also lost heavily."

ON THE DIAMOND FIELD.

The Peterborough Ball Players Easily Defeat the Garden Hill Club.

On Thursday afternoon the Peterborough and Garden Hill baseball clubs played a match on the P. A. A. A. grounds. This was the first occasion on which the two teams had met, and as the visitors had a great reputation as sluggers, and the local men could only put a very weak team in the field, the outlook for a sweeping victory for Peterborough was not encouraging. However, the boys went in to win. They played fairly good ball and finally won by a score of 17 to 8.

The visitors went to the bat first and were blanked. Peterborough followed and got one man over the plate. In the second innings both sides drew blanks. In the third the visitors scored one and the home players went them nine better tallying ten run, rattling the Garden Hill boys and keeping them busy hunting leather. From this time to the end the local men had the game well in hand, and although the playing was good and sharp the visitors could not overtake the great lead gained in the third innings and had to suffer defeat.

The visitors were retired without runs in six innings and the home men in three.

The batteries both did good work, especially Galley and Callahan.

All the Peterborough players made runs, Burnon heading the list with 5. For the visitors W. Muldron, who had 3 to his credit, scored the top tally.

Brevities.

—New moon.

—Thursday next will be the Civic holiday.

—The Street and Bridge Committee will meet again on Monday evening next.

—Last night was exceedingly cool and people talk of overcoats and blankets.

—Norwood's civic holiday is on the same day as Peterborough's—next Thursday.

—Carter No. 20 is the highest number ever reached for trucks in the town of Peterborough.

—Hamilton plays cricket here on Monday next and Peterborough plays at Toronto on Thursday.

—Mr. E. Duff, of Peterborough, will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church in Norwood on Sunday.

—The street and bridge men will receive their checks to-morrow, instead of to-day, owing to the absence of the Mayor.

—The Sanitary Convention at Lindsay on Thursday next promises to be one of the largest affairs of the kind ever held in Canada.

—The families who have been spending the summer at Chemong Lake and Oak Orchard, are gradually finding their way homewards.

—A number of bicyclists from Toronto are expected to arrive in town to-morrow evening. They will be quartered at the Oriental during their sojourn here.

—Mayor Stevenson left for Port Hope and Cobourg this morning to see if those places are still alive and at the same time he will keep an eye open for business.

—"Matters are remarkably quiet around town" remarked Police Magistrate Edmison this morning, when told that his services were not required at the Police Court.

—In order to supply the demand for bricks Mr. Mark Curtis has been obliged to purchase the entire stock of another brick yard. He is shipping a large quantity to Ottawa.

—The yells of "murder" and "help" heard near the post office the other night came from a man who was on the verge of delerium tremens. He was seen by an officer and quieted down.

—Referring to the recent lacrosse match here in which the Norwoods played, the Register says:—"The Y. M. C. As. play good lacrosse and are composed of a gentlemanly lot of fellows."

—On Thursday the regular weekly excursion to the northern lakes was largely patronized. The evening train brought down quite a number of campers, including the majority of the Syndicate camp.

—We understand that Mr. Archie Moffat is to manage the hardware business here for the Messrs. Muckleson, of Kingston. Archie thoroughly understands the business from Alpha to Omega, and a better choice could not possibly have been made.

—The large sawmill of the Dickson Co. is in full blast, and while the logs are disappearing rapidly the piles of lumber are showing up in great shape. For the first time in years the mill started this season with a full staff of men. At present upwards of seventy find employment, and all of them are paid good wages.

—Lindsay has a sensation. A man named Myland came to Lindsay in January, 1887. He began in a choir and was quite popular, and wished marriage with a lady there. He wrote for a certificate of character to Cleveland, but instead of receiving it his exposure was brought about. He was decoyed to Cleveland and sentenced to a year in prison for a theft. He had a wife and two children.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For Consumption, Throat affections and Bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thos. Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Cricket.

A match is being played to-day between the Seabrights, of New York, and the local cricketers. The Seabrights arrived this morning in their special car. Peterborough went to bat first and scored 142. The Seabrights made 81 runs in their first innings and followed on at the bat. They will be entertained at a banquet this evening.

For removing dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded and gray hair to its original color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives a beautiful, glossy and silken appearance.

To Open About 1st September.

The announcement is made in our advertising columns that Messrs. Muckleson & Co., of Kingston, have arranged to have their new premises, now building on Hunter-st., and next to the new post office, so far completed as to open out about the 1st September. The firm will carry on principally a wholesale business in hardware, with a retail branch in connection, and also in some lines of paper and fancy goods. Mr. A. Moffatt, well known in town, will be on the staff. We welcome the firm to Peterborough, and trust that they will acquire a large trade throughout the district and territory between the cities east and west.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Teemer Again Defeats Gaudaur — Ball Games Yesterday.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—A single scull race for a purse of $1000 was rowed yesterday afternoon at Round Bay. The contestants were Teemer, Hosmer, Gaudaur, Hamm and McKay. The course was 3 miles with a turn. The scullers got a good start, Gaudaur at once taking the lead, but Teemer soon spurted and took the turn first. At the turning stake Hosmer was close up to the leader but was fouled by Hamm who then gave up the race. Hosmer made a strong fight but was unable to finish better than third. Teemer crossed the line first, a length ahead of Gaudaur. Time 20.55.

A VISIT TO JAMAICA.

SECRET OF THE PLANTERS' SUCCESS IN FINANCIAL MATTERS.

Few Cane Fields, but Banana and Cocoanut Groves Everywhere—Port Royal's Decadence—Beautiful Kingston Harbor. Taking a Jolly Jamaica Ride.

The high Cuban mountains faded out of sight just before dark, and on Friday morning, seven days after leaving New York, the mountains of Jamaica lay before us. By the middle of the morning we were close by the north side of the island, but as Kingston, our destination, is on the south side, we still had to go around the eastern end of the island and about half way up the south side. This sight of land, the promised land for most of us on board, brought out all the finery again. Those rough looking fellows in flannel shirts and Scotch caps disappeared, and in their places there came out on deck wonders of starched linen and black coats, and marvels of summer bonnets and silk dresses. As we ran along the Jamaican shore we had a fine chance to see something of the island, for we were not more than a mile away—and in that clear air and bright sunshine a mile is nothing. There were houses on shore—that was one of the first things we noticed—some good, big and comfortable looking houses, too, surrounded by great plantations of cocoanut trees, and in other places cane fields.

This peculiarity at once distinguished Jamaica from the other islands we had passed. At Fortune Island we were favored with the sight of one little house. In Cuba, not a single building of any kind nor a living creature, though we went close enough to have seen a cat walking on the beach! Nothing could be more desolate than the eastern end of Cuba—rugged mountains, bare rocks, and utter solitude. When Columbus first saw the island it could not have been more as nature made and left it, at the east end, than it is today. And this "east end," as far as its ruggedness and barrenness go, extends half way down the island nearly. We in the north are apt to think of Cuba as a vast garden spot, covered with cane fields and green tobacco. But this is a mistaken notion. The cultivated land is a surprisingly small proportion of the surface, and every year it grows smaller, if anything can "grow" smaller. The same cyclone that has hit all other West India islands has not passed Cuba. Away back in 1800 there were more than 2,000 coffee plantations in Cuba; now there are—quien sabe!—probably less than 200, and the others have gone to seed.

SEEN FROM THE SEA.

But the aspect of Jamaica is very different. Seen from the sea, the entire island seems to be under cultivation. It has, indeed, many high mountains, but the mountain land is some of the best on the island, producing coffee that is second to none in quality or price. Away up almost to the mountain tops are cultivated fields. Down by the shore are some of the largest cocoanut groves I have ever seen, numbering their trees by thousands, with vessels moored alongside waiting to carry away the ripened nuts. And bananas! Bananas growing everywhere, wherever a shoot can be set out! The houses to be seen are generally large and low, as open as possible to let in the breeze. Cane fields! Very few, and therein lies the secret of Jamaica's keeping herself afloat, while all the neighboring islands are struggling with bankruptcy. Instead of waiting in vain for sugar to pay again, as they are doing, the Jamaica planters plowed up their cane fields and went to raising bananas and cocoanuts, and now derive the greater part of their incomes from these articles of ready and profitable sale. So a Jamaica gentleman and fruit grower on the steamer told me, and certainly this first look at the island seems to confirm his statement, for there are bananas and cocoanuts growing everywhere.

How many a pirate ship has sailed along this same shore that we are hugging so closely! Old Port Royal, now just coming into sight, used to be the headquarters of all these fellows. There they squandered the gold they captured on the high seas; there found rest after their long, hard voyages. Poor fellows, they needed rest, of course, after their arduous labor of capturing and plundering all the ships they could! But Port Royal is no more. Once one of the greatest cities of the western world—ranking third, I believe, only Lima and Mexico exceeding it in size and wealth—it is now a hot little town of a few hundred inhabitants. Standing as it does on the end of an exceedingly narrow strip of land that juts out into the sea, one wonders where there ever could have been room for a great city. But the earthquake that destroyed the city and killed nearly all its inhabitants sank a good share of the land into the sea, and today we could, if we were to go over the spot in a row-boat, see the crumbling ruins of some of the buildings that on that fatal day were buried forever.

BEAUTIFUL KINGSTON HARBOR.

This tongue of land, on which stands the remains of Port Royal, forms the beautiful Kingston harbor, into which the Alvo slowly steams at 1 o'clock on the seventh day out from New York. Kingston lies before us, about twenty miles away, on the edge of an almost level plain. Behind it, perhaps ten miles inland, the mountains begin to rise, and continue up, up, till their peaks are lost in the clouds. It is a beautiful sight under this hot tropical sun. Cocoanut trees everywhere, far overtopping the houses of Port Royal and lining the shore. Forts to the right of us, forts to the left of us. One might think the whole world had banded together to capture this little island of Jamaica, from the number and size of its forts.

Gradually we approach the city, and slowly the pleasant voyage draws to a close. Kingston, a city of 40,000 inhabitants, is almost invisible, hidden by its trees. The streets are full of them, the yards, the parks—so it looks from the water. There are ships in the harbor, of course; a dozen steamers, perhaps, and any number of sailing vessels. The Alvo is drawn up to the Atlas line wharf, and we are beset by an army of hotel runners, who have all the cheerful characteristics of their brethren in New York. But with them come some of the friends through whose invitation this voyage has been undertaken. The weather? Well, comfortably warm; and the surrounding darkies look on dismayed to see the number of heavy coats our party pile into the carriages. So, in one of the gorgeous Kingston "busses" we take the first of many a jolly Jamaica ride.—William Drysdale in New York Times.

Electrified the Congregation.

A good story is told of a Cardingshire local preacher. He was declaiming one of Mr. Spurgeon's sermons—unknown, of course, to his hearers—in a bethel of miniature dimensions, which did not even possess a gallery. Toward the close he electrified the little congregation with the exclamation, "And now I turn to you, the hundreds in the gallery."—The Rock.

Bismarck in the Reichstag.

It is more interesting to watch Bismarck when making one of his great speeches than to listen to him. His words are far stronger and make much more of an impression in cold type than when they fall from his lips. This shows their inherent force and weight. His delivery is slow; he always uses the exact word he wants and his facts are marshaled in clear and lucid order. When he first rises to speak a great silence falls upon the reichstag; not even a whisper is heard, and the deputies of all shades of political opinion crowd as closely as possible around him, fearful lest they might lose a single syllable of what he says. Bismarck has little or no rhetorical action. His motions are not graceful, his voice is husky and unmusical, and some of his sentences are as long as those of our own Evarts. During a debate he makes frequent notes in a coarse, scrawling hand. When attacked by some keen opponents he grows nervous, shifts in his seat, his pen shakes between his fingers and very often his hand goes menacingly to his sword hilt, for Bismarck, while he is the first civil officer in the empire, is at the same time a general of cavalry, and always wears his undress uniform in the reichstag.

When aroused his ebullitions of passion are frequently terrible. His great frame quivers with emotion and his gray blue eyes flash fire as he turns towards the benches of his adversaries and demands to know who it was that hissed him. Scenes of this character, however, are of rare occurrence in recent years. He is merciless in retort, unsparing of persons, no matter their age, their personal services to himself or to the empire. He possesses a caustic humor, which he uses with great effect. A master of invective, his coarseness of speech very often defeats his own object.—John P. Jackson in New York World.
